Local Intelligence.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND LADIES SCHOOL.—This institution opens to-day, after the usual Summer vacation.

LEFT THE SPRINGS.—Mr. Weldon Champness has broken up his livery stables at Caledonia Springs for the season. Mr. H. Alexander returned with all the horses and vehicles yesterday.

BERMINGHAM'S great sale of furniture begins at eleven o'clock on Friday next. Don't fail to be there.

GONE FOR REPAIRS.—The steam fire engine "John Heney," was shipped to Seneca Falls, N. Y., yesterday, for repairs. It will be remembered that her smoke stack was badly damaged at the recent fire at Arnprior.

A FINE CROSSING.—The new stone crossing on the south side of York street, opposite the new market square in Lower Town, was completed yesterday. It is one of the best that has yet been constructed in the city.

ROYAL EXCHANGE HOTEL.—This fine new hotel will be opened to the public to-morrow (Thursday) the 16th inst. The house has been refitted and refurnished regardless of expense, and will afford every convenience to the travelling community.

THE TURF.—It would seem that there is a probability of there being a fall meeting of the Ottawa Turf Club yet. It is proposed to hold the races on Friday and Saturday the two last days of the exhibition, should the efforts now being put forth prove successful.

PERSONAL.—Mr. A. McDowell, so well and favourably known as "Con the Shaughraun," is in town, making arrangements to open in Gowan's Opera House during the week of the exhibition, with a first class troupe. He will open on Monday night with a fine bill and a first class troupe.

BERMINGHAM'S great consignment of furniture will be on exhibition to-day and to-morrow.

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.—Entries for the exhibition are fast pouring in, and numbers of implements of all kinds can be seen passing through the streets. The steamer Olive landed a stationary engine and a variety of other articles from Montreal at the exhibition grounds yester day.

THE MAIN SEWER.—This work progresses rapidly on George street, it having now reached the By Ward Market Square. A temporary bridge is being erected over William street to allow the work to proceed without hindrance. The steam traveller is doing great work on Slater street, where the men have now got fairly under way.

NORMAL SCHOOL.—The entrance examination to the new Normal School commences this morning. There are about fifty applicants for admission, which will make a fair class for the first session. The examination will last for the remainder of the week. The school will be officially opened on Wednesday, the 22nd inst.

A HORSE INJURED.—A farmer, hailing from South Gloucester, had a very fine horse severely injured near the head of the Deep Cut yesterday morning. It would seem that Nicholas street, in this locality, has been for some time out of repair, hence the accident. The only wonder is that hundreds of horses have not met with a similar fate. The owner of the horse values the animal at $300, which sum he intends suing the Corporation for. The attention of the City Engineer and members of the Board of Works was frequently called to the hole in question, but no attention was paid to it.

BERMINGHAM'S great sale of silver ware, watches and pianos next week. Advertisement in a day or two.

OPEN AIR CONCERT.—The Band of the Governor General's Foot Guards will play the following programme on Parliament Hill this evening at 8 o'clock:

1. Quick March.....Kappy.
2. Overture, "La Cheval de Bronze," Auber
3. Waltz, "Wein, Weib und Gesang." Strauss.
4. Grand Selection, "Madame L'Archiduc".....Offenbach.
5. Quadrille, "Fledermaus".....Strauss.
6. Galop, "Immer Fidel".....Zikoff.

The Regimental Quickstep.
National Anthem.

JAMES CARTER,
Bandmaster.

The band will play once more after this evening, and on the last Wednesday of this month the band will give a grand Concert and Social in the Rink Music Hall. It is to be hoped that the citizens will fill the Rink on the occasion, as the band deserve every encouragement from our citizens. Tickets can be had from members of the band.

GOOD RECORD FOR OTTAWA.—The Central Board of Examiners have just completed their labours of examining the papers for first-class teachers, and in accordance with their recommendations, the Council of Public Instruction have ordered the issue of first class certificates to successful competitors. Among the list there are a number of teachers from this city, who stand high on the roll of honour. Mr. David McArdle, of the Central School East has been awarded a first-class grade A certificate, and is the winner of the second silver medal. Mr. Joseph Martin, of the New Edinburgh Public School has received a similar certificate, and carries off the second bronze medal. Mr. W. A. Duncan, Principal of the St. George's Ward Primary School, and Mr. Archibald Lee, Principal of the Victoria Ward Primary School, have each been awarded a first-class grade B certificate. Mr. Cassius Campbell, of the Central School West has taken a first class grade C certificate, and Mr. Neil Robertson, of the Ottawa Collegiate Institute, a similar honour. Taking everything into consideration, it is a pretty good record for Ottawa men to make.

THOSE who buy early at Bermingham's sale will get the greatest bargains.

DEPARTURE.—Lieut. Evans, (late R. N.) leaves to day for Truro, N. S., on a survey of the proposed route of the Intercolonial Railroad. Mr. Evans is what is termed at sea "an old hand," and will doubtless prove himself worthy of the trust reposed in him.

GONE HOME.—All the firlemen who came to the city for the purpose of taking part in the competition left for their homes on Monday night, and were all satisfied with the treatment they received at the hands of their Ottawa brethren.

THE ROYAL OAK.—The well known hostelrie whilom yclept the Royal Oak, on Wellington street, is now re opened under the charge of Mr. Harry Letch, who has on hand some toothsome refreshments for all comers. The house is neatly fitted, and is well worthy of a call.

THE CHORAL UNION.—Last night the members of the Ottawa Choral Union had a practice, or rather a rehersal, which was next door to a concert. Mr. Mills who led the vocal and instrumental part of the affair, is entitled to much credit for the perfection to which he has brought his pupils.

ARRIVAL OF PEACHES.—J. H. Shanley, fruit grower, Rochester, has just received a large consignment of fine Crawford peaches, grapes, pears and apples. This is a good time for securing fruit for preserving and canning purposes. Call and see them at Bedard's new block, York Street.

METHODIST LITERARY REPOSITORY.—Mr. Arthur L. Holmes has just opened a store at 38 Sparks Street, for the purpose of making it a place where all books in connection with general and religious subjects can be obtained. His stock has been most judiciously selected, and we would advise our reading friends to make an inspection of Mr. Holmes' stock.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—The members of the "Capital Lodge" of the I. O. O. F., had their first moonlight excursion down the river last night, and it was well attended. The brass band of the Guards and Marrier's string band were in attendance and furnished sufficient melody to suit everybody. The party returned to the city about midnight, well tired but also well satisfied with the trip.

RAMONDE has preserve jars cheap.

IMPORTS FOR OTTAWA.—The following imports for the city are reported in the manifest of the Polynesian, just arrived at Montreal:—Samuel Howell & Co., 150 pkgs; Governor General of Canada, 1 case; Garland, Mutchmor & Co., 4 cases; T. P. French, 2 cases; Postmaster General, 1 case; Fingland and Draper, 3 cases; John Leslie, 3 cases; Shoolbred & Co., 6 cases; Kearns & Ryan, 2 cases; Elliott and Hamilton, 2 cases.

MASONIC.—Ex-Comp. William Kerr, Esq., of Carleton Chapter, of Ottawa, was elected at the last Annual Convocation of the Grand Chapter of Canada, Grand Registrar of the Grand Chapter. Right Illustrious Comp. W. M. Somerville, of this city, was elected at the annual convocation of R. and S. M. (Cryptic Masonry) of Ontario, held at Toronto recently, Captain of the Guard. Ex-Comp. W. M. Somerville, Past Z of Carleton Chapter, of this city, was at the annual convocation of the Grand Chapter of Canada, elected Grand District Superintendent for the Central District.

THE LICENSE QUESTION.—This matter was up again before Judge Ross yesterday for final judgment, but His Honour found so many intricate points involved and the irregularity of the procedure such, that he could not finally dispose of the case. He found no precedents upon which to base judgment, and he consequently thought the question should come up in some new form. The plaintiff, through his attorney, has given notice of an amended information, so that the proceeding will begin de novo. It may be some time yet before there is an end to this vexed question.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.—Mr. D. S. Eastwood, the popular manager of the Union Bank of Lower Canada, being about to sever his connection with that institution to accept a government appointment, Mr. Thomas McGarity to-day, on behalf of the merchants and others doing business at the Bank, presented him with a magnificent gold locket and chain. The gift was accompanied by an address, complimenting Mr. Eastwood on his business integrity, and regretting that the Government had not seen fit to utilise his valuable services in a more elevated position. Mr Eastwood made an appropriate reply.

William Finglanc, Official Assignee for Ottawa City and County of Carleton. Office, Hay's Block, Spark St. 3933i12

GRENVILLE FAIR.—The annual fair of South Grenville County Agricultural Society commences to day at Prescott. Races will take place each day. $1,000 in prizes are offered. Wednesday the 15th, a $150 purse is offered for 2:40 class—$100, $25, and $15. Same day there will be two foot races. Thursday 16th, $100 for 3:00 class—$70, $20 and $10, $125 for hurdle race—$90 and $35. $50 for running race,—$30, $12 and 8. Friday 17th, $1,000 for green horses owned in Leeds, Grenville and St. Lawrence, counties,—$60, $30 and $10. $170, running race open to all,—$110, $40 and $20. $250 trotting race, open to all—$175, $50 and $25.

GRAND EXHIBITION.—To-day and to-morrow the mammoth consignment of Boston furniture sent to Mr. Bermingham to be sold by auction, will be on exhibition. Having referred to this consignment in our issue of Monday, we can again with safety, now that the stock is on view, direct the attention of lovers of fine furniture to the consignment, for it is certainly the most extensive and most elaborate ever seen in this city. The articles to be sold are too lengthy to notice individually, so we must content ourselves with merely mentioning a few. There are mirrors of the finest British plate, in black walnut and gold, very valuable, but, we are informed, must be sold. Several very rich and very handsome marble top bedroom suites, fit for any house in the Dominion. There are plain walnut and walnut and ash, which are very beautiful, and will be sold very cheap. There are drawing room suites of the best material and finest workmanship, in fancy silk and satin reppe; Morocco leather chairs, well worth at any factory in the Dominion $15 each. There are cylinder desks, which usually sell at retail from $150 to $200 each; etageres with mirrors, fit for any drawing room; Turkish chairs fit for a Sultan; richly carved sideboards, extensive dining tables with pillar legs; centre tables, marble top tables, and hundreds of other articles that we cannot refer to. Mr. Bermingham has now brought to our doors some of the finest furniture on the continent and secured for us an opportunity of purchasing at half the price we would pay for much inferior goods. We therefore say to all wanting good and cheap furniture to go to this sale.

OTTAWA, KINGSTON AND LONDON DEBENTURES.
$180,000, Six and Seven Per Cents.
Messrs. DRUMMOND, CASSELS & CO., Montreal, are authorized to receive, on or before the 2nd day of June next, Tenders for $130,000 of Debentures of the Cities of Ottawa, Kingston and London, Ont.
Tenders may be for any portion of the Debentures, from $100 upwards, and are to be at rate per dollar, to which will be added accrued interest up to date of payment.
OTTAWA DEBENTURES $55,000.—These bear date 1st March, 1875, and mature 1st November 1891. Principal and interest are payable in Ottawa—the interest, at 6 per cent, half-yearly, on the 1st March and 1st November.
The population of the City is now 21,395. Its debt, excluding the Water Works Liability, which is itself reproductive, is $750,338. Against this there are all absolutely liable for the payment of these debentures, assessed property, $11,574,465, Corporation property, excluding Water Works, $233,000, and the Sinking Fund for the above debt, already amounting to $160,105.
KINGSTON DEBENTURES $75,000.—These bear date 1st December, 1875, but mature and pay as per schedule, in different amounts, from 1879 to 1901. Principal and interest are payable in Kingston—the interest semi-annually at 6 p.c., on the first days of January and July. The interest Coupons, payable 1st July next, are attached.
The total debt of Kingston is $670,000, and the assessed value of property, all of which is absolutely liable for the payment of the Debentures, is $6,186,490.
In cases of more than one tender for the same Debentures or Debentures, preference will be given to the highest tender, and Debentures of similar amount or less of the next nearest date of maturity will be allotted to the tenderers in order, unless in their tenders they specify a preference for other Debentures.
LONDON DEBENTURES $69,700.—These are all twenty year Debentures, maturing, as per schedule, chiefly on 1st June, 1895. Principle and interest are payable, the interest half-yearly, on the 1st June and 1st December, at 7 p.c., in London, Eng.
The population of London is 18,413, and, with its suburbs, is nearly 20,000. Its debt amounts to $1,097,807; but besides a total assessed value of property, amounting to $8,002,005, and real property, belonging to the Corporation, to a very large amount within the City, all of which is absolutely liable for this debt, the Corporation holds first and second mortgage bonds, and other interests in the London and Port Stanley Railway, amounting to $1,111,629, from which an annual revenue is derived, under the lease to the Great Western Railway.
All of these Debentures form securities of the very highest character. To indicate the estimation in which Canadian Municipal Securities are held in England, it may be mentioned that Ottawa Six per cent Debentures sold, on 23rd April last, on the London Stock Exchange at Seven per cent Premium.
The awards will be made to the highest tenderers, to whom advice will be promptly sent, but the right is reserved to reject any proposals, and to allot a portion only of any bid. The Debentures will be ready for delivery immediately after the awards.
Payments to be exchanged at Montreal for the Debentures, may be made through the Bank of Montreal.
Detailed Schedule of the Debentures, with form of tender, can be obtained at the different Branches and Agencies of the Bank of Montreal, or from Messrs. DRUMMOND, CASSELS & CO., Montreal.

The REJUVENATING WATERS so much sought for in years long past

Invalids! Attention!

Dyspepsia, Derangement of the Digestive Organs, Dropsy, Diseases of the Skin, Affections of the Liver and Urinary Organs are positively cured by using the water for a few weeks.

Rheumatics! Read!

Hundreds of Rheumatics have been cured by the Sulphur Baths. Suffering is alleviated by the first, and cripples throw away their crutch after about half-a-dozen baths.

TESTIMONIALS.

Montreal, 28th July, 1875.

"I hereby certify that I entertain a very favorable opinion of the Baths and Waters of the Caledonia Springs in many forms of disease, among which I would especially mention chronic Rheumatism, the sequelæ of Gout, Neuralgia, some of the varieties of Cutaneous disease, Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, and in carefully selected cases, some of the diseases of the Kidney and Bladder.

(Signed) GEO. W. CAMPBELL, A.M., M.D.

Dean of the Medical Faculty, Mcgill College.

Dr. Wm. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1839:—"But the diseases above all in which the action of the water is most decided is Rheumatism. * * * I have known a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the waters."

ACCOMMODATIONS.

A magnificent new hotel, capable of accommodating 300 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accommodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa River is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until the railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the convenience of visitors at the Springs. The distance of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 65 and 50 miles.

Mr. W. CHAMPNESS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horses, saddles, &c. There is a good race-course on the property of the Company.

THE PANACEAN WATERS of these Springs will yet make Canada as the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seekers. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the Springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

A Fire.

LONDON, Sept. 15th.—A lumber yard and three adjoining houses in Bunhill row, including De la Rue's card factory, running from 109 to 115 Bunhill row, were burned last evening. Several other houses adjacent were badly damaged. Three firemen were injured by falling walls, including Capt. Shaw, head of the London Fire Brigade. His injuries are slight.

Arrived.

Arrived out steamship Peruvian from Montreal, and steamships California, Ville de Paris and Donan from New York.

From Servia.

A special despatch to the Morning Standard contains the following: Servia complains to the powers of the concentration of the Turkish army at Nissa. The report that the seige of Trebigne has been renewed is untrue. Insurgents infest the neighbouring road, but are not able to blockade the town.

Peter Karageorgewitch, pretender to the Servian throne is about to march into Servia with a corps of volunteers. His adherents here contemplate a revolution in his favour.

TURKEY.

Satisfactory.

CONSTANTTINOPLE, Sept. 15.—The latest official advices from Herzegovina are satisfactory. The insurgents now appear willing to negotiate with the Consul. There have been no offensive movements for several days. The latest encounters terminated in favour of the Turks. Emigrating families are beginning to return.

A Pistol Shot Accident.

CINCINNATI, September 15. — At Georgetown yesterday as Louis Ersenschmitt, clerk in Barlow's store, was standing behind the counter loading a pistol for a young man named John Herring, the weapon went off at half cock, and the charge penetrated a can of gunpowder, which exploded, blowing out the front of the store and setting fire to the building, which was soon entirely consumed. Four adjoining stores were also wholly or partially consumed. The loss probably aggregates $50,000. Ersenschmidt and Herring were very dangerously injured.

Dr. Howe's Testimony.

PITTSFIELD, ME., March, 1872.

MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS.

EAR SIR,—During the past two years I have given your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites a fair though somewhat severe trial in my practice, and am able to speak with confidence of its effects. In restoring persons suffering from emaciation and the debility following diptheria, it has done wonders. I constantly recommend its use in all affections of the throat and lungs. In several cases considered hopeless it has given relief, and the patients are fast recovering. Among these are consumptive and old bronchial subjects, whose disease has resisted the other modes of treatment. For impaired digestion, and in fact for debility from any cause, I know of nothing equal to it. Its direct effect in strengthening the nervous system renders it suitable for the majority of diseases.

I am, sir, yours truly,
WM. S. HOWE, M.D.

The Emperor of Germany has granted a pension of $2,000 marks to Herr Von Bandel, the sculptor of the Herman monument; half of it to be continued to his wife if she survives him. There is some idea also of a further grant being made to him by the Reichstag, as he has devoted a considerable part of his property to the work, and his sight has been materially impaired.

NEW YORK.

Beecher Does Not Want to Prosecute.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The Brooklyn Eagle has the following: Beecher's letter to District Attorney Britton, in reply to the latter's letter to Beecher, in regard to entering a nolle prosequi in the case of Beecher against Moulton, for libel, dated Twin Mountain House, Aug. 30, says: Dear Sir—Your letter, commending to my attention certain considerations which incline you to relinquish the criminal suit against Mr. Moulton and Mr. Tilton, was duly received and considered. I think that the views which you present are sound and wise. It would seem to be axiomatic that no suit should be carried on, in which neither individuals nor society can hope for any benefit. Should you, in your further discretion, enter a nolle pros., I believe all right thinking citizens will regard your act with approbation when made aware of the reasons. Sincerely yours,
HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Arrested.

A Custom House broker was arrested yesterday on the charge of having obtained the entry of goods at this port by means of fraudulent under-valuations, through collusion with a Custom House officer not yet arrested.

All Hands Sick.

The Norwegian barque Falken, from Wilmington, N. C., for Rotterdam, put in at Lower Harbour last evening with all hands sick with fever. One of the sailors had died and had been buried at sea, and several are now in a critical condition. Yellow fever cases were discovered on the St. Columbus from Havana by quarantine physicians yesterday. Three light cases were removed to Dix Island, and the vessel detained below for fumigation.

CHICAGO.

Dr. De Koven.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—In the Episcopal Convention yesterday Chancellor Judd read a long letter from Dr. De Koven to the Diocese, in which he sets forth explicitly his position concerning the Holy Sacrament, a position which he says despite repeated explanations has been constantly misrepresented. The letter reviews the action of the Standing Committee, and declares that either these have exceeded their authority, in refusing to confirm him, or that he should be arraigned before the bar of the Church for heresy. Finally, he withdraws his name as a candidate, and asks the Diocese to select another, though he expresses the opinion that what they believed to be a proper choice, they should defend before the whole Church, and in opposition to the supposed arbitrary action of the Standing Committee. The letter is very affecting in parts, and created a profound impression. After being read, it was referred to a Committee, and the Convention adjourned.

Picked Up.

A telegram received here says Wm. S. Crosthwick, son of the owner of the wrecked vessel Mendota was picked up to-day and taken to Oconto.

Probably Lost.

The schr. Palmira on her way from Queenstown, Ireland, to this port was on Lake Michigan during the storm, but has not been heard from. It is surmised she is lost.

Important to Lumbermen.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—The National Association of lumbermen met for twenty days session this morning.

The Chairman of the Committee on new business, Mr. Cloquett of Georgia, made a report recommending several topics for discussion during the coming sessions. The report covers the gathering of statements for the consideration of demand and supply question and of the insurance question. It urges local organizations at all available points, a proper classification and grading of lumber which can be easily understood all over the country.

John McGraw of New York made some remarks on the depletion of pine forests, giving his experience in the pineries of Pennsylvania where he said in a few years he had seen timber lands appreciate in value from $3 to $50 an acre.

Mr. Pearson, of Chicago, followed. He represented the absolute necessity of gathering reliable statistics for the use of the fraternity. He believed the figures that would be compiled would astonish lumbermen themselves and do more towards checking an excessive supply than all the talking and organization that could be done.

John Charles, of Tonawanda and Canada, gave a sketch of the lumber supply of Canada, which he said is much less than is generally supposed. Pine is rapidly being destroyed there as United States manufacturers realise little more than a bare living from the immense destruction of pine.

H. W. Sage, of Brooklyn, expressed the belief that within 15 years the lower peninsula of Michigan would cease to be an important lumber region. Wisconsin contains ⅔ of pine east of the Rocky Mountains. The quantity there is much over estimated. Mr. Sage then took up the question of Reciprocity with Canada, and what he called wise selfishness of desiring to keep out Canadian products. He made a brief review of the lumber trade in the United States since 1850. From that date till 1873 business had been remarkably successful In 1873 it became evident that there was an over supply of it for the first time, and this glut had continued to the present time, and now it is part of the wisdom for owners to contract supply, and demand fair prices for what is put on the market.

Hon. Wm. Wilson of Chippewa District believed the pine was being cut too fast and sold too cheaply, though he would say they did not make living prices out of it in his district.

The report was then taken up and after a short discussion adopted.

ST. LOUIS.

Pleaded Guilty to Violation of Revenue Laws.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15.—In the U. S. District Court at Jefferson City yesterday, B. A. Furman & Co. rectifiers of Kansas City, charged with the violation of revenue laws, in buying and selling crooked whiskey, withdrew the plea of not guilty and entered the plea of guilty, thus throwing themselves upon the mercy of the Government. John Shushan, of St. Joseph, has also withdrawn the plea of not guilty and entered one of guilty.

SAN FRANCISCO.

Extensive Frauds.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Revenue Officers were around yesterday among the wholesale liquor houses examing books. Discoveries thus far indicate extensive frauds in which not only dealers and distillers, but also revenue officers are implicated.

AUBURN.

Regatta.

AUBURN, September 15.—The regatta on Owosco Lake yesterday the single shell race, one mile and return, was won by Charles E. Courtney, of Union Springs, in 14 minutes and 28 seconds. Courtney and Robinson won the double shell race in 13 minutes and six seconds over a course of a mile and a half. The prizes were in silver ware.

MONTREAL.

A Paper Taken to Task—A Sore Feeling—A Change Must be Made—Neglected to Bail Out—Rumours—Visiting the City—Suspended—Mr. Geoffrion—Fined—Roughly Handled—The Convention—Money Market.

MONTREAL, Sept. 15.—Sheriff Leblanc has taken an afternoon paper to task for reflecting on his late absence in New York, as it was not through a desire to be away when Guibord's burial would take place.

A very sore feeling has taken possession of the members of the Institute Canadien, that Bishop Bourget should dare to curse Guibord's lot, in which are the remains of the wife who died in excellent standing in the church. Two actions for damages loom up through this act of the Bishop.

Several prominent merchants whose opinions concerning transactions have been sought declare their belief that a change will have to be made in the Police Court Judgeship or else the city will be pre-eminently known as a paradise of thieves.

Ehrich, who is in Toronto, has neglected to bail out Franklin as he promised.

Rumours circulating amongst stock brokers this morning were that the entire loss to the Bank of Commerce through its late receiving teller is $71,000, and that part was from his having transferred stock which his father had sold on stock exchange, although his father had no stock to his credit. He was only temporarily in charge of the transfer book in the absence of the regular transfer clerk. The manager of the bank refuses to give any precise information as to the amount of loss, but states positively it does not amount to $70,000. It is probably between fifty and sixty thousand. The Vice President of the Bank, Robert Wilkes, of Toronto, and the Inspector are at present at the office making an investigation.

Messrs. J. Boulon, an attache of the French Legation at Washington, and Isbert, of the French Consulate at New York, are visiting Montreal. They have been entertained at the St. James Club by U. O. Perault, Vice Consul of France, and leave for Quebec this morning.

La Nouvelle France, a paper recently started in this city to oppose vaccination, as an evil nearly as great as Protestantism suspended publication lately.

News received from Vercheres this evening says Hon. Mr. Geoffrion continues to improve.

Forty butchers were to-day fined $50 each for opening private stalls without license. Their rage knew no bounds, and some "cutting" threats were made.

The Mayor, now in Toronto to be married to-morrow, is roughly handled in a paper to-night by Alderman Stephens, who says, as regards the police disaffection over Guibord: 'I saw an official report that only twenty-three men of the force were to be relied on in such an emergency. Now it is well for citizens to note this fact, for it proves conclusively that in a religious riot the force would be useless. For this reason the mayor and chief of police decided to face the crowd alone. The mayor has committed a very grave error in not making the slightest provision for the maintenance of law and order on this occasion. In the case of the anti-vaccination riot the same neglect appears. One thing is certain that if more vigour is not infused into the office of chief magistrate the city will descend deep into the mire.

It is a general remark among those assembled in convention to day that temperance has never gathered together in Canada so weighty and business like an assemblage of persons. Mr. Ross, M. P., spoke eloquently and said the work the convention had to do was of the utmost importance. They were to consider whether the present temper of the public upon this point was sufficient to maintain a prohibitory law if once it were placed on the statute book. If such a law were enacted and then repealed the general effect would doubtless be damaging to the cause. Another matter was whether we should press prohibition Parliament in the present condition of the public mind. In New Brunswick a prohibitory law was enacted for the people before the people wanted it and as a result the cause was but little if any further advanced now than 15 years ago. If the people of Canada did not want a Prohibitory Law it would be vain for Parliament to enact it. It was consequently necessary to ascertain public sentiment on this point. A plebicite had been suggested by which the people should pronounce upon a Prohibitory Law, after it was passed by Parliament. He did not pretend to pronounce upon either of these possible measures. It would be for the convention to consider them. In view of the difficulties of getting a Prohibitory Liquor Law, the convention would have to decide whether it would not be wise to accept some partial and more restrictive measures which would forbid the sale of liquors in the public bars to be drunk on the premises. He felt confident that every one had resolved to arrive at honest conclusions which would be to advance the cause. It was well to be cautious, for it would be most lamentable to occupy ground now which they would have to abandon hereafter. He was satisfied that both the nation and the Government were looking with considerable interest at the present convention, and for that, among other reasons, they should be careful in their deliberations and arrive at sound conclusions. He alluded to the fair representation from the different Provinces and hoped they would be able to present their resolutions for discussion to-morrow at 9 a.m. He was warmly applauded on the conclusion. Hon. Senator Vidal, President, believed the Senate had been quite as active in the temperance movement as the House of Commons. Hon. Neal Dow, of Maine, followed in an excellent speech, saying the Maine law had reduced the sale of liquor in that State to one fiftieth of what it was before.

The stock market is quiet and unchanged. Sterling exchange at about bills, and 109 to 109½ for cash over counter. Documentary bills quoted at 107¾ to 107½. Stock dull and weak. Sales, Montreal, 187, closing at 186½ to 187; Royal Canadian, 94½ to 95, closing at 94 to 95; Union, 90 to 91; Commerce, 122½ to 123; Merchants, 97½ to 98.

SHAKESPEARE.

Serious Accident.

SHAKESPEARE, Sept. 15.—On Monday noon as George Webber and son, of East Zorra, were coming down a steep hill in North east Hope with a load of lumber, the hind wheel got into a deep rut and threw both the men off the load, the wheels passing over both of them, breaking both thigh-bones of the old man so that the bones protruded. The son has his hip-joint dislocated, and has experienced severe internal injuries, and is unconscious; the lives of both are despaired of.

CALEDONIAN SPRINGS.

Inspection of the 18th Battalion.

CALEDONIAN SPRINGS, Sept. 15.—Yesterday the muster inspection of the 18th Battalion, at present under canvas here under command of Lt. Col. Urquhart, was proceeded with by Lt. Col. Jackson, D.A.G., Brigade Major Mattice and Major Wylie, District Paymaster. Considering the short time this battalion has been in camp the men presented a very soldierly appearance. The accoutrements were in splendid order. The physique of the men was above the average. This after noon the drill inspection by the D. A. G. and Brigade Major was very creditably performed. In a few well chosen remarks Lt. Col. Jackson complimented the commanding officers and men upon their performances at drill and their cleanliness, stating also the great satisfaction he would have in reporting very favourably to the Major General the efficiency of the 18th Battalion.

NAPANEE.

Hon. Mr Cartwright on the Financial Policy of the Government—Veterans of 1812-15.

NAPANEE, Sept. 15.—Hon. Mr. Cartwright, Finance Minister, yesterday afternoon addressed a large meeting of his constituents in the Town Hall on the questions of the day, principally dwelling on the financial policy of the Government. He pointed out that the present Ministry could not be held responsible for the engagements entered into by the late Government with British Columbia, having always protested against them as rash and reckless, though they were quite willing to assume the responsibility of the means they had adopted to carry out these engagements. A Government was bound as far as possible to fulfil the obligations incurred by their predecessors, but the Government had found it morally and physically impossible to carry out to the letter the construction of the Pacific Railway in the terms originally agreed upon. Of two evils they had chosen the less, and instead of entirely repudiating the obligations, as they might have done, had consented to carry out the greater portion of the work in an extended time, provided they could do so without materially increasing the burdens of the people of Canada. He explained the mode which had been adopted to meet the necessary expenditure on this and other great works, and showed that his estimate of the revenue of the current year, which he had based on the value of our trade and imports for the ordinary year 1871, had been generally borne out by results, and gave his reasons for selecting that year as the basis of his calculations. He went on to consider the criticism of his policy from two standpoints, which, though mutually destructive, were both incorrect. On the one hand he was accused by the regular Opposition, with Dr. Tupper at its head, of being an unnecessary alarmist, and on the other by some whose opinions were entitled to more weight, of having consented to undertake too much instead of repudiating the obligations entered into by the late Government. He showed that the abnormal expansion of the revenue for some years past was such as to lead to the expectation that there would be a corresponding depression, against which it was necessary to provide in time; while on the other hand the repudiation of our engagements, if they could be carried out without sacrificing our interests to any great extent, must result in injury to our credit. He deprecated undue alarm for the future as he had deprecated excessive confidence in the past, but said that if a crisis like that which existed from 1858 to 1866 should again arise it might then become necessary to declare that the construction of such works as the Pacific Railway must be postponed, but that failing any such extraordinary series of reverses, there was no good reason for doubting the ability of Canada to discharge her engagements, if not with perfect ease, at any rate without serious injury to herself.

The veterans of 1812-15 were paid to-day by Lieut.-Col Kaspherson, for the counties of Lennox and Addington. Sixty-five applied and about fifty were paid. The balance of applications were reserved. The youngest was 79 years of age, and the oldest paid, 95. One aged 99, and some sick, were unable to be present.

TRENTON.

Fire.

TRENTON, Sept. 15.—On Tuesday night about half past eleven a fire broke out in the sheds and stables of the Commercial Hotel. When first discovered it had complete mastery over the building, and soon extended to the grocery store of Wm. Ireland, which was next to the sheds. The fire brigade with the new steamer soon got to work, saving the opposite side of the street. Loss on the sheds $1,000; Mr. Crampton's loss, $500; Wm. Ireland's loss, $5,000, insured for $1,700 on the stock, and $1,200 on the building. A couple of horses were burned in the shed.

TORONTO.

Killed by Cowdice—Matriculation Examination—Committed for Trial—Meeting of Magistrates—Special Meeting of City Council—Championship Foot Race—Letter to the Globe—Meeting of Creditors—An "at home"—Inquest.

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—Last night three rowdies, whose names are supposed to be Wm. Irvine, James Murphy and Robert Hammel, were drunk on Adelaide street. They hustled a lady and gentleman off the sidewalk, and a person named John Owens told the couple to pass on and take no notice, as the men were drunk. With that the roughs turned upon Owen and knocked him down. Mr S. E. Burke, a highly respectable gentleman, of the firm of Burke, Morgan & Co., commission merchants, on Wellington street, was passing along and attempted to put a stop to it. He was then set upon, felled to the earth, and brutally kicked about the head and other parts of the body, causing several severe wounds and bruises from the effects of which he died at an early hour this morning. An inquest will be held

The buildings for the Provincial Exhibition are now nearly finished. The Crystal Palace is a handsome structure, octagonal in shape, and fitted with all the requisites for the advantageous display of goods. The stables are well finished, and the machine sheds are commodious, many of them being already occupied with their contents. By the end of the week a considerable number of articles will be on hand. It is a pity that all the buildings erected by private parties do not better conform to the Exhibition buildings proper.

THE TEMPERANCE COLONY.

Mr. Alexander Begg, a gentleman well known in this city, and who has been for some time past one of the emigration agents for the Dominion in Scotland, passed through Ottawa the other day en route to what is known as the "Temperance Colony." This colony is now being organized in the Township of McMurrich, Parry Sound District, about 150 miles north of Toronto. It is near the line of the proposed "Ontario Pacific Junction Railway" which will connect the Northern Railway, from Toronto, with the Georgian Bay Branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway by intersecting that line at about seventeen miles south of Lake Nipissing. Mr. Begg is the founder of the colony, and has built a first class saw mill, and proposes to build also a flour and oat meal mill. The land is given by free grant to the settlers on the terms usual under that system together with the further stipulation that they agree to "discountenance the use and prohibit the sale of intoxicating drink within the Township." In this excellent undertaking Mr. Begg is supported by the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance, the Grand Worthy Patriarch of that body, Mr. J. M. T. Hannum, having quite recently issued a circular setting forth the basis of organization, the objects in view, the mode of operations, and all other necessary details of information. The scheme is a novel and most interesting one and its promoters are worthy of the sympathy and encouragement of the public.

"FACTS" AND FACTS.

Mr. William Macdougall finds congenial employment in abusing and vilifying all and sundry who do not happen for the moment to be his particular and bosom friends. Mr. M. C. Cameron has some personal remembrances of the free use Mr. Macdougall can make of the name and character of a man to whom he is opposed in politics. To be sure, Mr. Macdougall has had a similar experience at Mr. Cameron's hands, and a good deal of it. But for pure invention, Mr. Cameron has no chance with his co-leader and rival. He wants the brilliant imagination, which conjures up his enemy doing just the very thing he ought not to do. It is very convenient, to say the least of it, to be able to set your antagonist hors de combat in this way, and the "Wanderer" is fruitful of expedients that are convenient. The Kingston Whig has lately devoted some attention to the hon. gentleman, to very good purpose, and in a late issue our contemporary remarked:—"Some of these days Mr. Macdougall's unruly member may get him into exceedingly hot water, for there is a limit to human patience with such abusive mendicants, who curse all who refuse to give them charity. Mr. Macdougall, the beggar at the door of the public crib, is the last man in Canada that should by coarse abuse invite exposure of his history as a public beggar, and if he has any little sense left he will not again provoke an exposure." Mr. Macdougall has of late been afflicted with the with the "writing itch"—has in fact been rubbing himself against every post and pillar, and of course he replied to the strictures of the Whig "at great length," as the Montreal Gazette says. In order to give himself the vantage ground which he thought necessary to his own complete vindication, he had first to start the theory that the Premier of the Dominion "hated" him, and then he set about finding out for his own satisfaction the cause of this hatred. The Premier hates him, he says, because he once did the former a favour. The favour, according to Mr. Macdougall's statement, was his insisting that Mr. Mackenzie, the present Indian agent at Sarnia, who had held that position previous to the formation of the Coalition Government of 1864, and was removed then "without sufficient cause" (the phrase is Mr. Macdougall's own), should be re-instated. If it was a favour to the Premier that a simple act of justice should have been done for one who happened to be a relation, what a world of favoured people this must be. Justice must have lost its old time significance entirely. Mr. Macdougall's claims on his own behalf do not appear to be always of a kind which could with justice be acceded to, and the fact that he is at present a "beggar at the public crib" for a considerable amount will scarcely be accepted by the public as a convincing reason why it should be paid. Besides, he may rest assured if Mr. Mackenzie or the Government over which he presides, did not happen to regard his "little bill" with the same favour as he does himself, they are prepared to give good reasons for their judgment and to stand by the consequences.

The Montreal Gazette, after quoting a small portion of what it has described as "a long letter," expresses the opinion that "the Clear Grit newspapers will "hereafter be rather careful about attacking one who is so well armed as Mr. "Macdougall appears to be." Our contemporary need not be alarmed on account of the Clear Grit newspapers; they have seen and heard of Mr. Macdougall before, and perhaps they understand perfectly well what they are doing when they attack the "facts" with which he has armed himself. Here is one of the "facts" which Mr. Macdougall brings into the fray in the meantime. He says:—"So "much of the history of these times seems "necessary to rebuke the satellites of a "Minister who made it a boast in Scot-"land that even he, the herd boy of the "neighbouring hills, might have been an "adviser of the Crown in Canada years "before, if he had—done what? sold "himself to his political opponents!" It would be interesting to know where and when Mr. Mackenzie made his boast in Scotland. Mr. Macdougall will probably be able to tell. We have seen reports of all the speeches delivered by the Premier in Scotland, and read them with all the care and pride which Canadians had good reason to feel on their account; but we have yet to see and hear of the sentence in which Mr. Mackenzie made any reference to the subject of an offer being made to him by any one of a seat in any Government. If this be a specimen of Mr. Macdougall's facts—and we fearlessly assert that it is—the Clear Grit newspapers have little need to be afraid.

On the evening of the other day on which the battle of Sheriffmuir was fought and "Johnny Cope" was so signally and disgracefully defeated at Preston, a number of prisoners taken in the action were, for the lack of better accommodation, huddled into a barn of a neighbouring farm-yard, over whom was placed a small guard of well armed Highlanders. Some of the English red coats, notwithstanding that their position was everything but comfortable, could not resist retailing jokes to each other in no very measured undertones, far from flattering to the soldierly appearance of the northern conquerors. This sport was anything but relished by such of the guard as had caught so much of the English tongue as to understand what was going on at their expense. One mountaineer, of the clan M'Donald, brandishing his sword and assuming a countenance expressive of contempt, reddened with rage, and making a pause at the barn door, whence some unha lowed words had just saluted his ear, addressed the group in the following terms:—"Ye coht to be respeckin' yer betters—tem tat pe ta real sojare—ye dirty cooards! Tare tho pe ane assang ye a' tat was pe killed tis plesait mornin'—put was stickit whaur its no pe decent till say." Taking then a short turn to cool his rage, he resumed his station at the door, and taking a side view of the prisoners, exclaimed—"Whia pe mak ta King put ta sojar—an' wha can pe mak ta true sojar put ta Macdonnell?" A general burst of laughter instantly issued from the barn at the interrogator's clanish ideas, when a voice from the crowd called out—"And who made the Macdonell?" With an air of contemptuous indignation he replied—"Ta Macdonnell made herself—Ye tam Shordy's cooarts!"

"All Reformers here, waiter, I suppose?" said an old Tory, paying his bill at an inn during the Reform agitation. "Oh, yes, sir, all Reformers here; master and mistress, and all, sir." "And you, John; are you a Reformer?" "Yes, sir. I am very staunch for the Reform, sir." "Very well, then, John; there's the bill, the whole bill, and nothing but the bill;" and so saying the gentleman laid down the money, without giving John anything for himself.

A great sensation was caused the other Sabbath in church not a hundred miles from Dunvegan by the minister, who, while addressing the audience from the text, "Eridh mi agus theid mi gamh-'athair," ("I will arise and go to my father"), in his usual characteristic, vivacious, and graphic style, stopped short all of a sudden, and without giving out a psalm and asking a blessing, descended from the pulpit, muttering, "Two o'clock, two o'clock; time for dinner, time for dinner."

DISTRICT NEWS.

From the Pembroke Telegraph.

Rev. Mr. Hastie, the popular pastor of the Presbyterian Church, left last week to spend his holidays in a trip up the Ottawa.

Mr. Flynn's horse Clavel won the hurdle race at Waldington last week in good style. He also took the hurdle and flat races at Ogdensburg recently.

We understand that the Rev. Mr. Douglass, lately pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Kemptville, has received a call from the Congregation at Port Perry, which he is likely to accept.

Mr. Cameron, a returned missionary from India, has been called to Spencerville, in this Presbytery, and will doubtless soon enter upon the duties of his sacred office.

The schooner Oliver Mowat arrived here from Chicago on Monday last with a cargo of 17,000 bushels of corn for J. P. Wiser, Esq. She was unloaded by T. H. Fraser in about two days.

CAPTURING A WILD MOOSE.

From the Almonte Gazette.

During the month of February last, three Indians and a white man, named Reeves, stationed at a trading post near the mouth of Crow River, which empties into the Coulonge, cleverly effected the capture of a young moose eight months old. The trading post just mentioned belongs to Mr. J. R. McLaren of Carleton Place, and it being that gentleman's desire to obtain possession of a moose, he gave orders to his men to capture one, if possible, on the first opportunity. Four years ago this command was given by Mr. McLaren, but in all that time no opportunity for answering the order offered itself until last February, when one was perceived and instantly given chase. For several weeks, with the most indomitable fortitude, the four hunters continued the pursuit on snow shoes, the men seemingly as untirable as the eagle answered flagitative they were endeavoring to run down. At length, when success appeared to be but a mere myth in perspective, and the utter fruitlessness of the chase had taken firm possession of the minds of the hunters, they were rewarded for their energetic perseverance, and their eyes gladdened by the welcome sight of the noble moose lying panting on the snow, and utterly unable through fatigue to escape its merciless pursuers. To approach it, thoroughly exhausted as it was, was a hazardous venture not to be thought of, as a stroke from its powerful limbs might be dealt which would leave the victim of it hors de combat. A consultation followed, and it was decided to pen the deer where it lay. Trees were then cut down and a high wall built around the exhausted animal, which eyed the preparations for its capture with fear and trembling, uttering at intervals plaintive cries of distress, but unable to make the slightest attempt for a continuance of its former flight for freedom. When the hunters had built a surrounding wall, over which it was impossible for the moose to leap and escape, they resolved to keep it penned in the enclosure until it would become sufficiently tamed to allow itself to be led by a halter, and taken to the trading post. For over a week the men fed it with browse, which it ate readily, becoming at last, after several days, so accustomed to the sight of the hunters that it took food without the slightest sign of alarm from the hands of its captors. The hunters then concluded that since the animal had become so tractable that keeping it detained in its prison was no longer a matter of necessity, and that it might with perfect safety be conducted to the post, the hunter Reeves, leaped over the enclosure, expecting no resistance, but in this opinion he was at fault, for scarcely had he entered the pen when a terrible fight for supremacy took place between the deer and him. The narrowness of the pen incommoded the moose, fortunately for the hunter, from using its natural means of defence with its habitual freedom, but notwithstanding this clog on its activity it nearly proved the death of Reeves, who although endowed with wonderful powers of athletism found it necessary to bring his greatest agility into play, in order to escape the deadly thrusts of the moose's antlers and its savage kicks. Round and round the pen Reeves and his four-footed companion went, the deer endeavouring to gore and kick its captor to death, and Reeves, unable to escape from the pen, calling loudly for help from his three Indian companions, who, notwithstanding all the bravery attached to the name of the "noble red," stood terror stricken on the outside of the enclosure, and refused to assist their endangered companion. Reeves finally managed to get a rope round the neck of the deer, and threw one end over the wall to the Indians, who grasped it and held the noose fast in one corner, while Reeves escaped, which he happily was enabled to do, although bleeding from every pore and almost stripped of every vestige of clothing. The prison was then broken down, and it was resolved by the four hunters to drag the deer by means of the rope back to the trading post. It was conducted in this manner for about two miles, the deer plunging and kicking and offering such obstinate resistance that this means of procedure was deemed too ineffectual, so they fettered the animal with ropes, threw it on an extemporized sleigh, and Reeves sitting on the sleigh to keep it from rising, the remaining three hunters dragged the load to the trading post with the utmost difficulty. After being brought to the post the moose was put in active training and kept there till last June, by which time it had become quite tractable, and then brought to Eganville, where it is still undergoing a severe training, and is today so thoroughly subdued that a child can drive it. It drives contentedly in a sulky and harness, and is daily increasing his speed so rapidly that it is confidently expected it will be able this winter to make a mile in less than two minutes, and it is supposed that when full grown it will be able to do its mile in about a minute and a half. Unlike a horse it strikes into its fastest gait on the first word of command, and in trotting throws its hind feet two feet in front of its fore ones. When captured it weighed 200 pounds, and now 500 pounds, and stands fifteen hands high. For the last few weeks it has averaged twenty pounds per week, and one twenty-six pounds. When full grown, if it lives, it will weigh 1,400 pounds, and stand nearly, if not nineteen hands high. Mr. McLaren sold the moose last week to two Americans for the sum of $3,000. It is the intention of the purchasers to take the animal to the United States, and there trot him against time and the principal race horses on the continent.

Two Scotch students, desiring to make themselves comfortable, had a stove put in their chamber. One bought the stove and the other paid the mason to have a hole cut in the chimney. They broke up housekeeping the other day, and divided the effects. One had the stove and the other the hole.

It is a remarkable circumstance that a Paisley girl can't ride five miles in a car without becoming so tired that you are obliged to put your arm around her to support her, though on the whole it is a pretty poor man who wouldn't be willing to sacrifice both arms to the comfort of a suffering female.

A Western newspaper having admitted some strong personalities into its columns, announces that it has to cease publication for the following reason:—"Our editor has lately disappeared; according to the latest information, he was last seen under a tree, slightly raised above certain persons, who were pulling at a rope!"

Pollock, the poet, shortly after he had become a licentiate, was preaching at Dr. Jamieson's, Nicholson street Secession Church. A captious hearer was venting his dissatisfaction with the young preacher to one of the elders, when the latter exclaimed, "Oh, man, hae a wee thocht patience wi' the lad, ye'll get it a' frae him in 'The Course o' Time.'"

LUKE TRAVERS,

OR

A Tale of the Dominion. Commencing 30 Years Back.

Never was a merrier Christmas spent. Everybody was in excellent health and spirits, all there was no enemy near nor danger of any kind either feared or expected. Not a man had even heard of Louis Joseph Papineau, or knew anything about the troubles which had led to the spending of Christmas Day in the wilderness. Ignorance assuredly is bliss. Even the following day travelling was resumed par "portage" through the woods and prairie over the little river Radawaska, which debouches from Lake Temiscamink, over which fine lake of 20 or 30 miles in length, with high hills round about, we also passed until Long's Farm was reached, and in its neighbourhood the company had again encamped and supped or dined, and slept.

The cold was not yet by any means intense. Travelling through the woods, wrapped up as we were, was not unpleasant and indeed nothing like appreciable cold was experienced until the great St. Lawrence appeared in view at St. Andre. Then, how bitterly cold everything became. The snow was glazed and hard as iron. The wind drifted from the tops of steep mountains, far to the north of us, over a sea of partly floating, partly stationary ice, and penetrated everything. Ears, cheeks, noses, fingers, toes, became red and blue and white by turns. The tongue thickened and the face became swollen by reason of the terrible cold. It was a mercy to find a billet and to be billeted among kind, sensible people as we were, although the language which met our ears was not our mother's tongue.

Packed in the smallest of the little carioles of this part of Lower Canada, the company set off early in the morning towards Quebec, skirting the River St. Lawrence, with the bitter northwest wind from the Laurentian mountains sweeping the shore as hard as fine salt,—and which it ably converted all of us into that state in which Mrs. Lot had the unhappiness to find herself after standing only for a moment, as was originally her intention, to have one last, long, and lingering look of the cities of the plains,—into our faces, and the cold through our clothing into our very bones. Oh, how cold it was! The drivers, in their hooded great coats and leathern mits, ran beside their vehicles to keep the blood in them from congestion; and we anathematized deeply, if not loudly, the fearfully cold country into which, coming out of the comparatively warm forest, we had emerged.

Some time before night all Riviere Ouelle was reached, and there comfortable quarters were found for us in a building which we were told had been a nunnery. It was a long, low, one storied stone house, with a corridor running its extreme length, and with bedrooms off the corridor quite sufficient for our accommodation, although the luxury of sheets and blankets were denied us.

A few days' travelling in this style at length brought us to Point Levi and before us was Quebec, magnificent, grand in cupolas, spires, and minarets, crowning cannon, precipitous cliffs, and the St. Lawrence rolling rapidly at its base.

Scarcely had we reached the beach opposite the renowned fortress of America, which had been obtained from France for England by James Wolfe, Esq., Major General in the army of Great Britain, late a gentleman, now in furs, almost en militaire, with Indian moccasins on his feet, and who seemed to be a man in authority, literally rushed upon us, cramming four, or five, or six of us together into huge log canoes, with buffalo-skins under and over us, and was as busy, and fussy, and consequential as if each and all of us had been merchandise especially consigned to him for his own sole use and benefit.

The gentleman was a Jew, of ostentatious and undoubted loyalty, and meant and acted kindly.

Crossing the river, the canoes navigated by a crew of six with paddles, through open water and being pulled over floating sheets of ice of great thickness with dray ropes when open water disappeared, to be launched into open water again when open water once more became visible, with flags flying was something more than ordinarily animating, but the parade on landing when the company hideously apparelled for soldiers, with double overcoats, Kilmanock bonnets with earcovers attached, blanket boots stretching up to the thighs and white accoutrements on, might have been interesting to the fair damsels who came to see us, but was neither flattering nor comfortable to us. Fortunately it ended, and with all the honours of war, we marched through Prescott gate, to the Artillery Barracks at Palace gate, and there found a resting place for a season.

Everything like business in Canada was at a standstill, not because it was the 17th day of January, 1839, and particularly cold as well in Western Canada, as in the hyperborean neighbourhood of Quebec. The whole country from Quebec westward was in arms. The region which Lake Travers had passed through was peaceable enough. There was it is true, blood shed at St. Thomas but not for freedom. It was a homicide for love. A lady, fair to look upon, accomplished and amiable in manners, loved her husband's friend, not wisely but too well, and all jealousy on the part of the husband was set at rest by a pistol bullet which settled in the husband's brain as he rode out one afternoon merely for his pleasure.

It was a sad affair truly. The lady lived to love no more, and the assassin fled in hatred of himself, to enjoy the bitterness of repentance in a foreign land, far from home and friends, a wanderer and a vagabond upon the face of the earth, avoiding human sight, afraid of his own voice, and trembling when none was near.

The first outbreak of rebellion in the previous year had produced a class of "sympathisers" in the United States, and these under pretence of approving of the resort to arms of those who were fighting after all only for political freedom, not national independence, could not help interfering under such auspicious circumstances with the affairs of Canada. These piratical adventurers robbed arsenals, which seemed carelessly left open to them, and with arms so obtained invaded Canada and robbed and slew the inhabitants, whom they intended only to assist. There were nominal generals, and colonels and captains in command, whose distinguishing characteristics were the possession of a cocked hat and feather, with scarlet sash and sword, or the sword simply, while the rank and file only boasted of bowie knives, pistols, fowling pieces and sporting rifles, or the stolen fire-locks from United States storehouses; but the General, privates and private pirates all came to grief at an early period of their career. A General Sutherland and a Colonel Dodge, and a Captain Hillier, with a few other distinguished gentlemen, were captured by the volunteers on our side of the line 45, and were sent to the citadel at Quebec, there to pass the winter in ease and quietness, which, by the way, to the great discomfiture of the guards and their gallant commander, the hero of Hugmont, they all certainly did not die, while such as fell into the hands of Colonel John Prince were, as he laconically expresses it, "shot accordingly." It was a busy and a sad time in Canada. Arms were being supplied from the old French jail of Quebec, now the ordnance storehouse of Palace Gate, to every English speaking inhabitant of Quebec, who were sworn in to serve Her Majesty, and did garrison duty in aid of the household, and such other troops as were left to protect Quebec from imaginary, and it may be a few internal foes, going even to prayers armed, as if for battle.

In Quebec the very police were armed with cutlasses, and, indeed, the whole country was under a kind of martial law, administered by Lieut. Gen. Sir John Colborne.

There were dragoons, and artillery, and infantry enough in Canada to repel at that time, the whole force of the United States, and all the mischief, or "trouble" which had led to such mustering here, drilling there, and galloping everywhere, was caused by a very little man, physically considered, who had feloniously possessed himself of a little spot of earth, midway between Canada and the United States, from which all the efforts of Captain Glasgow, of the Royal Regiment of Artillery, were seemingly unable to dislodge him. In a word, Mr. William Lyon McKenzie was on Navy Island, resisting, vi et armis, the power of Great Britain, ready to flee when resistance was no longer practicable to the United States, a feat which it is a pleasure to state, he successfully accomplished living to fight another day, with pen and tongue, the very men who were too much for him in the matter of fire and sword.

Such a queer looking place was Quebec at this time. The shop windows were the same in size as were the windows of the dwelling houses. The streets were lighted with whale oil, the doorsteps to the house doors high above the ground, on account of the depth of the winters' snows—protruded upon the apology for a paved sidewalk of one foot and a half in width. The finest church was the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, with its old fashioned whitewashed front and black painted stone window sills in Fabrique street. Buade street was an alley. The suburbs contained a few stone houses and a number of wooden cabins, packed together as close as hives, and St. Roche had a church and two stone hospitals—fine edifices by the the way—surrounded by a dense mass of wooden wig-wams, which fortunately were completely swept off the surface of the earth afterwards by the great fires of 1845.

Liver Complaint.

The liver is the great depurating (purifying) organ of the system, and has very appropriately been termed the "housekeeper" of our health. I have observed in the dissecting-room, and also in making post-mortem examinations of the bodies of those who have died of different diseases, that in a large proportion of cases the liver has given evidence of having at some time been diseased. Liver affections are equally prevalent in beasts. Every butcher knows that the livers of cattle, sheep and swine are often times as frequently diseased as any other organ. A healthy liver each day secrets about two and a half pounds of bile. When it becomes torpid, congested, or if, from any cause, it be disabled in the performance of its duties, it is evident that the elements of the bile must remain in the blood, thus irritating, poisoning, and perverting every vital process. Nature attempts to rid the system of these noxious materials by means of other organs, as the kidneys, lungs, skin, etc., which become overtaxed in performing their additional labour, and are unable to withstand the pressure.

The brain, which is the great electrical center of all vitality, becomes overstimulated with unhealthy blood, and fails to normally perform its functions. Hence there is dullness, headache, impairment of the memory, dizziness, gloomy forebodings, and irritability of temper. When the blood is diseased, the skin manifests discoloured spots, pimples, blotches, boils, carbuncles, and scrofulous tumors. The stomach and bowels, sooner or later, become affected, and constipation, piles, dropsy, dyspepsia, or diarrhœa, is the inevitable result.

SYMPTOMS OF LIVER COMPAINT.

A yellow colour of the skin, or yellowish-brown spots on the face and other parts of the body; dullness and drowsiness, with frequent headache; dizziness, bitter or bad taste in the mouth, dryness of the throat, and internal heat; palpitation of the heart, a dry, teasing cough, sore throat, unsteady appetite, sour stomach, raising of the food, and a choking sensation in the throat; sickness and vomiting distress, heaviness, and a bloated, or full feeling about the stomach and sides; aggravating pains in the sides, back or breast, and about the shoulders; colic pains and soreness through the bowels; constipation, alternating with diarrhœa; piles, flatulence, nervousness, coldness of the extremities, rush of blood to the head, with symptoms of apoplexy; numbness of the limbs (especially at night), and chills, alternating with hot flashes; kidney and other urinary difficulties, dullness, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings. Only a few of these symptoms will be likely to be present in any case at one time.

TREATMENT.—Take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, with small doses of his Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which act as an alterative on the liver. For Liver Complaint and the various affections caused by a diseased liver, these remedies are unsurpassed. The Golden Medical Discovery does not simply palliate the disease, but it produces a lasting effect. By its use, the liver and stomach are changed to an active, healthy state, the appetite is regulated, the blood purified and enriched, and the entire system renovated and restored to health.

The Discovery is sold by Druggists. R. V. Pierce, M. D., Proprietor, World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

FALSE MODESTY.—For people to allow disease to become seated upon them rather than consult a physician, or to suffer as many do for years with the different kinds of piles, without going at once to the druggist for Fowle's Pile and Humour Cure, which is an infallible cure. 3729

SKIN DISEASES, of whatever nature, are completely eradicated by the use of Fowle's Pile and Humour Cure; its effect is marvellous for Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, and even Leprosy; it has proved itself an almost never failing cure. (See special notice.) 3733

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P.Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and since then had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. R. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throat, &c., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rasan, Township Percy, writes: "I was persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit." A. Mr. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes: "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr. Maybee, of this place, induced me to try Electric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine.

The Montreal Proprietary School has been established to provide a liberal education similar to that given in the Public Schools of England. The course of instruction, however, will not be exclusively classical, and parents will be specially prepared either for the University and Professions or for Commercial Life.

Most eligible premises have been purchased for the School in McTavish street, one of the most healthful localities in the city, and immediately adjoining the grounds of the McGill University.

The course of instruction will include Latin, Greek, Mathematics, French, German, Arithmetic, Writing, English Grammar, Literature and Composition, History and Geography, both Ancient and Modern, Natural Philosophy, Vocal and Instrumental Music, Drawing, Gymnastics and Drilling.

A limited number of boys will be received by the Principal as Boarders or Weekly Boarders and, with the view of keeping the pupils from improper influences, it is strongly recommended that all be entered as Day Boarders, who will live in the house of the Principal.

Further particulars can be obtained from the Secretary, J. W. Holmes, Esq., 76 Victoria street, where all applications for admission must be made.

The School will open on MONDAY, the 12th of April, and will be carried on for a few days at 9 Victoria street, the new premises not being quite completed.

Their Excellencies the Earl and Countess of Dufferin.

These Paperhangings are imported direct from the best Manufacturing Establishments in England, France and United States. Great care has been taken in their selection with regard to colour. The ground tones are soft and pleasing to the eye, especially those toned with silver mica; but above all, they are free from the mineral poisons that many of the tawdry-coloured Paperhangings of the day are surcharged with. The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. The Public are respectfully invited to examine his STOCK of WALL PAPER before purchasing elsewhere.

PAIN KILLER.

After thirty-five years trial, it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Physicians of the most scientific attainments recommend it as a prompt, safe and speedy relief for the extremes of pain. It is truly the best remedy ever known for Burns, Cuts, &c., but for Dysentery or Cholera, or any sort of bowel complaint, it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficiency and rapidity of action. In the greatest cities of India, and other hot climates, it has become a standard remedy. BRISTOL, Sept., 1869.—Gentlemen, I feel it a duty I owe to you to express my gratitude for the great benefit I have derived by taking "Norton's Camomile Pills." I speak within the mark, Mr. Paul, Berkeley, for the above Pills, for wind in the stomach, from which I suffered excruciating pain for a length of time, having tried nearly every remedy prescribed, but without any benefit at all. After taking two bottles of your valuable pills I was quite relieved to my usual state of health. I therefore give this publicity for the benefit of those who may be afflicted. I am, Sir, yours truly, HENRY ATKINSON. To the proprietors of Norton's Camomile Pills.

Local Intelligence.

William Finglan', Official Assignee for Ottawa City and County of Carleton. Office, Hay's Block, Spark St. 3933tf

In Position.—The stationary engine, which arrived from Montreal the day before yesterday, for the purpose of supplying steam power during the Exhibition, has been placed in position.

Grand Foot Races.—A ten mile foot race comes off this afternoon between Louis Eustache and Crepin over the Temple Bar grounds, for $100 aside. The ground is in capital condition, and besides the race several events will come off.

Protestant Hospital.—A meeting of lady delegates from the different Protestant churches of the city was held in the Orphans' Home the day before yesterday. A committee of two was appointed from each congregation to make weekly visits to the hospital.

Guards' Band.—The band of the Governor General's Foot Guards played a very select programme last night on Parliament Square. As usual, there was a large crowd of spectators on the promenade There will only be one more of these popular open air concerts.

English Mail.—An English Mail will close at the City Post Office to morrow (Friday) the 12th inst., at 12.05 o'clock, p.m., destined for the steamship Peruvian, which sails from Quebec for Liverpool on Saturday. A supplementary bag will close at 1.25 p.m., for the same destination, but will contain only unregistered matter.

Arrested for Perjury.—Mr. Mederic Lanctot, Solicitor for the Corporation of the City of Hull, has caused the arrest of Messrs. N. Tetreau, Alfred Lane and C. Simon, for perjury, in connection with the return of books and other official records belonging to the Corporation. The progress of the trial will be watched with considerable interest by the people of Hull.

In Want of a Platform.—For some time planks have been lying in front of the St. George's Ward Primary School for a new platform, but as yet this much needed work is not completed. The rainy season will soon be upon us, and the small children who necessarily attend this school will be unable to reach it with dry feet. The contractor who has been entrusted with this job should hurry it on to completion.

On a Visit.—Mr. Donald M. Grant of this city, who was appointed a few months ago to succeed Mr. Dawson in the superintendence of the Dawson Road Route to Fort Garry, returned from Thunder Bay yesterday on a short visit to his family and also on business in connection with the road. Mr. Grant is suffering at present from a severe attack of rheumatism, which will be regretted by his many friends in this city.

Odd Fellowship.—The new hall of the Canadian Order of Odd Fellow, in this city, is without doubt one of the finest in the Dominion as regards its internal style of finish and general furnishing. A grand entertainment will be held at an early date, with a view to celebrate the opening of the hall, and to assist in liquidating the great expense incurred in fitting it up. The members of the Order will doubtless receive a cordial support by a large attendance at the proposed inaugural festival.

Protection of the Exhibition Buildings.—It would seem that there is not much protection yet guaranteed during the coming Fair from fire. This is felt to be a serious want, owing to the great amount of implements, machinery and other stuff that will be upon the grounds. Mr. Wm. Perry, representative of the firm of Frothingham and Workman, Montreal, Dominion agents for Blake & Co.'s steam pumps, Boston make, waited upon Ald. Birkett, chairman of the fire and light committee, yesterday, for the purpose of consulting with him in regard to the fire protection at the exhibition grounds. Mr. Birkett promised to give the matter every consideration.

Passing Counterfeit Money.—A young man entered the boot and shoe store of Mr. G. Stephens, Wellington street, the night before last and endeavoured to pass a counterfeit $20 bill. The storekeeper fortunately detected it before parting with a pair of boots which the intending purchaser had just selected. It was a $2 Dominion note, with the number 20 from a commercial scrip pasted neatly over the figure 2 on the bill, and required a very minute inspection to detect it. The merchant said nothing, but went out under the pretence of looking for change, to see if he could find a policeman, in which he was unsuccessful. In the meantime the young man becoming dubious that all was not right quietly departed, minus even his $2 bill. The merchant thinks he knows the individual by sight.

Again we have to Bring Mr. Ingham's Energy Under Notice.—To-day he advertises an immense stock of the finest American silverware, well sorted, most modern design, and best workmanship. His consignment of diamonds and watches is extensive and valuable, consisting of solitaires, clusters and pendent crosses, 18 K gold diamond set, and stem winding English, American and Swiss lever watches as well as a large quantity of other valuable goods. For particulars see advertisement. Mr. B deserves great credit in securing such valuablee consignments, and giving the people of this young city an opportunity of purchasing at a cheap rate such valuable goods. His great furniture sale comes off to-morrow. Great crowds inspected the furniture yesterday, and expressed their surprise that such goods were to be sold at auction. We would advise all who have not yet seen the consignment to view it to-day, for it is, without doubt, the finest collection of goods ever brought into this city. The sale begins to-morrow at eleven o'clock, and at 7.30 in the evening, and on Saturday at the same hours. All wanting good furniture should not fail to be there, as the consignment must be must be sold. A consignment of American pianos, next week, for sale by auction.

Board of Separate Schools.

Ottawa, September 14, 1875

Present — Messrs. Waller, Finlay, Rocque, Lapierre, Martineau and Kavanagh.

On motion of Mr. Lapierre, seconded by Mr. Waller, Mr. Rocque took the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

A letter from Brother Andre, several communications and accounts, were read and laid on the table; also a report of the Finance Committee.

Moved by Mr. Waller, seconded by Mr. Lapierre, that the communication of Brother Andre be received, and that the School Management Committee be requested to take into consideration the proposition of procuring maps for the school, and communicate with Brother Andre, before he proceeds to Toronto next week.—Carried.

Report of the Finance Committee.

To the Board of Roman Catholic Separate School Trustees:—

The Finance Committee beg respectfully to submit that they have examined the following accounts and find them correct, and would recommend that the Chairman be authorized to sign cheques for them:—

J. Belanger, for glass, putty, etc., $5; James Hope & Co, stationery, $7 39, John Heney, for wood, $6; Sister St. Arsene, $24 27; Sister Mary de l'Assomption, $20 12; Grison & O'Donohue, printing, $2; W. Morris, cleaning cess pits, $90.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed), W. H. Waller, Chairman.
W. Finlay.
Joseph Kavanagh.

Moved by Mr. Waller, seconded by Mr. Finlay, that the report of the Finance Committee just read be received and adopted.—Carried.

Mr. Waller read a statement on the finances of the Board—and he moved, seconded by Mr. Martineau, that the special statement just read be received and adopted, and that the school rate for the year 1875, as therein specified, be ½ of a cent on the dollar.—Carried.

Statement of requirements for the R. C. Separate Schools for the City of Ottawa for the year ending 31st of December, 1875:—

Teachers Salaries
Christian Brothers	$ 2,000
Sisters of Charity	1,000
Lay Teachers, 4 at $525	2,100
do. 1 at $400	400
Secretary of Board	200
School house rents	1,690
Fuel for school (say)	500
Prize books	150
Interest on school lot	72
Notes in Banks	2,450
School repairs (say)	200
Outstanding cheques at date	607
Miscellaneous expenditure	500
Total	$11,869
Ways and Means.
Government grant	$ 1,742
Corporation City Ottawa grant	750
Rate Bill (say)	1,200
Rate at ½ $24,000	8,009
Deficit	177
Total	$11,869

It will be seen from the foregoing that with a rate of one-third of a cent on the dollar, with the other sources of revenue specified, the condition of the Board at the end of the current year will be this—that all its obligations, excepting an amount equal to $177, will be paid off. It will also be seen that outside of this result the Board is in no position, for the balance of the year, of entering upon any of the desirable improvements in the school system that suggest themselves; but they see room to express the hope that matters will assume such form next year as will enable the Board to materially improve the separate school system of the city during the ensuing year.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
W. H. Waller,
Chairman of Finance Committee.

Moved by Mr. Finlay, seconded by Mr. Waller, that the By-Law to impose a rate for separate school purposes for the year 1875 be introduced and read a first time.

At the request of the Chairman the Secretary read the By-Law, and Mr. Finlay moved, seconded by Mr. Waller, that the By-Law just read be read a second and third time and passed. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Waller, seconded by Mr. Kavanagh, that three lots belonging to the Rev. Father Stenson, situated in the vicinity of St. Patrick's Church, Upper Town be purchased for the purpose of erecting thereon at the earliest possible day, a separate school suitable to the requirements of the west end of the city; provided said lots can be had at a sum not to exceed $2,700.00 and that the chairman be and he is hereby authorized to take the necessary steps for the acquiring of the said lots.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Lapierre, seconded by Mr. Finlay, that the present Chairman, the Treasurer and Mr. Waller be authorized to wait on his Lordship the Bishop of Ottawa, and see what can be done in the matter of the purchase of Revd. Father Stenson's lots. Carried.

On motion the Board adjourned.

Secretary.

Contract for Iron Work.—Messrs. Ives & Co., of Montreal, have been awarded the contract for the iron work of the Western extension of the Departmental Buildings.

The Broken Machine.—It is incorrect, as stated by the Citizen of last evening, that the accident to the Dundas planer intended for the Exhibition, was caused by the giving way of the derrick at the St. Lawrence & Ottawa Railway Station. The writer, who was present at the time, is aware that the accident was consequent upon the men in charge of the machine having persisted, against the advice of the railway employees, in using a rope instead of a chain for the purpose of lifting the great weight from the car to the truck. This explanation is made because it is not right that groundless fears should exist as to the capacity of the derrick which about this time must be greatly used for the lifting of heavy and costly machinery. The accident, which resulted in considerable damage to a valuable machine, and, doubtless, no little vexation to the owners in consequence of its being unfitted for exhibition, was wholly due to the bad management of the men who had charge. The Railway Company or their employees had nothing to do with it.

After an Editor with a Knife.—The editor of this journal, on putting in an appearance at the office at ten o'clock last night, was met at the door by an intelligent little fellow who shall meantime be nameless, and informed that a hard-looking character, who had a great big knife concealed in his coat sleeve, was inquiring after him, and desired to know how soon he was expected. The person whose life was thus to all appearance threatened, and a friend who accompanied him, rushed inside with some curiosity, at least they deny having been impelled by any other feeling, to see who this dangerously armed and "hard looking" character was. He was there, just as represented, a man over six feet high, proportionately stout and powerfully built, and just an one as any ordinary mortal scarcely cares to encounter in a fair field, not to speak of him with an knife. He had been anxiously enquiring for the editor, and was flourishing his knife quite freely. But, unfortunately there the romance ends. The "hard-looking" character was an acquaintance of the person he was looking for, and had been to Mr. Harrison's sale, where he purchased a rather fine looking bread knife. He wanted the editor's company home.

Police Court.

Before M. O'Gara, P. M.
Wednesday, Sept. 15.

Thomas McGuire was arraigned on a charge of vagrancy, having been found sleeping in a hay loft on Sussex street. He had his choice between paying $5 and costs and two weeks in gaol at hard labour.

J. Whittey, E. Kehoe, and Thomas Hennessey were charged with creating a disturbance. The two former cases were remanded until to-morrow, and Hennessey was sent down to gaol for three weeks, not being able to pay $20 and costs.

James Devine, Ann Cox, and Kate Rogers were charged with being disorderly. The two former were discharged, but Kate was sent down for two weeks, being unable to pay a fine of $10 and costs imposed.

James Egan was charged by Ann Johnston with having a ferocious dog. The case was dismissed on the defendent promising to shoot the dog.

A man named Madden, from Nepean, was charged with obtaining a suit of clothes and $5 from Mr. Westgate, tailor, under false pretences. He returned the property this morning and the case was abandoned by the prosecutor.

John O'Brien was charged with breaking windows in a house on the Bank street road, occupied by Jas. Meekin. He was fined $10 and costs, or one month in gaol at hard labour.

Cyrille Poole was charged with using abusive language. The case was adjourned until to-morrow.

Albert Bauchon, Peter Moreau, and Joseph Carise, was charged with stealing a harmonium from Messrs. Orme & Son, and also with stealing a pair of boots from Messrs. Bruce & McDougal, Sussex street. Moreau was discharged, Bauchon was committed on a charge of stealing the harmonium, and Carise was committed on both counts.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following appointments:—

William Archibald, of Edinburgh, Scotland, a Solicitor before the Supreme Courts of Scotland, to be a Commissioner for taking affidavits for use in and for the Courts in Ontario.

James William Liddell, of the town of Cornwall, Attorney-at-Law, to be a Notary Public in and for the Province of Ontario.

More Mills Closing.—The saw mill of Messrs Perley & Pattee closed down for the season the night before last. Mr. J. R. Booth's mill closes on Saturday night. It is almost a pity that our fine lumbering establishments should be closed during the exhibition week, as they form the principal object of interest to strangers visiting the city.

Opening of the Normal School.—Yesterday the names of thirty teachers were enrolled by Mr. McCabe, Principal of the Normal School, for the entrance examination to the new institution. The books will be kept open to-day again for any additional applicants who may be desirous of attending this session. The entrance examination will begin to-morrow morning at nine o'clock, and will be conducted in writing. Of the thirty who applied for admission eighteen are ladies and twelve gentlemen. They hail from different counties in Eastern Ontario and a few come from Montreal and Quebec. The Masters were engaged the greater part of the day in preparing time tables for the work of the session.

"A Ghastly Load."—Two young ladies and a young gentleman were enjoying the fresh and balmy air on the doorstep of a certain house on the Richmond road the other evening. A cart which passed attracted their attention, and a critical examination convinced them that the contents were neither more nor less than a couple of corpses, carefully covered up with a white sheet and a shanty blanket. Their gentleman friend who was at first somewhat sceptical, followed the cart for some distance, and returned satisfied. He remarked, however, that the driver looked rather uncon-cerned considering that he had such "a ghastly load." A newspaper reporter got hold of the story, and went to the police station to inquire if any accident had happened up the river from the scene of which corpses were likely to come in this promiscuous way. There was no explanation of the affair until an obliging butcher volunteered the information that he was the driver of the ghastly load, which consisted of the corpses of — two fat sheep. The ladies and gentleman in question say they don't feel a bit sold; but they do.

Borthwick Springs.

A limited number of boarders can be accommodated at the Borthwick Springs. Invalids wishing to avail themselves of the benefits to be derived from the use of the best Mineral Water on the Continent, and parties wishing to spend a few weeks in the country should visit these Springs.

Comfortable quarters at moderate charges, fitted with all necessary requirements for

SHOWER AND OTHER BATHS.

Pure country air and freedom from excitement give the patient the benefit of hygienic results impossible to be obtained elsewhere. The attention of the reader is particularly directed to the fact that this Mineral Water loses none of its virtues by keeping or transportation, and that where freely taken by those in good health, health comes. By invalids who cannot visit the Springs the water can be as well used in their own houses, whilst its low cost places it within the reach of all.

Delivered to all parts of the city in 3 gallon jars, at 10 cts. per gallon; in 30 gallon barrels at $2.50 each, barrels extra. For conveyance to the Springs and other information, apply to

Ottawa, Kingston, and London Debentures.

$180,000, Six and Seven Per Cents.

Messrs. DRUMMOND, CASSELS & CO., Montreal, are authorised to receive, on or before the 2nd day of June next, Tenders for $180,000 of Debentures of the Cities of Ottawa, Kingston and London, Ont.

Tenders may be for any portion of the Debentures, from $100 upwards, and are to be at a premium per dollar, to which will be added accrued interest up to date of payment.

Ottawa Debentures $85,000.—These bear date 1st March, 1875, and mature 1st November, 1891. Principal and interest are payable in Ottawa—the interest, at 6 per cent, half-yearly, on 1st March and 1st November.

The population of the City is now 24,250. Its debt, excluding the Water Works Liability, which is itself reproductive, is $760,808. Against this there are, all absolutely liable for the payment of these debentures, assessed property $11,574,495, Corporation property, exclusive of Water Works $252,000, and the sinking Fund for the above debt, already amounting to $189,127.

Kingston Debentures $75,000.—These bear date 31st December, 1874, but mature annually as per schedule, in different amounts, from 1879 to 1901. Principal and interest are payable in Kingston—the interest semi-annually at 6 p.c., on the first days of January and July, the latter Coupons, payable 1st July next, are attached.

The total debt of Kingston is $470,000, and the assessed value of property, all of which is absolutely liable for the payment of the Debentures, is $6,126,490.

In cases of more than one tender for the same Debenture or Debentures, preference will be given to the highest tender, and Debentures of similar amount or less of the next nearest date of maturity will be allotted to the tenderers in order, unless in their tenders they mention a preference for other Debentures.

London Debentures $60,000.—These are all twenty year Debentures, maturing as per schedule, chiefly on 1st June, 1895. Principle and interest are payable, the interest half-yearly, at 7 p.c., in London, Ont.

The population of London is 18,415, and, with its suburbs, is nearly 20,000. Its debt amounts to $1,097,927; but besides a total assessed value of property, amounting to $8,092,660, and real property, belonging to the Corporation, to a very large amount within the City, all of which is absolutely liable for this debt, the Corporation holds first and second mortgage bonds, and other interests in the London and Port Stanley Railway, amounting to $1,111,058, from which an annual revenue is derived, under the lease to the Great Western Railway.

All of these Debentures form securities of the very highest character. To indicate the estimate in which Canadian Municipal securities are held in England, it may be mentioned that Ottawa Six per cent Debentures sold, on 23rd April inst., on the London Stock Exchange, at Seven per cent Premium.

The awards will be made to the highest tenderers, to whom advice will be promptly sent; but the right is reserved to reject any proposals, and to allot a portion only of any bid. The Debentures will be ready for delivery immediately after the awards.

Payments to be exchanged at Montreal for the Debentures, may be made through the Bank of Montreal.

Detailed Schedule of the Debentures, with form of tender, can be obtained at the different Branches and Agencies of the Bank of Montreal, or from Messrs. DRUMMOND, CASSELS & CO., Montreal.

Cline's Patent Slate Roofing Paint!

Fire-proof, Economical, Ornamental, Contains no tar, Saves re-shingling, Preserves tin or iron

STOPS ALL LEAKS!!!

Agents wanted in every town.

Send for Ontario Testimonials.

A roof may be covered with a very cheap shingle, and by application of this slate be made to last from 20 to 25 years. Old roofs can be painted and coated, looking much better, and lasting longer than new shingles without the slate, for one fifth the cost of re-shingling. This paint is practically fire proof against sparks or flying embers, and for tin and iron has no equal, as it expands by heat, contracts by cold, and will not corrode in the most exposed places. Roofs covered with Tar Sheathing Felt can be made water-tight at a small expense. The paint is extremely cheap.

Two gallons will cover 100 square feet of shingle roof, or 400 to 600 square feet of tin, iron, felt, matched boards or any smooth surface. Although the paint is heavy in body it is easily applied with a brush, and neither cracks in winter nor runs in summer.

On deceased shingles it fills

The REJUVENATING WATERS so much sought for in years long past.

Invalids! Attention!
Dyspepsia, Derangement of the Digestive Organs, Dropsy, Diseases of the Skin, Affections of the Liver and Urinary Organs are positively cured by using the water for a few weeks.

Rheumatics! Read!
Fundreds of Rheumatics have been cured by the Sulphur Baths. Suffering is alleviated by the first, and cripples throw away their crutches after about half-a-dozen baths.

TESTIMONIALS.
Montreal, 28th July, 1876.
"I hereby certify that I entertain a very favorable opinion of the Baths and Waters of the Caledonia Springs in many forms of disease, among which I would especially mention Rheumatism, the Stigmas of Gout, Neuralgia, some of the varieties of Cutaneous disease, Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, and in carefully selected cases, some of the diseases of the Kidney and Bladder.
(Signed) GEO. W. CAMPBELL, A.M., M.D.
Dean of the Medical Faculty, McGill College.
Dr. Wm. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1859:—But the disease above all to which the action of the water is most decided is Rheumatism. * * * I have known a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the waters.

ACCOMMODATIONS.
A magnificent new hotel, capable to accommodating 300 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accommodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa River is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until the railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the conveyance of visitors to the Springs. The distance of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 60 and 50 miles.
Mr. W. CHAMPNESS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horses, saddles, &c. There is a good race-course on the property of the Company.
The PANACEAN WATERS of these Springs will yet make Caledonia the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seekers. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the Springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

The Earl of Huntingdon is dead.

The Hon. Mr. Cartwright, Minister of Finance, returned from the West yesterday.

The American Custom House Officers at Island Pond detained the cups won by the Maritime Province team at the late rifle matches in Ottawa. Communication with the authorities have ended in a release of the articles.

The Hon. John Young is at present in the city in connection with the Baie Verte Canal. The Hon. W. P. Howland having returned from Europe, the Commissioners will meet shortly in St. John, N.B., to prepare a final report on the practicability of this scheme.

The matriculation examinations for Toronto University commenced yesterday morning at ten o'clock. The class of matriculants is unusually large. There were 78 applications for examination in the various faculties and schools, being the largest number applying since 1861.

Death of a Singer.

The Journal De St. Petersburg announces the death of Signor Ronconi, a celebrated Italian singer. It is doubtful whether the Journal means Signor Ronconi, so well known in America.

The Servian Insurrection.

A special to the Times says that the recent successes of the insurgents render a continuance of guerrilla warfare until Spring. It is possible in such case that it will be difficult to restrain the Servians from participating. Austria, with an eye to these contingencies has issued orders regulating a supply of horses in the event of mobilization.

Lords of the Admiralty—Dead—Vatican Council—Foot and Mouth Disease.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The Globe this morning has reason to believe that the Lords of the Admiralty contemplate a cruise for the inspection of the Government Works at Malta. The navy yards of France and probably those of Italy will also be visited.
The Earl of Huntingdon is dead. He was about 57 years old.
The Telegraph has a special from Rome this evening, stating that the Pope recently informed Cardinal Borromeo that the Vatican Council would reassemble to complete its labours in 1876.
The following are the official returns in regard to the foot and mouth disease during the week; there have been 4,426 additional cases in Kent, 16,080 in Dorsetshire, 11,054 in Gloucestershire, and 5,000 in Oxfordshire. The scourge seems to be spreading in those counties as well as in Staffordshire, Wiltshire, Cambridgeshire, Huntingdonshire, and Norfolk, with great rapidity. In Sussex, however, the disease is abating. There has only been a small portion of deaths from the beginning

A Lincoln Monument.

The Morning Post to day says that Lincoln's Tower, adjoining the Rev. Newman Hall's church, in Kensington, which was erected in recognition of the sympathy expressed for Americans during the civil war, is completed, with the exception of a few feet.

The Yunnan Outrage.

Reuter's telegram from Shanghai says negotiations relative to the Yunnan outrage are not concluded. The only points settled are that a Special Ambassy will be sent to London, and the Chinese Viceroy will institute a Commission of Inquiry into the outrage in Yunnan.

SPAIN.

Church versus State—Rome Asserts her Supremacy.

MADRID, Sept. 16th.—A Madrid correspondent of the Times summarizes a circular of a Papal Nuncio to the Bishops as follows: the Nuncio claims "fulfilment of the Concordat, which forbids the exercise of any non-Catholic creed, and requiring a transfer of the superintendence over education to the clergy, and pledging the co-operations of the secular power in suppressing heretical teaching and literature." He says one of the causes of civil war is one way in which religious unity has been misunderstood by the previous governments. For these reasons, in view of these consequences, the Holy See believes itself strictly obliged to present these observations to the Government. The Times correspondent adds: "No doubt the presentation of this audacious claim at a time when a Liberal cabinet has just been installed, implies a threat that if the Government reject it, a blessing of the Church will be definitely transferred to Don Carlos and peace will be retarded in every possible way."

The Papal Nuncio Circulars—The Cortes.

MADRID, Sept. 16.—The circular of the Papal Nuncio is commented on by all the Spanish papers. Great surprise is expressed that the circular was sent without the permission of the King. The Epoca asserts that another circular equally important has been issued, a cabinet council having been called for to-morrow exclusively for the consideration of the Nuncio.
The Correspondencia does not believe that the Spanish Cortes will meet this year.

PARIS, Sept. 16.—Specie in the Bank of France has increased 2,771,000 francs during the past week.

HERZEGOVINA.

KROGUJEWATZ, Sept. 15, p.m.—Forty-two deputies waited on the ministry, and are in favour of war, but a majority appears to be secured in the address, which proposes to leave the question to the wisdom of Prince Milan. The government is most active in its efforts to maintain peace, and the immediate danger of war is consequently lessened.

INDIA.

Nizan and the Prince of Wales.

BOMBAY, Sept. 15.—It has been heretofore asserted that Nizan of Hydrabad refuses to accept a Vice-Royal invitation to meet the Prince of Wales on his approaching India. This has caused much comment in the English and India press. The Times, of India, however, announces definitely that Nizan has accepted the invitation.

PERNAMBUCO, Sept. 16.—It is believed that an Imperial decree, granting annuities to bishops and governors of dioceses will be published on Friday. The Government have determined to pursue a conciliatory policy on the question of religion. The Minister of Foreign Affairs has replied to the note recently received from the Bueno Ayres Government. He has accepted explanations concerning all differences between the two countries, excepting the Paraguayan boundary question upon which no decision has as yet been arrived at.

What is an idea?—A Frenchman has defined an idea as a child of one's own that one always wishes some one else to adopt.

A Frenchman learning the English language complained of the irregularity of the verb "to go," the present tense of which some wag had written out for him as follows: "I go; thou startest; he departs; we make tracks; you cut sticks; they absquatulate or skedaddle."

A new biographer of Artemus Ward says the genial humourist usually wrote with one leg over the arm of his chair. We had always supposed he wrote with a pen or a pencil; but to write with one leg over the arm of a chair is not so difficult as to write with one arm over the leg of a chair.

"What are you doing there; why don't you go to work?" asked a father of his son. "I am like Micawber," replied the youth, "waiting for something to turn up." The boy was placed across the paternal knee and received the usual mild admonition. He believes now that something has turned up in a double sense, entirely different from what he expected.

MONTREAL.

The Prohibition Convention—The Jacques Cartier Bank—Amalgamation—Explosion of a Mass—Stolen Goods—Customs Investigation—Sent to Penitentiary—Money Market.

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—The Prohibition Convention after sitting all day in close discussion, adopted the following resolution:—
1st. That the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquor as common beverages is found by the evidence of the Parliamentary Committees as well as the experience of society to be the frightful source of crime and pauperism, alike subversive to public morality and social order.
2nd. That all attempted restrictions of traffic by license regulations are unsatisfactory, inasmuch as intemperance, and all evils connected therewith are constantly increasing.
3rd. That nothing short of entire prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors as beverages would be satisfactory to the Convention.
4th. That in order that a prohibitory liquor law, when passed, may have the sympathy and support so indispensably necessary to its success, it is the opinion of this convention that the Dominion Parliament should be urged to enact such a law, subject to ratification by a public vote.
Two hundred and eighty-five delegates were reported present. Mr. Ross said they should send the resolutions to their constituents, and if the convention had such a weight as he believed it had, this presentation of principles would meet with careful attention from the House of Parliament.
Quite a scene was created by a delegate disclaiming against the Committee on Resolutions for naming movers and seconders to resolutions before presenting them. He said the committee was a ring. He was called to order, but did not apologise.
This evening there was to have been a grand mass meeting in Victoria Hall, but on account of the heavy rain not half the people who were expected have turned out.
A special meeting of shareholders of the Jacques Cartier Bank was held to-day, to take action in reference to the proposed amalgamation with the Royal Canadian Bank, the stock of the latter being taken in at 92, a discount of 3 per cent. The amalgamation was almost unanimously approved of by the largest vote which has ever been cast, and the action taken may be expected to result in much advantage to both amalgamating institutions. The shareholders of the Royal Canadian Bank have already approved of the union, and joint directors will be elected when the necessary legislation has been obtained by the Dominion Parliament.
By a premature explosion of a blast in an excavation being made on the Cote des Neiges road for water pipes, three French Canadian employees were seriously injured. One man had his throat fearfully cut, the veins being severed; another had his eyes, nose and mouth crushed by the gravel flying in his face; the third receiving scalp wounds.
It is reported that several thousand dollars worth of goods, missed out of T. T. Stuart's bonded warehouse some weeks ago, has been discovered in Ontario.
An enquiry is now progressing in the Montreal Custom House under Mr. Commissioner Dunscombe of Quebec, in regard to the charges preferred against some of the lockers. It is secret, but information has leaked out that a prominent officer has been fit to resign.
Anderson, a very respectably connected young clerk, was sent to penitentiary for two years to-day for systematically robbing employers.
No new features in the money market. Business quiet, sterling exchange weaker, but not much offering, the lowest rate at which it was obtainable to-day was 108¼, but no transactions reported. Gold drafts on New York ¼ to 1 per cent. premium. Stocks lower and weak, owing to the selling out of Lame Ducks, who are not able to put up the margin rendered necessary by the steady decline of call. Some express the opinion that the market has about touched the bottom. Sales of Montreal at 185½; closing at 185½ to 185¾; Telegraph, 145¼; closing 144 to 145; Exchange, 94, closing at 88 to 93½; Metropolitan, 90; closing at 88 to 95; Merchants, 96¼ to 97¼; Commerce, 121 to 122½.

Winnipeg and the Red River Crossing—Large Meeting—The Pacific Telegraph—The Reward for the Murderers of Scott—Work on the Pembina Branch—For Ottawa.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 16th.—A large and influential meeting of citizens and residents of various parts of the Province was held at the Court House last night—the Mayor presiding—to urge the claims of the city and Province upon the Dominion anent the Pembina Branch Railway and the Bridge at Winnipeg. A string of strong resolutions were passed on the subject, the city renewing its offer to assist liberally in the construction of the bridge, and offering the right of way through the city. They yield the main line, but respectfully insist upon the branch and the bridge. A special meeting of the Council takes place to-night, to consider the advisability of sending the Mayor to Ottawa to press the matter upon the Government.
Mr. Fuller, C. E. telegraph contractor, has returned from the west. The line is built from Fort Pelly to Battle River, a distance of three hundred miles. He was impeded in the work by Indians, but not seriously.
Chief Justice Wood has received a commission from the Ontario Government to hear evidence and report on the claims for the $5,000 reward offered for the murderers of Scott.
Mr. Whitehead has received instructions from Ottawa to grade the south end of the Pembina branch, and is already at work.
The Premier, Hon. R. A. Davis, proceeds to Ottawa in about three weeks, on the invitation of Mr. Mackenzie, on the subject of new financial arrangements and better terms.
Senator Macdonald, of Toronto, is here. Weather fine. The Red River is rising.
An artilleryman to day sold for $5 500 a lot purchased four years ago for $15.

PRESCOTT.

A Fair—Sudden Death.

PRESCOTT, Sept. 16.—The Annual Fair of the South Grenville Agricultural Society commenced here yesterday. The show of articles was good, but the attendance only fair. In the trial of speed for horses that never beat 2:40 there were three entries. The race was won by Maggie B. in three straight heats. Best time 2:50.
Yesterday, a passenger on board the steamer Corsican was violently attacked with hemorrage. He was removed to Daniel's Hotel, where Drs. Brouse and Buckly were soon in attendance. Notwithstanding that every attention was paid him he expired this evening during an attack of bleeding. It is ascertained that his name was Dr. Gibbs of Glasgow, and that he was travelling for his health. Some friends residing in Montreal have been telegraphed for.

Archbishop Lynch officiated, assisted by the Revs. Fathers Shea, Laurent, Conway, Proulx, and Rev. A. J. O'Reilly. The bride was given away by her father, and was arrayed in a dress made especially for her by the Court Dressmaker in London, England. About six hundred people were present in the church, comprising the fashionable from all over the Dominion. Among others we noticed the Premier and Mrs. Mackenzie,

OTTAWA, FRIDAY, SEPT. 17, 1875.

MR. DOUTRE AND ARCHBISHOP LYNCH.

Archbishop Lynch recently wrote two letters dealing with the Guibord case which were published in mostly all the journals in the Dominion, and summaries were telegraphed to THE TIMES by our Toronto correspondent. Anything the His Grace may say or write is always sure to attract a good deal of attention and universal respect. Mr. Joseph Doutre, Q. C., Counsel for the Institut Canadien, in the case in question, has thought the letters of sufficient importance to reply to them at considerable length, in a communication addressed to the Editor of the Globe. Mr. Doutre starts by surmising that the Archbishop has written without correct information as to the facts, which he proceeds to show. He denies, in the first place, that Guibord was excommunicate, which is the very basis upon which the Archbishop's arguments were founded. He does not object to the parallel drawn between the members of the Institut Canadien and the Fenians, provided it is accepted in its entire bearing, and treated from a Lower Canadian stand-point. In the Province of Quebec, he points out where the Catholic church partakes, to some extent of the character of an established church, the churches, cemeteries and parsonages do not belong to either the Bishop or the Curé, but to the parishioners, who constitute a corporate body in each parish so far as these properties are concerned. The parishioners, on their part, are bound by law to pay their tithes, and constitute whatever may be necessary to the maintenance in a proper state of repair of the buildings, fences, and other church property. The law of the Province defines very clearly, he says, the relative duties of clergy and people, as well as their respective rights; and as to what that law is, he quotes from the Manuel des Curés, published in 1864, and commended in a preparatory note by the Bishop of Montreal, the following passage:—"No one can doubt "that the common ecclesiastical law "which obtained in France, before the "cession of Canada to England, is the "ecclesiastical law of Canada." The law of France, from time immemorial, has been that the sepulchre of the dead is exclusively cognisable by the civil courts, and excommunication major above could justify the refusal of ecclesiastical burial. Mr. Doutre's assertion that the old ecclesiastical law of France is the ecclesiastical law of Canada receives concurrent support from a correspondent of a Montreal journal, who thinks there is no doubt that the old Gallican code is still nominally in force, but from its very want of agreement with the principles of the Church is actually obsolete. The same correspondent, it may be remarked, opposes the burial of Guibord in the Catholic cemetery, and regards it as an injustice that the Privy Council should insist upon carrying its judgment into effect.

But Mr. Doutre goes further and declares that neither Guibord nor the Institut was excommunicate. To be valid, he contends, sentence of excommunication must be publicly denounced and personal, after monitions, pronounced secretly, or upon any body of people, it never has been and never could be valid, and the Treaty of Cession goes the length of providing that examination may be made into the causes of excommunication, to see whether they are conformable to the Canons. He recounts the steps which were actually taken by the Bishop in that connection, which are already well known to the public, and in view of which he asserts it would be a mere waste of words in any archbishop or a hundred archbishops to say that either the members of the Institut collectively or Guibord personally were subjected to excommunication. As a matter of fact, Mr. Doutre says, the only legal excommunication ever pronounced in Canada was some six or seven years ago, on a pair in Rimouski who went to a Protestant Minister to get married. Mr. Doutre's reply to the Archbishop's assertion that the Institut was the result of well-to-do Canadians revisiting France, and bringing back the seeds of irreligion, is of some historical importance, and is worthy of being reproduced. He says:—

"The only French people with whom the Institut ever communicated, before incurring the displeasure of the Bishop of Montreal, where Abbe Charbonnel, who became Bishop of Toronto, and Father Martin, principal of the Jesuits in Montreal. The Guibord case brought some members over to France, but until then none of the members had any occasion to invest in French irreligion, unless it were through the teachings of Messrs. Charbonnel and Martin, sometime about 1845 or 1846. The library of the institution was formed from donations. For ten years no one thought of enquiring about our books. In 1854 a crusade began all over the world. Laymen, who had not the password, did not understand much what was going on amongst them. The beginning of this latent and subterranean work came about the Witness and the Semeur Canadien, two Protestant papers which were sent gratuitously, and were not then much read, if at all. A proposition was made to exclude them from the reading-room, and in order to conceal the end aimed at, it was asserted, in broad terms, that all religious newspapers were a nuisance and a plague. There was not probably more than one per cent. of the members who had ever thought of the religious character of the papers. The first and predominating feeling was that it would be most ungenerous and ungentleman like to tell editors who sent their papers gratuitously not to send them any more. The Catholic editors, who were not in the secrect of the movement, like the Journal de Quebec, were scandalized at the intended proscription of religious papers in general, and fulminated against the proposal. This movement died of itself, and fast. Another was put on foot. An assertion was publicly made that the library of the Institute contained immoral books. On this, it was expected that both Protestants and Catholics would unite to condemn immorality. The plan had a partial success with the Protestants. They could not imagine a bishop making such an assertion without good grounds. For several years the Protestants kept a cool and diffident attitude towards the Institute. The Catholics who did not belong to the association naturally believed everything the Bishop said. Something had to be done to right ourselves with all shades of opinion. A deputation was sent to the Bishop with a catalogue of the books contained in the library, and they requested his lordship to point out any book which he considered objectionable, and we would try to satisfy him. The catalogue remained over six months in his hands, and, his lordship being about to leave for Rome, the deputation went back for an answer. The catalogue was handed back to them without the indication of a single book. When asked what he thought of the library, the Bishop said he did not signalise any book, as it could not bring practical result. "What result do you desire, and what do you suggest for the guidance of those who heard from you that our library contained bad books?" "They will consult their confessors," answered his lordship. Ever since, the matter remained in the same condition. Four or five years ago the Nouveau Monde, the organ of the Bishop, said the same thing as Archbishop Lynch, that the library of the Institut Canadien was filled with books fetid with the most rampant infidelity, such as was destroying faith and morality in France—or something to that effect. The Bishop of Montreal had never gone to that excess; his assertions were diplomatically enveloped, and he could not be called to account. It was different with the Nouveau Monde. An action for libel was brought against it by the Institut Canadien, and after a protracted investigation the Nouveau Monde was condemned as a defamer. The case, if I mistake not, is reported in the Lower Canada Jurist, and may be perused.'

Mr. Doutre says the members of the Institut never claimed the right to read proscribed books; but they claimed the right to be members of a society, even if it happened that there were proscribed books in its library; and he points out that if they were wrong, no Catholic could properly be a member of Parliament, which has a library containing books condemned at Rome.

As to the cemetery, Mr. Doutre says it was not consecrated when the action was originally instituted, and therefore the Archbishop's allusion to the desecration of holy ground is not pertinent. The fact that it was afterwards consecrated made no difference so far as the legal decision is concerned. Indeed the Privy Council regarded the point as one of no importance. Mr. Doutre is rather severe upon the argument which the Archbishop advances in support of permitting the funeral to take place. His Grace says "this interference is rather to be tolerated to avoid a greater evil," which Mr. Doutre construes, "rather obey than be hanged." He adds sarcastically:—

"In his first letter His Grace, politely "bowing to Orangemen, asks them if they "would acquiesce in an unjust decree of "a Catholic Sovereign, in a like case, "where they would be the aggrieved? "After the revocation of the Edict of "Nantes, the Huguenots said, Rather go "away than be flogged or decapitated, "and they made the fortune of England, "of the United States shortly after, of "Switzerland, of Flanders, and Germany. "These were like the Plymouth Pilgrims, "the flower of their native country." Mr. Doutre's strictures on the proceedings at the Catholic Cemetery and those who took part in them may seem very severe; to peace-loving citizens of all creeds, they must approve themselves as just. The learned gentleman concludes his communication by defending the members of the Privy Council from the accusation that they are unacquainted with ecclesiastical law, and not competent to deal with such a question as this; adding a statement to the effect that no other member of the Institut except Mr. Guibord has been refused consecrated ground and ecclesiastical funeral, although several of them—and one of these a Freemason—has since died. Altogether, the letter is interesting, and written with considerable calmness in view of the provocation there is to be otherwise.

A man was present at the funeral of a neighbour of whom no good could be honestly said. But everybody was saying something, and this man not wishing to appear singular, but being incapable of a lying eulogy, remarked that it was "a nice, quate corpse."

Lord Mansfield being willing to save a man who stole a watch, desired the jury to value it at tenpence; upon which the prosecutor cried out, "Tenpence, my lord! why, the very fashion of it cost me five pounds." "Oh," said his Lordship, "we must not hang a man for fashion's sake."

Roman Wrestling in New York.

The admirers of athletic sports in New York are likely soon to have an opportunity to witness a series of matches between some of the most famous wrestlers in the Greco Roman style, who have arrived in that city within a few days. The first to arrive was Prof. Wm. Miller, who signs himself champion of the Pacific coast and Australia, a perfect Hercules, weighing in condition 190 pounds. Next came Prof. Bauer, who claims to be the champion of France and also claims to be the invincible "masked man" who figured so conspicuously in Paris a few years ago. In compampany with Prof. Bauer came Emile Regnier, also a Frenchman, a pupil of M. Bauer, who is also a wrestler of note. The last, but not least, to arrive was Andre Christol, who disputes the honour of having been the wonderful "masked man" with Prof. Bauer. Prof. Bauer and Miller met in three different wrestling matches in California, and so evenly matched were they that no result was arrived at, their last contest being interrupted after a bout lasting fifty four minutes, in which neither obtained a fall. The four men named are now in this city, and each of them has published a challenge to wrestle any other man, in the Greco-Roman style, for from $500 to $1,000 a side. Prof. Miller, in his challenge, includes the championship of America. The Greco-Roman style of wrestling is "catch as catch can" above the hips, a favourite exercise in some of the countries across the Atlantic, but which is as yet to be added to the American list of athletic sports, as rationally practiced, it is among the best exercises for the general development of muscle. During the past two years wrestling has occasionally been made a prominent feature in the athletic games of some of the American colleges, but in order to come into general favour, like boxing, it will have to be practically and scientifically illustrated, and its magnificent groupings once seen there will be no lack of admirers.

"Some men," said a stonemason, "become useful citizens, and others become vagabonds; just as some slabs of marble become useful doorsteps, and others become lying tombstones."

PYRIMONT SEYSSEL ASPHALTE.

THE Compagnie Generale des Mines d'Asphalte, who are now the Proprietors of the celebrated Asphalte Mines of Pyrimont-Seyssel, in France, have pleasure in calling the attention of the Citizens of Ottawa to the fact that the Dominion Government has specified the Pyrimont Seyssel Asphalte, as the only one permissible in contracts entered into with them.

The Company will also gladly entertain proposals from first class firms or individuals of good standing for agencies in the different cities and towns throughout the Dominion.

LUKE TRAVERS,

OR

A Tale of the Dominion. Commencing 30 Years Back.

The Lower Town had extended itself from its original position, near the little church of Notre Dame de Victoire, to St. Roche, forming a junction with the beautiful ruins of the Palace of the French Intendants, now swallowed up from view by an iron foundry and a brewery, but the dirty beach at the Cul de Sac remained in worse condition than before the Napoleon or "King's" Wharfs were built; little Champlain street was a nest of foulness; Mountain street was a mere cowpath, with ugly old stone houses on both sides of it as far as the glacis under the ancient archiepiscopal palace—or all that remained of it—on one side, and quite up to Prescott Gate on the other.

The Citadel was not completed. It was sloped out, casemated, armed, officers quartered, and grand batteried and ditched; but the centre of the great square glittered in the sun with the white topaz or rock crystal, which the natural summit of the cape, not yet altogether removed, exhibited embedded in the rock exposed to view by the blasting powder of the quarrymen, or the spade of the labourer.

The unchanging and unchangeable feature of Quebec was, however, there, then as now. Cape Tourment towered into the sky on the east; the Isle of Bacchus, or Orleans, was dotted with houses, and from its backbone of 21 miles in length sloped gracefully on both sides to the St. Lawrence; the falls of the Montmorenci, with their rainbow spray, were visible from the newly made Durham Terrace, on the side of the fire destroyed chateau; the heights of Point Levi exhibited a very pretty church of the Church of England on their highest point; Beauport, Charlesbourg, Ancienne, and Indian Lorettes, and even St. Augustin, with the beautifully rising country in their rear, and the St. Charles meandering between them and "the Gibraltar of America," and a well cultivated country, formed a landscape on the west and north of surpassing loveliness.

Three Rivers, no longer bolstered up by its native iron, and grand iron works, begun under the auspices of His Most Christian Majesty, Louis of France, and continued until a recent period by the Honourable Mathew Bell, was little better than a stopping port at the entrance of Lake St. Peter for steamboats which made the passage between Quebec and Montreal in two or three days as weather permitted. As yet it had no cathedral, nor was any lumbering done upon the St. Maurice.

Montreal, the second city of the Province of Lower Canada, now unmistakably the first in the Dominion, denuded of its walls, and with iron shutters to its houses, small windows, wretchedly paved and most narrow streets, had not yet become the head of navigation from the sea and the mercantile emporium of the west. The great canals, through which vessels of war from the Lakes have since passed to the sea, were not yet completed, nor indeed until half a dozen years later, nor was the channel of Lake St. Peter of sufficient depth to permit of the largest of large trading crafts from the Thames, the Mersey or the Clyde.

The rebellion had come upon the heels of the commercial crisis of 1837, which had completely prostrated the mercantile community of the United States, and had ruined Rathbun, the founder of Buffalo, now lying in gaol on a charge of forgery—his great expectations having collapsed as did the railroad schemes of "King" Hudson in England ten years later—and must had time to grumble and fight about politics.

Kingston was a mere military and naval post, without a penitentiary or a market house.

Toronto, had changed her name, but scarcely her condition from the time that the place was known as "Muddy Little York." The mad house and the University had not sprung up. There were as yet no brick palaces of hotels. Here and there was a comfortable private residence, imbedded in shrubbery, but the streets, for the most part, consisted of an unwhitewashed, unpainted, time-stained aggregation of wooden huts.

The little village of London, and the lesser towns of Hamilton, Paris, Guelph, Cobourg, and Smith's Creek, (now the thriving town of Port Hope), were merely places of postal communication, with indifferent surrounding countries. The present capital of Canada was a wilderness, with some rude buildings on the hills, a canal—the largest and finest work of the kind at that time on the continent—the Erie canal not excepted—and a swamp in the centre between the Rideau and the canal. Peterborough and Lindsay—two of the most flourishing towns in Ontario, had not then emerged from the wilderness. All these places which the Grand Trunk and Great Western railways have given life to were then mere villages, but surrounded by an improving and improvable country.

Lake Travers came to the Canadas at an exceedingly unpleasant period of their history. Upper and Lower Canada, still separate provinces, were in arms, and full of "Generals," and corporals. Besides the hero of Hugumont, Sir James Macdonnell, there was a peninsular officer of much distinction at the head of affairs, in whom centered all government—Lieutenant General Sir John Colborne; and there was, or rather had been in Lower Canada another eminent "General"—Thomas Storrow Brown—an ironmonger, and the hero of St. Charles. "General" Brown was an unsuccessful man, but great nevertheless. His "get up" was unexceptional, his eloquence not amiss, and his plans may have been as good as were those of another "General"—no relation to the Admiral who perished at Trafalgar, and whose statue there was and now is conspicuously visible in Montreal—General Robert Nelson, but unfortunately either "General" Brown, or the General's horse, were deficient in pluck, for whatever his plans of conquest might have been, his ability to stand fire, being tested, was found wanting, which certainly was not the case with the hero of St. Denis. These generals, with the exception of the veteran commander-in-chief, Sir John Colborne, all came to grief in this miserable contest one way or the other.

One of the greatest sufferers was Sir James Macdonnell, in command of the Brigade of Guards. Physically great, it scarcely needed the aid of a Sergeant to induce the really gallant Macdonnell to place his back against the door of the farm house at Huguimont, and by sheer physical force, augmented by desperation, to keep it shut in spite of the Frenchmen who assailed it; but neither his great size nor great mind was proof against the escape from the citadel of Theller, Dodge, and some other of the prisoners of war—American sympathisers—while in charge of his pet corps, the Coldstream Guards. These men, who were treated with great leniency and consideration, by "the Guards," took advantage of the opportunities afforded by the outdoor exercise permitted to them, within the citadel, to effect an escape. They coaxed and drugged the guards' sentry at the guard-room door after the grand and visiting rounds had passed, and the guard was unsuspectingly less vigilant than guards ordinarily are before such visits, and passing stealthily out, reached the flagstaff, the halyards of which they unfastened from the pole, and with its aid tumbled over the stone curtain, scrambled up to the glacis, and from thence descended to the city, escaping almost miraculously into the suburbs, there being secreted by "their friends," for the rebels had friends in Quebec, although the discontented were neither numerous enough nor otherwise powerful enough to show themselves, until an opportunity for final escape to the United States presented itself, which it did; and Sir James Macdonnell never completely recovered from the effort. Had he been the sergeant, who, in neglect of duty, was reduced, or the unfortunate sentry who was flogged, he could not have endured more mental suffering than he did. Sir James was a brave and proud man; "the Guards" were brave, and he was righteously proud of "the Guards;" but "the Guards" had suffered through their remissness, an escape from a place from which escape was supposed to be impossible, and the gallant commandant of the brigade was humiliated. He caused every conceivable place in the city to be searched for the escaped prisoners, and the country around to be scoured. He sent spies and scouts in every direction, but only a few were caught. Theller and Dodge escaped and Sir James felt wretched.

These civil wars are abominable and, properly so, to the soldier. They are harassing and no honour is derivable from success, while every reverse irritates and humiliates. There are frequently enormities committed, too, by indiscreet "patriots" which cause a bitterness of feeling that a soldier does not ordinarily feel for his enemy. An instance of this kind, the murder of Lieutenant Weir, a young officer sent up the Richelieu with despatches for the army, after he had been taken prisoner, and was tied to a cart by a fiend named Jalbert, exasperated the military against the poor deluded habitants, who really knew nothing about politics, however much their leaders might have been in the right or in the wrong—and that they were in the right in one sense, the numbers of English names of people in respectable station, such as the Browns and Nelsons in Lower Canada mixed up with them sufficiently testifies—and this feeling of exasperation was particularly manifested at St. Eustache and St. Benoit, two small towns or villages in the district of Bals Brule, north of Montreal.

There was deep snow at the time of this attack, and a considerable force of horse, foot and artillery set out to subdue Cherrier and his "rebels," under the immediate command of Sir John Colborne, the author of "Japhet in search of a Father," "Midshipman Easy," "The King's Own," and "Poor Jack," Captain Marryatt, R.N., being present as a spectator, mounted on one of Sir John's horses. The insurgents had turned the Church of St. Eustache into a temporary or make-shift fortress, and would have held out well had not the appearance of the troops frightened the defenders. It was a large and massive building, flanked by two stone buildings, both occupied by the insurgents, and, notwithstanding the fire from 6 pounder field guns, might have given great trouble to the assailants. But Cherrier's men—not Cherrier himself—had the fatal fault of General Brown's horse. They were afraid to face the cannon balls and musketry, and at the first fire all, but a few fled from their positions to be pursued and killed mercilessly and unresistingly by the troops. These, too, became afraid, and fired the houses next the church under cover of which to escape, and this was fatal to them. The troops surrounded the church and as the poor wretches attempted to get away, either singly or by twos and threes, the instant they appeared the troops fired and they fell. It was in this rushing out, that the brave but unfortunate Cherrier died.

The church was burned, the village was burned, the troops returned, and, in a word so far as Lower Canada was concerned, the rebellion was squelched.

Dr. Howe's Testimony.

PITTSFIELD, ME., March, 1872.

MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS.

DEAR SIR,—During the past two years I have given your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites a fair though somewhat severe trial in my practice, and am able to speak with confidence of its effects. In restoring persons suffering from emaciation and the debility following diptheria, it has done wonders. I constantly recommend its use in all affections of the throat and lungs. In several cases considered hopeless it has given relief, and the patients are fast recovering. Among these are consumptive and old bronchial subjects, whose diseases have resisted the other modes of treatment. For impaired digestion, and in fact for debility from any causes, I know of nothing equal to it. Its direct effect in strengthening the nervous system renders it suitable for the majority of diseases.

I am, sir, yours truly,
WM. S. HOWE, M.D.

SKIN DISEASES, of whatever nature, are completely eradicated by the use of Fowle's Pile and Humour Cure; its effect is marvellous for Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, and even Leprosy; it has proved itself an almost never failing cure. (See special notice.) 3733

HEMORRHOIDS (or PILES) are permanently cured by Mathieu's Pile Ointment, or money refunded. Price $1 per pot, or six pots for $5. Sold wholesale and retail by all druggists, or will be forwarded to any address on receipt of price by Dr. E. Mathieu, 198 Notre Dame street, Montreal. 3742

HORSE SAVER.—The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half so successful, or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be excelled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horse's life. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co., is on each package. Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medical dealers. 3790

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P.Q., writes, 'I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and since then had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used,' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throat, &c., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rusan, Township Percy, writes: "I was persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit." A. Mr. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes: "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr. Maybee, of this place, induced me to try Electric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine.

Sold by all medicine dealers, price 25 cents.

The Montreal Proprietary School has been established to provide a liberal education similar to that given in the Public Schools of England. The course of instruction, however, will not be exclusively classical, and boys will be specially prepared either for the University and Professional or for Commercial Life.

Most eligible premises have been purchased for the School in McTavish street, one of the most healthy localities of the city, and immediately adjoining the grounds of the McGill University.

The course of instruction will include Latin, Greek, Mathematics, French, German, Arithmetic, Writing, English Grammar, Literature and Composition, History and Geography, Book-keeping, Ancient and Modern, Natural Philosophy, Vocal and Instrumental Music, Drawing, Gymnastics and Drilling.

A limited number of boys will be received by the Principal as Boarders or Weekly Boarders, with the view of keeping the pupils from improper influences. It is strongly recommended that all be entered as Day Boarders, who will dine in the house on the Proprietary.

Further particulars can be obtained from the Secretary, J. W. Holmes, Esq., 78 Victoria street, to whom all applications for admission must be made.

The School will open on MONDAY, the 12th of April, and will be carried on for a few days at 78 Victoria street, the new premises not being completed.

These Paperhangings are imported direct from the best Manufacturing Establishments in England, France and United States. Great care has been taken in their selection with regard to colour. The ground tones are soft and pleasing to the eye, especially those toned with silver inks; but above all, they are free from the mineral poisons that many of the tawdry-coloured Paperhangings of the day are surcharged with. The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. The Public are respectfully invited to examine his STOCK of WALL PAPER before purchasing elsewhere.

A CHANGE.—It is said on good authority that there will shortly be made an increase of the police force. This is a move in the proper direction, and one which should have been made ere this.

METHODIST DINING HALL, Exhibition Grounds. Spaces to let on outside of building to post bills. Application to be made at the store of J. Metcalfe or Preston & Son, Sparks street. 3946i3

RIDEAU FIRE COMPANY.—The last meeting of this old volunteer fire company was held last night, when the men were formally disbanded. The remaining companies will in all probability soon follow suit.

A VETERAN.—Col. Benson, who fought against the "Britishers" in 1812, is in town, and stopping at the Russell. Some of those old antagonists should call and see him. He can tell some good stories about the old times.

THE C. O. O. F.—The members of the Metropolitan Lodge No. 50, intend having a grand celebration to inaugurate the opening of the New Hall. It is expected that a large number of the brethren from Toronto will be present to assist in the ceremony.

WANTED.—The north side of Albert street, between O'Connor and Bank, wants a new sidewalk in the worst manner. The planks are all smashed up, nails protrude and trip up passengers, providing lots of chances for claims under accidental insurance policies.

ANOTHER GUIDE.—Another Strangers Guide to Ottawa has just been issued by Mr. J. H. Parnell of this city, and is being largely distributed throughout the town. It gives a very interesting sketch of the city, public buildings and surrounding objects of interest to the tourist.

DAMP.—Fall weather appears to have set in, cold winds with a heavy down pour of rain have announced the approach of the sear and yellow leaf. Last night a chilly wind with rain prevailed, and made matters somewhat uncomfortable for those who were out after dark.

TO THE GROUNDS.—Vehicles are now being run between the city and the Agricultural Show Grounds. A number of exhibitors have arrived, and a'ong with citizens who are viewing the grounds, the busses do a thriving trade. Indications of the busy time next week have already set in.

THE POLICE STATION.—Last night the cells were somewhat deserted. There was no one there but the members of the force on duty—no prisoners and no sensations. Local items looked scarce—and so they were. There was literally nothing—the cells were empty—not even a larceny case. So mote it be.

GRANT VS. EDDY.—In this case the decision of Judge Ross and Messrs. Mather and Peter White, awarding about $41,000 to the plaintiff, has been upheld by the Court of Chancery. The point in dispute was as to the personal responsibility of the trustees of defendant, which the award decided, and which decision the Court sustained.

REMOVAL OF GUNS.—The Crimean guns which were presented the city by Her Majesty the Queen a few years ago, are being removed from their late site on the Major's Hill. They are to be mounted in rear of the Parliament House, on a site facing the Ottawa river. It was high time that something was done to preserve those relics of British prowess.

HEAVY RAIN.—The clouds lowered for the greater part of yesterday until the afternoon, when they burst over the city in a regular rain storm. It rained steadily all night, and from present indications portends a wet spell of weather. It is perhaps as well that it should come this week, as there will be a hope of dry weather for the Exhibition next week.

SUPPOSED TO BE STOLEN.—Mr. Thomas Huckell residing at the head of the Deep Cut, turned a span of horses out to graze in the commons adjacent to his property last Sunday, but next morning when they came to look for them they were nowhere to be found. Mr. John Neville, who lives in the same locality, has met with a similar misfortune in regard to his span of horses. The authorities have made diligent search up to yesterday without avail. There may possibly be horse thieves in the city in advance of the holding of the Exhibition. The loss is a serious one to the owners, as the horses were valuable.

MELANCHOLY DEATH.—A man named Richard W. Turner, late of the Royal Engineers, and not long out from England, died very suddenly yesterday morning at Salmon's Hotel, York street. He had only been out from the old country a few months, and although not in very good health no immediate danger apprehended from his condition. He has no employment for some time, but latterly the City Engineer obtained his services in surveying and laying out the Major's Field, which is now being beautifully laid out as a park. The deceased was a man of forty years of age, and leaves a widow to mourn his loss. The immediate cause of death was the bursting of a blood vessel. His life was insured for a considerable sum, but it lapsed the previous day through neglect to pay the premium.

BELL VAPOR BURNER.—A new gas light for street use was on exhibition at the City Hall before the Chairman of the Fire and Light Committee yesterday, and was favourably received. It is really a splendid light, and the committee will no doubt immediately recommend it to supersede the present coal oil lamps. It generates its own gas in each lamp, from naptha deposited in a reservoir, in which the supply can be regulated according to the number of hours it may be desired to keep the lamp lit. The lamp by this means can also be made to burn out itself. It can be supplied at a less cost than the present coal oil lamps, and a great deal cheaper than either it or gas.

THE OTTAWA MARKETS.

Throughout the past week the markets have been somewhat slack, business has been dull, purchasers few and sellers ditto. The following prices ruled:

OATS—38c to 40c.
EGGS—About 15c to 16c.
WOOL—32c to 38c, according, of course, to quality.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—These are articles in much demand, and prices are correspondingly high; butter (tubs) will easily produce 20c, while prints can be sold at from 21c to 25c. Cheese is worth about 8½c to 9c per lb.

PORK—$8 50 to $9 per 100 lbs.

VEGETABLES—All prices, size and condition regulating the tariff.

FRUIT—May be quoted in a similar manner, and all samples unaltered in price.

MEAT.—Mutton is unchanged in price; 8 to 9c is about the rule. Mutton and Lamb run about that price. Beef is still and steady, and the demand is overreaching the supply.

THE GARDEN.—There is great demand for garden stuff, and good prices are being obtained for Vegetables. Farmers would find it to their advantage to send in as much as they can spare of that kind of produce. There is plenty of room for it.

FISH.—The fish market was well supplied all through the week. Mr. Moise Lapointe had some capital specimens of both fresh and salt water fish, 12½c per lb. ruled the prices, and the goods went off in a lively manner.

HAY.—This article was scarce, but we saw $15 paid for one load, from $13 to $15 was about the run of the prices.

GRAIN.—Wheat was wanting and very scarce. Barley ditto—there is a good field for the disposal of cereals at the present time.

The New Steam Roller at Work.

The new steam roller which is to revolutionize the state of our streets was, this morning set to work on Hughson street. An enormous crowd gathered to see it work, among whom were the Mayor of the city and the Board of Aldermen. For a time the expansion of the boiler choked the steering gear, making the engine hard to manage; but as soon as the expansion subsided, the whole machine worked like a charm, and the enormous rollers could be managed as easily as a wheel-barrow. The roller was built under the superintendence of Mr. Francis Sutton, formerly manager of the Kingston Locomotive Works, and now manager of Mr. Killey's works. The whole machine weighs fourteen tons, and crushes at a stroke eight feet of street. It was run up Hughson street and down to the Bay with only forty pounds of steam on, but it can carry one hundred and twenty pounds, which is sufficient to carry it over everything. The roller is a complete success in every respect, and the making of it reflects great credit on Mr Killey, who had the contract. The Americans import their rollers from England, but our ambitious city has iron works where she can make her own. The appearance of the engine is not prepossessing, and those who have skittish horses are warned as far as possible to keep off the streets where it is at work. The roller bears a good name—that of "George Roach"—and it is hoped it will never do anything to bring discredit on its name.—Hamilton Spectator.

THURSDAY, Sept. 16.

James McFarlane was charged with being a common vagrant. He was sent to gaol for two weeks.

Cyrille Poole was next called on a charge of assault, but failing to put in an appearance a warrant was issued for his arrest.

THE WONDER OF THE DAY.—A Moose trotting in a sulky will be exhibited on the Mutchmor Park during Exhibition Week on the 22d and 23d inst., between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock p.m. After many years trial the proprietor has at last succeeded in capturing, taming and training a beautiful large moose. The capturing and training of moose has been tried by different parties; but no one has ever before succeeded. What will most surprise the spectators will be to see such a wild animal so well trained and so kind. This will be the only chance to see it as the proprietor has already made arrangements to cross to Europe with the animal, champion of the forest and squarest trot in the world.

On Saturday last an ass lounged at the door of a Buchanan street restaurant, and watched the O'Connellites go by. "A'm nesty" he read from a banner borne aloft, and exclaimed, "A'm nesty!" Conscience! that's a candid confession. You're all that!—Glasgow Bailie.

A merchant in Newton-Stewart made application for insurance on his shop. As is well known, there is no fire engine in the town; and in answer to the question, "What are the facilities for extinguishing fire?" he innocently wrote, "It rains sometimes."

An indefatigable mamma, who has succeeded in getting her own seven daughters "well off her hands," has determined to extend to others the benefit of her "system." She is going to open a school for the instruction of young ladies in the art of husband catching. It is to be called the "School of Design."

A German paper expresses uneasiness at the decreasing population of Prussia proper. Between 1861 and 1864 there was an increase of 8,400, but between 1864 and 1867 there was a decrease of 12,922, and between 1867 and 1871 one of 56,440. Allowing for the loss of life in the last two years, and for the Prussian soldiers quartered in France at the time of the census, the loss of population in ten years amount to 52,200.

A London correspondent of an English paper says:—A terrible thing has happened to a friend of mine whose desire for solitude is only equalled by his astuteness. Travelling by the railway last week he got into a compartment carrying a gun-case, which was ostentatiously inscribed with the name of Baker; this he so placed as to be visible to all who passed ping place he got out to buy a newspaper, the window. Unhappily, at the first stop and when he returned he found his compartment occupied by five ladies.

Visit to a London School of Cookery.

There is no doubt a growing feeling in favour of instruction in cookery in girls' schools, and the report of Mr. Buckmaster's visit to the Cookery School of St. Mary's, Soho, will be found useful to those who take an interest in the subject:—"According to my instructions, I visited the Cookery School on Saturday, June 19. This school is held in St. Mary's Clergyhouse, Crown street, Soho, and originated with the vicar, the Rev. Robt. Gwynne, and Mr. Thomas Blackwell, the churchwarden, and has for its object the teaching of cookery for the poor and invalids. The school commenced on Saturday, the 23d of January, 1875, and has continued every succeeding Saturday, working from ten till four. On the evening of the day of my visit, prizes consisting of cookery books and utensils, were given to the successful pupils. The refreshments provided on the occasion consisted of six varieties of cakes, sausage rolls, jellies, blancmanges, and pressed meat, which were made by the girls in the school. The instructions have been given by one of the teachers from the national training school for cookery. It begins with marketing; some of the girls, accompanied by the teacher, purchase in Newport market, or more frequently from the costermongers, what is required for the day's cooking, except such things as must be purchased at shops. There is the usual bargaining and criticism, so important in the choice and purchase of food, and the cost of everything is entered in a book. I regard this as a most valuable part of the school work. The following are copied from the book:—"Went to market at 30 past 9, February 20th, 1875.—Two pounds of tripe at 8d, is 4d; dripping, 4d; two sheep's hearts, 10d; giblets for pie, 6d; onions 4d; pork for soup, 3d; flour, 2d; currants, 1d; potatoes, 8d; carrots, sage, and leeks, 3d; total cost, 4s 6d." On this date from three purchases 18 persons dined. "Went to market at 45 past 9, Feb. 13th 1875.—A rabbit, 1s 6d; sheep's head, 10d; sheep's heart, 5d; liver, 9d; half a pig's head, 1s; bacon, 10½d; odd pieces of meat, 4½d vegetables, 8d; rice, 1½; currants, 1½d sugar, 3½d; spice, 0½; haricot beans (a quart) 7d; potatoes, 6d; bread, 6d; milk, 2½d; total cost, 4s 11½d.' On this date 20 persons dined. "Went to market at 45 past 9, Feb. 13th 1875.—A rabbit, 1s 6d; sheep's head, 10d; sheep's heart, 5d; liver, 9d; half a pig's head, 1s; bacon, 10½d; odd pieces of meat, 4½d vegetables, 8d; rice, 1½; currants, 1½d sugar, 3½d; spice, 0½; haricot beans (a quart) 7d; potatoes, 6d; bread, 6d; milk, 2½d; total cost, 4s 11½d.' On this date 20 persons dined. "Went to market at ten o'clock, Saturday, March 27, 1875,—6 lbs of Australian meat, 3s; ½ lb of butter, 8d; eggs, 1s; milk, 4d; parsley, 1d; onions, 3d; sugar, 2d; currants and spice, 3d; plums, 2d; mustard, ½d; salt, 2½d; flour, 2½d; bread, 2½d—total cost, 6s 6d." On this date 21 persons dined. On the return of the girls from marketing, the proposed methods of cooking are briefly explained, and each girl works from a written recipe. The teacher superintends the work, pointing out any defects or errors of manipulation, and speaking when opportunity offers on the importance of forethought cleanliness, and orderly management. By one or two o'clock, according to the length of time occupied in cooking, the girls, with their teacher, the visitors, and the vicar and curates, sit down to dinner in the kitchen. On the occasion of my visit the dinner consisted of a soup prepared with potatoes, leeks, sago, milk, and two quarts of water, stuffed mackerel, liver and bacon, Irish stew, macaroni pudding, and gooseberry pudding. In many families one of these dishes would be constituted a meal. After dinner four girls in turn are appointed, under the direction of the teacher, or one of the elder girls, to wash up and put everything in its place. In looking over the register of things cooked since the opening of the school I find among others the following:—Sheep's head soup, suet dumplings and puddings, vegetable and meat soups, milk soups, stews of small pieces of meat, haricot beans, lentils, macaroni, rice, bullock's head, bullock's heart, bullock's kidney, giblet pie, cow heel, dripping puddings, making bread, and five methods for cooking tripe. The sick or invalid cookery included the preparation of arrowroot, tapioca, mutton broth, beef tea rice water, apple water, blancmanges, and jellies. The school consists on an average of fifteen girls, which is rather more than can be conveniently accommodated in two kitchens having a total area of only 365 square feet, and not specially adopted for the purpose. The girls must belong either to St. Mary's or St. Ann's Schools, Soho. Some of them are pupil teachers, but the majority are elder girls of the two elementary schools. The average age is twelve years and eight months, and they pay 3d per lesson, which includes their dinner. This payment, which only amounts to 3s 2d weekly, is obviously insufficient for the maintenance of such a school, and yet it was found that a higher payment at the beginning would have been exclusive. The average weekly cost of the school is 19s 6d, leaving 16s to be provided from other sources in one of the poorest neighbourhoods of London. A diary is kept in which the daily work of each girl is entered. Although the girls attending this school are children of the better order of working men, they were unable to do the simplest thing in cookery, nor had they had any idea of the cost of various articles of food, or the proper use of common cookery utensils, but as soon as the school opened they readily gave up a greater part of the only holiday they had in the week, and began work cheerfully; they have frequently expressed themselves thankful both to the vicar and the teachers for the opportunity which has been afforded for acquiring a knowledge of simple economical cookery. Every Saturday, after dinner, Mr Rawnsley reads out each recipe for the following week, the girls writing it down from dictation in a book provided for that purpose. After the recipe, the price of each article, as nearly as possible is given, which is also written down, and the little addition sums are worked at once. In this way the cooking is made to help as much as possible the elementary education. The books in which these things are written are taken home and this has greatly increased the interest of the parents in the school.—Standard.

A Dream that Parted Man and Wife.

Bundy has been married two weeks and has left his wife. Bundy is a little man, and his wife weighs two hundred and forty pounds, and was the relict of the late Peter Potts. About ten days after marriage Bundy was surprised, on awakening in the morning, to find his better half sitting up in bed crying as if her heart would break. Astonished, he asked the cause of her sorrow, but receiving no reply he began to surmise that there must be some secret on her mind that she withheld from him, that was the cause of her anguish, so he remarked to Mrs. B. that as they were married she should tell him the cause of her grief, so if possible, he could avert it, and after considerable coaxing he elicited the following from her:

"Last night I dreamed I was single, and as I walked through a well-lighted street I came to a store where a sign in front advertised husbands for sale. Thinking it curious, I entered, and ranged along the wall on either side were men prices affixed to them. Such beautiful men; some for $1,000, some for $500, and so on to $150. And as I had not that amount I could not purchase."

Thinking to console her, B. placed his arm lovingly around her and asked:

"And did you see any men like me there?"

"Oh yes," she replied, drawing away from him, "lots like you; they were tied up in bunches, like asparagus, and sold for ten cents a bunch."

Bundy got up, and went to see his lawyer if he had sufficient ground for divorce.

The George Washington Restaurant, York street is now open for guests and meals can be had at all hours. 391 6w.

A foppish fellow advised a friend of his to marry a poor girl, as he would find harmony with poverty "up hill work." "Good," said his friend, "I would rather go up hill than down hill any time."

Portraits of Mary Stuart.

A friend who is at present visiting Scotland sends us the following interesting account of a little known portrait of the unhappy Mary Stuart, taken after death. It is to be seen at Abbotsford: "This terribly interesting portrait was painted after the poor Queen's execution, and represents the head separated from the body and resting on a silver charger covered with red velvet. It is authentic and was painted by Amyas Carwood, a brother of Bastian's wife, Margaret Carwood, a faithful attendant on Mary. You remember it was at the wedding of Sebastian or Bastian with this said Margaret Carwood that Mary spent the evening of that fatal night which witnessed the murder of her husband Darnley. The features in this picture are exceedingly beautiful and delicate. The hair is black. The eyes are closed and the lips are slightly discoloured. The brow is majestic and fully seen, although the face is considerably shortened. A pearl still remains amongst her tresses, and a halo of light appears hovering round the face like one of those who are usually placed over the saints. The neck is, they tell me, anatomically correct, but horrible to look at. Poor Queen Mary! the sight of the picture makes one feel very sad. Our correspondent is probably not aware that there exists a still more terrible and quite as authentic a portrait of Mary, taken after death, in the museum of the United Service Club, London, which, judging from its appearance, was painted several hours earlier than the other. The features are much convulsed, the eyelids open, and the eyes glazing. The mouth is horribly distorted and shows the little white and even teeth. A deep gash on the side of the head indicates the place where the executioner first hit the unhappy queen without killing her. The pearl above mentioned is also seen, but stained with blood; so also is a pearl earring. It is quite as well painted as the other picture, and evidently by the same hand. Queen Victoria, who has always manifested a great interest in all that concerns the history of her illustrious ancestress and the victim of her infamous predecessor, has a great many curious relics of Mary Stuart in her private collection, some of which she has purchased at considerable expense. Amongst these is a very exquisite miniature, which she lent to a public exhibition some years since, representing Mary Queen of Scots at twenty years of age, in the full bloom of her youth and astonishing beauty. The face is dazzlingly lovely and full of charming expression. She wears a lace ruff, and round her neck is a relic of the True Cross enclosed in a diamond ornament made in the shape of an I. H. S. Speaking of this unhappy Scotch queen's portraits, it may interest our readers to know that when Mary was executed a miniature of that awful event was painted by Corwood for Elizabeth Curl, a lady in waiting on the Queen, who retired to Flanders, where she died. She bequeathed this curious miniature to the English College at Douay, where it remained until the revolution of 1793. The fathers then cut it out of the frame, together with the large full-length portrait of the Queen going to execution, also the donation of Elizabeth Curl, which was contained in the same frame, and rolling it up hid it in the chimney-place. Fifteen years afterwards they discovered it in the same place, uninjured, and caused it to be sent for safety to Scotch College in Paris, whence it was transferred to their branch house in Scotland where it is still to be seen. In this remarkable miniature the Queen is represented kneeling to receive the fatal stroke. The Earl of Kent and other officials stand around her, and her two maids, Elizabeth Curl and Anne Kennedy, are shown melting in tears and with faces hidden in kerchiefs. The full-length picture of the Queen above is highly finished, and as she holds up her black satin robe, the underskirt of deep ruby velvet is displayed. Our readers will remember that Mr. Froude makes a great fuss over this skirt, and declares that Mary wore it for theatrical effect, in order to impress her audience with horror; "for," says he, "after her unrobing she appeared to them dressed from head to foot in bright scarlet satin." The petticoat is represented in the picture as made of very deep ruby velvet, and so it is described by those who witnessing the closing act of the tragedy of Fotheringay Castle. Some few years ago a gentleman visiting the ruins of Fotheringay Castle picked up amongst the stones of the banquet hall where the Queen was beheaded a pure gold ring with her initials and those of her husband, Darnley, engraved on it. It was the identical one she lost whilst kneeling down to receive the fatal blow.—Catholic Review.

The Folly of Female Fashions.

Jenny June gives her sex a good round scolding in her last fashion letter. She says that the epidemic for striped stockings which has been raging more or less for the past two years has at last taken a form which will speedily put an end to them among refined women. Luxury in hosiery, of course, there is no objection to—if ladies can afford to pay ten dollars per pair for silk, and five dollars per pair for cotton hose, there is no law against it, and no reason why they should not. But there are reasons cogent with every lady who possesses delicacy and taste why she should not dress her limbs in the attire of ballet dancers; why she should not set herself to stimulate and encourage the ribald conduct of men who watch on hotel steps, on the street corners, at the church doors, for opportunities to make their jokes on women who suggest them. A lady may wear, as many do, the finest of silk, the most delicate of thread; she may match the tints of her dress, and thus harmonise every portion of her toilet with perfect propriety; but when she wears hosiery only fit for a harlequin, and short and her dress in front to a vulgar extreme, to show it, there is very little of modesty or womanhood left that would not be sacrificed to vanity and love of display. The great feature of the new styles in hosiery is their cost. For a good but not extra quality of gray or brown hose, with an absurd and flimsy little clocking on the sides, $1 50 per pair, is charged, when seventy-five cents would be a high price for them in white or unbleached cotton. "For my part," says Jenny, "I consider those dingy grays and browns in hosiery very ugly, and stripes only fit for children and clowns at a circus. The quicker we get back to the fine white or ivory-tinted stockings the better."

TESTIMONIALS.
"Montreal, 28th July, 1876.
"I hereby certify that I entertain a very favorable opinion of the Baths and Waters of the Caledonia Springs in many forms of disease, among which I would especially mention Chronic Rheumatism, the stagnant of Gout, Neuralgia, some of the varieties of Cutaneous disease, Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, and in severely selected cases, some of the diseases of the Kidney and Bladder.
(Signed) GEO. W. CAMPBELL, A.M., M.D.
Dean of the Medical Faculty, McGill College.
Dr. Wm. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1839:—"But the disease above all in which the action of the water is most decided is Rheumatism. * * * * have known a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the waters.

ACCOMMODATIONS.
A magnificent new hotel, capable of accommodating 300 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accommodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa River is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until the railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the conveyance of visitors to the Springs. The distance of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 65 and 50 miles.
Mr. W. CHAMPNESS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horses, saddles, &c. There is a good race-course on the property of the Company.
The PANACEAN WATERS of these Springs will yet make Caledonia the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seekers. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the Springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

The Daily Telegraph's Vienna correspondent reports that Turkey is placing her forces in Bulgared on a war footing, and preparing her forces on the Danube for any emergency.

The Turkish Insurrection.

The Morning Standard to-day has a special from Vienna which contains the following reports of victories by Servian bands near Novie Narosch. A corps of invading volunteers compelled the christian inhabitants of Gerhova near the Dalmatian Frontier to revolt. A fight occurred on Wednesday with the Turkish inhabitants in which the insurgents were defeated, as the account received from a district announces that the Turks are advancing slowly and that the insurgents are discordant. A majority of the volunteers have returned home. The Catholics of Mastar have presented a declaration to Deervish Pasha in which they say they have no reason to complain of the Government of Albania. All the Turkish militia have assembled, twenty Syrien regiments have arrived and proceeded to the Montegrin frontier. All frontier posts have been strengthened and provisioned.

The Monster Gun.

The eighty one ton gun recently completed at Woolwich for the iron clad Inflexible, was tried to-day. The charge consisted or 250 pounds of powder and a 1,300 pound shot. The result was not quite satisfactory.

In the Papal Consistory to-day the Pope after delivering an allocution announced Monsignor Anbici Mattei Pacca Rondi Semi-oni Vetelleschi and Archbishop of Rennes, whose names he reserved in Pictore at the Consistory of West. nay had been created Cardinals. He also appointed several archbishops and bishops. The Consistory concluded with the ceremony of confirming the ring and title on Cardinal McCloskey.

Death of a Cardinal.

Cardinal Gaspard Grassiellini, who was born at Palermo in 1796, and elevated to a Cardinal in 1836, died to-day.

FRANCE.

Thiers and Gortschakoff.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—The Bien, public organ of Thiers, admits the correctness of the following:—During Thiers' interview with Gortschakoff, the conversation related to the chances favourable to the maintenance of peace. Gortschakoff especially feared France would yield to clerical reaction. He thought the solution of the Eastern question would eventually consist in the granting of autonomy to Bosnia and Hersegovina, under the rich Duke Salvador or Jervor Pasha.

TURKEY.

No News From the Consuls.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 17.—No news has been received from the consuls who are on a mission of peace to the insurrectionary districts since their arrival at Stalatas yesterday. Their telegrams to their Embassies during the journey state that they had met with a warm reception everywhere. Several insurgent Chiefs had accepted the mediation of the consuls. Some, however, declared their mistrust of Turkish promises, and demanded a formal guarantee and indemnity.

QUEBEC.

The Contested Election case—Josh Billings—Trial of a Deaf and Dumb Sailor.

QUEBEC, Sept. 17.—In the Kamouraska contested election, Judge E. Taschereau rendered judgment yesterday, rejecting the preliminary objections against the election petition.

An unusual case was tried before the Police Magistrate yesterday. A deaf and dumb sailor charged with desertion was tried by interpretations of signs, and defended himself through the use of that language. There was a double interpretation, and one of the interpreters was himself a deaf mute. The man was advised to join his ship.

The Ocean House on the Gulf Beach is entirely surrounded with water and the outhouses is gone. The city hospital is filled with water. The Fiji Islands—Measles Epidemic—The Native Native Population in Danger of Extermination.

By late arrivals from the Fi-Ji Islands it is learned that the measles is still epidemic. One third of the native population died from its effects in about four months. The disease is said to have come from an English man-of-war which visited the islands some months since. The natives think the disease was brought there by whites to exterminate them. They were becoming civilized, but when the disease began to spread they became frantic and fled. They will likely use the whites roughly. The disease will kill the entire native population in a short time if unchecked.

Among the resolutions adopted are the following—The public credit must be sacredly maintained, and we denounce repudiation in every form and guise. A speedy return to specie payment is demanded alike by the highest considerations of commercial morality and honest Government.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P.Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and since then had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. R. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throat, &c., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rusan, Township Percy, writes: "I was persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit." A. Mr. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes: "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr. Maybee, of this place, induced me to try Electric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine.

NOTE.—Electric—Selected and Electrised.

SIN DISEASES, of whatever nature, are completely eradicated by the use of Fowle's Pile and Humour Cure; its effect is marvellous for Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, and even Leprosy; it has proved itself an almost never failing cure. (See special notice.) 3733

HORSES SAVED.—The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half as successful, or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horse's life. MONTREAL.

The Guibord Case—Burning of the Convent School—Temperance Convention—Stock Market.

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—In the Guibord case to-day a motion was granted in Chambers by Judge Mondelet ordering the issue of a rule nisi against the Cure et Marguillier de Notre Dame, to show cause why they should not be condemned to pay $2,000 owing to the burial being prevented from taking place on the 2nd of Sept. inst. by the closing of the Roman Catholic Cemetery gates, and the refusal of those behind to open them. A writ of mandamus ordering said burial and a copy of the Privy Council decree having been duly served upon the authorities of the Fabrique on the 30th of August last, and that the bailiff on the admission of the burial procession through the cemetery gates being refused, had duly notified Desroches, the guardian and sole official representation of the Fabrique in the grounds that the body was awaiting admission. A motion will be argued on Monday probably before Justice Johnson. A fine of $2,000 if collected would be equally divided between the Public Treasury and Institute Canadien. The date of another attempt at the burial is not yet fixed. A French Canadian in an argument upon the Guibord case last evening states that they must secure dead men's bones before the burial was again attempted and that they would not be deterred if in getting the remains out of the vault some of their own went in instead. The impression seems to be abroad among unlettered people that the Bishop is in a dilemma and that his pastoral letter does not refer to, or prevent them from taking the bones. Evidently, the remains need careful watching. Mr. Doutre has gone for "Nouvean Monde" again in a lively manner, having undertaken to plead the cause of Crevier, a friend, who sues A. Desjardin, M.P., editor, for not having as the law expressly requires, registered the name or names of the publishers and editors with the Clerk of the Crown, or of printing and publishing in his paper the name of its proprietors or their place of business, the fine for the first mentioned offence is $20 for each day a paper is so published; for the latter offence a fine of $80 per day can be imposed. The Nouveau Monde has been so printed since the 15th July, 1872, or 962 days, exclusive of Sundays and holidays, so the fine legally recoverable amounts to the enormous sum of $96,200. Of the penalty, half would go to Her Majesty the Queen, and one half to the plaintiff who sues for recovery of said penalty. The case causes great amusement among the lawyers, who look on it as a standing joke on Desjardins, also a lawyer, and who hates Doutre very bitterly

This morning the Convent School West Dean street, caught fire, and a scene of panic ensued. Eighty children were at mass, and fled like a flock of sheep out into the mud and rain. The firemen went gallantly to their rescue and soon got the fire under. The nuns did all they could to preserve order. The children were removed as quickly as possible to the Convent De Pa, where everything proceeded as usual. The damage done amounts to $200, covered by a policy in the Royal, of Liverpool

In the Temperance Convention to-day a long and wrangling debate took place over the advisability of the passage of a prohibitory law. The President remarked that Parliament would only frame a law to be afterwards submitted for ratification, and such ratification being expressed, Parliament would pass it. Mr. Thompson of Toronto said that the temperance community had full confidence in their recognised leaders in Parliament, Hon. Mr. Vidal in the Senate, and Mr. G. W. Ross in the House. He believed in any case a battle would have to be fought at the polls, and counselled on part of the convention reasonable submission to the views of our Parliamentary representatives on this matter, who must be be supposed the best judges of what was most likely to advance the interest of the cause in Parliament. The Rev. Mr. Poole said he did not approve of changing prayer, and was in favour of keeping to the request of hundreds of thousands of petitioners who had asked Parliament simply to pass a prohibitory law of its free will. Mr. Carswell said a plebiscite invited the enemy to prepare himself and come out and defend his traffic from assault. Temperance men proposed to make upon it, and he was in favour of keeping to the old British custom of asking Parliament to pass such laws as the country needed. When we had a law, a temperance man was a coward that would not stand by it and defend it.

Mr. McDougall, M.P., felt a deep interest in this discussion. He had staked his political existence upon the principle of this resolution. (Cheers.) He had not been fully sensible of the responsibility of his position until he had heard the debate before the Convention, he agreed with Mr. Thompson that Messrs. Vidal and Ross who were fully worthy of confidence as Temperance men, had not been elected to Parliament on this issue. Men voted for him who were opposed to prohibition and good Temperance men voted against him. No doubt if he went again before his Constituents on this question he would still be opposed by Temperance men, but he acted from a sense of his duty irrespective of probable consequences to his political interest, he hoped the convention would give their friends in Parliament some latitude to act, as in their Judgment circumstances might indicate, for his part he was not afraid to meet his fellow countrymen at the polls when he had right upon his side. It had been said that the money was on the other side, but he did not believe it. Intelligence, power and if need be the wealth of the country were on the Temperance side. If the question was strongly agitated before Parliament he had but little fear of the result. It was on the whole safer to leave it to the people than to the Government One difficulty he had met with was this: A great many admitted the evils of intemperance, but claimed they could not be reached by legislation. It was, therefore, necessary to prove to them that these evils could be met by legislation, and to this end all Temperance men would still have to resort to the use of argument and discussion.

Rev. Mr. Cameron Ottawa, said in regard to the remark of Mr. Carswell, that the latter would have us show our bravery only when we had got into the enemy's fort, and would the Government conduct us up and put us into the enemy's stronghold without some effort of our own, he considered this was undignified and puerile treatment, he was in favour of meeting the enemy in a fair open stand up fight.

Mr. H. S. Watson of Ottawa, justifies Parliament in heretofore refusing to pass a prohibitory liquor law because they had not reason to suppose the country was ready for it, he knew there were people in the convention who had written bitter things against Mr. Ross for not pressing the question to issue in Parliament, the temperance men were not sufficiently ready to sacrifice personal opinion. He was afraid some of them had come with some other purpose in view than prohibition. Cries of "Order, President Watson; if you have thoughts like dent Watson; if you have thoughts like these they must be kept to yourself." Watson then went on

The Times.

OTTAWA, SATURDAY, SEPT. 18, 1875.

Mr. Adam Gordon, M.P., is in town, and is stopping at the Union House.

Hon. Isaac Burpee, Minister of Customs, returned to town yesterday morning.

Arthur McNutt Cochran, Esq., of Maitland, county of Hants, has been called to the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Hector Cameron has been confirmed in his seat for North Victoria in the House of Commons, by the Court of Error and Appeal.

Official notification has been received from the University of London that Mr. Shurman, of Acadia College, N. S., has been awarded the Gilchrist Scholarship of the University.

Mr. Miller has been unseated and disqualified to hold his seat in the Local Legislature for Muskoka. Mr. Neelon has been unseated and disqualified to sit in the same house for Lincoln.

It has been decided to play the International Cricket Tournament in Ottawa next year. It is to be hoped Canadians will regain whatever laurels they have lost in Philadelphia this year.

Mr. Andrew Russell, P. L. S., formerly Assistant Commissioner of Crown Lands, Ontario, and lately appointed to the Department of Interior, will act as Surveyor General during the absence of Col. Dennis, in Manitoba.

Mr. Smith, Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries has returned to the capital, after a very pleasant sojourn in the Old Country. He was accompanied on the homeward journey by Mr. Ford, Her Majesty's Charge d'Affaires at Darmstadt, and Mr. Bergne, of the Foreign Office.

We have been informed by the Marine Department that orders were sent from the Meteorological Office at Toronto at ten o'clock yesterday morning, directing the storm drum to be hoisted at the following places, and giving notice that a storm would probably occur in the evening, viz.: St. John and St. Andrews, New Brunswick; and Halifax, Digby and Liverpool, Nova Scotia.

THE FOOLISHNESS OF SOME PREACHING.

The objection of non-residence, when made against the election of a candidate for a seat in Parliament, is a very silly one. We regret to find a leading Liberal paper in western Ontario attempting, at a time when certainly there is no temptation, to make political capital out of the non resident relation existing between Sir John Macdonald and his constituency. The paper in question is the Hamilton Times, which says:—"Sir John A. Mac"donald last week in returning from the "sea side to Toronto passed Kingston apparently oblivious to its existence as "well as that of his well-nigh unwilling "constituents. This snubbing was doubt"less intentional as the Knight no longer "contemplates the "Limestone City" "with complacency, and feels that his "hold upon the people is diminishing "and becoming more beautifully less. "Kingston must feel keenly the position "she holds as a sort of appanage of a "politician who resides elsewhere. So "long as Sir John was in power he ex"pected Kingston to return him though "he lived in Ottawa, and now he looks for "continued favours though being out of "power he can reside where he please "and be chooses Toronto."

We believe the disposition to silence this empty objection is rapidly gaining headway. There is now very little tendency, excepting under the temptations presented in the course of a hotly contested election, to urge the objection of non-residence. There are occasions, when elections are being fought out with more than average keenness of determination to win, when the temptation to make use of every artifice and every weapon available likely to influence the minds of especially the less intelligent of the electors is almost irresistibly strong. At such times a good deal of resort is had to the cry of non-residence if it happen to be applicable to the candidate; and then if at all it is excusable, although in no case justifiable. We say that it is in no case justifiable, because a member of Parliament's first duty is to the country as a whole, his service to his constituents, which the non-resident objection is held to affect, being of a personal and secondary character. Almost invariably they are first-class men, or at least men of high standing and capacity, who are found in the position of non-resident candidates. All things being equal perhaps residence should properly be allowed to turn the scale. But where first-class ability and character are rejected for mediocrity or less, for the reason that the former is and the latter is not chargeable with the condition of non-residence, a great wrong has been done, a false judgment has been rendered on the merits, and an argument has prevailed of which all sensible men ought to be ashamed. The constituency that would not feel a sense of pride in being represented by a first class non resident, as compared with a resident nonentity, ought to be disfranchised.

Apart from the principle involved in the non-residence objection there is a question of expediency that cannot be lost sight of. The Times' chicken is one that may at any moment come home to roost. If we hold that Sir John Macdonald is entitled to represent Kingston by his non-residence, we set up a rule that would deprive us of nearly all the leading men of our own party, and that would shut out of Parliament the foremost members of the House of either side. It may be that Sir John's hold upon the electors of Kingston is "becoming beautifully less;" we trust that to be the fact. But we recognize in that circumstance evidence of the growing popularity of Liberal principles and purity of administration, not of a wretched disaffection arising from the non-residence among the people of their representative in the Commons. If there were no other objection to Sir John than that affecting his place of residence, were we on the list of voters in Kingston we should say, let him reside in Jericho, we shall elect him in preference to any local man as often as he may choose to present himself. Principle and expediency alike urge us to this position. It does well enough in the desperation of a hot contest at the polls to cry non-resident; but in the calmness of political rest and in the fulness of party success it is impolitic and it is without reason.

THE FINANCE MINISTER ON PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

The Policy of the Government Ably Defended.

[From the Globe R port.]

NAPANEE, Sept. 14th.

The Hon. R. J. Cartwright, Finance Minister, this afternoon addressed his constituents at the Town Hall, Napanee, which was filled with one of the most influential audiences ever assembled. Representative men from every township in the county were present, and after carefully listening to the hour and a half speech of the Minister of Finance, testified their confidence in him and the Government of which he is a member by a unanimous vote at the close.

The Chairman briefly introduced the Finance Minister.

Hon. Mr. CARTWRIGHT, who was received with loud applause, after briefly explaining that his duties as a member of the Administration had prevented his meeting his constituents as frequently during the last two years as formerly proceeded, as follows:—I do not propose on the present occasion as I have frequently done before to enter into anything like an exhaustive review of the special proceedings of the past two sessions. My business to day is rather to call your attention to certain broad features of public policy, interesting, I think, not only to you but to the people of the whole Dominion, and interesting in a peculiar degree at the present moment. In the first place I wish to offer a few remarks on the peculiar position in which the present Government found themselves placed when they took office. We possessed, no doubt, one very great advantage, which I am not at all inclined to underrate. Our appeal to the people resulted in a success which has attended the appeals of very few Ministries indeed in Canada, or elsewhere, and, but for the hearty and enthusiastic support then accorded to us, I have no doubt we should have found the duties and difficulties before us vastly enhanced. But, notwithstanding that advantage, no one who has paid the least attention to public affairs for some years back can doubt that the present Ministry took office under circumstances in other respects of an extremely difficult and complicated character, and it is to that point, in the first instance, that I desire more particularly to call your attention. I have always felt it to be a real misfortune to the country, and to the Government, that our predecessors should have fallen at the last on personal charges. No doubt it would have been much more unfortunate if they had not fallen as they did, after the commission of such acts in connection with the Pacific Scandal, but I think it would have been much better for us and for the country if the condemnation had come upon the grounds of the rash and reckless policy to which they had committed themselves, and to a large degree had pledged the people of this country. Now one misfortune arising from that circumstance was that these personal charges distracted public attention in a very great degree from the special features of their policy to which I have alluded, and did so all the more because their policy was as yet in an incipient state. It is true that they had committed the country as far as a country can ever be committed by the acts of its executive and legal representatives, but although it was thus committed to the various enterprises, these enterprises were only in the stage of commencement, and there was and is very considerable danger that the minds of the people should be diverted from the point to which I have alluded, and that they should forget, in the well merited condemnation inflicted on the late Ministry on the ground of their conduct in the Pacific Scandal, the still severer condemnation, that ought, I think, to have been accorded for committing the country to any such policy at all. I desire that all friends of the Government and all honest-minded men throughout the country should remember that this Government is in no wise responsible for the initial stages of this policy. I have felt it my duty on all possible occasions for myself and on behalf of my colleagues to disclaim all responsibility for it ab initio. We are quite ready to take our full share of responsibility for what we do in order to provide for these various undertakings, but we decline to be held responsible for a moment for acts which we protested against, and opposed to the utmost of our power, and which we predicted again and again must lead to grave complications and possible disasters to the country. Although this last we hope we may be able to avert. The position of the Government is therefore that they ought to be looked upon as the assignees of a morally and political bankrupt firm, who had to redeem the obligations to which those gentlemen had committed the country as far as possible, and, so to speak, to make the most of the assets entrusted to them; but it is a thing which should never be overlooked, that we ought not in any degree to be held responsible for the inlation of those measures. Notably was that the case in regard to one important measure on which you have several times been called upon to express an opinion at the polls—the entrance into and the conditions of the contract for the building of the Pacific Railroad. I do not believe that any one now doubts that that whole affair was conducted in the most unbusinesslike and unstatesmanlike manner. I never have been able to understand how men of known ability and experience in public affairs could have committed themselves to a project compelling the people of Canada to construct a railroad nearly 3,000 miles in length through a country utterly unsurveyed, and in effect a perfect terra incognita, of which, I believe, they knew less than they did of the interior of Africa. It has been said that they were influenced largely by Imperial considerations, and certainly if any Colonial work had a claim to an Imperial character it was the scheme of a transcontinental railway; but that necessarily involved the duty on the part of these gentlemen to confer with the British Government before undertaking so gigantic a responsibility, and, as you know, there is not the slightest evidence or vestige of proof to show that they deemed it worth their while to ask the Imperial Government to assist in the enterprize, though afterwards, when public opinion had been freely expressed on the subject, they succeeded, by a sacrifice of our just claims for indemnity for the injuries committed on us by American citizens, in securing a guarantee in part liquidation of the expenses they expected to incur on that account. The plain fact is that they had not the remotest idea of what they were undertaking, and they did not consult the British Government as to whether they would assist them in the matter; they volunteered to give the people of British Columbia a far greater concession than the latter had demanded, and finally they utterly refused to consent to a refer nce to the people to ascertain whether they were really willing to undertake so gigantic a work, though Parliament was within a year of its natural dissolution, and though the final vote was carried by a majority so small that I believe the change of the vote of half of the Ministers who voted on it would have defeated it altogether. Now when we were called upon to grapple with this enterprise, these two considerations became very apparent—we might on the one hand have repudiated the matter altogether, and on the other hand, attempted to perform it in its entirety, in accordance with our legal obligations. The Government, after mature consideration, came to the decision that it was morally and physically impossible for the people of Canada to construct this railway in the terms of the contract by which they were legally bound; but that, on the other hand, it was their duty to consider the whole situation, and propose to you a plan by which, although at considerable inconvenience, and not without a certain amount of risk, it might be possible on certain conditions to construct the major part of the work if a large extension of time were accorded to us. With respect to the first question, whether the Government were well advised in deciding not to repudiate this undertaking altogether, I think I am justified in saying that there has been a good deal of unwise criticism in certain quarters, where better things might have been expected, as to whether the Government ought not to have utterly repudiated an engagement entered into under such terms or conditions. In any attempt on the part of a Government or country to repudiate an engagement they have once entered into, it is needless to say that very considerable danger to their credit must ensue; and in this particular instance I am perfectly certain that although some present ease and comfort might have been felt, in a few years the unanimous voice of the people of Canada would have condemned us as cowards and traitors for allowing, without absolute, paramount necessity, the whole project of Confederation to be broken up and rendered useless, as it would have been if our action had led to the secession of British Columbia, or, what might possibly have followed, to the annexation of that Province to the United States. We were responsible not only to you, but to those who come after you, to preserve intact the whole Dominion of Canada as it came into our hands. In our case there was no alternative. We must have repudiated the whole or endeavoured to the best of our power to redeem and fulfil these obligations. The decision of the Government on that question has been before you for some considerable time. We decided that we would forego the attempt to construct a very considerable portion of the railway—that namely, which was to run on the north of Lake Superior and Lake Huron—that we would reduce the whole length of the line to be constructed to something like 2,000 miles, would demand something like double the time—practically a good deal more than double what was accorded by the first terms of union—and would annex the condition that we were not to be called upon to perform even this unless it were possible to do it without materially increasing the burdens of the people of Canada. In fact, we stated in most express terms the very thing we are reproached for not doing, for we said that we were willing to do what we could, but were not willing to sacrifice the future of four millions of people for the sake of the inhabitants of British Columbia, though we think we are entitled to call upon you to submit if necessary to some inconvenience, and even to a very heavy expenditure, if by this means we can redeem our obligations. (Hear, hear.) I might as well pause to remind you that what we have assumed in undertaking the task of colonising the North-west and British Columbia requires us to develop territories divided from us practically as much as the sea divides us from the Mother Country. In the earlier stages of Canadian history, as you are aware, we were not in a position to contribute much to Imperial revenue, but were rather a source of Imperial expenditure and in some degree a source of danger. The position of these territories to us is somewhat similar to ours in former days to the Empire. We cannot expect them to contribute much for some years to come to the general revenue, and for my own part I shall be very glad if they are able to raise sufficient to meet their demands for local purposes. But having undertaken the duty and responsibility of colonising these countries and providing for their development, it is our bounden duty to our best to fulfil the contract we made with them. Nevertheless, I have never hesitated to express my opinion that that whole undertaking was premature and unwise, and when I say it is the duty of the Government to carry it out, I desire to add, also, that it was only from a sense of duty that we undertook to complete even the portion of the road we have undertaken to build in the course of the next 30 years. We had the choice of two evils, and we thought it the lesser evil to expose ourselves to a certain risk, and to incur considerable expenditure for a term of 20 years, and I would be the last to deny that the people of Old Canada, including the Maritime Provinces, who joined us in the commencement of Confederation, have taken upon themselves a serious and weighty burden in this matter, but I say, also, that it is better than repudiation and its consequences. I fully comprehend the sacrifice we have had to ask at your hands. Old Canada was that becoming one of the wealthiest countries on the face of the earth. There are very few nations which have seen their revenue expand in such a rapid manner as Canada has in the last few years, and I fully admit that you have good cause to be angry that the whole result of this extraordinary prosperity was to land you in a position which, as I have said, at the best offered but a choice of evils. In proof of this I may state that though it is perfectly true that the revenue of the country has been in a depressed condition for a short time past, and the volume of our exports and imports has shrunk during the last year or two, the people of Canada would be able to deal with this depression with unconcern but for the expenditure they are forced to incur on account of these distant outlying Provinces. Having set before you the position which the Government occupied in respect of the primary responsibility for these measures, I must call your attention to the steps we have taken for the purpose of providing for present wants; and here again I must diverge for a moment to invite your attention to the extreme inopportuneness of engaging to build the Pacific Railway in ten years, terminating in 1881. It so happens that a very large portion of the indebtedness of Canada matures at intervals ranging from 1874 to 1881, and the difficulties of meeting our obligations have been greatly augmented by the disregard of this circumstance. It is true that these debts are at a high rate of interest, and I hope in renewing them we shall be able to do so on better terms, but no worse time could be selected for increasing our demands on the London market than the years in which these debts were maturing. The Public Accounts show that these debts are of very formidable proportions. In 1874 there matured a debt of $1,847,000 in round numbers; in the current year 1875, $3,915,000. Both these debts, as you are aware, have been paid chiefly through the proceeds of the loan which I contracted a year ago in London. In 1876 there is a sum of $1,521,000; in 1877, $569,000; in 1878, $5,557,000; in 1879, $7,613,000; in 1880, $6,111,000; and so on until the year 1887, which closes substantially this heavy list of liabilities. To the best of my recollection, on no occasion when the then Government were discussing the propriety of making this ten years' contract do they seem to have considered that these heavy payments would mature at the very period when they intended their indebtedness on account of this railway to be maturing likewise. I think in Mr. Tilley's budget speech in 1873 no allusion was made to this fact, and in his remarks on the assumption of the Provincial debt he likewise omitted all allusion whatever to it, and that simple fact I am justified in saying, will show you as clearly as anything could the truth of my assertion that these undertakings were entered into in a very rash and reckless spirit. Now, the position in which I found things when I was called upon to assume the office of Finance Minister was this:—I found a certain deficit staring me in the face, which Mr. Tilley had acknowledged was likely to occur, and which the figures contained in his own official statement showed that he must have fully understood. I found, also, that a very considerable reduction of the total value of our imports was probable, if not that year, at all events in the succeeding year, and I found when I summed up the whole liabilities, the debts which were maturing, the lowest estimate of the liabilities for the Pacific Railway, and for the canals and other matters, that within the space of nine or ten years the people of the Dominion would require to borrow no less than 120 millions—not all fresh debt, but all fresh money to be borrowed. That sum may not strike you at once, perhaps, as forcibly as I should desire it to do, but you will understand how large a sum it was, and how vast a responsibility it imposed on the Finance Minister, if you call to mind that the total indebtedness assumed by the Dominion at Confederation was very little in excess of 80 millions, and so 120 millions represents nearly half as much again as the total debt of the country in 1867. Or, take another comparison, compare our liability with the debt of England, and you will find the one hundred and twenty millions to be provided by Canada, taking due account of the rate of interest which the two countries pay, and of their population and relative wealth, would probably be equal to quite five hundred millions of pounds sterling to be provided by England within nine or ten years, with this further disadvantage, that we, unlike England, have no home market at our disposal, and I also wish you to bear in mind that this had to be considered and grappled with from the very earliest moment of my taking office. Now, in dealing with the deficit to which I alluded, it was quite clear that my first duty was to make provision for a surplus, and if possible for a permanent surplus, out of which I might rely upon meeting the additional interest which would necessarily accumulate from the raising of fresh loans and meeting our debt, and from which I might if possible provide a fund to reduce the total burden of our debt. Otherwise it would have been almost idle for me or any one to attempt to raise money in foreign markets. The first thing foreign creditors look to is the income we possess out of which they may expect the payment of their money, and without a surplus, and a permanent one, our credit would soon have gone down in the markets of the world. While on this point, I may say that whether the deficit be or be not as large as I estimate it at, I am happy to say that there is no doubt that the deficit in the course of the first year's operations was converted into a surplus of $880,000; (applause); and although we have not yet received full returns from the distant Provinces, and although the past year has not been a very good one, in fact, was a year of considerable depression, and although a good deal of the revenue properly belonging to it was anticipated, I am happy to be able to tell you that the results of the last fiscal year will show that we may rely on a surplus of probably a full million. (Cheers.) The second point which attracted my attention was the necessity, as soon as possible, of closing the great number of minor enterprises in which we have been engaged—I mean by that those small undertakings which usually form a change on the income of the country—changes for building custom houses and post offices at points of importance, and harbours of refuge, and other matters of that kind. Without going into minute detail I think I may say with respect to these, that with the exception of one or two of no great magnitude, all we have done in that way has been to carry out works we found actually undertaken; but it was of great importance in my view to get through as soon as possible with all these matters, so as to have our hands clear for the prosecution of the larger enterprises in which we are engaged, and on that account only we consented to swell the amount of public works chargeable to income to a very considerable sum during the past two years. I am in great hope that in the course of the current year we may see the close of these works, and thus a great decrease in our expenditure, as intimated by me on former occasions. The third plank in my platform, so to speak, was to interdict all new enterprises of a non-productive character. I believe it would be desirable to interdict all new enterprises whatever, but if it is not possible to do that entirely, then to take care that the expenditure should be confined to those which will yield us some sort of return. The last point was to lower the rate of interest which we were paying on our national debt, and to borrow money in London, or elsewhere, and so to provide that in raising anew the 120 millions we might effect a considerable saving. The greater portion of our debt bears 6 per cent., and if we could reduce that to 4½ per cent. it appeared to me the ultimate burden on the people of this country would be not beyond our reasonable power to bear. As to the loan, I am not going to inflict a long discussion upon you as to the various rates of interest and the relative advantages of this or that mode of forming a sinking fund, but I will just say that, first, no Canadian loan has ever been negotiated on anything like as favourable conditions, and secondly, as far as I know, up to the present no loan of equal amount has been placed on as good terms on the London market except on the credit of the Imperial Government alone. I do not think these statements will be impugned by anyone who has examined the records of the Stock Exchange or attended to the controversy on this subject. There was a two-fold value from the negotiation. First, the loan was intrinsically good, better than ever obtained for Canadian securities before. Secondly, it is always easier to obtain considerable sums when you offer at a discount than when you attempt to force a loan at a premium, and it was therefore a decided advantage to get a quotation for our fours established on the English Exchange, while at the same time it secured for us a breathing space to consider the situation, and enabled us to meet a large amount of debt then maturing, and to go on for a year or more without diminishing the burdens of the people. Within that limit, all that we can we will do to honourably redeem the obligations placed on us, but if that cannot be done without imperilling the welfare and prosperity of this whole people, undoubtedly we hold ourselves free to reconsider the position. (Cheers.) I desire now to speak of a subject more practically important, perhaps, than any I have touched upon. It is important no doubt to know who are primarily responsible for the present state of things, which is a matter for grave consideration, not unfraught with alarm; but it is of more practical importance to know what grounds I have for saying that we can fairly and honestly, without placing too great burdens upon you, meet the liabilities we have assumed. The question, therefore, is how far the precautions we have taken are likely to be sufficient to meet the emergency, and I am the more desirous of explaining these fully, because I am inclined to think there is a tendency in some quarters to underrate their value and extent. Now, I have never denied the fact so clamourously insisted on by the Opposition proper, that the taxation we imposed would have produced much more than I estimated it at, provided things had remained as they were in 1873-4. Their estimate, and I am not prepared to gainsay it, was that the new taxes would swell the revenue on that condition to 27 millions, even if no increase took place, and that if trade improved during the next year in the same ratio as it had been doing for some years back, we would receive no less than thirty millions or thereabouts. Unhappily, their financial castle, if not in air, was at least built on a very sandy foundation. They were wrong in the all important point of mistaking an abnormal increase for a steady growth of prosperity, and still more unfortunately they had pledged us to a policy which would only have been justified had their anticipations (vide Mr. Tilley's budget speech) been fulfilled to the letter. For me, on the other hand, feeling quite as positive that a check must come, and that speedily, it became a question of great delicacy and difficulty how far back I ought to go to find a sound basis for my calculations. This at the best could only be approximated. No problem is harder in a growing country than to decide authoritatively how much of its progress at any given time is honest, natural growth, how much is due to sudden, temporary causes. And while it was quite clear to me that a very considerable over-importation had taken place, and was taking place, it was equally certain that a very large portion of the increase of the last few years was fair and genuine. Every one knows that Canada had been reduced to a condition of undue depression by the series of disastrous years that succeeded the great crash of 1858, and I saw no reason for supposing that we could not count on a considerable natural growth in the long interval which had elapsed since that period. I therefore selected, in my own mind, a year equally remote from the period of depression, which terminated in 1867, and the extreme expansion of 1873-4 as likely to afford the fairest average for a series of years, and the year I chose was the ordinary, not the fiscal year 1871. On the year's imports, which are nearly as far removed from the minimum of 1868 as they are from the extreme expansion of 1873, I thought we might reckon in the main with tolerable security, making, of course, a proper allowance for the revenue to be derived from Prince Edward Island and British Columbia. You will perceive, therefore, that we allowed a very large margin against contingencies. Not only have we declined to reckon on the extraordinary increase of 1872 and 1873, but we have taken no account of the natural growth which might perhaps fairly be looked for in the five years from 1871 to 1876, and we have on the other side allowed one or two very large items of the expenditure to remain unreduced for the express purpose of completing a quantity of small works and afterwards cutting down that expenditure to very much smaller limits, as I explained when discussing the whole question of annual expenditure in my budget speech of 1874, in which I pointed out that there were good grounds for expecting a very large reduction on the two very important items of public works chargeable to income and the expenditure for maintenance of the Government railways, provided always that those roads were put in a condition of thorough repair once for all. In short, but for the unfortunate mistake committed in 1873 by our assumption of the Provincial debts, and some other pieces of extravagance of like character—which, you will do me the justice to remember, I opposed to the very uttermost of my power—I would feel very little fear of any considerable defalcation in our income in any event. As it is, that final act of imprudence has certainly deprived us of a most valuable reserve on which we could otherwise have fallen back. Nor is it easy to understand on what principle the late Government were justified even in their own eyes, knowing as they did that a deficit was inevitable, in thus wantonly aggravating the difficulty of meeting our already enormous engagements. Before sitting down I will say a few words as to the cause of the present commercial distress. In the first place allow me to remark that it is a great mistake to suppose that Canada is the only sufferer from the commercial troubles now existing. Any one who is at all acquainted with the condition of the United States or of commercial centres in England itself is aware that the distress we are experiencing here is very light indeed compared with that in the former of those countries, and perhaps hardly as severe as that recently subsisting in some portions of England. I am not surprised at the tone some of the Opposition newspapers have assumed to me personally and to the Ministry on this subject. I am an old enough politician to know that hard times always tell against the party in power (applause), and I should be quite willing to allow them to fasten upon us the burden of hard times now—though we have as little to do with them as with the tides of the Atlantic—if they will only give us the credit of good times when they happily return. (Hear, hear.) But many men ignorantly, and some, I am afraid, maliciously, are in the habit of exaggerating the power of the Government in this matter. In a free community like this the Government can do very little to influence the transactions of individuals, and control over-trading, or buying, or selling. All the Government can do is at times to give warning to a portion of the community, and sometimes, perhaps, to afford a certain breathing time. We were not slow to warn the people of this country that there was great danger of an expansion of trade and commerce resulting in corresponding reaction, and to a great extent we did succeed in giving a breathing time because the result of the loan was to postpone the withdrawal of the Government funds which had doubtless been made use of in the business of the country, though I cannot pretend to say how far that interval was turned to profitable account by the parties concerned. But beyond that it was impossible for us to go, and whoever considers the causes of this present state of affairs will see that it is one over which the Government could have no control. We have unluckily to contend at the same time with a reduction in our own imports resulting from over trading and the depression in the United States, which must always react upon the people of this country, seeing that they are among our best customers, if not our very best taken as a whole, and that it is not natural that they should be suffering, as I am sorry to say they are, without its reacting through the length and breadth of Canada. Then one important branch of industry, the lumber trade, is very largely dependent upon the chances of customers in the United States, and, unfortunately, the trade has been hit heavily in both branches; they have been unable to find remunerative markets in England for the heavier timber, and the ordinary timber, which is usually sent to the United States, is now lying on their hands in large quantities. Although I am loth to reflect on the mercantile community in any way, many men whose knowledge and experience entitle them to respect have expressed the opinion for years back that the mercantile community were indulging very largely in over importations and over trading, and I fear some of the banks were not so prudent as they might have been, and were rather stimulating and encouraging this unlucky propensity. Here, therefore, you have several serious causes of the depression, over which the Government have no control, but which will work their own cure in time. They are not such as to warrant any one in imagining that we are about to go through a period of distress at all approaching those terrible years from 1858 to 1865 or 1866. As a great deal of the criticism to which we are exposed is based upon some such assumption, though rather implied than expressed in words, it may not be out of place to point out to you that Canada at present is far better able to sustain a commercial crisis even of very considerable severity than she was fifteen or twenty years ago. At that time there had been enormous expansion in our trade, relatively very much greater than any we have seen of late, and largely caused by the extraordinary expenditure on railway and other projects throughout the old Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada. Without going into minute details on that point, it would be fair to say that the expenditure which then took place, having regard to the wealth of the country now and then, would be almost as great as if $200,000,000 to $250,000,000 should have been expended on works of a like character in the last few years. That expenditure was stopped in 1858, and a reaction of great severity took place, but as there has been no such large expenditure now, there is no fear of so great a reaction. Neither should it be forgotten that the people of Canada then depended to a great extent upon their grain crop alone as the principal resource for paying their debts and meeting their obligations to foreign nations. Now, thanks to an improved system of agriculture, our farmers are not in the habit of depending on any one crop for their support or the payment of any sums they may have to meet; while in every other respect there is no sort of comparison between the development of our resources now and then. From these facts I draw the conclusion that although great centres of commerce are at present experiencing considerable depression, yet the causes being in their nature temporary, we have reason to believe they will at no distant day be removed. There is no reason to apprehend any serious or permanent depression. The great heart of the country—the agricultural community—is untouched, and until they come to share in the depression, I see no good reason to suppose that any such period of general calamity is in danger of overtaking us. In one word, just as in former times I deprecated the excessive confidence in our future which led to our entering into such large engagements, I think I have now perhaps as much ground to deprecate the alarm which affects certain classes. As to our prosperity in the future, I do not desire to ignore the serious difficulties under which they are labouring, but so far, except the temporary paralysis of the lumber interest, the crisis has been among the distributing, rather than the producing classes of the community, and although the lesson is a sharp one, it is desirable that this excessive importation should have a check. There is no doubt that we were paying the way for serious trouble had it gone on unchecked much longer, and I think the experience of a few years will show that it was better for us that the crisis should come now than that we should have persevered in the course we had entered upon for any considerable time longer. I do not pretend to say that this or any Government can control events, but I do say that I have reasonable grounds to suppose that we will not in future find the revenue of the country sink materially below the limit I have named. Should it unfortunately do so, should circumstances reduce us to such a position as that we occupied once before, then the casuity which the Government provided for when they said they were not prepared to go on, if by so doing they would increase the burdens of the people, would have arrived, and it might be necessary to say that we could not pretend for the time being to proceed with those works. I trust, however, that the occasion will not arise, but if it does I think we may, without loss of honour, plead the impossibility of redeeming our obligations. I contend, however, that until that had arisen we would have been false to our honour and the place we occupy if we had declared that we would not even attempt to redeem those obligations. Once before in our history a somewhat similar crisis occurred. Once before, under somewhat similar circumstances, the people of Canada found themselves plunged, through no fault of their own, but rather through the carelessness of those who were for the time entrusted with the reins of Government in a similar position. We had our warning, and perhaps we ought to have profited by it better than we did, but in any case the fact that the probability of a similar reverse overtaking us was foreseen, and I may say to a considerable degree discounted in advance, may save us as a nation from a repetition of those financial difficulties under which we laboured so long. In conclusion let me repeat once for all that in spite of all precautions I do not pretend to say that the position is not grave enough to require our most serious consideration. We find ourselves in a rapidly advancing country, immediately after a period of unusual prosperity, plunged in a sea of engagements compelling us to resort to heavy additional taxation, and often to plead downright inability to meet a large portion of them. We have in effect mortgaged our future and cut ourselves off from any considerable undertakings for some fifteen years in advance, and it is needless to add that we have, in so doing, exposed ourselves to risks from contingencies of many kinds which we can neither foresee nor avert. All I ask you to bear in mind is that the present Ministry are in no wise to blame for the initiation of this state of affairs. Practically the only serious charge against us is that we have deemed it our duty, though disapproving of those measures, to do our best to carry them into effect rather than allow the good faith and honour of Canada to be set at naught. We have at least greatly reduced our heaviest liabilities, and unless a series of very disastrous years should overtake us, I see no reason why the precautions we have taken should not prove sufficient; and if, under these circumstances, I say to you that we have no right even now to distrust the future over-much, and that there is good hope of our weathering this crisis unhurt, as we have weathered worse storms before, I think you know me well enough to be sure that I am not speaking without some reasonable warrant for the assurance I have ventured to give you.

The hon. gentleman resumed his seat amid hearty cheers.

It was then moved by Mr. T. W. CASEY, seconded by Mr. SIDNEY WILSON, and carried unanimously, "That having heard the explanation of the hon. Finance Minister, and having watched the course pursued by the present Dominion Government, this meeting desires to express its confidence in the ability and general policy of their management of our public affairs."

The proceedings then terminated.

LUKE TRAVERS,

OR

It was not long before all the leaders and authors of the rebellion in both Provinces had fled, and peace was concluded. But there was an irritating sore remaining. No one was satisfied. There was notwithstanding the subsidence of actual hostilities an ill feeling between the English speaking population and such of the population as from their youth up, spoke French. Politics, too, had a strange aspect. The French speaking people entertained those notions, which prevailed at the time of the first Napoleon. There was among them an idea that "C'est l'imagination qui gouverne le monde." The English speaking races believed that they were supreme in all the affairs of Church and State. They cared little for the State per se and still less for the Pope, the august head of the greatest political institution known to this or any other age. But Anglo-Saxonism prevailed. The commerce of the country made rapid progress. The iron shutters and stone steps leading up to shops and houses gave way to modern improvements. Streets were widened. The march of improvement went on. For the first time Montreal begin to move. The Bonsecourse Market became inhabited. Turkeys, pigs and chickens were exhibited for purchase at a comparatively cheap rate. Lake St. Peter was deepened. Montreal, in a word, became the head of the salt-water navigation. It was now that the city of Montreal became the entrepot for the trade of Ontario, then known as Upper Canada. It was about this time that grain purchasers and grain dealers for the first time looked to Montreal for all their requirements. Now Montreal is the London of Canada. Everything that is desired may be procured in Montreal. The ocean steamship has made Montreal more important than Quebec. Wolfe ascended the heights of Quebec and made England's great name memorable; but the Allans joined America to England by steam, and, like Wolfe, have raised to themselves an imperishable name. Let these trivial matters—trivial only apparently pass. The strides which Canada has made are astonishing. The Caroline has slipped over the Falls of Niagara; the other McNab has passed away; Sir John Alexander Macdonald has succumbed to circumstances; and another Alexander reigns in his stead. The country, nevertheless, makes progress. A Dominion, larger than the United States, treble the size of England, and greater in extent than the whole Continent of Europe exists, having on one side its shores laved by the Atlantic, and on the other washed by the Pacific. And what progress has been made. Small towns have grown into cities; villages have arisen where only a few huts appeared, and towns have reared their heads here, there and everywhere. The progress of the country is stupendous. Politically, Canada is creeping away from England. There is no desire, on the part of the people, to slip off. The loosening of the ties is the result of circumstances rather than of inclination. But a great country must come forth of this crumbling away. The land which its present inhabitants occupy abounds in milk and honey. It is the Canaan of this period. There is gold and copper, silver and lead, to be met with from the Capes of Gaspe to the summit of the Rocky Mountains. More than this, the soil is fertile. The productions of France grow side by side with the cereals of a sterile clime. Wheat, barley, potatoes, turnips and every known root crop produce abundantly. There is nothing of which to be afraid. Ample water power, good navigable opportunities, lakes deeper than the German Ocean, and a fine rolling land covering a space of over 3,000 miles tempt commerce and cultivation.

Politically, Canada, the land of my adoption, is superior to any other country known to civilization. The laws reach all classes alike. Wealth and poverty, in law, are on an equality. There is something more than this. A rich man can not tread upon his neighbour on the plea of that neighbour's poverty. The motto "e pluribus unum" governs. The earth yawngs for us all. Tom Hood's motto stares us in the face,

"Stranger step lightly o'er the sod
For, if he slips, you're gone b——"

This, however, is a digression. Back, assuredly, it is necessary to go. Mr. Poulette Thomson, afterwards Lord Sydenham, comes upon the scene. He had superceded, as it were, Sir John Colborne (Lord Seaton) and the Earl of Durham, father-in-law to Lord Elgin afterwards Governor General of Canada. A man of considerable tact, Lord Sydenham with wonderful sagacity welded together opposing interests. He it was, who first amalgamated Upper and Lower Canada. There was at the period a sad discrepancy between the two Provinces. Upper Canada was, as it seemed, hopelessly in debt, while Lower Canada was solvent. But there were in the Upper Province the means of recovery. Immigration poured into the Western Province, while Eastern Canada stood still, so far as new blood was concerned; and the result is now apparent.

Luke Travers was yet only an idler. He gazed upon passing events. A man hanged at the yard-arm or unloading a hay-cart at the instance of a ventriloquist caused him either pain or a amusement. True interest in public affairs had not yet possessed him. A little later matters looked differently. There was a great fire in Quebec; there was a more disastrous occurrence still; and parties began to take possession of the many. A Hincks and D. K.; Toby and the Governor of Cacouna, to say nothing of the old goose quill, cropped up. W. B., of the Economist, showed no white feather. There were giants of the quill in those days.

But times have changed, and we must chang with them. Shall we give it in Latin:—"Tmpora mutanetur et nos mutanur in illis."

Dr. Howe's Testimony.

PITTSFIELD, ME., March, 1872.

MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS.

DEAR SIR,—During the past two years I have given your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites a fair though somewhat severe trial in my practice, and am able to speak with confidence of its effects. In restoring persons suffering from emaciation and the debility following diptheria, it has done wonders. I constantly recommend its use in all affections of the throat and lungs. In several cases considered hopeless it has given relief, and the patients are fast recovering. Among these are consumptive and old bronchial subjects, whose diseases have resisted the other modes of treatment. For impaired digestion, and in fact for debility from any cause, I know of nothing equal to it. Its direct effect in strengthening the nervous system renders it suitable for the majority of diseases.

I am, sir, yours truly,

McKAY'S
CHOICE AND BEAUTIFUL
WALL PAPER.
INCLUDING THOSE DEDICATED BY THE MANUFACTURER
TO
Their Excellencies the Earl and Countess of Dufferin.

These Paperhangings are imported direct from the best Manufacturing Establishments in England, France and United States. Great care has been taken in their selection with regard to colour. The ground tones are soft and pleasing to the eye, especially those toned with silver mica; but above all, they are free from the mineral poisons that many of the tawdry-coloured Paperhangings of the day are surcharged with. The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. The Public are respectfully invited to examine his STOCK of WALL PAPER before purchasing elsewhere.

THE EQUINOXES.—The weather wise say that the present rough spell and great downfall of rain is due to the Autumnal equinoxes. Should this be the case, the equinoctial gales have set in a little earlier than usual.

PURE IRISH FRIEZE.—We invite visitors to the Exhibition to inspect our pure Irish Frieze, just imported. The best material manufactured for travelling coats. T. W. Kenny & Sons, Merchant Tailors and Gentlemen's Outfitters, 86 Sparks street, Ottawa. 394735

PULLMAN CARS.—The Managing Director of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway has succeeded in obtaining Pullman cars to run on that road during exhibition week. This additional means of transit to the capital will be hailed with delight by the travelling community.

MORE RAIN.—It rained the greater part of the day yesterday again, and as a result the streets are fearfully muddy. In addition to this, a cool, bracing atmosphere set in, bringing overcoats and winter clothing into general demand. The sun set very bright, however, last evening, and gave every indication of coming fine weather. Should it clear up to-day, the streets will soon dry up, with the comfort of an absence of dust at any rate.

TEMPLE BAR.—The ten mile race between Louis Eustache and Crapin, of Ottawa, comes off to-day at the Temple Bar Grounds, for $100 a side. Marrier's band will be in attendance. Mr. A. Pollitt, in consideration of the bad weather, has issued tickets for those who were disappointed—therefore to-day a good time may be expected; a capital dancing platform has been erected, and Mr. Pollitt is determined to spare no pains to make his place a success.

REMOVAL OF THE HYDRANTS.—The hydrant opposite the Russell House on Elgin street is being removed to the outer edge of the sidewalk. The change is being effected just in good time. Steps are being taken to remove the one on Metcalfe street below the Methodist Church, on the road to the Opera House, to-day. This, above all others, has been a source of great annoyance, and many have been injured by it. Its early removal will be hailed as a public benefaction.

GOWAN'S VARIETY HALL.—Not the least by any means will be the amusement afforded by Mr. Cool Burgess and his extraordinary combination in Gowra's Hall, Sparks street, during the forthcoming week. He will inaugurate a short dramatic season on Monday night by introducing to the public himself and the celebrated Townsend Family in comedy, tragedy and other specialties, making altogether one of the best variety entertainments travelling. All who know Cool, must feel satisfied, that he will cater nothing but a first class performance to the public. Strangers on a visit to the city will find this a convenient place to spend an evening.

JUVENILE TEMPERANCE.—The Juvenile Temple in connection with the Ottawa Enterprising Temple will resume its regular meetings, in Morrison's Hall, York street, this evening, at 6:30 p. m., after the summer holidays. Brothers McMullen and Abbott will be present to superintend its deliberations. The hope is earnestly expressed by those in charge that parents and all interested in the welfare of the youth of the city, will do all in their power to help them, by sending all the children they can to encourage this effort in the cause of temperance. Juvenile temperance is, perhaps, after all, the best means of educating the public mind to a due appreciation of this great reform.

PRIVATE BUTCHER STALLS.—It would seem that the owners of private butcher's stalls, having become impressed with the idea that it is illegal to pay a license for the privilege of opening stalls on the public streets, are refusing to pay the current quarter's dues. This may or may not be the case, but one thing is conclusive, that the Corporation has the power to say where fresh meat shall be sold, and will undoubtedly exercise its authority in this direction. Now that additional market accommodation is fast forthcoming, it is highly desirable in the interest of the public health that the markets should be utilized for the purposes for which they were originally intended. Besides, the rapidity with which the outside stalls have increased of late has so seriously affected the trade in the markets that most of the butchers therein have intimated their intention of throwing up their market stalls.

GOWAN'S OPERA HOUSE.—The Shaughraun Dramatic Troupe, under the able and efficient management of Mr. E. A. McDowell, will open for a short season in Gowan's Grand Opera House on Monday night. The scenery is all new, and those who remember the stage fittings during the last appearance of this company will be pleased to learn that great improvements have since been made in the stage arrangements. "Rosedale," an emotional play of great repute, will be put upon the boards for the first time, and will doubtless be done ample justice to in the hands of the company that is entrusted with its rendition on Monday night. The play is of such a character as to fully bring into action the full dramatic talent of the troupe, as well as to show the splendid new scenery recently placed in the theatre. Among the new names recently added by Mr. McDowell to his company is that of Miss Kellogg, who has the reputation of being a star in her profession. She will assume the principal role in this play, in which she is pronounced as yet to be unrivalled. The New York Tribune in speaking of this lady, says: "She has a melodious voice and a caressing, graceful manner, a fine figure, and sufficient mobility of feature for the appropriate expression of sentiment or passion. Love hatred, fear, joy and hope find ready reflection in her countenance. Miss Kellogg shows extraordinary merit, and gives abundant proof that she will speedily rise to be one of the most famous actresses America has ever produced.

The Provincial Exhibition

Meeting of the Joint Committee.

A meeting of the Exhibition Committee was held in the City Hall yesterday afternoon at half-past three o'clock, for the purpose of arranging matters of detail in connection with the coming Provincial Fair.

His Worship Mayor Featherston occupied the Chair, and Mr. A. S. Woodburn acted as Secretary.

The occasion brought together quite a number of our most prominent and influential citizens, there being present—Alonzo Wright, M.P.; W. McKay Wright, M.P.; J. M. Currier, M.P.; Aldermen Rowe, Birkett and Groulx; R. Cummings, Reeve of Gloucester; Messrs. A. McKellar, N. Robertson, G. W. Eaton and others. Several important questions were taken up in order, and discussed in the meeting; among them that of the facilities at the command of the authorities for furnishing lodging accommodation to strangers who might come to our city during the week. The Committee on accommodation—Messrs. Rathwell and Lapierre, reported to the effect that they had spared no pains in making those comfortable who may come to town during the Exhibition, and although the number of strangers coming to Ottawa during the coming week will be undoubtedly large, there is no reason to apprehend but that the extensive preparations made for their accommodation by our hotels and private boarding houses will be amply sufficient to meet all demands.

With a view to ensure all possible convenience for strangers, the following resolution was submitted for the consideration of the meeting:—

Moved by Mr. CURRIER, M.P., seconded by Mr. EATON, "That the Hotel Accommodation Committee be instructed to have a further canvass of the city made, chiefly in respect to lodgings for visitors in private houses, and also to adopt if necessary, the proposal of Mr. Cummings, to convey people to hotels in Hull and on the leading roads adjacent to the city by stage." Carried.

Another important matter was brought up before the Committee, the question of keeping the toll-gates open during the Fair. The Committee seemed to be unanimous in the opinion that it would be the cause of great inconvenience to spectators and exhibitors going to and from the Fair grounds if the vehicles were compelled to stop in front of the toll-gates for the purpose of paying toll. Mr. C. T. Bate, on behalf of the stockholders of the Ottawa & Gloucester Road Company, was present, and took part in the discussion. The following resolutions were then presented to the meeting:—

Moved by Ald. ROWE, seconded by Mr. N. ROBERTSON, that the committee named to negotiate with the Ottawa & Gloucester Road Company are hereby authorized to offer that company $300 in consideration of the two gates leading from the city being thrown open during Exhibition week.

Moved, in amendment, by Ald. BIRKETT, seconded by Mr. CURRIER, that the committee appointed to make arrangements with the Ottawa & Gloucester Road Co. be authorized to offer the sum of $400 in lieu of the two city gates being thrown open to the public during next week. (Lost.)

The original motion was then carried by a vote of seven to six.

The question of throwing the Suspension Bridge free of toll next week was then taken up and discussed with the following result:—

Moved by Mr. MCKAY WRIGHT, seconded by Mr. EATON, That the Mayor, with Messrs A. WRIGHT, M. P., and W. MCKAY WRIGHT, M. P., Mr. CURRIER, M. P., Mr. MORGAN, Hon. Mr. SCRAD and Alds. ROWE and GROULX, wait upon the Government, asking that the collection of tolls at Suspension Bridge be suspended during next week, in the interest of the Provincial Exhibition.—Carried.

The question of increasing the police force during the Fair for the better preservation of order throughout the city and on the grounds, was next brought under consideration, and it was decided to make adequate provision for that purpose.

The Committee then adjourned until Monday next, at 10 o'clock, a.m., to meet on the Exhibition Grounds.

POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY, Sept. 17.

Wm. Smith was charged with retailing vegetables around the street, in violation of the market by-law. He was fined $2 and costs.

Mr. and Mrs. Donovan were charged with assaulting one Mrs. Chambers. Mrs. Donovan was mulcted in $5 and costs, and the husband released.

H. Champagne was accused of assaulting one Gabriel Guilette. A brother of the prisoner was also found to be implicated in the assault. The magistrate accordingly fined each of them $5 and costs.

Antoine Desjardins was charged with a breach of the peace on Murray street, on Thursday night. He was relieved of $2 and costs.

Maria DeLong was charged with keeping a disorderly house on Nicholas street. She was fined $50 and costs, or two months in gaol.

Theodore Hooker was charged with a breach of the peace. His pugilistic tendencies were rewarded with $5 and costs.

Antoine Lahaise, on a similar charge, was remanded till to-morrow.

Cyrille Poole was up on remand for using insulting language to Louise Coteau. He was fined $5 and costs, or go to gaol for two weeks.

JOURNALISTIC.—Mr. Norris, of the Montreal Herald, has arrived at Ottawa, and is stopping at the Russell House.

MORE GAS.—A little more light would prove very acceptable during Exhibition week. There should be no lack in this direction, for the credit of the city.

PIC-NIC.—The pic-nic of the Sunday school, in connection with the Daly street Presbyterian Church, is announced to take place in McKay's grove, to-day. The weather does not look very propitious just at present for such an event.

WATERWORKS.—Mr. Kennedy, manager at the pump house, says that if the weather is favourable this afternoon about five o'clock, he will throw a large jet of water on the Pump House Ground, when the full capacity of our system will be tested.

PREPARATIONS NEARLY COMPLETED.—A quantity of light goods and machinery arrived in the city yesterday and was placed in position on the Exhibition Grounds. Mr. Bartlett has succeeded in getting his steam power for use at the Fair in running order. A number of the men who have charge of departments also arrived in the city yesterday. The Secretary is expected to arrive to-day and will immediately take up the quarters provided for him on the grounds.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION TO NORMAL SCHOOL.—Thirty six students commenced the written examination for entrance to the new Normal School in this city yesterday, before Mr. McCabe, Principal, and the assistant masters. The subjects of grammar and arithmetic have been disposed of, and on Monday evening those entering the junior division will have finished their entrance course. The seniors will however continue writing on Tuesday and Wednesday forenoon. The official opening will take place in the afternoon of Wednesday in Gowan's Opera House, and will doubtless be a grand affair, judging from the number of leading gentlemen in the Province that are to take part in it. On Thursday morning the real work of the session will commence. On that day all applicants will have to be on hand, those who have not been obliged to write for entrance, from having previously obtained certificates, as well as fresh students.

Special services will also be commenced to-morrow afternoon in the above rooms, both at 4 and 8.30 p.m., when Mr. MacKay of Kingston will be present.

ELGIN STREET OBSTRUCTION.—The Contractors for the Main Sewer met with a series of accidents yesterday, that has thwarted their endeavours to pass Elgin street in time for the Provincial Exhibition. The boiler of the steam traveller was injured to such an extent as to render it unfit for use. The subsidiary city drains, together with the surface water from the recent rain-storm almost completely filled the excavation and caused a caving in of the main sewer that rendered it utterly impossible for the men to proceed with the work. In the course of yesterday an understanding was come to with the Local Exhibition Committee whereby the opening of Elgin street would be planked over in the event of their not succeeding to-day to proceed with the brick work in the sewer. It is absolutely necessary that something should be done to facilitate travel on this street during the fair.

TESTIMONIALS.
Montreal, 28th July, 1876.
"I hereby certify that I entertain a very favorable opinion of the Baths and Waters of the Caledonia Springs in many forms of disease, in which I would especially mention chronic Rheumatism, the stigmata of Gout, Neuralgia, some of the varieties of Cutaneous diseases, Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, and in carefully selected cases, some of the diseases of the Kidney and Bladder.
(Signed) GEO. W. CAMPBELL, A.M., M.D.
Dean of the Medical Faculty, McGill College.
Dr. Wm. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1859:—"But the disease above all in which the action of the water is most decided is Rheumatism. . . . I have known a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the waters.
ACCOMMODATIONS.
A magnificent new hotel, capable of accommodating 300 guests, will be opened on the 1st of June for the accommodation of visitors The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. Local Intelligence.

OFF TO THE SHANTIES.—Mr. McKay, Jr., starts for the Coulonge this morning with 30 men to work on the timber limits of Messrs. Burnet and McKay. Mr. Doran starts with about the same number for Deep River.

SOME person or persons, at present unknown, have circulated a report to the effect that the Clarendon House is at present closed. I beg to state that such is a falsehood, and done with a malicious intent. The Clarendon House is still flourishing. A hearty welcome to all. WM. MILLS, Proprietor.

A BLACKLEG.—A disreputable gambler has made his appearance in the city—he is the man who about eight months ago got mixed up in a shooting affray at the race track, and afterwards made himself rather conspicuous in Montreal in a brutal assault case. It would be as well if the police were to have an eye to him.

ARRIVAL OF STEAMERS.—The canal basin yesterday presented quite a lively appearance, several steamers from different ports having taken up their moorings there, with a view of plying between the City and the Fair Grounds during the present week. Many of the craft are really handsome and trim looking, and will doubtless meet with much patronage.

CHURCH CONSECRATION.—The consecration of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church at Almonte takes place on the 5th of October. The Bishop of Ottawa will perform the ceremony, and an eminent divine will preach the sermon. The new organ will be opened that day, and the proceedings will be of the most interesting character. Special railroad accommodation will be afforded for the occasion.

REMEMBER that Baskerville & Brothers, direct importers of general groceries, wines, liquors and provisions, cannot be competed with for low prices. Teas, coffees, sugars, wines, liquors, tobaccos and cigars, the most reliable qualities sold by them. All desiring to get the most value for their money will give them a call. Cheese, crackers, hams, pork, salt, extra large bags salt, and Labrador herrings, sold low for cash. Remember, 36 Rideau street, north of Murray street, and their wholesale, George street, second to none. 3948tf

THE WONDER OF THE DAY.—A Moose trotting in a sulky will be exhibited on the Mutchmor Park during Exhibition Week on the 22d and 23d inst., between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock p.m. After many years trial the proprietor has at last succeeded in capturing, taming and training a beautiful large moose. The capturing and training of moose has been tried by different parties; but no one has ever before succeeded. What will most surprise the spectators will be to see such a wild animal so well trained and so kind. This will be the only chance to see it as the proprietor has already made arrangements to cross to Europe with the animal, champion of the forest and squarest trot in the world. 394813

DEATH OF A CLERGYMAN.—On yesterday, at 4 o'clock, the Rev. S. Rivet expired at the Bolton street hospital. The rev. gentleman was a native of the parish of St. Paul de Joliette. For several years he laboured in the ministry in the Diocese of Montreal, and also took an active part in education, having been director of Joliette College. About three years ago he entered the Diocese of Ottawa and had charge of a parish. Ill-health, however, compelled him to resign, and he came a few months ago to reside at the Bishop's Palace. His health still failing, he went to the hospital to undergo medical treatment, but disease had already begun to tell on his constitution, and medical aid was of no avail. He calmly saw his end approach, and, strengthened with the comforts of religion, he bore his sufferings with patience and submission to the Divine will. The rev. gentleman was in his forty-eighth year, twenty of which he spent in the priesthood.

AN INTERESTING RACE.
Ten Miles Run in 55 Min. 55 Secs.
A very interesting afternoon's sport took place over the recently constructed grounds at Temple Bar on the Bank Street Road. A race between Luke Eustache, an Indian, and Crapin of Ottawa; ten miles, $100 aside, brought together a crowd of about fifteen hundred people. The race was keenly contested, and resulted in a victory for the pale face, who ran gamely throughout. The course was not particularly easy going, but nevertheless Crapin was the favourite from start to finish; winning easily by about twenty yards, doing the distance in five seconds under the hour. A hop, step and leap contest was won by P. Duffy, who had only one antagonist. A mile race for amateurs was won by E. O'Brien who got over the course in 4 min. 55 sec. A handsome prize for a running high leap resulted in a tie between Duffy and Canty, and the affair will be settled sometime during the present week. The Champion mile race was won by a small typo named Raine, who cleaned out several of greater statute and girth. Although the sports might be termed a success in every respect, and Mr. Pollitt, the proprietor of the track, spared no pains in preserving the respectability of the affair, and secured the services of County Constable Gordon, in order to prevent the intrusion of any roughs who might make their appearance Mr. Pollitt is about to erect a spacious hall, in which balls can be given and dramatic representations made by either amateurs or professional companies, and make his place a desirable spot for both summer and winter excursions.

The Oriental Embroglio.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sep. 18.—The Minister of War has received a despatch from Ali Pacha, dated Mostar, September 13, stating that the insurgents were attacked September 8th, near Ishgrade, in Bosnia, and were defeated and put to flight. On the battle field were found passports and other documents which leave no longer any doubt that the Servians intended to declare war against Turkey. The Sublime Porte publishes the foregoing, and calls attention to the fact that the insurgents, who take refuge in Austria, are not disarmed, notwithstanding Turkey's representations.
The latest advices state that the Consuls of Austria, Germany, and Italy despair of bringing about any negotiations between the Russian insurgents and Server Pasha. The Turkish commissioner of the English, French, and Russian Consuls, whose track lies in Herzegovina, are still hopeful, because the insurgents show a conciliatory disposition. They are, however, unable to give a definite report of the result of their mission until they have an interview.

OTTAWA, MONDAY, SEPT. 2, 1875.

THE FINANCE MINISTER ON PUBLIC OBLIGATIONS.

The financial exposition made by Mr. Cartwright to his constituents the other day, and published in Saturday's issue of this journal, will have been found a more readable document than speeches on such subjects usually are. There is a marked clearness of explanation, and a pleasing candour of statement that entertain and convince the reader, as doubtless the hon. gentleman's constituents were entertained and convinced. We have not within our recollection read a speech on the financial position of the country that so fully satisfies one of the actual state of affairs and of the earnestness of purpose and great industry with which Mr. Cartwright has applied himself to the duties of his office. It is not surprising that he should speak first and at some length upon the state of affairs which he found to exist when he took charge of the public treasury. The finances of the country were in a desperate situation. The memorable passage in the speech of Sir A. T Galt when, after the Cayley regime, he declared that the financial situation was enough to appal the stoutest heart, was not inapplicable to the state of things which Mr. Cartwright had to face when he took up the public accounts where Mr. Tilley left them. Indeed he does say something the same substantially, when he describes the Government of which he is a member as having become, on taking office, the "assignees of a morally and politically bankrupt firm." There had been no lack of means in the hands his predecessors, on the contrary the revenue had been most abundant and the ratio of increase entirely without precedent. Yet the condition of things they left to their successors was such that if they had exerted their ingenuity purposely to leave a legacy of embarrassment they could not have succeeded any better than they did. Such, however, seems to be the issue of Conservative administration applied to financial matters. Cayley, with a comparatively new country, with a limited revenue and very urgent demands upon it, went out of office, leaving affairs in an appalling condition. The long line of succession, Sir John Rose, Sir Francis Hincks and Mr. Tilley left to their successor the position of an assignee to a bankrupt estate. An entire change of control cannot well make matters worse, and a very large majority of the people, we believe, have confidence that they will be a great deal better. The recklessness with which during the latter years of the Macdonald Administration enormous and unproductive liabilities were contracted, suggested no attribute but that of madness. It was a physical impossibility with respect to one part of our engagement with British Columbia, and a financial impossibility with regard to another part of it, that it could be carried out. The impossible performances which the engagements of their predecessors had involved were found at the outset, Mr. Cartwright says, staring him in the face. And what was to be done? Just what the Finance Minister told his constituents, and through them the people of the Dominion: Either, he says, "we must have repudiated the whole, or endeavoured to the best of our power to redeem and fulfil these obligations." Repudiation was of course not to be thought of. A nation cannot make engagements to-day and deliberately disown them to-morrow. "We had," says Mr. Cartwright "the choice of two evils." These were, an offer in good faith to do what was possible towards completing the engagements of their predecessors; or "repudiation and its consequences." The Government chose the better part, which, however, still involves a tremendous liability. There can be no doubt the country will feel it before the end has been reached. Mr. Cartwright is at no pains to conceal the worst; but he points justly and with the force of incontrovertible facts to the authors of all the trouble. He is not responsible for these liabilities that loom up in the distance and cast shadows that do not cheer his path. His duty—to carry out what was undertaken against his protestations and his vote, and to carry it out, as he says in substance, in the way that will at once maintain good faith and save the country from the incubus of a ruinous debt. The great requirement of the country, just now, after having escaped from the charge of an utterly reckless administration, is prudent management; and none can have read the speech upon which we are commenting without being convinced that that requirement has been well supplied in the present Finance Minister.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

To-day, so far as the people of Ottawa are concerned, the Provincial Exhibition will practically be opened. The consummation for which preparations have been so extensively, expensively, and generally made will have been reached to some extent. So far as can be judged at this stage, the Exhibition is going to be a success. The entries will, both in number and variety, come pretty near the mark obtained in Toronto last year, which is certainly more than could have reasonably been expected, all things considered. Much credit and many thanks are due to those who were instrumental in having the capital selected as the site for this year. They will not, we feel certain, complain that the efforts put forward by the people of Ottawa have been other than equal to the occasion, and if the programme is carried out to the end as well as it has been initiated, there will be none to oppose the location of the great Provincial Show here when again it comes to our town in the regular rotation. There is a point, however, at which responsibilities as well as benefits become general. That point we have now reached. Representative men have busied themselves in completing the preliminary arrangements, and they have been highly successful; it now becomes the duty of the people to see that these arrangements are carried out in fact, and to reap the benefit of them. Let it not be said of us that we have abused the opportunity offered us. The more visitors to Ottawa at this time the better for the city, the better for the Agricultural and Arts Association; let it not therefore be the worse for the visitors. It has been made the complaint against some Western towns and cities that they make the Exposition the occasion of a general and organised system of fleecing, that neither the comfort nor the convenience of the public were studied in the slightest degree, and that the only consideration which guided those upon whom devolved the not unprofitable duty of entertaining the stangers, was how much necessity might compel the latter to fork out for that which on ordinary occasions would cost but little. We look to the police to protect us from the thieves and pickpockets who infest all congregations of the kind; but what, save honour and honesty, shall protect the stranger from sharks and impostors, if such there be in our midst? There will be enough business done during the ensuing week to make excellent profits without exceeding established rates. The inconvenience which will necessarily arise from crowding cannot be avoided, but there is the more reason why every kindness and consideration, which is likely to ameliorate that condition, should be shown to those affected by it. Let not greed of filthy lucre destroy our reputation for honesty and hospitality; a bad name will stick to us when the profits which accrue from the Exhibition have been dissipated and the other circumstances connected therewith forgotten. The protection of life and property is in the hands of the Chief of Police and the force he has thought is necessary to surround himself with. His continued fitness for the responsible position will be tested and proved by the result. In the meantime, we are bound to believe that every necessary precaution has been taken, and the attempts which have recently been made to magnify every street row and tavern brawl into an outrage of threatening dimensions, can only be regarded as a very censurable means of pandering to the natural fears which possess people in the presence of an occasion of the kind, the tendency being to frighten timid visitors away from the city, and, otherwise interfere with the natural flow of business. Such a course cannot be too severely condemned, either in the interests of the city, or on behalf of the provincial public, for whose amusement, instruction, and general benefit and advancement the Exhibition was instituted and continues to be held.

It is due to the gentlemen who have been engaged in making the necessary preparations for the event to say that they have left nothing undone that care and foresight could anticipate. They have given their time, and they have laboured with the utmost earnestness and anxiety, to secure in every respect such a state of readiness and completeness of arrangements as must guarantee the satisfactory passing off of the important occasion.

The number of entries made with the Secretary, we understand, taken as a whole, indicates a successful fair; but it sometimes occurs that the number of entries does not indicate absolutely the number of articles ultimately placed on exhibition. Saturday and yesterday, however, a very good beginning was made in all the departments, and to-day will doubtless see them well filled. We have never seen the Provincial Exhibition upon finer grounds; and building arrangements and accommodation are in no respect inferior, but, in most, decidedly superior to what has in former years been provided.

It is confidently estimated that the boarding and lodging facilities of the city will be quite equal to the necessities of the case. This subject has been especially dealt with in a way that shows that the leading men of the city are by no means insensible of the advantages to be gained by making people comfortable while they stay with us, and of the less selfish consideration of extending civility to strangers.

The peace of the city will, we have reason to believe, be amply provided for. No doubt irregularities will occur, in many cases through the fault of those who will be the sufferers; but if people will keep sober and be reasonably careful of their pockets there will not be any cause of complaint or remissness on the part of the police. The population of the City of Ottawa and the surrounding country is remarkable for its orderly character, and does not demand under ordinary circumstances much more than a merely formal police administration. But on such occasions as the present thieves and roughs will congregate, and to meet any possible emergency of this kind, we believe ample arrangements have been made.

It would appear that no provision for a successful occasion has been omitted, excepting, of course, that of the weather. Of that, here as elsewhere, people must take their chance. The equinoxial weather of the last week, however, would seem to give ground of hope that so essential an element to success will not be awanting.

The George Washington Restaurant, York street is now open for guests and meals can be had at all hours. 3915 6g.

THE EXHIBITION—INFORMATION FOR THE PUBLIC.

To the Editor of the TIMES.

SIR—As the Provincial Exhibition opens to day, perhaps it may not be deemed unimpo tant to give in your issue of this Monday morning a few items, which the writer believes will be of interest to the general pu lic, and may be of particular value to those intending to compete for prizes. And first, let me say to the latter, that by the printed rules all articles intended for display should be taken to the Fair Grounds to-day. Stock will be allowed admission until to-morrow at noon; but if possible, all should be in earlier; and then, as to the routes to the Fair Grounds: First, Bank street from Centre Town, and Nicholas street from Lower Town; the gates on those roads being thrown open Free of Toll for the present week. Elgin street will also be found a very convenient way of reaching the grounds, and particularly for those wishing to go on foot, the sidewalk being now continuous from the Russell House corner to the gates. Next, those coming into the city from the West End, will find a good road down the Concession line, between the Race Course and the Mutchmor Property, leading from the Sherwood Estate. A number of steamboats (it is said eleven), will ply between the Fair Grounds and the canal basin, thus affording a very pleasant means of visiting the grounds. Two wharves have been built, one for the McNaughton line, and the other and upper one for the different boats to ply on the route during the week, the ownership of which I am not aware. It is needless, of course, to speak of the different stages and busses to run from the city to the grounds, but merely to direct attention in this way to the fact that no lack of accommodation will be found in this connection.

Strangers, not finding lodgings on their arrival, will do well to visit the office opened by the Local Committee on Elgin street, opposite to the Post Office, where Messrs. Rathwell and Lapierre will be found ready to afford every needed information. These gentlemen are authorised, if found necessary, to employ means to convey persons to Hull and other available places contiguous to the city, for the purpose of securing lodgings. As to the rates to be charged by the hotels and boarding houses, no fears need be entertained that they will be extortionate. The terms can in all cases be learned from the books of the Accommodation Committee just named. The cab tariff will be found with every driver, and is printed in all the different "guides" lately issued. Parties going outside the city, however, (the Exhibition Grounds, for instance,) will have to make their own arrangements with the "Cabbies."

So much for strangers; and to our citizens permit us to remind them that no carriages are permitted within the ground, and that no family tickets, or tickets of any kind, are issued, the new patent turnstile being used, and the money—twenty-five cents—being collected thereat. Hoping you will permit the insertion of these remarks, most of which have appeared in some shape before,

I am, Mr. Editor, Yours, &c.,
A. S. WOODBURN,
Sec'y Ex. Com.

LUKE TRAVERS.

OR

On a Monday forenoon in May, 1845, a hot wind prevailing, a fire occurred in a tannery on a small hill, leading to the Upper Town of Quebec. There seemed to be no great danger. The destruction of Richardson's tannery seemed inevitable; but nothing more was apprehended. The tannery burned and the hides were removed, when a fire was discovered to the right and to the left. Combustion seemed to be spontaneous. A roof here and a roof there became ignited. It seemed impossible to extinguish the flames, which blazed forth in many places at once. The houses, nearly all of which were built of wood, went on fire simultaneously. Carts, vehicles of every description, the fire engines even were laid hold of by the devouring elements. There seemed to be no escape. Horses, cows, pigs, and human beings fell a prey to the flames. The devastation was on a scale which can only be considered as gigantic. Churches and shipyards disappeared in the avalanche of fire. An illuminated snow storm prevailed. Two or more houses were blown up by gunpowder, night, and rain came and two thousand houses had been eaten up with their previous inmates shelterless. The troops worked vigorously under General Hope; but nothing but the rain and Gods Providence secured the whole city from destruction.

Curiously enough the Honourable Louis Joseph Papineau had visited Quebec after a prolonged stay in France, whither he had drifted to avoid such casualities as sometimes happen to men of earnest dispositions and honourable motives, before the calamity occurred. He was met in the Upper Town and escorted to the St. Paul's market where he gave utterance to certain antiquated ideas in which responsible government had no share. Luke Travers looked upon the terror of the Government of a past age almost with reverence if not with admiration. But there was little to be admired in a man who had run away and left the heat of battle to be fought by Sir Wolfred Nelson, and whose return to Parliament showed that he had not made fitting progress with the times. Even Mr William Lyon Mackenzie had not got out of the rut of by gone days. He, too, harped upon the past, and could not see the outline of the present. The Family Compact was on both of their brains, and the country, nevertheless, was making wonderful progress. One thing Mackenzie said and it was good. Alluding to the position of Attorney General East then held by Sir George Cartier, Mr Mackenzie said the British Government offered one thousand pounds for my head and only five hundred pounds for yours' Both of these gentlemen have departed, and both did good in their day. Since then Parliament Buildings have been burned; itinerant Parliaments have existed, and railroads and ocean steamships have been created. Canada has risen from the position of an inconsiderable dependency to a Dominion. Wealth, power and consideration belong to her. There is every inducement to the industrious settler to cultivate the soil and make a home for himself.

CHAPTER III.

Luke began to think of the expediency of making a home for himself, and with that view the idea of taking unto himself a wife suggested itself. Of course there are always two parties to a bargain, and there are also friends to be consulted in matters matrimonial if the candidate for a lady's hand and heart acts prudently. Mr. Travers was not long in settling upon a fit and proper person to take the head of his table, but the forms of wooing were "fashions," and the lady was somewhat capricious. She was young, tolerably good looking, and had had more than one offer. Besides, Eliza had been spoiled from the cradle, and the old gentleman whom she called father doated upon her. This elderly gentleman was quite bold and had only one eye; but he had a clear head, a good heart, and some money. The daughter was fond of her father, and there was one sure way of reaching her. It was to court the father. He was accessible and seemingly desirous of securing Luke Travers for a son-in-law, the more especially as Eliza was fully determined to marry; and was engaged to a person for whom neither father nor mother had any great liking. The successful candidate was Luke Travers, and quite a change came over the spirit of his dreams.

Energetic, shrewd, and with a strong will of other own, she was essentially a managing woman, and calculated to guide a husband aright. Besides Luke was not a difficult person to guide, and was inclined to be observant of men and things, and there was much to observe. Municipal institutions were being established, those little Parliaments which govern cities and towns, and the country generally was emerging from that state of political chaos into which she had been thrown by the petty jealousies of rival factions. There was still a large force of Imperial troops in the country, but party bitterness was dying out. The French-speaking part of the population was being studiously conciliated. The Baldwin party fraternized with the Sullivans, the Lafontaines, and even the perpetual secretary, Mr. Dominick Daly, began to recognise the "nities" of the Duvals, the Carons, the Belleaus, the Chaveaus, and Cauchons of the period. The grumblers were now the English speaking races. The Hon. John Neilson had been discarded. A Black and a Burnet, however, represented the City of Quebec in the Legislature, but the esprit du sol filled the custom houses, the registry offices and the municipal offices in Lower Canada. Even Messrs. Black and Burnet favoured the restoration of the use of French as a legislative language equally with English, and the language of the descendants of those who, coming from Normandy, had occupied the country previously to Wolfe's conquest, was restored accordingly. A little later and the rebellion losses were made good; but this cost the country the loss by an incendiary fire of the Parliament Buildings at Montreal, and inaugurated a costly system of travelling legislation, now happily done away with. Freedom was at length dawning upon Canada. Military rule was disappearing. Government, administered by some deceased or decaying General Officer, was a thing of the past. Men of great tact and political acumen were appointed to rule and succeeded admirably in doing so. Sir Charles, afterwards Lord Metcalfe, the successor to Sir Charles Bagot, set the example. A man with a strong sense of what was due to the people, notwithstanding his education as an Indian, and consequently an arbitrary ruler, Lord Metcalfe secured to himself the respect of all classes of the people and of all parties of politicians. He was inexorably just, and would not succumb to the merely arrogant dictation of his advisers, and so they left him, with Mr. Daly as Secretary of the Province, supreme in power, but not unjust in the exercise of it. A few words about Lord Metcalfe and his times may not be amiss. Meanwhile, a few words of explanation in a general way relative to Colonial self-government.

The right of self government was long and sturdily contended for by the people of this province. Subjects of the British Crown, the inhabitants of Canada, less than thirty years ago, felt that liberty was not in the same degree extended to them as it was experienced by the residents of the United Kingdom—nay the inhabitants of that immense portion of the earth filled by the descendants or men who had struggled for and won for themselves and their posterity a real and telling voice in matters of government and religion, by judiciously limiting the powers of monarchy and aristocracy, a voice increasing in distinctness from the period of the expulsion of the second James until the accession of Her present Majesty, and constituting a United Empire, the like of which is unknown to history, were extended to the chief Government of the Empire. Governed by deputies and tyrannised over by their favorites, imported from the United Kingdom expressly to fill every office of profit, honor and emolument in the colonies, offices which ultimately became hereditary, the independent settler whether he went to Canada to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, the West Indies, the Far East, to British Africa, or British Asia, or went to the Antipodes of where he stood when breathing the air of freedom, found himself as much excluded from any share in the legislation of the land he lived in as a Russian serf. Him the lords and generals and their favorites spurned. Him, they were sent from "home" only to keep in subjection. He, who dared to exclaim against corruption and misgovernment, who complained of a limitation of his natural born rights and privileges was branded as a rebel. To collect facts and publish them was a crime punishable with repeated imprisonment and banishment, if not death. But human thought, although it often errs, has this godlike quality, that, in the end it always tends to the right. Types may be thrown into a lake, persecutions of obnoxious individuals may occur; but thought ever kept still and immovable for a time—shut up in an enchanted receiver from which the air of knowledge is thoroughly excluded—will only remain latent; let but a breath enter its prison house and it will awake, and ceasing to be compressible, grow and put a firm grasp on power. When the magic signet of Solomon is first opened there arises from it only a slight vapour gradually increasing to a cloud, but he who opens it is astonished to find that it rapidly becomes so large as to threaten him with destruction. It is a beautiful story, that in the Arabian Nights Tales where the fisherman draws up in his net the vessel sealed with the magic signet of Solomon, which so terrified him when he opened it. The metaphor showed how thought was imprisoned but when once the seal was off its prison house it grew so rapidly that it was beyond the power of man to force it back into the narrow cell from which it had emerged. In the Canadas, a multitude at last grew up who understood their rights, and demanded them. And great men arose who spake with the voices which echoed to them out of the recesses of nature. There arose a public opinion different from that held by the governing public, and as the first blow made at a system thoroughly rotten, seals its fate, the end was not long. Persecuted as were the Gouriays, the Mackenzies, the Papineaus and lesser men, right was on their side, and ultimate triumph the result. After all the straglings, the massacres, the sacking of houses, the burning of churches, and the confiscations of properties in '37 and '38, erring human thought, that Godlike quality which in the end ever tends to the right, triumphed. Absolutism gave freedom, conceded to colonial public opinion all that it had demanded, and struck a blow at a thoroughly rotten system, as it was supposed, forever. But the blow, it has recently appeared, has not been sufficiently strong finally to extirpate rottenness. Responsible Government! a form of administrating provincial affairs as nearly similar to that which prevails with regard to national affairs in Britain, as the elements of a new country will admit of, given at the instigation of Lord Durham as the panacea, was introduced into Canada eighteen years ago, and while such men as the Honorable Robert Baldwin stood at the helm of state public liberty was not encroached upon. By degrees, however, our Governors again obtained an ascendancy in the direction of public affairs greater than that contemplated by the Act uniting the Canadas, and which made it imperative that Governors should regulate their conduct according to the well understood wishes of the people. That which could not be done directly was done indirectly. Advisers, responsible to the people for their acts, were yet bound to keep secret nearly everything that transpired between the Governors and themselves in Council, and parliaments have, of late years, been so managed that men, rather than measures, have, but too frequently, received the countenance and support of parliamentary majorities. Dissolutions of parliaments have been resorted to, when no state interest required them, and have been refused when constitutionally demanded. Only in 1854 the House of Assembly unanimously remonstrated against a dissolution of parliament as needless, yet Lord Elgin dissolved it. Last year, without apparent purpose, Sir Edmund Head dissolved the parliament immediately preceding that now in existence; and yet, this same Governor, having been advised to dissolve parliament by a ministry formed at his command, refused to listen to such advice on the flimsy plea that it was harvest time, thrusting out of parliament those, whom he had called upon to assume the reins of Government, while his former advisers, having re arranged themselves twice within forty-eight hours, were suffered to remain in their places without the consent of their constituents, having previously been obtained, brought the business of a most unproductive parliamentary session, as far as business was concerned, to a close. Had such a proceeding been connived at by Lord Elgin immediately after he had declared at a public dinner that it was not his intention to be "a mere go'en calf," before whom the people of the country were idolatrously to prostrate themselves little surprise would have been evinced. But Sir Edmund Head had made no such boast. He had not previously pretended to set himself above the Constitution, but in submitting a portion of His instructions from Downing street to Parliament in the session of 1854-55, he virtually intimated that, in so far as the interests of England were not prejudiced, he would govern himself according to the wishes of the people over whom he had come to rule. It would have been well had he thus acted.

Personal.—Mr Davis, a prominent manufacturer of Montreal, is at present in the city and staying at the Russell House. He owns and conducts one of the most extensive cigar manufacturing establishments in America.

Marquee Erected.—A handsome and commodious marquee has been erected on the Exhibition Grounds for the use of the Local Exhibition Committee. A handsome Coat of Arms with the words, "Committee Rooms" adorns it.

A Trip by the "Maude".—On Saturday last Capt. McNaughton entertained a few friends to a trip from the canal basin to the show grounds and back. The hospitable skipper treated his guests well, and sent them home thoroughly satisfied with the craft, her officers and crew.

A Street Obstruction.—Several persons have been complaining of the obstructions existing on Metcalf street, arising from the building materials which are at present lying on that thoroughfare. There is one-third of the street allowed by law for such matter, but now at least there is all taken up by bricks, mortar, etc.

Protection from Fire.—The Fire and Light Committee with a view to protect the Exhibition Buildings have given Mr. Wm. Perry, of Montreal, 2,500 feet of hose to be used in connection with the Blake Force Pump, now in operation on the Fair Grounds, and exhibited by Messrs. Frothingham and Workman, of Montreal.

Illegal Liquor Traffic.—It is a sine qua non that no intoxicating liquor shall be sold upon the Exhibition grounds and yet yesterday there was any amount to be obtained, that is, by the production of the necessary amount of circulating medium. The county authorities should look after this infringement of the law in this respect.

Look Here.—For the Exhibition. For sale or to lend, one hundred dozen Knives and Forks, very cheap, at "Variety Hall," Sussex street. 3943 tf

City Council.—There will be a regular meeting of the City Council held this evening, provided it be possible to get a quorum together. The excitement of the Exhibition will, no doubt, interfere with the possibility of discussing so important a matter as the civic budget, which is the principal business requiring the attention of the City Fathers.

Numbering Houses.—Mr Gallagher has at last got to work numbering the houses on the various streets of the city and has already nearly completed both Sparks and Rideau streets. Patience and perseverance will accomplish a good deal in this tedious work. Mr Gallagher should also put up the names of the streets, in accordance with the recent change, on labels on the corners, as without this the numbers will avail nothing.

Beware of Pickpockets.—Let all who value money, watches and other valuables, lay them aside for this week, for the city is at present filled with members of the thimble-rigging profession. It is an impossibility for even an increased police force and an extra number of private detectives, now in town, to watch everything, so remember the Eleventh Commandment, "Mind thyself." A hint is as good as a wink to a blind horse.

A Heavy Train.—Seventeen passenger cars laden with passengers for the Exhibition arrived by the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway train yesterday morning. They very soon distributed themselves around the different hotels. The Montreal Base Ball Club arrived by the same train and are staying at the Union House. The match takes place between them and the Ottawa Club this afternoon at three o'clock on the Base Ball grounds foot of Elgin street.

Gendreau's shaving and haircutting saloon, No. 3 Rajotte's Block, Wellington street. Adele M. Gendreau, proprietor. 3921 tf

Iron Ore.—A fine assortment of iron ore and pieces of iron and steel recently manufactured at the smelting works of the Ottawa Iron and Steel Manufacturing Company in Hull, have been lying at the door of their head office in this city for the last few days. It will represent at the approaching Exhibition a new industry of the Ottawa Valley that may now be said to be fairly under way. Mr. Haycock, the Managing Director, had some of it tested in Montreal last week, and it is pronounced to be as good as any iron yet discovered in the world.

Broken Up.—Slater street presents a somewhat dilapidated appearance at the present time. Huge mounds of blue clay with all the paraphernalia requisite for excavating purposes annoy the residents of the locality. The steam traveller is at work there, and yesterday the pumps were at work getting out the superfluous water from the trench, and it was no easy task; several thousand gallons were sent down the wooden troughs into the canal, and quite a small cascade was formed close to Coward's coal shed. The work along Slater street appears to be about the hardest portion of the job the contractors have undertaken, the ground being of the stiffest nature.

New Church Opening.—The Presbyterian Church in New Edinburgh, which has been in course of erection for some time past, was opened on Sunday last for divine service. The Church, which is situated at the east end of Mackay street fronting on Rideau Hall, is a substantial stone structure, capable of seating five hundred people. It presents a very neat appearance, and is quite an ornament to the village. It cost about $6,000. The morning service was conducted by the Rev. John Bennett, of Almonte, who preached a most eloquent sermon. At the conclusion of the service a collection was taken on behalf of the building fund, which realized a handsome sum. The Rev. Mr. Moore officiated in the evening. The pulpit will be supplied for the present by the Ottawa Presbytery, until a pastor has been obtained.

Already on Hand—As the time for opening the Exhibition draws near it may not be amiss to mention the fact that the occasion will not be wanting, according to present indications, in the objectionable features usually attendant upon an uncommonly large gathering of people. We refer to that class of our fellow citizens who, as opposed to the Grangers, and honest people generally, rely rather upon the lightness of their fingers than upon the "sweat of their brow," as a means of obtaining a livelihood, but who are not overburdened with conscientious scruples about "interviewing" the pockets of unsuspicious and admiring Grangers, or of appropriating the gold watches of non-Grangers. It is said that several of those gentry came into town on Saturday afternoon, and are now stopping at different places in the city. It is to be regretted that there cannot be a preliminary classification of animals, and these "birds of prey" summarily consigned to their appropriate quarters—the Hotel de Langreil. If, however, in the course of events, of the next week, any of them find themselves domiciled in that institution we assure them that they will find the principal manager, Mr. Ie, although a very grave and sedate gentleman, willing to accomodate them, at least, during the present week.

Sidewalk Completed.—The new platform on Elgin street to the Exhibition Grounds will be completed to-day. It is marvellous the rapidity with which this work is being completed. It will confer an inestimable boon during the current week.

Telegraphic Enterprise.—The Montreal and Dominion Telegraph Companies have completed all the necessary arrangements for giving telegraphic facilities on the Exhibition Grounds. This will enable business men to have communication with a distance without having to drive into the city.

Pure Irish Frieze.—We invite visitors to the Exhibition to inspect our pure Irish Frieze, just imported. The best material manufactured for travelling coats. T. W. Kenny & Sons, Merchant Tailors and Gentlemen's Outfitters, 86 Sparks street, Ottawa. 394715

Death on Bruin.—A farmer named Macpherson, residing in Huntley, some thirty miles west of this city, succeeded in killing a large bear on his farm one night last week. He had been sitting up to watch him for several nights, and his patience was rewarded in the end by a successful capture of Bruin.

Board of Arts.—All the members of the Board of Arts and Agriculture for Ontario have arrived in town and taken up quarters together at the Clarendon House. The Secretary Mr. Hugh C. Thomson also arrived and will be found from to-day forward at his office at the north end of the Exhibition grounds.

Throwing Open of Tolls.—The Ottawa and Gloucester Road Company have accepted the sum of $300 in lieu of tolls on their roads leading to the city on the week of the Exhibition. It is pleasing to know that a compromise has been affected, for nothing would have detracted so seriously from the success of the Fair as to have such a nuisance exist in close proximity to the grounds.

Please leave your orders for stove piping now at Esmonde's. 3940tf

License Law.—The license law will be strictly enforced on the Exhibition grounds and on the roads leading thereto throughout this week. All parties who contemplate an infringement of the law in this respect are warned of the consequences. They are liable to a fine of $50 and costs for each and every time a sale is found to have been effected. If a party offended even twice in the one day it would be a serious drain on any profits that might be made through over anxiety to vend the accursed stuff that so detracts from the pleasure of any great gathering.

Crowding in to the Fair.—The first rush to attend the Fair began on Saturday. The different cars and steamboats brought in a large crowd in the morning and during the day. Over sixty car loads of live stock and freight came by the St. Lawrence and Ottawa road alone on Saturday. The bustle consequent upon such was evident throughout the day in the number of vehicles and strange faces that lined the streets. The arrivals of Saturday were again augmented by additional crowds yesterday To-day, however, will test the transporting facilities of both the cars and steamboats.

Visiting the Exhibition Grounds.—A good deal of interest was manifested at the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday, by both exhibitors and visitors. The former were working like trojans, and every five minutes seem to change the internal appearance of the palace, so much so that those who looked on were bewildered in their admiration. Thousands must have visited the grounds in the course of the afternoon. Bank street presented the scene of some great commercial thoroughfare, rather than a quiet, unpretentious avenue leading to the surrounding country. Confusion reigns supreme on the grounds, but by this evening order will have been restored out of the present chaotic state.

If you want a good shave, or your hair cut stylish, go to Gendreau's, No. 3 Rajotte's Block, Wellington street. 39 28 tf

Increase of the Police Force.—The Chief of Police, in accordance with instructions, has temporarily increased the force by 25 men for civic duty alone, and has issued decisive instructions as to their work for the present week. He has at the same time enrolled, at the request of the Exhibition Committee, an additional 25 men as special constables, who will act under the direction of Chief Constable Gordon on the grounds during this week In addition to this the Dominion Police, under Superintendent O'Neil, and a well organized detective force, will assist in watching light-fingered gentry, both at the Exhibition and in the city. The arrangements are as nearly perfectas they possibly can be for the protection of life and property during this eventful week for the Capital.

Fight on Bolton Street.—On Friday afternoon last a pretty serious fight took place on Bolton street between some roughs, who quarrelled over a game of cards in a hotel in that locality. The names of the participants in the fight were Wm. McDarby, John Lariviere, Fredk. Fellowes, and Benjamin Brooks. McDarby seems to have inaugurated the scuffle by hitting Lariviere and Fellowes in apparently lively manner. Then a general row took place, a number of innocent parties being inveigled into it. It lasted from about 2 o'clock p.m. until 5 o'clock, and during all this time a policeman never filed an appearance. At last relief came, and two of them were marched off to the station. The case was ventilated at the Police Court on Saturday, when Brooks and Fellowes were fined $5 and costs each, and the others discharged.

Another Stabbing Case.—The vicinity of the By Ward Market Square was the scene of another stabbing affray on Friday night last. It would seem that about six o'clock in the evening two drovers named Michael Carroll and Michael Duggan, got into an altercation in Mr. Dubois's saloon, on Clarence street, about some "drinks" that had been ordered. It finally resulted in an open quarrel on the public street, when Duggan received two stabs, one below the abdomen and the other in the shoulder, from a knife at the hands of his assailant. P. C. Little at once arrested Carroll and took him to the Police Station. Sergt. O'Keefe took charge of Duggan, and took him to the surgery of Dr. McDougal, on Rideau street, where his wounds were attended to. He was afterwards removed to his residence in Clarence street, where he lies in a very critical condition. The affair will be ventilated before the Police Magistrate this morning.

A Work of Art.—Mr. J. W. Webster, contractor for the New Post Office, showed a Times reporter on Saturday morning one of the finest works of art that has perhaps ever been witnessed or executed in this city. It consists of a model in plaster of the Royal Arms of the Dominion that are to be enacted in front of the new building. The shields of the Provinces, surmounted by a crown, and backed by flags, are beautifully designed, and the lion and shamrock on the right with the unicorn and the thistle on the left, are beautifully executed. The motto "Dieu et mon droit" is very legible, and the whole production is a credit to Mr D. A. Godard, who has been specially brought by Mr. Webster from New York to do the work. It will be placed in position this week at the Provincial Exhibition, where all those who admire works of art will have an opportunity of seeing it.

Provincial Exhibition.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL FAIR.

THE SITE AND BUILDINGS.

Hints and General Observations.

The thirtieth annual exhibition of the Provincial Agricultural and Arts Association of Ontario, commences in this city to-day, and promises, thus far, to be a great success. The weather has turned out favourable, which will tend greatly to promote the interests of so large and important a gathering. There are upwards of 6,000 entries to the various departments of the Exhibition, and by this evening the arrangements will be so far advanced that the Judges can get to work to morrow morning. In point of visitors, too, the Exhibition promises to even excel previous meetings, a fact that doubtless owes its origin to the many other attractions presented by the Capital for the admiration of strangers. That our city authorities have been alive to the importance of the occasion is an incontrovertible fact, which manifests itself in every turn a person makes in a southerly direction from the city. The leading arteries from the heart of the city leading to the Exhibition grounds have been improved and put in splendid condition regardless of cost. Platforms have been laid on Elgin and Bank streets to the limits of the city, and in the case of the former street, one has been laid right up to the grounds. The Government too, has come to the aid of the civic authorities, and caused the canal to be dredged to a sufficient depth to admit of steamboat travel from the canal basin to the grounds. These assurances of good faith on the part of the municipality, have no doubt led to the hearty reciprocation put forth by exhibitors in different parts of the Dominion. Now that the eve of the great event has come it may not be amiss to give a few hints and observations to strangers, as well as citizens, in connection with it, as will assist in the practical carrying out of the great fair.

THE SITE.

At the outset it may be as well to give the reader some idea of the site an general surroundings of the place in which the Exhibition is to be held. The Exhibition ground is the property of the City of Ottawa Agricultural Society, an institution founded some ten years ago through the energy of its present President, the Hon. Jas. Skead, and a few other gentlemen, their object being to establish at the Capital an Annual Fair, which should be to Central Canada what the Provincial Exhibition is to the Province of Ontario. In connection with the present enterprise the City Corporation assisted the Association to the extent of $20,000 and as a joint committee superintended the outlay of this money. The grounds in extent occupy 27 acres, and are situated about a mile from the city on the bank of the Rideau Canal. No site on which the Exhibition has been held could be better adapted for the purpose. The ground is dry, level, and sufficiently irregular in form to prevent its looking stiff or formal, and its immediate proximity to a large body of water guarantees its coolness in the hottest and driest weather. It is bounded on the south by the Rideau Canal, and partly on the north east by a small bay or tributary from it. The eastern portion of the grounds are shady and pleasant, and admirably adapted for show purposes, as the trees afford a grateful shade to the cattle and sheep pens, while the water is easy of access; in fact there is no place in the Dominion so well suited for holding an Exhibition. There are a variety of ways by which the Exhibition grounds can be reached, and to recount them here, might prove of interest to strangers in the city. They can be reached by steamer from the canal basin via. the Rideau Canal, on which, during the week, will ply a great number of steamers and small boats. Persons going by this route will be landed on the south side of the grounds, where they will enter by a turnstile located there for that purpose. Another way is to start from the Russell House corner, and proceed by busses and stages on Elgin Street, leading directly into the Exhibition grounds. They can also be reached via Bank Street, where vehicles will run from Sparks Street to the west side of the grounds at a nominal sum for the whole week. Still another way is open for people who do not care to mingle in the throng that must incidentally crowd Elgin and Bank streets. People can start from the Albion Hotel, and by way of Nicholas Street and the south bank of the canal reach the Fair grounds by crossing the swing bridge. It will thus be seen that there is every facility of transit to and from the great Fair.

THE EXHIBITION BUILDINGS.

The buildings in connection with the Provincial Exhibition comprise the Crystal Palace or main building, a horticultural hall, poultry hall, horse stables, cattle sheds, hog and sheep pens, telegraph office, police station, carriage shed, machinery shed and the head office for the Board of Arts, and smaller offices for the Secretary and Superintendents. The cost of the buildings and site will reach altogether fully $50,000, an amount which speaks volumes for the enterprise with which our citizens have gone into the work. The Crystal Palace, although not very elaborate in design, presents a splendid appearance. It has been built more with a view to accommodate the great number of people and articles of industry that it is expected to contain. It is of an octagon shape, the centre being 92 feet in diameter, and the eight wings around it 60 feet in length. The principal entrance faces Bank street. It is situated near the centre of the site, and has a view of lofty grandeur that favorably impresses the spectator as he approaches the building. The architect, Mr. Mather, deserves credit for the neatness of style of finish in the details of so extensive a work, and a great deal of praise is also due Mr. R. Whyte, the contractor, who so energetically gave practical effect to the fine design, and who completed his entire contract on Saturday night. The height of the main hall, from the floor to the top of the dome, is 92 feet. Just opposite the front entrance are stairways leading to the gallery, which extend all round the building, and is strongly braced and supported, the whole giving an area for exhibition purposes of nearly 25,000 square feet, being the largest hall of the kind in Ontario, exceeding the Crystal Palace at Toronto by nearly 4,000 feet, that building having an area of 21,000. This building will be devoted to fine arts, musical instruments, painting, sculpture, ladies' work, inventors' models, mineral specimens, &c., &c. The building is admirably adapted to prevent crushing and confusion among the immense concourse of people who are expected to visit the Exhibition, as each of the wings are constructed to give ample means of egress and ingress, the stream of visitors being directed in a regular route. On each side of the wing which forms the front entrance to the building, are apartments set aside and furnished for the superintendent's office, lady judges, judges, reporters, and the post office. At various points throughout the building drinking fountains supplied from the city waterworks, are placed for the convenience of the public. This is a new feature, such a provision never having been made at any previous exhibition, and one which visitors will, doubtless, duly appreciate. The Horticultural Hall lies to the north of the main building and is a commodious structure. It is of a cruciform shape, the main building being 165 feet long by 36 wide. The wings are situated at the centre, and measure 20 feet by 36. A beautiful fountain plays in the centre of the building. The Directors themselves state that it is the finest horticultural hall they have ever had. It has been tastefully ornamented with festooning of evergreens and artificial flowers under the direction of Sergt. Lambkin, who deserves every credit for the artistic manner in which the work has been done. Mr. Fleming, Florist of Toronto, who has special supervision of this building, arrived on Saturday and is now in charge. The Poultry Hall is situated not far from the last building. It measures 175 feet by 24, and is divided down the centre for its entire length by a triple tier of coops facing both ways. There are 400 of these coops, and judging by the number of entries, their capacity will be fully tested. The carriage shed is built on the ground near the isthmus, and is 250 feet long by 24 wide. The vehicles will be ranged along each side, leaving a passage for visitors through the centre, it being arranged that they shall pass in at one end and out at the other. The Machinery shed, which will no doubt be an object of considerable attraction, is situated on the peninsula extending into the canal, and will be in running order by this evening. Mr. Bayley of Montreal has his monster engine nearly ready for work, and when the whole gets in motion it will present a grand view of mechanical skill and ingenuity. It measures 200 feet long by 32 wide. It is strongly constructed of stout timber to stand the strain of steam power. The shaft to which belting for running the various machines is to be attached is placed in the centre of the building, supported on brackets and extending its entire length. Messrs. Bartley & Co., of the St. Lawrence Iron Works, Montreal, are the contractors for supplying the steam power. Most of the machinery came by water, and was landed in position from steamers and barges. The Horse stables are three in number two of which are of equal dimensions measuring 230 feet and the third 210 feet, all being divided into stalls opening outward on each side, all floored, well ventilated and provided with feeding troughs These stables will afford accomodation for 274 horses. Should this, however, prove insufficient there are plenty other stalls situated along the boundary fence which can be utilized. The cattle sheds are two in number, measuring 300 feet by 24 feet each, and containing 219 stalls. There are two buildings devoted to the use of sheep. They measure 240 by 16 feet each, and are divided into 120 pens, accommodation which is considered ample for this class. The hog pens are in the same place as at the last Ottawa Exhibition, but largely increased in number, and extending eastward along the southern boundary fence from the south-western corner of the grounds.

AUXILIARY APPLIANCES.

The horse ring is situated about a hundred yards east of the great hall, and measures 250 by 300 feet. A raised covered stand for the judges occupies the centre of the ring, surmounted by a lofty flagpole. As this will be a great centre of attraction a substantial fence of convenient height has been built on the circumference of the ring, with gates at each of two points—east and west. The cattle rings are six in number, and are located in convenient localities for their exhibition. Water troughs are placed at fixed points, supplied from the city waterworks, and will prove useful in supplying the animals with water. In addition to the buildings before enumerated, are five refreshment booths where those in need of refreshments can have their wants supplied, There are also two barns where the contractor for the supply of provender, Mr John Nelson, of Nepean, has laid in a large stock of hay, straw, oats, &c. Flag poles project in every direction from the various buildings, and to-day when the bunting is unfurled to the breeze the grounds will present a gay appearance. Turnstiles are placed at the different points of entry to the grounds, through which access to them alone will be had. The admission fee will be 25 cents.

PROGRAMME FOR THE WEEK.

The attention of visitors is directed to the following programme, which will materially assist them while in the city to see the Exhibition:—

Monday, 20th.—This day will be devoted to the final receiving of articles for exhibition, and their proper arrangement. Officers and members of the Association, Judges, exhibitors, delegates, members of the press, and necessary attendants, will be admitted on presenting the proper credentials, badge, or ticket of admission. Other persons will be admitted on payment of twenty-five cents each time. The rules for admission will be the same throughout the exhibition.

Tuesday, 21st.—The Judges in all the classes will meet in their respective Committee Rooms at 10 a.m., and will make arrangements to commence their duties. On receiving the class books they will be also furnished with the blank prize tickets, which they shall fill up and affix in each section as soon as they shall have finally determined their awards. HOTEL ACCOMMODATION.

Strangers coming to the city will naturally feel deeply interested as to the kind of accommodation to be afforded them while temporary resident in a crowded city. There are as many good hotels of large cities, and as most of them have omnibusses running to both the cars and the boats, much difficulty need not be experienced in finding them out. Among the first class houses might be mentioned the "Russell House," "Union House," "Windsor House," and "Clarendon House," in any of which accommodation, including every convenience, is afforded guests. They have supplemented their accommodation, too, within the last week with temporary means of meeting the great rush of the present week. Those desirous of securing hotel accommodation at more moderate rates, can obtain it at the "Albion Hotel;" "Royal Exchange," "British Lion," "City Hotel," "Revere House," "Anglo-American," Goulden's hotel' "McCaffrey's Hotel" and other well known second and third class houses. Should there be a lack of accommodation after these sources have failed, then visitors will have to place themselves in communication with Messrs. Rathwell and Lapiere, appointed by the Local Committee to attend to such matters, when they will be sure to be accommodated in some of the many private houses that have offered to take strangers during the Exhibition. Their office will be found directly opposite the Post Office, on Elgin street. In addition to all this, the ladies' of the Wesleyan Methodist church have taken Thos' block, on Sparks street, in which they have placed hundreds of mattrasses and bedding for the accommodation of strangers. Lodgings can be here obtained at moderate rates. The authorities, assisted by private enterprise, have done all in their power to provide accomodation, being determined that all strangers who visit the city may go away impressed with the hospitality of the people of the capital. There will be ample means of enjoyment in the city during the week too, The Shaughraun troupe under the management of Mr. E. A. McDowell, have leased the Grand Opera House for a short dramatic season. Mr. Cool Burgess will also appear during the entire week in Gowan's Hall, Sparks street, in a first-class Variety entertainment; The Guard's Band will give their last open air concert in Parliament Square, on Wednesday evening, winding it up with a grand entertainment in the Rink Music Hall at night. Altogether the capitolians and their transient visitors will have a week of festivities, in fact a regular jubilee.

HINT TO STRANGERS.

Many who come to the capital for the first time will be more or less interested in seeing all points of interest in and around the city. To acquaint themselves with these they had better invest in a five cent guide book. As these, however, cannot be seen without perhaps hiring a cab, it would be as well that strangers glance carefully over the subjoined tariff of charges regulating the rates of cartage to different parts of the city:—

TWO HORSE VEHICLE.

1. For the conveyance or carriage of any number of passengers not exceeding four, in a carriage, sleigh, or other vehicle drawn by two horses, when hired by the hour, or when the time occupied amounts to or exceeds one hour—

For the first hour	$1.00
And for each subsequent quarter of an hour	0.25
And for each additional passenger for the first hour	0.20

ONE HORSE VEHICLE.

2. For the conveyance or carriage of any number of passengers not exceeding three, in a carriage, sleigh or other vehicle drawn by one horse, when hired by the hour, or when the time occupied amounts to or exceeds one hour—

For the first hour	$0.75
And for each subsequent quarter of an hour	0.10
And for each additional passenger for the first hour	0.20
And for each subsequent quarter of an hour	0.05

3. For the conveyance of one passenger from any of the Carter's Stands, or from one part of the city to one or more places consecutively, in said city, provided the time occupied in conveying and waiting for such passenger

Does not exceed fifteen minutes	$0.25
And for each additional passenger	0.10
If time occupied exceeds 15 minutes but not 30 minutes	0.40
And for each additional passenger	0 15
And for each subsequent 10 minutes after first 30 minutes	0.10
And for each additional passenger	0.04

But if the time occupied continuously whilst any such vehicle shall be in the employ of the same person or persons amounts to or exceeds one hour, then the rates by the hour as aforesaid shall only be proper and legal, and no higher rates shall be legal.

4. That each passenger shall be entitled to take with him or her one trunk and other baggage to a reasonable extent, free of charge, and it shall be the duty of the person in charge of any such vehicle to load and unload the same free of charge.

The REJUVENATING WATERS so much sought for in years long past.

Invalids! Attention!

Dyspepsia, Derangement of the Digestive Organs, Dropsy, Diseases of the Skin, Affections of the Liver and Urinary Organs are positively cured by using the water for a few weeks.

Rheumatics! Read!

Hundreds of Rheumatics have been cured by the Sulphur Baths. Suffering is alleviated by the first, and cripples throw away their crutches after about half-a-dozen baths.

TESTIMONIALS.

"Montreal, 28th July, 1876.
"I hereby certify that I entertain a very favorable opinion of the Baths and Waters of the Caledonia Springs in many forms of disease, among which I would especially mention chronic Rheumatism, the stigmias of Gout, Neuralgia, some of the varieties of Cutaneous disease, Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, and in carefully selected cases, some of the diseases of the Kidney and Bladder.
(Signed) GEO. W. CAMPBELL, A.M., M.D.
Dean of the Medical Faculty, McGill College.

Dr. Wm. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1859:—"But the disease above all in which the action of the water is most decided is Rheumatism. . . . I have known a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the waters.

ACCOMMODATIONS.

A magnificent new hotel, capable of accommodating 300 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accommodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa River is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until the railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the conveyance of visitors to the Springs. The distance of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 65 and 50 miles.
Mr. W. CHAMPNESS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horses, saddles, &c. There is a good race-course on the property of the Company.
The CANADIAN WATERS at these Springs will yet make Caledonia the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seekers. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

TELEGRAPHIC SUMMARY.

The recent trouble between the whites and negroes in Mississippi, is still the subject of correspondence between the Washington Cabinet and the State authorities at Jackson, Miss. Governor Ames has again communicated with Attorney General Pierrepont, at some length, stating that the necessity which called forth his despatch of the 8th instant, still exists; that the unfortunate question of race, which has existed ever since the war, has assumed magnified proportions; and that it is an impossibility for the negro to obtain his rights under white domination; but the Federal Government, profiting by past experience, declines to interfere directly in the matter.
The Turkish Government has sent a note to the Servian Foreign Office, requesting information as to whether the Sublime Porte may rely upon the neutrality of Servia, pending the troubles in Heregovina and Bosnia. The Servian Chamber of Deputies are still discussing in secret the future policy to be pursued by the government.

GOWAN'S VARIETY HALL.
Cool Burgess.
This popular variety artist was greeted with a bumper house last evening, on his re-appearance with the Townsend Family. Mr. Burgess' entertainments being entirely free from that vulgarity which is almost invariably the concommitant of travelling variety troupes, are usually accorded in this city a larger share of patronage of the better class; and the audience of last evening certainly comprised a goodly number of the elite. No great number of strangers having yet arrived for the Exhibition the audience was mostly recruited from city people, although there were present not a few new faces. There are always large numbers to be found who prefer clever and original variety to theatrical entertainment. Such people we would advise to attend the performances of Mr. Burgess and his talented troupe, which are remarkable no less for cleverness than for freshness and originality. Mr. Burgess himself was last evening, as he usually is, the centre of attraction. He brought with him several new songs, such as "Coming Home from the Ball," "Cameron Men," &c., all of which must soon become as popular as his old ones, being both cleverly written and set to very pleasing airs. It is needless to say that they were all encored, and that Mr. Burgess, as accommodating as ever, responded with some of the old favourites. The performance opened with a highly interesting Swiss drama entitled the Orphan of Geneva, in which the several parts were ably sustained by the Townsend family, assisted by Messrs. C. Sutherland and W. G. Smith. The piece is one that has had a long run in London, and is not wanting in thrilling incidents. The great fire scene in the second act was so successfully brought forward that many amongst the audience mistook the arranged fire scene for a genuine conflagration, and made signs of a disposition to bolt. But as the majority kept their seats, they soon became reassured. Mr. John Townsend, as the Wily Lawyer, Mr. Harry Townsend, as the Count de Marville, and Miss Constance Townsend, as Theresa, sustained their parts generally in a manner to win especial commendation. The Virginia Mummy, in which Mr. Burgess undertook the leading role of Ginger Blue, concluded the performance. A complete change of programme is announced for to-night, and each night during the week.

GOWAN'S OPERA HOUSE.
The Shaughraun Company.
Mr. E. A. McDowell's Company opened last night in Lester Wallack's Comedy Drama of "Rosedale," and it must be satisfactory to that gentleman to know that his bringing again to the city a first class company, met with the appreciation of a large audience. The play was excellently placed on the stage, and the new scenery which has been painted, is a improvement upon most undoubtedly was used. The that, and gentlemen who compose the corps dramatique are all artists of acknowledged ability, and who have already gained a good reputation in their various lines in the histrionic profession. Mr. McDowell in the role of Elliott Grey, was as usual, gentlemanly and effective, and Miss Kellogg, a recent addition to the company played the part of Lady Florence May, with a grace and an amount of good taste, which has seldom been witnessed on the stage of an Ottawa theatre, and she will, whenever she makes her appearance in this city be sure of a good reception. Matthew Leigh was played by Mr. Fred. O. Smith, in but a mediocre style, his mannerism and jerky utterance of his lines, did not by any means add to the effective pourtrayal of what is one of the most important characters in the drama. Mr. Felix J. Morris as Bunbury Cobb, a quaint old sporting squire was unimitable, and was worthy of Compton or Rogers in their palmiest days. Mr. Swinbourne as Miles McKenna was good, albeit he was a trifle stagey. Miss Selina Rough played the part of Sir Arthur May with an ability which would have done credit to one more experienced on the boards. Rosa Leigh was represented by Miss Fanny Reeves, who besides having considerable talent combines the advantage of possessing a naivete and personal charms which renders her acting doubly pleasing to her audience. Tabitha Stork, who didn't believe a word of it," and kept Matthew Leigh under an iron rule of thumb, was one of the best pieces of character acting seen here for some time, and Miss Florence Vincent may well be congratulated for it. The other characters were well sustained, and taken all in all, the entertainment was one which afforded the greatest satisfaction to the large audience assembled. The ball scene at the conclusion was an excellent one, the back ground representing a conservatory with an arched roof, being most picturesque and effective; but it might not be out of place to drop a hint that it is not usual on any occasion, except when members of the Royal Family are present, or on their natal days, to display the Standard of England, as was done in the ball scene. The Ensign, or Union Jack, is correct enough, but the former is not. The company appear again to-night, and every evening during the week.

Extensive Iron Works Suspended.
LONDON, Sept. 20.—The Richmond Iron Works at Stockton upon-Tees, comprising twenty-six furnaces and rolling mills and employing three hundred hands, has suspended.

Returned From an Inspection of the Erie Railway.
Sir Edward William Walkem, who has just returned from an inspection of the Erie Railway, has published his report, in which he describes the permanent way of the Erie Railway as quite equal to the standard in the United States, but the rolling stock, he says, is defective. The net revenue of the line is only 21 per cent of the gross receipts, and the outstanding debts of the company are equal to about fourteen months' profits. Sir Edward would not raise new capital in the present state of the company's credit, but advises bondholders to devote the earnings of the line towards paying off the debts, and to issue a certificate for mortgage interest. President Jewett is highly spoken of, and the bondholders are advised to support him to the utmost. A paper has been signed securing to English interests a substantial influence in the Ottawa, on the company proceeding to place the whole business on an intelligible footing Review of the Corn Market.

The Mark Lane Express this evening, has the following review of the corn market for the week. The last gathering of harvest in the South of England has been well secured. The usual consequence has insured and the reduction in the price of wheat has been unusual, say from one to two shillings per quarter—as our averages, however, are only one shilling and sixpence above those of last year there seems to be little room for further depression as money goes begging. It may find profitable investment in the corn trade. The French claim that the growth has exceeded their wants by about 3,000,000 quarters. The Paris market has been steady for flour fine wheat, though it is about a shilling easier for inferior new. In the provinces there has been very little change. On the continent generally there has been but little movement, the markets in some places in Germany being firmer, and in others much easier. In Holland prices have only declined a shilling, and in Belgium hardly that, but in Hungary with better supplies there has been a decline of two shillings per quarter, and the same is the tone of Denmark. Holders at Odessa still demand higher prices.

The Insurrection.
A special from Berlin to the Times says the Porte is endeavouring to impress on foreign powers the necessity of fixing a date for the termination of consular mediation in insurgent camps. The Turkish Government, in view of possible military requirements, hastened the construction of the Sophia, Nisch and Bohjaluta railway to be pushed with the utmost dispatch. The telegram from Vienna to the Express gives the opinion that the Turks have now had time to occupy in force the Bosnian frontier. The chances of renewing the insurrection in Bosnia have vanished.

Reported Engagement.
There is reported an engagement yesterday between the insurgents and the Turkish Brigade, which resulted in the retreat of the Turks. The insurrection continues to spread

The Daily News' correspondent at Vienna telegraphs that the Turks have a force of 48,000 men concentrated on the frontier of Servia.

A Drain on the Bank.
Fifteen thousand pounds sterling were drawn from the Bank of England yesterday for America.

GALVESTON.

A Destructive Gale.
GALVESTON, Sept. 20.—During a storm on the 17th the steamship Australian loading with cotton from Liverpool went to sea and was driven ashore at St. Bernard, 60 miles west. Her surgeon and mate arrived to day and reported her lying in 7 feet water—no lives lost. The bark Edward McDowell, which was discharging at the wharf, was blown over on a point of Pelican Island, in Galveston Bay. It is thought she will be got off with slight damage. A steamer was driven from the docks, and broken to pieces and is a total wreck. A number of her crew are reported lost. Dr. H. W. Peet, health officer of the port, was at the quarantine station with his family on the evening of the 16th. He sent his family to the city, except a little grandson. On the evening of the 16th the storm increased, the water rose rapidly carrying away buildings, and the last seen of Dr. Peet and the little boy they were in the old fort, a short distance from quarantine. It is supposed both were lost. The Government building, with all the material on hand which was being used in the harbor improvements were swept away. A number of men employed on the works came to the city on the 16th and the water carried away the buildings Twenty seven men clung to the piling through the night, and all except two were saved by tugs on the following morning. Dwelling houses on the eastern point of the Island and along the beach on the south side were damaged by water and houses blown down and washed off. In the central and business portions of the city very little damage was done. It is estimated that $2,000,000 will cover all losses to property. At Bay Ridge many telegraph poles were blown down railroad culverts and the track washed off. The damage above on the bay and bayous is reported very great. Commodore Morgan's fleet of dredge boats are reported driven ashore and a number wrecked. At Harrisburg and Houston there was a terrific gale, and the water was driven up from the bay higher than ever known before. One hundred miles to the north along the entire coast it is feared great damage was done at Indianola and western ports.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

There is something in a name, even in this day and in this country, although people pride themselves upon how much education and civilisation have done for them as compared to the silly and ignorant folk of Shakspeare's time. Then education as we understand it was a rarity, and even the rich could make no boast of their learning. It is doubted very much whether the great poet himself was profoundly educated, as that term is generally understood, though it is not strange the particular manner in which he acquired his information in regard to men and things should excite the present age, seeing that he acquired a great deal of it somehow, and made a good use of it. It is the fact that we have not that contempt for names and specious titles which we profess to have. The way, for example, in which our Tory friends have gone through the dictionary for a designation, and the particular one they have at last chosen, is the latest proof of the fact stated we have to offer. "Tory" long since ceased to have any charm for them, and "Conservative" would have excluded the numerous soreheads and renegades who found refuge within their ranks—without whom, indeed, their attenuated numbers would have been thinner still. Mr. Tom White was the inventor and patentee of the "Union and Progress" political trade mark, but that soon lost its witchery, and the party scornfully repelled the hint thrown out by well-intending spectators that an easy way out of the difficulty would be to adopt the cognomen of the "Pacific Scandal Party." That, we take it, will nevertheless be the title by which history will make them known to future generations. When newspapers were neither so cheap nor so plentiful as they are now, some enterprising individuals occasionally attempted the issue of less expensive kinds of literature, which were contemptuously styled "catch-pennies." So Liberal Conservative, being neither Tory nor Grit, may safely be termed a "catch-vote," or vote-catcher. Mr. Roebuck, a prominent British politician and member of Parliament, is reported to have let loose the same kind of a cat the other day at the Cutler's banquet, Sheffield—a cat which he has been attempting to keep in the bag for a good many years past. Mr. Roebuck, it is needless to tell, began his political career as one of the most advanced of Radical, who saw no good, and much positive evil, in every existing institution; and who claimed and received the support of the Republicans of Sheffield, because of the iconoclastic policy he advanced. Indeed, he proposed to pull everything that existed down, and put everything that could be imagined up instead. He is now no longer a young man, and in truth the soundness of his Liberalism has been the more doubted the older he grew. He has at last admitted the fact, and declares that as all the measures which he in early life as a Liberal had desired had become law, he was satisfied, and he saw no necessity for further radical changes. There are lots of people like Mr. Roebuck, and there were a great many of them when he entered public life, whose one characteristic is an undying belief in the superiority of their individual judgment. When what they conceived wrong has been reformed, there is, in their opinion, no necessity for further change, and other people's opinions to the contrary are treated with the utmost disdain. It is doubtless a weakness, but one which is never found in a great statesman. Those who quote the declaration of Mr. Roebuck as against further reform ought to remember that the same argument was just as sound when Mr. Roebuck was himself a Reformer, although his own confidence in himself did not permit him to think so. We have more than one counterpart of Mr. Roebuck in Canada, just as Mr. Roebuck has several compeers in Great Britain—men who, while professing to be Liberals, range themselves with the enemies of Liberalism, and by their capricious attempt to bring disgrace upon the cause. That advancement which must measure its pace to suit the fancy of individuals like Mr. Roebuck, is not advancement at all. It would be just as nearly right to say that the world ought to stop its annual or diurnal revolutions, or nature cease to accommodate itself to the seasons when these men die, as to contend, because they happen to think so, that political reforms are no longer necessary. It is a fortunate thing for them, however, when they do get divorced from the party in whose midst their erratic notions and intense personal vanity have been breeding disaffection, that they know of a haven of rest—a refuge where they and all their kith and kin are welcome—the Tory party. All is fish that comes into that particular net—especially about these hard times.

MONTREAL WEST.

Nomination of Mr. Thomas Workman.

From the Montreal Herald,

Thursday night last a large attendance of the Reformers of the Western division of Montreal was held at the Reform headquarters, Hon. Mr. Penny in the chair, Mr. Stillwell acting as Secretary.

The Chairman informed the meeting that very much to his regret, to that of, he was sure, all present, and the Reformers of the division in general, their late candidate, Mr. Frederick Mackenzie, had declined to be again a candidate for the division. He might say that this determination had been come to notwithstanding considerable promises of support from Mr. Mackenzie's electoral friends, and he might especially mention that a gentleman in the room, of the French Canadian race, had assured him that he believed on this occasion Mr. Mackenzie would have a very full vote of the Reformers of that nationality. However, Mr. Mackenzie, after looking over the whole ground, had decided to withdraw, and it now became their duty to select another gentleman whom they would judge to be a fit candidate to represent their interests and to carry aloft in triumph the ever conquering flag of Reform in the western division.

It was then moved by Mr. A. Cross, seconded by Mr. Fred. Mackenzie, that Mr. Thomas Workman be invited to accept the candidacy of the Reform Party in this division.

Carried unanimously.

It was then moved by Dr. O'Leary, and resolved, that the thanks of this meeting are due, and are hereby tendered, to Mr. Frederick Mackenzie for the services that he has rendered to the division during a period of arduous conflict.

Mr. Mullarky then stated that the nomination of Mr. Workman had been made as a Reformer, but that it would be absolutely essential to his success that he should be able to declare himself frankly in favour either of protection or of reciprocity, so that American manufactures should not be permitted to flood our markets, while they raised a barrier against any importations from this country.

It was thereupon suggested that Mr. Workman should be requested to come to the meeting, and Messrs. Hugh MacKay and Mullarky acted as a deputation to invite his presence.

Mr. Workman, after some delay having arrived in company with these gentlemen, stated, after being informed of the subject of the invitation that, if returned to Parliament, he should insist upon a policy which would protect our manufacturers from unfair competition with the goods sent over to relieve the glut in the American market. He mentioned also that in conversation with the Premier on this subject with a view to a possibility of his being invited to present himself for that Division, Mr. Mackenzie had said what justified him (Mr. Workman) in believing that, though he would be an absolute free trader in England or Scotland, he was not prepared to see, in our circumstances, a system of free trade that allowed of the ruin of our manufacturers, and would legislate to prevent it, so far as he should receive the support of the majority of Parliament. For his own part he was, he believed, one of the oldest manufacturers of the city. He had at the beginning lost a great deal of money, but had persevered, and he well knew the difficulties under which manufacturers laboured. He wished to alleviate these things, but he was not in favour of excessive protection, such as that which prevailed in the United States, an' which was protecting to death one industry after another. He would accept with great pride the nomination offered to him, provided it were ratified by his fellow citizens, to whom he would take an early opportunity of explaining his views at a public meeting to be called for that purpose. He wished it to be understood that he did not seek the arduous duties of a member of Parliament, but would much rather avoid them. He could not refuse to serve his fellow citizens and the Ministerial party, if they judged him to be the most suitable man to carry the division, though he must say that for his own part he feared they might be mistaken in that particular, (cries of "no, no.")

Mr. Mullarky said that the statement of Mr. Workman was one upon which there was no doubt the division could be carried in the Reform interest to which he (Mr. Mullarky) had and always would belong though he felt that it was necessary to do something for the protection of the manufacturers of the city. He wanted no protection himself but objected to his neighbour's animals running over his field while his were refused admission on his neighbour's field. He entirely approved of the proposal of Mr. Workman to address himself to a public meeting and to explain his views upon public matters. He was perfectly certain that no manufacturer in the division would refuse to vote for Mr. Workman.

Mr. S. Davis gave some figures respecting the tobacco and cigar trade. He praised the present Ministry for what they had done in its favour and especially the politeness shown to him by Mr. Cartwright, and said he wanted even more protection than they had given them.

Mr. Hugh Mackay remarked that no Conservative manufacturer who did not love his party more than protection could vote for Mr. White against Mr. Workman, and it was evident that Mr. White, even if in Parliament, would be powerless to effect anything.

Mr. T. S. Brown remarked that the objection made by England to differential duties might be overcome by selecting a list of goods which came mainly from the United States and imposing duties on those goods, no matter from whence they came.

Mr. Workman then retired at the invitation of the chairman, and in his absence the following Executive Committee was appointed to meet to-morrow at three p.m. at Reform headquarters:—Messrs. F. Mackenzie, M. M. Mullarky, J. H. Joseph, James Howley, D. O'Leary, A. Hamilton, O. Heavy, Hugh Mackay, Henry Hogan, C. J. Devlin, Duncan McIntyre, N. Valois, Geo. Smith, T. S. Brown, chairman, Joseph Barsalou.

Ralston's Drowning

A young broker, who was swimming near Ralston, when the latter first went into water, says:—

I saw Mr. Ralston about half past three o'clock coming out of one of the dressing rooms, after he had taken a shower bath. He looked as cheerful as ever. I saw nothing unusual in his manner of appearance. He entered the water and swam toward an old boat lying about 300 yards in front of the Smelting Works. He is the best swimmer in town. In about fifteen minutes after he entered the water—he was about half way between the smelting works and the boat—all at once he seemed to throw himself over on his side and dive once or twice, when he was seen no more. The bath house keeper went to his assistance immediately in a boat. I then entered to dress myself, which I did as quickly as possible. After dressing I ran along the beach and jumped over the fence belonging to the smelting works, and when I arrived on the other side of the works I found three or four men rolling Mr. Ralston on a barrel. A great deal of water came from his mouth. After a while Dr. Newmark came up. The Doctor and I tried to stimulate artificial breathing. I knelt down and blue into his mouth a quantity of mucous issuing thereupon from his nose. The doctor ejected the air from his body by pressing on his stomach. We continued this for about an hour and a quarter. Meanwhile others were rubbing his hands and his feet and limbs with salt and sand to irritate the skin. Artificial respiration was also produced by elevating and lowering the arms constantly. The first half hour success seemed to crown our work, his body getting warmer and his face recovering some of its natural colour. We kept this treatment up until a French physician arrived, who examined him and pronounced him beyond hope. We then ceased our efforts to resuscitate him. My legs and lungs began smarting, and as I heard several in the crowd say that Mr. Ralston had taken poison I began to fear that I had been inoculated. I then went to Churner, the druggist on Bush street, who said that my symptoms of pain were the consequence of too much exertion in forcing air into Ralston's lungs. Two other boys were bathing at the same time that I was.

Alfred Fanley, a boy, is the person who last saw Mr. Ralston in life and conscious. The boy was himself entering the water at the time for a bath, and Mr. Ralston asked him whether the water was cold. Fanley, remarked, "No, not very cold; it won't be very cold after you get in." Mr. Ralston plunged in and swam out a considerable distance, and the boy kept him company. About 100 yards off shore the boy thought he had proceeded far enough, and, himself turning, shouted to Mr. Ralston to return also. Mr. Ralston did not heed the warning, but kept right on, seeming to fully luxuriate in the recreation, and the boy saw him round the steamer Bullion and pass it. The steamer was at anchor directly to the north of the lead works.

STATEMENT OF THE WIFE OF THE KEEPER OF THE BATH HOUSE.

Mr. Ralston was in the habit of visiting our bath house at irregular intervals during the last three months. He always reached the bath house at about half past six in the morning. Last Monday he did not arrive until about nine o'clock a.m., which was also the last time he visited the baths until to-day. He never visited the baths in the afternoon. He always rode out on a large black horse. To day he reached the baths at about half-past 3 p.m., and was perspiring freely, having evidently walked over the high sand hill back of the smelting works. He went into the dressing room and disrobed. His general habit was to leave his clothing in the dressing room, but upon this occasion, after he had disrobed and donned his bathing costume, he brought his clothing to my house and handed it to me with the remark that they contained valuables and to take good care of them. He was in his usual good humor, and joked with me and those present. His appearance was in nowise different from that manifested on previous occasions. He entered the water and swam about three hundred yards in a straight line north from the bath house, then turned at right angles and swam about the same distance towards the smelting works. He then turned and continued swimming toward the smelting works. When about 150 yards from the smelting works he was seen to sink twice; but I thought he was only diving, which was a favorite pastime of his. But noticing that he did not rise I called my husband, who went to his relief, but the engineer at the smelting works succeeded in reaching the body first.

HOW THE REPORT OF POISONING AROSE.

A careful scrutiny of all the circumstances refutes the supposition which at first obtained credence that Mr. Ralston either attempted or contemplated suicide. On the day of the bank failure Mr. Ralston was as collected and free from nervousness as it is possible to imagine any man to be, and he conversed with the reporters quietly and in a perfectly self-possessed tone. He had evidently made up his mind that the crisis must be faced in a manly way, and with much to unnerve him, he carried himself through the ordeal of communicating the bank's shattered position with a fortitude truly admirable. Yesterday Mr. Ralston was at the bank giving all the assistance in his power to aid the investigation that is progressing. He seemed a little flurried and worn out with the excitement, as if he had passed the night restlessly, but was temperate and courteous in his conversation, and was not averse to granting audience to visitors, many of whom called at the bank during the morning. There was nothing in his manner to warrant the slightest suspicion that the thought of self-destruction had crossed his mind; and in the fact that he went to North Beach, as was his custom, in the afternoon for a bath, there is no rational ground to suppose that he went there otherwise than with the object of enjoying a swim and refreshing himself. No strong swimmer, such as Mr. Ralston was, would dream of suicide in this fashion. The probabilities are, as the physicians suppose, that he was seized with an apoplectic fit, and, losing consciousness, floated with the tide inertly until he was picked up. It is possible that the drowning may have been due to cramps; but of this the indications are not so apparent as those which suggest apoplexy.

Frederick Glambont, who reported the occurrence to Richards at the bath-house, makes the following statement, which seems to confirm the statement of the physicians:—I was out at North Beach taking my daily bath. I saw a man swimming out from the bath house, and swimming very strongly. He would raise his head out of the water at intervals and shake it to get rid of the water as a strong swimmer does. When he got opposite a boat that was floating outside in the water, I saw him jerk his head up and down very quickly, and then I heard a man say, "That man is drowning." I ran to the keeper of the bath and told him so, and he said, "Great God! that is William C. Ralston!" I said "You get the oars while I shove the boat into the water." The boat was too small for two men to go in, so the bathkeeper went alone. Before he got to the body another man had picked it up and was taking it to the end of the North Point wharf when I hailed him, and said, "Bring that man here; he will die before you get him to the wharf." He said "He is dead already." I said, "Never mind, bring him here." He did so. When the body was landed I began to try and restore it, according to directions that I had read to be followed in such cases. The heart beat strongly, and he had a good pulse. We tried for some time, about ten or fifteen minutes, and then his face got blue, and we knew he was dead.

The story that Mr. Ralston had poisoned himself evidently had its origin in the following circumstance:—Near the spot where Mr. Ralston put on his bathing dress a boy picked up a bottle containing a dark mixture. The bottle was examined by a reporter, and was found to contain a cough mixture. Mr. Richards himself had thrown it away, but the incident served as a foundation for the report that Mr. Ralston, before going into bathe, had drank of some lotion from a vial, and then going into bathe had succumbed to its effects.—*N. WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have with stood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P.Q., writes, 'I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and since then had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throat, &c., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Ruan, Township Percy, writes: "I was persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or, our years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit." A. Mr. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes: "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr. Maybee, of this place, induced me to try Electric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine.

OR

The government of Canada devolved upon Sir Charles Theophilus Metcalfe at an unfortunate period, the war of races in the Provinces having been renewed. Sir Charles Bagot's position, too, had been a most painful one. Bagot had only secured the esteem rather of a party of politicians than the respect and confidence of all classes of the people. The theory of responsible government was yet ill understood, and the working out of the system considered impracticable.

Even of the ablest men in the Province some were displeased with the forced legislative union of Upper and Lower Canada at the close of a period of rebellion and bloodshed; and to this dissatisfaction was to be added a discontent, arising from a failure of harvests for many years; a general derangement and depression of trade and industry throughout the commercial world; a decreasing revenue, large expenditures, a heavy Provincial debt, and the misrepresentations, intrigues and contests of individuals for power and emolument, aided by incessant appeals to the various prejudices which prevailed in the country, connected with national origin, and even with religious belief. More, Governor Bagot was ill. In mind and body he had been long ailing, and was now, when his wife and family had arrived, expecting to make a long stay in Canada, looked upon as a dying man. Daily bulletins were issued by physicians concerning his health. He was one day improving, another day worse; one night he slept easily, another night he scarcely slept at all. He was even tortured with addresses of condolence. If the Catholic clergy promised to remember him in their prayers, some wrong headed fellow thoughtlessly twitted him about the effect of Te Deums. While some prayed for their noble Governor, others were inclined to fight for him. In the county of Frontenac the inhabitants ranged themselves on two sides and fought together about the wording of a valedictory address. It was thus, when on the 18th of March, 1843, Sir Charles Bagot sent an aide de-camp to Boston to meet his successor. On the 29th of March, when that successor reached Kingston, Sir Charles Bagot had become alarmingly ill, and on the following day, when amid the roar of cannon Sir Charles Metcalfe assumed the administration of affairs, Sir Charles Bagot it was officially announced, had passed a restless night. A month later, and Ex Governor Bagot died at Kingston; on the morrow his body, placed in a coffin, was on board the Queen's steamer Traveller, attended by Lady Bagot and her family, for Oswego and New York, from thence to be taken to England. Sir Charles Metcalfe had literally stepped into the shoes of a dying man, who had left him a legacy, which he would rather have been without—an exhausted treasury, commercial depression, and political discontent. But Sir Charles Metcalfe had an exalted sense of duty, an overwhelming sense of justice, and was generous to a fault. He was too generous to ascribe that to the policy of his predecessor, which, in some measure, originated with persons of more energy and of less distinction. In his replies to the four thousand addresses which were presented to him congratulatory of his assumption of the Government, from every principal city and from the remotest counties of the Province, Sir Charles Metcalfe reproved the excessiveness of party spirit which prevailed, and expressed deep and unfeigned sympathy with Sir Charles Bagot. He made one memorable and striking remark—"More depends upon the inhabitants of a province than upon the Governor." And in so saying, he spoke truly. Canada owes nothing to her Governors, but all to herself. Sir C. Metcalfe knew that Canada had obtained for herself an investigation into grievances long countenanced by her Governors, which had produced Lord Durham's report, effected responsible Government, the Union of the Provinces, and equal rights to all classes of the people. He came to do justice. He came to hold the balance of power, and, if possible, to preserve such an equilibrium of party as would enable him to administer the Government with a view to the interests of all. He came to rule, as all Governors do, and he meant to rule openly, not covertly. Of all men then living he had the least horror of truth. It was his very nature to look upon men and things in a natural aspect. He could not only distinguish black from white, but he could perceive every shade of principle. In addition to great common sense, he had great conscientiousness. He never shirked responsibility and never coveted it. All that he aimed at was honesty, which through life had been with him, as it ever is with others the best policy. Sir Charles Metcalfe had risen from the ranks of the vulgar by his energy of character, his aptitude for business, and above all by a sterling integrity which it was impossible for him to conceal. The wisdom of the weak he was thoroughly wanting in. Cunning had no place in Metcalfe's mind. He was so frank that it may be said of him as has been said of Bishop Burnet that which was not a secret to him was not long a secret to anybody else. His soubriquet, in a Masonic sense, fully described the man; he was indeed "old square toes." Everything he uttered was upon the square. Examine it this way or that, his language ever quadrated with the truth. That such a man could please all parties in a Province in which the object of party men of the highest standing had been, to conceal the truth or so exaggerate it as to make it have the likeness or stamp of falsehood, was not within the bounds of possibility. Lord Metcalfe was not to succeed, because Sir Charles Metcalfe could not simulate: but Lord Metcalfe was to carry with him to the very grave that respect which belonged to plain Charles Theophilus Metcalfe, who in 1800 began his career as a writer in the civil service of the East India Company—that respect which honesty of purpose never fails to secure—that kind of honesty which has made plain George Washington really great. The new Governor had long served with distinction in India, and had risen to the distinguished position of Governor General of that country by merit. Educated in England, he received the best education that Eton could afford, and was besides, in every sense of the word, a diligent student. His studies were extended far beyond the narrow limits of his school books and even of the dead languages into the more flowery fields of French and Italian literature. Nor did he ever relax in his studies: he made himself thoroughly master of both the languages essential for the conduct of diplomatic affairs—oral and written—in North Western India, keeping at the same time such a hold upon his classical acquirements that he read some Greek, as he frequently assured his friends, every day of his life until the toils of office deprived him of all leisure for even that favourite pursuit.

Metcalfe was the son of a Director of the East India Company, a retired officer of the Indian army, and a fervent admirer of the then Governor General, Lord Wellesley. On this account he was early placed in situations where he had opportunities of displaying his great natural abilities and of acquiring habits of prompt decision and confident self reliance. In 1808 he was appointed Envoy on a special mission to the Court of Runjeet Singh to form a defensive alliance with Runjeet against an apprehended invasion by the French, then in close alliance with Russia. Runjeet was crafty, and gave the young envoy enough to do. A force of British troops, under Sir David Ochterlony, came to the Sutlej to add weight to the words of the diplomatist, and to bring about the celebrated treaty signed at Umritsur. Metcalfe was next appointed Resident at Delhi. He restored the Delhi canal, and endeavoured to raise the character of the people. He pointed out how wealth could be accumulated—how security would engender providence—how commerce and education would be promoted—how the people would be elevated in the social scale, and rise to a height of moral and intellectual grandeur never attained by them before, without fear of consequences, believing that the world is governed by an irresistible Power, which giveth and taketh away dominion," and that "all that rulers can do is to merit dominion by promoting the happiness of those under them." Twenty years of uninterrupted success and advancement, terminating in the attainment of the highest station in the Government of India, failed to debauch the simple integrity of his understanding, or to abate the homage which he paid to great principles—"If, he said, in 1835, the argument be that the spread of knowledge may eventually be fatal to our rule in India I close with them on that point and maintain that whatever may be the consequence, it is our duty to communicate the benefits of knowledge. If India could only be preserved as a part of the British Empire, by keeping its inhabitants in a state of ignorance, our domination would be a curse to the country and ought to cease. We are here for a higher purpose—to pour the enlightened knowledge and civilisation, the arts and sciences of Europe over the land, and thereby improve the condition of the people. Nothing surely is more likely to conduce to these ends than the liberty of the press." Metcalfe next appeared as Secretary to the Supreme Government in the political Department and as Private Secretary to the Governor General, the Marquis of Hastings; but soon surrendered these offices to fill the post of President of Hyderabad, where he found nothing but corruption, extortion, the most atrocious misgovernment and consequent anarchy, and soon came in disagreeable contact with the money lenders, whom, in spite of the Governor General, he overthrew and returned to Delhi, after having reformed Hyderabad Metcalfe was next Governor of Agra, and shortly afterwards Provisional Governor General of India, "on the death, resignation, or coming away" of Lord William Bentinck, remaining in the latter capacity for nearly a year. It was in this latter capacity that he lost the countenance of the Indian Court of Directors, in taking upon himself to repeal the laws, which fettered the press. Under his predecessor the laws which shackled the expression of public opinion had been revived, while Silk Buckingham had been banished from Calcutta for offences in the Calcutta Journal, which nowadays would hardly ruffle the temper of the most thin skinned of public functionaries by Mr. John Adam, the successor of Lord Hastings. Governor General Metcalfe contended that a vent for the expression of the feelings which an unpopular measure excites, gives an assurance to those, who conceive themselves injured that their complaints are at least made known and must attract attention, that the benefits arising from the liberty of the Press outweigh its mischiefs—but meeting with no sympathy from the Court of Directors resigned his high offices and returned to England reaching that land of the free in May 1838. In England the Indian Governor was still the same conscientious friend of freedom and the supporter of the right. Having some idea of mixing in English politics, he did not shut his eyes to what was going on around him. The condition of Ireland was then wretched, the chief difficulty of every administration, no administration cared to get rid of the chief cause of its being so. Either they did not see, or would not see, the cause. Sir Charles Metcalfe considered it to be his duty to point it out, and he with this view wrote a pamphlet on Church and State, in connection with the wrongs of Ireland, which was printed (in 1838) by Brown & Stirrett, printers, 17 old Bond street, London, to be privately circulated among the leading Conservatives of England, who were on terms of intimacy with himself, but which was afterwards suppressed. In that pamphlet Sir Charles Metcalf thus addresses the opponents of progress:

The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. The Public are respectfully invited to examine his STOCK of WALL PAPER before purchasing elsewhere.

Local Intelligence.

ON THE LOOK OUT.—Inspector McVeity will be on the look out for violaters of the liquor law at the exhibition grounds. Offenders will need to be careful.

BASE BALL.—The base ball match between Montreal and Ottawa, postponed yesterday on account of the inclemency of the weather, will be played this afternoon.

CORRECTION.—The funeral service of the late Rev. S. Rivet will be sung at 9 a. m. on Wednesday, at the R. C. Cathedral, Sussex street, and not on Tuesday, as stated in the Free Press.

PATENTS OF INVENTION RAPIDLY PROCURED, and information gratuitously supplied, by Messrs. Gibbs and Courcelle, Victoria Chambers, Wellington Street, opposite the Western Block. 3949b6

NOT CORRECT.—The "Heney" and "Chaudiere" steam fire engines will not as reported compete during the exhibition as the former is away undergoing repairs, having been damaged at the Arnprior fire.

CITY COUNCIL.—Owing to the numerous and responsible duties necessarily devolving upon the gentlemen composing our City Government, during the Exhibition, there was no meeting of the City Council last evening.

ENTERTAINING GUESTS.—His Worship Mayor Featherston entertained the members of the Board of Arts and Agriculture, and other friends, last night, at O'Meara's Hotel. A very agreeable time was spent.

FRUIT.—Those desirous of procuring fruit for preserving or other purposes, will find it to their advantage by calling on J. E Shanley, Bedard's Block, York street; who has just received a large consignment of peaches, Bartlett pears, grapes, apples, &c.

THE GUARDS' BAND.—The officers of the Governor General's Foot Guards express considerable astonishment at the rumored action of the Board of Arts, by which their band will be debarred from competition to-morrow for the prizes offered for Bands of Music, as no intimation of any such intention had been communicated to the commanding officer.

TIMBER LIMITS.—The reader's attention is especially directed to a sale of timber limits announced elsewhere. They are of great extent, 100 square miles, and are covered with the best red and white pine, besides offering other advantages for the manufacture of saw logs. The limits are the property of Mr. A. W. Powell, of this city, and we are sure purchasers will be treated with great consideration. The manufacturer of lumber might see something to his advantage by interviewing either Mr. Powell himself, or Mr. Francis Clemow.

REMEMBER that Baskerville & Brothers, direct importers of general groceries, wines, liquors and provisions, cannot be competed with for low prices. Teas, coffees, sugars, wines, liquors, tobaccos and cigars, the most reliable qualities sold by them. All desiring to get the most value for their money will give them a call. Cheese, crackers, hams, pork, extra large bags salt, and Labrador herrings, sold low for cash. Remember, 36 Rideau street, Sussex street, north of Murray street, Duke street, and their wholesale, George street, second to none. 3948tf

THE WONDER OF THE DAY.—A Moose trotting in a sulky will be exhibited on the Hutchmor Park during Exhibition Week on the 22d and 23d inst., between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock p.m. After many years trial the proprietor has at last succeeded in capturing, taming and training a beautiful large moose. The capturing and training of moose has been tried by different parties; but no one has ever before succeeded. What will most surprise the spectators will be to see such a wild animal so well trained and so kind. This will be the only chancy to see it as the proprietor has already made arrangements to cross to Europe with the animal, champion of the forest and squarest trot in the world. 3948t3

NOVEL DOOR LOCKS.—The Provincial Exhibition could scarcely be said to be opened for the inspection of visitors yesterday. The disagreeable state of the weather had a discouraging effect; but the different buildings were being rapidly occupied, and there was, indeed, very much worth seeing in many of the departments. In the main octagonal building there is a stall occupied by "Griffith's Patent Lever Mortise Locks." They are entirely without springs, quite new in design, of excellent workmanship, and do not and cannot go out of order. Highly approved of, recommended and used by architects, contractors, builders, land surveyors, editors, hotel proprietors, bank managers, civil engineers and wholesale merchants, they are indisputably the best and cheapest lock ever invented for bank, public buildings, offices, warehouses, hotels, hall doors, and private dwellings. We repeat, a patent movement has been instituted for the old spring action in locks, and the new lock is protected by patents in England, the United States of America, and the Dominion of Canada. One great recommendation is that these locks will wear for years without any attention, and the knobs being secured to, and forming part of the lever, can neither drop off nor become loose. Messrs. Langley, Langley & Burke, architects in Toronto, say that they "are admirable in construction, calculated to bear almost any amount of wear, and especially adapted to public buildings, being also handsome in appearance, and very suitable to private buildings." Mr. Fisher, Manager of the Ontario Bank, Toronto, says: "Your lock works with great ease, and is at the same time perfectly secure." It is almost unnecessary to add that these locks received an extra prize at the Provincial Exhibition in 1874.

Provincial Exhibition.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL FAIR.

THE OPENING DAY.

Arrival of the Products.

Yesterday witnessed the opening day of the great Provincial Exposition of the Province of Ontario, and contrary to general expectations the day was wet and disagreeable and anything but favourable to the reception and arrangement of the products and other articles that were pouring into the great Fair. The disagreeable weather, however, did not in any way thwart the exertions of the many hundred exhibitors, who worked with the industry of bees to bring order out of the chaotic mass of stuff that lay scattered around the Crystal Palace, or in the Exhibition Grounds. As the day wore on the result of untiring energy soon manifested itself in the varied and well assorted collection of different articles brought to the ground, being placed in position, but not all of them, as it will take almost the whole of to-day yet, before the Judges can get to work. The machinery, which excels in number and variety that of any previous Exhibition, kept coming in all day, and was being put in the place allotted for it as fast as men could get it there. Mr. Bartley has his monster engine ready, and is waiting patiently to supply the motive power which is to propel the vast array of machinery which will soon be in position. The whole is expected to be ready by noon to-day, when it will be set in motion. The engine has a driving capacity of 50 horse power, and in addition to putting the ordinary machinery in motion it will feed the Blake force pump, which is designed to do duty as a protection against fire on the premises. Although a day almost exclusively for exhibitors, yet thousands visited the grounds and watched with intense interest the work that engrossed the attention of exhibitors and the officers of the Association Mr. A. McNab, President, Mr. Ira Morgan, Vice President, Mr. Hugh Thomson, Secretary, and Mr. Henry Anderson, Superintendent, were indefatigable in their endeavours to have things arranged and put in order for the judges. A strong detachment of police and special constables under the direction of ex Sergeant McVeitty patrolled the grounds and Bank and Elgin streets, a fact which gives assurance for an ample protection from any breaches of the peace that may ensue. Exhibitors hail from the far west and from the Eastern provinces as well as from the United States. The refreshment booths are all filled with good things for supplying the wants of the inner man, and were to some extent liberally patronized. Without the grounds and all along down Bank street are an endless number of booths for vending drinks and eatables to the crowds that line this thoroughfare. Elgin street has also a number of similar booths, but nothing like the same number. The "Metho list Church Board and Lodging House" did not receive so much encouragement as might have been expected, owing to the bleak, dirty weather, which made the grounds and the roads approaching to them uncomfortable. The object of this Luncheon House, purchased chiefly through the instrumentality of Mr. Peter LeSueur was to raise additional funds in aid of the new Wesleyan church now in course of construction on Metcalfe street. Mr LeSueur was present himself doing duty, apparently, as Treasurer. It is certainly to be hoped that this effort to obtain money for the church will be successful. Notable amongst the visitors on the grounds yesterday were the Hon. Mr. Letellier, Minister of Agriculture; Hon. R. W. Scott, Secretary of State; Hon. David Christie, Speaker of the Senate; Hon. James Skead, Mr. J C Rykert, ex-M. P. P., Dr. Burnett, of Hamilton, and other prominent members of the Board of Arts. There was great rejoicing amongst carters and the general public at the removal of the tolls form the leading thoroughfares, as thereby a most grievous nuisance was averted.

MEETING OF BOARD OF ARTS.

A meeting of the members of the Board of Arts and Local Exhibition Committee took place in the Council Hall, in rear of the Secretary's office, at 10 o'clock a. m. yesterday. Amongst those present were, Messrs. A. McNab, President; Ira Morgan, Vice President; Hugh C. Thompson, Secretary; Senator Christie, Dr. Burnett, Hamilton; Andrew Wilson, Maitland; E. L. Shipley, London; Chas. Rykert, St. Catherines; Geo. Graham, Treasurer, Sheriff Gibbons Goderich; I.B Aylsworth, Newburgh; His Worship, the Mayor, Hon. James Skead, A. S. Woodburn and other members of the Local Committee.

Mayor FEATHERSTON with a few appropriate remarks, handed over the buildings to the Association, which were accepted in a formal way by the President.

Senator CHRISTIE and other gentlemen spoke in the most flattering terms in regard to both the site of the exhibition grounds and general appearance of the buildings.

A vote of thanks was accorded the Mayor and Corporation and citizens of Ottawa generally for the great efforts put forth in the interest of the present Exhibition.

The offer of the Governor General's Foot Guards Band to play at the Inaugural of the Fair, this afternoon, for the sum of $60, was accepted, provided they would withdraw from the band competition on Wednesday.

Mr Ira Morgan, Vice President, and Treasurer Graham were named a committee, to distribute badges and tickets to those entitled to receive them.

The Secretary read a number of replies from prominent men in both the Dominion and the United States, to invitations extended them to visit the Exhibition, expressing regret at not being able to attend.

The Lieutenant Governors of Ontario and Quebec wrote to the effect that they would be present at the Exhibition.

The meeting then adjourned, in order to allow the various Committees to get to work.

LIVE STOCK.

Horses.—In this department there is a lively competition, a large number of entries having been made. There are 22 entries of blood horses, amongst which are some of the finest animals that perhaps ever graced the turf or took part in the hunt. Among the competitors we find the names of Messrs. A. F. Coleman, of this city, and Mr. Andrew Wilson, of Bearbrook, Russell. There are 87 entries for Roadster horses, many of which have not yet arrived. Amongst those to be seen yesterday were some very fine animals indeed. For carriage horses there are 53 entries, which is a very large number. In this class a number of competitors from this section are entered. Among them are Messrs. John Clark, Nepean; S Tucker & Son, Clarence; T. H. Murcott, Arnprior; Thos Scott, Duncanville; Andrew Wilson, Bearbrook; Thos. Good, Nepean; Robert Brownlee, North Gower; Robert Lee, Gloucester; Patrick Buckley and Allan Gilmour, Ottawa; Wm. Rodden, Plantagenet; Sandford Fleming, Hon. Jas Skead, Alonzo Titus, S. Daniels, Ottawa; D. H. Williams, Billings Bridge. In agricultural horses there are 103 entries, and in this class most of the gentlemen above named are also competing, as well as others whose names we could not learn There are 109 entries in the heavy draught horses. The show of Clydesdales is large, and for the most part splendid animals are exhibited. Mr. John Clark, Nepean, has his celebrated horse, A 1, King of the West again on exhibition and he was greatly admired. There are some splendid heavy draught horses from Western Ontario. Mr. Wm. Eadie, Russell, exhibits his celebrated imported horse Campsie Jock for the first time at a Provincial Fair. Among those exhibiting younger animals, are the following from this district: Messrs M. Craig, North Gower; Nicholas Clark, Gloucester; Michael Rock, Nepean; Wm. Hurdman, John Paget, Wm. Fenton, Gloucester; Thos. Clark, Nepean; T. M. Clark, Ottawa and A. McKellar, Nepean. On the whole the exhibition of horses is good and said to be better than that of previous exhibitions.

Cattle.—There is an apparent falling off in the number of entries of cattle this year, but of those entered there is a good show. The greatest number of entries is in the Durham or Short Horn class. This section of country contributes largely to this department Thos. Clark, Nepean, exhibits Fawsley's Dipthong, a splendid four year old Durham bull. J. & W. Thomson, Nepean, show Royal Prince, another fine animal of the same age. Messrs. S. Tucker & Son, Clarence, exhibit a fine three year old Durham bull. The Hon. James Skead exhibits his celebrated Durham cow Marigold. He has also entered a one year old and two year old Durham bull, and a six year old Galloway bull. The Hamilton Bros. have brought a herd of Devons from their Gatineau farm, comprising a bull, three cows and two heifers. Mr. George W. Eaton, of Nepean, exhibits a fine herd of Ayrshires, nine in number. One of the lot is the three year old bull Ottawa Chief, which Mr. Eaton purchased from Mr. Rodden, of Montreal. This animal took a prize at the last Provincial Exhibition, and has taken several prizes at other shows. A seven month's calf was also an object of much interest to visitors. Mr. Wm. Rodden, of Montreal, exhibits two herds of Ayrshires, a young herd and an aged herd. Several of these animals have taken first prizes at previous shows. Some of them were imported from Ayrshire and the Jersey Islands, and the remainder were bred at Mr. Rodden's farm, Plantagenet Springs.

Sheep.—The pens in this department are pretty well filled up, but there are a great many more said to be on the road yet. The contributors are to a great extent from the West, the largest number being from Guelph, Brampton and Markham. Messrs. John Dawson, Nepean; and Albert Hagar, M.P., Plantagenet, exhibit some fine Cotswolds. A few from this section have also entered into competition in the Leicester class. Beyond these, however, local entries are very limited. A better opportunity will be afforded to-day of speaking of the merits of the sheep.

Pigs.—There is a large number of entries in this department, and consist principally of "small breeds," "Berkshire," "Suffolks," "Essex" and "large breeds." They are pronounced by those who are competent to judge, to be a fine collection. As in the last there are a great number yet to come. Messrs. Nicholas Clark and Joseph Baskeville, Gloucester; Satchell Bros., Ottawa; G. W. Eaton, Nepean; and others contributed largely from this section in "Berkshires." The Satchell Bros. and Robert Johnston, Gloucester, also furnished a few of the different other breeds.

Poultry.—The poultry shed is situated at the extreme north end of the grounds, and as yet the coops are poorly filled. The intending competitors were, however, pouring in during the afternoon, and by noon to-day there will be a good display of the feathered tribe. Of those that were on exhibition the specimens were good, and it was pleasing to know that many of the contributors were from the Valley of the Ottawa We shall be able in another issue to do more justice to this Department.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

It is quite impossible, at present, to notice satisfactorily the different agricultural implements and the machines on exhibition. There was nothing complete. Workmen were everywhere busily engaged placing and arranging goods, fixing on the wheels of the various carriages in the carriage department, and there was, in a word, more confusion than order everywhere. There were grain and seed drills, seed sowers, mowing and reaping machines, self-binding reapers, threshing machines, separators, smut machines, cultivaters in iron and wood, steam ploughs, portable steam engines, ploughs of various descriptions, horse hoes, clod brushers, land presses, harrows of iron and wood, rollers, sulky horse rakes, pea harvesters, potato diggers, root cutting machines, carts, sleighs, brick making and flax pulling machines, grain tiles, shovels, grain scoops, cheese presses, churns and chopping axes, all of which will be fully noticed and their merits commented upon hereafter.

It may not be unworthy of remark that the room for carriages and sleighs, is in sufficient and that an addition to that part of the building, is absolutely necessary. Some of the carriages are very handsome.

HORTICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

The Horticultural department promises well. The roots were excellent and there were some fine specimens of the tomato. A fountain played in the centre of the tables over which the decorator, Mr. T. Lambkin, had placed, with much taste, festoons of flowers. The room, however, was not by any means filled up. One long table was wholly unoccupied, and another table only contained some fine cauliflowers, blue egg plants, and pumpkins. All this will be remedied before the grand opening day and it is to be hoped, as is fully believed, the Exhibition in all respects will be a complete success.

THE INTERIOR OF THE PRINCIPAL BUILDING.

Yesterday the inside of the main building presented a most chaotic appearance; articles for exhibition kept arriving every moment, carpenters were at work, spectators were bustling to and fro, and to a considerable extent interfering with the operations of both workmen and exhibitors. A considerable quantity of stuff was sent in, but the task of getting it into position was no easy one. The ladies appeared to be the most assiduous in placing articles of fancy work on view, and that department appeared to be the most advanced of all. Some excellent specimens of needle work were shown, and Miss Hislop, of Toronto, superintended the arrangement of the display. One thing noticeable in this section was some handsome wax flowers, made by Mrs. James Hickey; another fine specimen of the artificial florist's art was shown by Mrs. Duncan, and the taste displayed by both ladies is most creditable. In the fine art's department nothing had been done toward hanging the pictures, and Mr. Laird, of Toronto, with his Manager, Mr. Jackman, who have charge of that particular portion of the Exhibition were in despair over the non-arrival of about half a dozen cases of valuable paintings and engravings, which by some unaccountable means or other have been delayed on the road from the West. However, Mr. Cresswell's handsome water colour and oil paintings are ready for hanging, and some of Mr. Forbes' arrived just as the gates of the grounds were closing. Mr. Verner, also of Toronto, has some well executed portraits, but it was next to impossible to judge of their merits, inasmuch as they were mingled with landscapes and figure drawings. To-day will give a better opportunity for visitors to obtain such a view of the productions of the various artists, as will enable them to form a pretty good idea as to their attainments in the limners art. Musical instruments appeared to be scarce, but probably to-day will see a large increase in their number. Saddlery, harness and all kinds of horse equipments, began to come in rapidly about half past five o'clock, and the portion of the building set apart for that, was about the best filled up of the whole structure. The hardware department was pretty well supplied and some extremely handsome stoves and bedsteads were shown by Mr. H. Meadows, of Sussex street. Nothing, however, was completely settled into its proper place, but by noon to day something like a system will be arranged. By the way, a suggestion was made by a well known judge of art, that the picture gallery has been located in the worst possible position, inasmuch as all the paintings will have a side light instead of one from the roof—a skylight over one of the wings would have answered the purpose most admirably. Some most elaborately got up coffins attracted a great deal of attention; some were covered with blue velvet, with silver handles and plates; others were of iron, lined in the most luxurious manner, white satin, down pillows, and all the various furnishings which tend to rob King Death of his terrors, that is, so far as the dismal trappings are concerned. There are some very fine specimens of the house painters and cabinet maker's trade, of which further mention will be made so soon as the whole of the specimens are placed on exhibition. Some painted doors from the establishment of Mr. J. Kimber, of Montreal, were greatly admired, as was also some very tastefully executed specimens of sign writing and panelling. Mr. W. G. Rawbone, of Toronto, exhibits a most ingenious little implement for creasing and charging cartridges; and also some handsome and well finished rifles and fowling pieces. There was, at six o'clock, a cheering prospect of order ruling to-day, and the various departments being ready for the inspection of the public.

Ontario Fruit Growers' Association.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the members of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association was held last night in the County Council Chambers at the Court House, Daly street. There were present the Rev. Dr. Burnett, President; the Hon. James Skead, Ottawa; Messrs. D. W. Beadle, St. Catharines; Chas. Arnold, Paris; Wm. Saunders, London; J. P. Macpherson, Ottawa; A. Vandusen, Grimsby; A. M. Smith, Grimsby; P. C. Dempsey, Albury; E. P. Buck, Ottawa; J. J. White, Ottawa; J. C. Ryker, St. Catharines; J. Thorburn, M.A., Ottawa, and several other gentlemen who take an interest in the culture of fruit in this Province.

The Secretary read the minutes of the last meeting which were confirmed.

The Directors report was also read and adopted. It was of a lengthy nature, and conveyed some ecomiums on the Ottawa Valley as a grape growing country.

During the reading of the report Messrs Ira Morgan, Stephen White and R Graham, members of the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association, entered the room.

The report was ordered to be printed and the Secretary announced that there was a balance in the hands of the Treasurer of over $86.

The next business was the reading of the President's address, which was to the following effect:

ADDRESS.

The close of our horticultural year finds us assembled in the beautiful metropolis of the Dominion. No place can have more inducements than this to stimulate our efforts as an Association to go forward in our march of improvement for the occupancy of the whole land. In this city, we have the grand in nature, the exquisite in art, and the lovely in landscape. All combine to urge attention on our fellow citizens and fellow countrymen, to be up and doing in further adorning the magnificent scenery around with the beautiful features of Pomona, and to fill to overflowing the already autumn burdened barns of the agriculturist with the rich and juicy fruits of our orchards, bringing in their use happiness and wealth.

When, in due time, this city and neighbourhood, mainly through the exertions of the members of our Association, are made beautiful through abounding plantations of apple, pear, cherry, and hardy grapevines, where could the dust covered traveller find a more enchanting scene, or one more calculated to reward the trouble and anxiety of the labourer in ornamentations? A locality that has received, and which universally is admitted to have merited the preference and choice of Royalty, may well form the subject of honest laudation, and of horticultural interests by the members of our Association.

Our every effort, too, to advance our personal, though unselfish interests, will go far, I am persuaded, to render Ottawa, and the Ottawa Valley the praise of the Dominion, and the peerless queen of beauty of our Province of Ontario.

Fruit and fruit interests may be considered by some as in a backward state in this eastern district, but let me ask in what district have these interests not been backward and lagging, till advanced by the energy, and forwarded by the taste, of some disciple of art, and student of nature? However backward, we are not supinely to fold our hands, and indifferently allow other interests besides ours to make rapid strides in the onward march of progress, but our duty is evidently to devise means, and make use of every plan to further horticulture in a district like this capable of sustaining its millions of population, and with verge and scope enough to form a State, having for its highway the magnificent Grand River for its main, and the diverging streams of beauty on its right and left for feeders.

The originators of, and the co-labourers for, the advancement in all material prosperity of a country like this, may not at present reap the fruit of their doings; posterity, however, will adequately recognise their efforts, and crown their brows with a diadem of immortality.

Let us, then, members of the Fruit Growers' Association, of Ontario, arouse ourselves, and let the motto of our Society be more legibly emblazoned on our banners, than it has yet been—forward, and onward!—prosecute with diligence and assiduity the great work which we have on hand—let us more emphatically than ever recommend the sowing of the best seeds of our best fruits,—encourage the raising of new and hardy varieties—inculcate the use of the best arts of cultivation—study the changes of nature—extend our observations and labours, till the Ottawa Valley and all the unfruitful places in our far west rejoice and blossom.

It must be admitted—the fact is not to be denied—that many difficulties occur in the carrying out of our benevolent and patriotic objects. There is the weighty indifference of multitudes of people, who see no beauty in, and have no admiration for the benefits accruing from our favourite cultivation. The disappointment to fruit growers from having unintentionally planted varities not true to name—the desolations consequent on the ravages of the borer and blight—the dire evils springing from the winter cold, and the baneful effects of the scorching heat of our almost tropical summer.

The two last mentioned causes of difficulty in fruit culture have been especially prominent and prevalent since our last annual meeting indeed, we question if every fruit growers had to contend with more malign influences than those which have prevailed during the past winter. The season was exceptionally severe, and some noticeable and remarkable effects resulted to almost all vegetation from its severity. The apple, pear, plum, cherry and grape suffered greatly. There are few horticulturists but have to lament the destructive inroads made on their orchards. Scarcely an orchard escaped the biting blast. It matters little the aspect—trees on southern slopes suffered as much as those on northern exposures. Nor were others varieties of trees exempt. The hardy oak, the luxuriant maple, the stately pine, and the lonely shrub alike suffered, and this not in the district, but almost everywhere. Confessedly hardy varieties were more injured than certain others that were previously known for their tenderness. The Philadelphia raspberry was cut down while in its neighborhood the hornet stood the winter pretty well. Grape vines in southern exposures were scathed, while the same varieties in northern aspects passed through the ordeal scathless. The strangest and most paradoxical results have been noted. Important lessons follow. At Drummondville, we learned that the mulching of the tender varieties of the peach had preserved them. In fact, the severity of last winter has abundantly taught the beneficial results of mulching. Trees well mulched suffered comparatively little—left exposed they scarcely survived. The practice of mulching must soon become general, and this both in winter and in summer. In winter it is needed to protect against the withering cold, in summer as a shelter against the intense heat. My own experience is strikingly illustrative of the benefits of mulching. For years I mulched either with manure or turf—for the last two years I have applied fertilizers in both cases on the surface. During the past summer and spring branch after branch of my beautiful and fruitful pear trees have gone. My occupation has largely been to trim off great quantities of blighted limbs, and the evil I fear, is not over yet. I propose to return to my old mode of culture, and mulch both in winter and in summer.

In a part of my front green, I have purposely kept the ground free of weeds and grass. Every tree on this particular plot has suffered; my pear trees have actually died out, and my apples have greatly suffered. I intend in the spring to sow grass seed or clover to protect the roots of my trees. After all, there is something in this grass theory and practice. I am satisfied that a good crop of weeds has something to do with a good growth of wood, and with the fertility of fruit bearing trees. Some manure which I once employed as a top dressing was full of groundsel seed. A luxuriant crop of what was esteemed a noxious weed was the consequence. Not a single bough, however, blighted, notwithstanding the luxuriance. Thinking it proper and right, I got rid of the groundsel, and have for these two years kept my ground clean, but undug. This tidiness on my part has been further carried out by an orderly and painstaking workman, who raked into heaps every bit of bark, bone, pruning, old shoes, rags, &c., which afforded a certain kind of mulch, and thereby left the ground bare and clean. The result, come from what cause it may, has satisfied me that trees like a little roughness. Forests mulch themselves. Mr. Saunders of London can tell a somewhat similar tale, or rather his grounds do if he won't. Having recently visited his fruit farm I can testify that even a grass mulch is unmistakably beneficial, and highly subserves the interest of the horticulturist. Among trees on cultivated land, there is at London a very high percentage of deaths; the same varieties grown under grass in the same, nay almost the immediate, position, the percentage of deaths is not a tithe. This speaks volumes for mulching. Indeed, mulching a great necessity. At Ottawa in June last I noticed in Mr. Bucke's garden that the canes of his raspberries were scarcely touched—in attempting to account for this I found that he had been attending to first principles, and that his vines were, and had been growing under a course of very heavy manuring.

It matters little what the kind of mulch is, so that it prevents rapid evaporation, grass prevents evaporation, and seems beneficial to the roots of plants. It acts in fact as a cooler.

Absent of the destruction of fruit trees during the past season has been, I am fully persuaded, from the effects of the second winter, which we had in the spring. A very severe second winter occurred in the month of April, and a trying frost on the 15th and 16th of June. The black winter in April did a wonderful amount of mischief. We believe it to be incalculable. The sap had made a start after the first thawing of the snow—when the thaw had bared the earth, then a black frost succeeded, which tried every plant that had already started. The roots suffered much, and in some instances the frost killed the vitality outright.

The great havoc made among fruit, and other trees, however, during the spring, arose from another cause. The dry frost was succeeded by a track of dry weather, which completed what the cold had left undone. This season I notice that the boughs are more limber than I ever saw them—more bending under the weight of fruit, which I attribute in great measure to the same cause. The drought was so severe and continued, that farmers and others were afraid of their crops, and even feared the failure of their harvest, forgetful of the promise made in the olden time, that "while the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease."

We believe that this cold and drought has brought about a new variety of blight. The blight of former times has almost disappeared, and has been succeeded by what may be called a DRY BLIGHT. This new disease, if new, has none or few of the characteristics of the old sort. The smell of the fermentation is not so strong, the bark is dry without the former acred liquid and scent. A diagnosis of the disease brings one to conclude that the two are different. One peculiarity ought to be mentioned, the death of the trees could not be traced till after the drought, though we are perfectly persuaded that death was the result of the frost.

At our meeting in Drummondville various theories were broached, all however being less or more uncertain on account of the want of well ascertained facts to back them. It is evident that a remedy to this state of things is only to be found in hybrid improvement.

We have noticed that good hybrids are less liable to be attacked with blight than imported varieties. Crosses are yet to be made which will combine hardihood with quality. Our hybridists are on the track. Skill and delicate manipulation will yet accomplish their wonders. We are only on the threshold of great discoveries in hybridisation. Facts are becoming more and more patentwhich show the wonderful influence of the stock upon the scion. Stock ought to be selected with the greatest care. That any stock will suffice is an idea that happily is becoming exploded among fruit growers. What testimony to be desired as to the effect the stock has upon the scion, it is not wanting to those who have noted the disastrous results of the past winter. Take, for example, the cherry. Cherries worked on the mazzard stock have in most cases been killed outright, while those on the mahelib, standing in close juxta-position, have in many instances escaped. The mazzard cannot be compared to the mahelib as a stock. Were growers to order trees on the mahelib stock they would not suffer so severely as they have done from the severity of winter. Mr. Saunders' cherries, on his farm in the neighbourhood of London, have almost all suffered that were on the mazzard, those on the mahelib, while showing signs of having suffered, are comparatively of uninjured contrasted with those on the mazzard. What is true of the cherry on mahelib and mazzard stock is equally true of pear stock. Some varieties of stock are naturally dwarfish of themselves—in their own nature—and some are rampant growers. These differences are to be found in the smallest quantities of pear stock. I have a Lawrence on pear stock, which has the diameter of the stock double that of the scion. The consequence both of the growth of the wood and of the fruit, is that it far exceeds its neighbours, both in wood growth and in fertility.

This question of stocks must soon assume proportions which have not characterised its importance in the past. Few pears are so tender as the Apricot. The smallest and tenderest twigs of my apricots were untouched by the frosts of the past winter, while all over my garden, hardy and tender varieties of the pear alike have been greatly injured, and this in many instances, owing to the stock. Good stock cannot be got by haphazard, by taking just what comes up from the pomace as sown by our nurserymen. The varieties arising from the seed of the same apple are as different in nature and constitution as the individual plants differ from one another. What we desiderate is that the best selection is made of the best varieties, and only such used as stocks for our finer types. Indeed, we are persuaded that the choice of the plumpest and best seeds would accomplish a good purpose; choice of good seed will, as a rule, secure good stocks.

We have reason, however, to congratulate our members that the severity of winter is not an unmixed evil. While it has played havoc among our trees and plants, it has not spared some of our worst insect pests. The curculio has come under its ban, and the number of the little Turk have greatly diminished. In spring I began to jar when the buds were fully developed. Beginning with three, we never captured at one time, more than seven from any one tree. We venture to think that they were bagged before they had copulated. The early harvesting of the few prevented much trouble with the many. The winter has really lessened this evil. The curculio has not made his usual ravages, and the Owen Sounders may be safe from his ravages for years to come. What is true of the curculio is more than true of the pear slug. Not one one has been observed in my garden this season. It is difficult always to give the reason of things, but it seems to us a matter of fact that the winter has had the effect of cutting off this pest.

We ought to be careful in wishing ill to anybody or anything, but we cannot avoid wishing that similar effects had resulted in the case of the codlin moth as have effected the curculio and pear slug. The ravages of the codlin moth are as great this year as I have ever known them. Early in the season there was a fair promise of a good apple crop but the ravages of the codlin moth have thinned the trees considerably, and the apple crop on the whole can scarcely be said to be up to the medium. One united effort must be made by all fruit growers to gather the fallen fruit. We have considerable faith in rolls of rags, both of cotton and paper about the trunk of the tree to catch the larvae, but much can be done by collecting and destroying the fallen fruit. Mr. Springer, Wellington Square, uses with great success, for the diminishing of the codlin moth, strips of coarse saltpetre bags fastened with a spike of the common Canadian thorn tree, and finds it completely successful. He has saved his crop of Northern Spies, and is almost free of the enemy, being aided by the acute sense of bearing, and by the good taste, of his Porkers. Once a week a visit is paid to the bands, and the numerous occupants are prevented from doing further mischief. Such we believe to be a fair resume of the fruit interests in Ontario during the past season. It will be found to be pretty correct as applied to our fruit bearing districts. It only remains to be added that on the whole the fruit crop is good. Although apple and pear, and even plum and cherry, trees have suffered, there is in general a good crop throughout the country. The yield of small fruits has been immense. The drought somewhat affected the strawberry crop, but the seasonable rains insured an abundant yield. Blackberries, in favoured and sheltered localities, have done well, and cultivators, as a rule, have had little reason to complain. Currants and gooseberries have been singularly prolific.

It would be well, perhaps, for the reputation of your President as regards his horticultural knowledge that he should here call halt! in his annual address. Unfortunately, however, for him something more is expected, and he has only at this stage approached the subject matter of his address. After casting about in various directions, and throwing himself on the kind offices of friends, especially upon the considerate promptings of Mr. Saunders and Mr. Arnold, I have concluded to speak to you a little on the cultivation of the smaller fruits, and on the steady onward progress being made in their improvement.

It is said that a word aptly spoken is good. It may be that the subject of small fruits and the locality where we are met, are suited to each other. For while it must be allowed that the rich and luscious fruits of the west are not well adapted for this region, yet in the cultivation of the small fruits, the Ottawa valley is not to be beat. Indeed we question if finer raspberries, currants and gooseberries can be found under better cultivation, or anywhere yield a better result than in Mr. Bucke's garden in the City of Ottawa.

THE STRAWBERRY

One of the standard questions at our annual horticultural meetings is, "which is the best variety of strawberry?" For many years past the almost uniform answer has been from skilled and unskilled, why the "Wilson's Albany." Taken as a whole perhaps it is the most profitable berry for market and amateur cultivation, but wonderful strides are being made in approaching, if not in transcending its excellence. We do not now speak of any of the best known, and most commonly cultivated varieties, but of the famous sorts being introduced by our hybridists. In flavour and quality many of the new varieties excel the Wilson's Albany.

The best mode of cultivating the strawberry is one of our vexed horticultural queries. We are persuaded that there is only one road to be travelled in this culture. The ground must be carefully prepared, we mean enriched and cleaned. The plant delights in a pretty heavy clay loam. A sharp soil with abundance of lime is singularly suitable for their successful cultivation. A common mode of cultivation is to plant, and leave the plants to care for themselves, take two or at most three crops, then plough them down, and then replant. The system is vicious. Strawberries to bear well should be differently treated from those from which you desire to propagate. They should be allowed to throw out all the runners of which they are capable. Fruit bearing vines should have every runner nipt off, and the stock plant only allowed to bear without a single runner. This mode of cultivation was finely shown by Mr. Biggar's treatment at Drummondville in the culture he gives his seedling, the New Dominion, and indeed to the Wilson's Albany, and to all his fruit bearing varieties.

Winter protection is absolutely essential—different substances have been used for this purpose, but we believe the kind from which the berry derives its name is the best—a straw protection. Mr Arnold last winter tried wood shavings, and in the former part of the season during and after the snow had fallen they did well, but when the black spring frost came they dried and were driven away by the wind—at the very time they were most needed they were found wanting. Straw, after all, is best adapted to the cultivation and protection of this variety of fruit. What we desire to see is the plants and interstices between the rows covered with this mulch, and the plants in spring allowed to grow through the straw. Many growers winter cover the plants and rake off the protection in the spring. What is wanted is a clean seedless mulch for spring and the warm weather, and nothing affords this so well as good clean straw. The plant seeks sustenance deep in the ground, and man's efforts should be made to assist nature. Protection is as much needed in the dry weather as in the cold. Last summer there was a great outcry that the dry weather would cut the crop short, and so it did, but what we ask is that the horticulturist should so cultivate as to reduce the uncertainties of the weather to a dead certainty as regards the yield. Protection would go far to remove the uncertainty.

We have said that our varieties are successfully competing with the old and valuable varieties. Our hybridists are making wonderful inroads upon old established notions. Arnold's No. 1, which has been shown year after year at our spring meetings ever since we met at Chatham has been gradually gaining the confidence of our strawberry connoisseurs. It has indeed a delicious flavour, the highest flavoured berry with which I am acquainted—the highest flavour, we think, of any cultivated variety. Its size, too, is greatly above mediocrity, in fact is enormous, and the plant is a marvel of prolificness. We augur for this new claimant on public favour an immense success. It is not altogether apart from the object of this paper and of our present meeting to say that Mr. Charles Arnold, our premier hybridist, has over a thousand distinct hybridized varieties of strawberries.

In point of excellence at no great distance behind Mr. Arnold's No. 1, comes Mr. C. H. Biggar's new variety, "The New Dominion." It has been successfully shown for two seasons. It came through the late trying severe winter scathless, and has been proved to be a variety of great hardiness. We would strongly urge upon the members of our Association, that in due time both Mr. Arnold's and Mr. Biggar's strawberries should be disseminated over the length and breadth of our Province. It not unfrequently happens that new varieties do well from home, and we are certain that both sorts would take kindly to the soil in the Ottawa valley, and give an ample return to any extra kindness shown them by our horticultural friends around the capital.

RED AND BLACK CURRANTS.

Somebody has said that currants and gooseberries are the poor man's fruits, and so they are. There is no long time lost in waiting for their fruiting,—and along with no delay, there is little loss from mildew, cold or heat, drought or wet. They are an yearly crop, almost always to be depended on for a prolific return. The mode of cultivation is easy, and every man may become his own gardener. The red currant in its pruning requires to be switched up very much in the fashion of trimming a privet hedge; the black should never be topped, but thinned out, and the young wood carefully preserved. We must repeat, too, our caution about mulching. Currants mulched will produce fully a third more than when left exposed—this, too, we mean both in winter and summer. The plant itself is a sort of protection to itself, but as its roots are not deep in the ground there is the greatest need of continued mulching. Short, well-rotted barnyard manure is the best mulch that can be applied to the current. We have used with success the scrapings from the fire wood heap—chips have a roughness and dampness about them that to the plant is very refreshing.

Certain improvements have been made in the currants which ought to be overlooked of late years the cherry or grape currant has come into very general cultivation. The size is often something extraordinary, though we would whisper in the presence of current growers, that the size has been cultivated somewhat at the expense of the rostarcha in flavour.

In the market, however, the grape currant has a wonderful demand, this in the principle, we suppose, that as a rule people like a large mouthful.

Mr. Dougall, of Windsor, has some fine seedling currants. We have for some years cultivated six or eight new varieties of his. With one of these we are especially pleased—it combines almost the size of the grape currant with all the richness of flavour of the best Dutch varieties.

Mr. Saunders, of London, has a hybrid, a very fine black variety, which for size and flavour exceeds any variety with which we are acquainted. We can only quote the words of one of our veteran horticulturists in regard to it, and say that in respect of flavour, size, foliage and health, it surpasses by far any known variety of black currant. This particular one of which I speak is only one of several successfully raised by Mr. Saunders. We have only to add that the price of black currants ought to secure a larger competition in our markets than it has yet done. There are few fruits more wholesome, few more easily preserved for winter use, and few more agreeable to the palate in the sick room. Its cultivation will amply remunerate the grower. A friend in the neighbourhood of Hamilton, this season, secured from a few small rows of red currants the enormous sum of fifty dollars, currency. The cultivation of currants, red, white and black, is singularly adapted for Ottawa, and the surrounding country. There is an old adage which says, "he that gives quickly, gives twice." This is especially true of currant culture, the return is at once, it is quick and continuous.

RASPBERRIES AND BLACKBERRIES.

Here is a wide field for remark and full scope for self-defence on the part of your President to shorten what he has to say on this important and lucrative cultivation.

The cultivation of raspberries has made wonderful progress in the course of a few years—what greater could have been made in the cultivation of almost any fruit than has been made in that of raspberry culture?

We fear that this district is somewhat in the position in which more Western localities were a few years ago, viz., so overrun with the natural sorts that there is almost no need of cultivating the four varieties. It is a wonderful dumper to a grower of raspberries to be told that an Indian is at the door offering a patent pail full of beautiful fresh raspberries for 25 or 30 cents. It is a great temptation, under such circumstances, that no further investment shall be made in raspberries. This state of things here and elsewhere has militated against the vigorous cultivation of the raspberry.

Raspberry culture, however, is remunerative—highly remunerative. This, like many other varieties of fruit, requires continual planting. In fact transplanting is an absolute necessity. We know of few varieties of fruit cultivation that will more amply repay care and attention than the raspberry. Both in the field and garden it requires to be kept clean. Indeed, this is true of all cultivation. The benefits of mulching are evident in the cultivation of the raspberry, although we have seen it overdone. If the mulching is too heavy at, or immediately after the fruit is ripe, it is apt to stimulate to and immature growth in the fall, which often leads to disastrous consequences, in this way, that the unripened canes, which under such circumstances often push to a great length, are unfit to withstand the severity of the winter. Heeling up with the plough immediately after the fruit is gathered, or a shallow furrow with the cultivator, lets the drought into the land, curbs the growth, and tends to sicken the canes.

The Philadelphia holds much the same relation to raspberries, as Wilson's Albany does among strawberries. It has been the favourite for years, both for its hardiness and prolificness—it is singularly prolific. During the past year it suffered much in common with almost all varieties of raspberries. At Drummondville the fact was established, that, account for it as we may, the old established hardy varieties suffered more than acknowledged tender varieties. The Hornet, a tender variety suffered less from winter-kill than the Philadelphia. Last season was, however, in its effect an exceptional one.

Seedling hybrids are springing up in various sections of the Province, which threaten to rival this old favoured variety the Philadelphia. Colonel McGill of Oshawa has a good seedling variety, tho' tender, and a little soft for marketing. The same remark may be made with regard to many samples of seedling that have been sent to your President from various districts.

Two hybridists, however, in this department maintain the credit of their already wide reputation. We allude to the efforts of Arnold and Saunders in this field of hybrid cultivation. In visiting Arnold's grounds during the past summer, we were struck with admiration at several of his results in hybridization. Our memory, without being refreshed by notes, takes us back to his No. 7, a handsome, highly flavoured, red berry—an excellent grower, with singularly coarse bright foliage. Had a mortal like myself raised one such variety, I should never cease to blow, my horn, which I sometimes try to do without having produced anything, but when I mention that Charles Arnold has six or seven as good, which bore during the past summer, and a multitude who's name is legion yet to be tried, I think your admiration will be awakened at the persevering and patriotic efforts of our old esteemed director and hybridist.

I may, perhaps, be permitted to propound a question to the curious and philosophic among you, how it comes that from the stem of one of Arnold's white raspberry hybrids, there springs the limb or bough of a red raspberry? Like the propounding of a conundrum in a periodical or magazine, I'll allow the question to lie and ferment in the brain of any one of you for a year, and I shall expect a reply this time next year at our anniversary.

All other efforts at hybridizing the raspberry, however, fall short of the essays of Mr. Wm. Saunders, of London, who has not simply hybridised one raspberry with another, but who has succeeded in producing an entirely new fruit by crossing the raspberry with one of the black cap family. His success has been remarkable, and to no one perhaps more so than to himself. He has introduced to fruit growers a fruit sharing in all the characteristics of the raspberry and blackcap alike. His hybrids Nos. 69 and 70, which are reported on in 1873, have already been described, and the description will amply repay perusal by any of our members. Those, with other Nos., have all the prolificness of the Philadelphia and all the high piquant flavor of the blackcap combined.

It will afford pleasure to the members of the Association to learn that the Directors have agreed to send out shortly over the length and breadth of the land those superb triumphs of modern art. Their dessert and baking qualities have been equally tried, and in both respects they are excellent.

I could not conclude my notice of the progress of fruit growing during the past year without expressing my unqualified admiration and pride, that a member of our own Association has achieved a success that places his name foremost among Canadian hybridists. Surely this is the man whom the Association will delight to honour by placing in the President's chair this year.

BLACKBERRY.

The varieties successfully cultivated have been the Lawton, Kittating, Wilson's Early and Sable Queen. From one cause or other these fruits have not yet attained that place in public favour which their excellence would have led us to conclude would have been the result of their introduction and cultivation.

GOOSEBERRIES.

We have not noticed the insect pests that prevail to the great detriment of fruit and fruit growers. This is not because our subject does not lead to such discussion, but because all needed information can be got in the essays on the subject that have already appeared from our entomologists in the past records of our acts and proceedings.

In regard to the cultivation of gooseberries, however, it must be said, that growers are sadly checkmated by various prevalent pests. Foremost among these is mildew. We enter into no philosophical discussion about the origin and nature of this evil. Suffice it too say, that we are persuaded that many portions of our Province are out of the latitude of gooseberry growing. We are to far south for their profitable culture—being on the borderland between gooseberry growing on the north, and vinegrowing on the south. Whenever hardy grapes can be grown successfully their gooseberry culture is a failure.

In most parts of Ontario, European varieties may be said to fail us. By continuing to plant young trees, fruit may be raised free from mildew for a year or two, but too soon the evil comes. The third year may be said to be the extent of successful gooseberry culture. Houghton's and Downing's seedlings have rendered it possible to preserve the flavour of the gooseberry, but after all it is only a tantalizing of one's appetite to attempt to satisfy the craving for gooseberries with any quantity of the Lilliputian berries of Houghton or Downing's seedling.

Mr. George Elliot, of Guelph, has a fine chance seedling, which is of expellent flavour and good promise.

Mr. James Dougall, of Windsor, cultivates some promising seedlings, in point of size and flavour ahead of Downing somewhat.

Mr. Wm. Stokes, of Mooretown, has raised a valuable seedling. Mr. Peter Murray says of it, "It approaches the strain of the Lancashire and Scottish varieties more closely than I have ever seen in Canada."

Mr. William Saunders, of London, distances with his hybrids all competitors. In the report of the F. G. A., of Ontario, for 1873, the following sentence occurs in relation to Mr. Saunders' hybrid gooseberries: "We found in the rows of gooseberries an almost indefinite number of hybrids, exhibiting almost every characteristic colour of fruit, variety of wood growth, fruitfulness and barrenness." This summer we again examined his plants, and found that, notwithstanding the severity of the past winter and the extraordinary drought of the spring, they amply bore out all the eulogiums that were passed on them by the Committee in 1873.

Nos. 6, 11, 17, 19, 21, 24, 26, 31, 33 and a few others are among Mr. Saunders' most promising varieties.

We are ashamed to detain you longer. Pardon me, however, if I return to a favourite subject with me, and one which is singularly adapted to benefit the Ottawa district. We mean the cultivation of the cranberry.

THE CRANBERRY.

The cultivation of the cranberry requires a sandy light soil, with sufficient command of water to cover the plants for a fortnight at a certain season in spring with a foot or two feet of water. This fruit is becoming quite a commercial commodity, largely used for culinary purposes both in America and England. A swampy, mucky soil, or old beaver meadow, is well adapted for its cultivation. It will amply reward its patient and persevering cultivator. Plants of the best variety can be readily procured from Wisconsin, and that at a cheap rate. We commend cranberry culture to those of our friends in this district who may have a suitable location.

THE MULBERRY.

We have tried two varieties of mulberry, the purple and the white. They do well in and around Hamilton. One season, through the kindness of Professor George Lawson, we had cocoons of the silk worm from the North of Italy, and tried the raising of silk. The larvæ not having been sufficiently protected from the birds, we got our labour for our pains, and are therefore unable to speak satisfactorily of the result of a trial of a culture that may yet may be of commercial importance to our Province.

GRAPE HYBRIDS.

I have in one brief sentence to notice the success of hybridizing the grape, so successfully practised in Ontario during the past few years.

Mr. P. C. Dempsey writes me that his hybrid, the "Burnet," named out of compliment to your President, is fully a week or ten days earlier than any variety grown on his grounds.

Mr. Haskins' Congener to that of Mr. P. C. Dempsey, both having the same parentage, is this season doing well, having an abundant crop, ripening fast, and giving promise of something good.

From a recent visit to the garden of Mr. W. H. Mills, Hamilton, we are in a position to affirm great things in regard to three or four of his hybrids. Of one, we may with confidence speak, and say, that he has produced an early hardy grape, which, for flavour, will successfully compete with the Otonell, or with any other equally highly flavoured grape grown under glass.

We anticipate a successful run on these fine hybrids, we cannot but express our delight that after years of anxiety and care, and forethought, he is not unlikely to be rewarded for all his attention and labour. Let me ring a warning note in regard to the future. The year on which we have entered is to be signalised by the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia, in 1876. It is a matter of regret that, as an Association, we have taken no part in the meeting of the Pomological Society of the United States, held a few days ago in Chicago. Double energy must be used to put in a creditable appearance at Philadelphia. We are, simply for the honour attached, competing with the wise and pushing horticulturists of the neighbouring Republic, to enter the lists with the determination to excel there is no fear of want of success. Our apples, plums and hardy grapes will compete with those of any locality on the Continent. Let unanimity prevail in our councils, and there is no fear in my mind as regards the issue. We must try rival our own agricultural and arts' interests. Determined steps are being made, and plans laid, by our fellow-citizens for the successful carrying out of their competitive views at Philadelphia. We cannot afford to play a second—an inferior part. A united pull, a pull altogether, and North America, with the Islands of the Sea, Europe and every Colonial dependency, will ring with our achievements. Boston in 1873 must be outstript, our unlooked for successes there, must be made to induce to greater efforts for 1876.

Members of the Fruit Growers Association of Ontario, my annual address is ended. I thank you for the patience with which you have as usual received my thoughts. I consider it a very great distinction to have so often obtained your suffrages in placing me in the chair. I shall gratefully remember your courtesy and kindness while memory retains her seat, and shall always cherish the fast and true friendship which has been formed in connection with your association. Such remembrances will be chastened, it is true, by the thought of the little I have been able to do for the advancement of the horticultural interests of our country, so dear to you. I purpose to show you how much I appreciate your consideration by endeavouring to further, in every possible way, the objects for which your association was established, and for which it continues to exist. Let us by continued, accurate and matter of fact, observation—by the wise and sober discussion of controverted questions—by the free and unselfish interchange of thought by careful and judicious generalizations in hybridization—strive to attain that eminence and importance in the prosecution of our horticultural interests, which will render horticulture only second to the premier, and therefore, paramount, interest, in our country agriculture.

ROBERT BURNET,
President, F.G.A. of Ontario.

The election of officers then took place, and resulted in the following gentlemen being appointed: The Rev. R. Burnett, Hamilton, President; Messrs. P. C. Dempsey, Vice President; D. W. Beadle, Secretary-Treasurer; P. E. Bucke (Ottawa), Chas. Arnold (Paris), Wm. Sanders (London), A. M. Smith (Grimsby), Geo. Leslie (Toronto), Geo. Elliot (Guelph), — McPherson (Owen Sound), W. H. Mills (Hamilton), Col. McGill (Oshawa), Directors, with Wm. Haskins (Hamilton) and Henry Colebeck (Hamilton) as Auditors.

A considerable amount of discussion took place upon the subject of showing Canadian fruits at the forthcoming Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. Mr. W. H. Fraser, the Secretary to the Advisory Board, was heard and strongly advised a good display should be made there.

It was resolved "That we, the members of the Fruit Grower's Association, pledge ourselves to do our utmost to make the exhibition of fruits at forthcoming Centennial Exhibition, at Philadelphia, a success, and also to do everything in our power to influence all those interested in fruit culture in the same direction.

The meeting then adjourned.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT.—A Concert was given last evening at the Court House, in aid of the St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum, under the immediate auspices of His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario. The audience, though quite small, was an appreciative and seemingly a very intelligent one. Eight o'clock was the time fixed for the performance to commence, but at least half an hour was spent in awaiting the arrival of the Lieut. Governor whose advent and that of several other distinguished personages had been momentarily expected; but the manager not wishing to trespass too far upon the patience of the expectant audience, and His Excellency not making his appearance, the entertainment was commenced by the Foot Guards' Band rendering an ouverture, which, as well as the subsequent performances, reflected great credit upon its members. The musical part of the entertainment was most excellent, there being several professionals present. "Rondo Capricio," by Mr. Lavalle, was received with marked approbation, while "Fantaisie de Concert" was rendered by Mr. Prume in his usual inimitable style. The intermediate parts of the programme was taken up by a very pretty college play, in which several young lady amateur players took a successful part, especially Miss Peschy in the character of "Gina." "L'atantiee," and "Aria et Cabaletta," by "Mrs. Rheaume from Quebec," were both received with rapturous applause. The entertainment was brought to a close by the Guards' Band playing "God Save the Queen."

THE WONDER OF THE DAY.—A Moose trotting in a sulky will be exhibited on the Hutchmor Park during Exhibition Week on the 22d and 23d inst., between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock p.m. After many years trial the proprietor has at last succeeded in capturing, taming and training a beautiful large moose. The capturing and training of moose has been tried by different parties; but no one has ever before succeeded. What will most surprise the spectators will be to see such a wild animal so well trained and so kind. This will be the only chance to see it as the proprietor has already made arrangements to cross to Europe with the animal, champion of the forest and squarest trot in the world. 394813

OTTAWA, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 22, 1875.

For the Premier and Mrs. Mackenzie's dinner party, last night, invitations were issued to His Honor Lieutenant Governor Macdonald, Honourable Attorney General Mowat, Honourable Speaker Christie, and Mrs. Christie, Honourable Mr. Cartwright, Hon. Mr. Laird, Mr. Mayor Featherston, Mr. McNabb, M. P., President of the Provincial Agricultural and Arts Association of Ontario, Senator Penny and Mr. D. McDougall, Commissioners for Quebec and Ontario to the Philadelphia Centennial Exhibition; Mr. Rae, M. P.; Mr. Ford, Her Majesty's Charge d'Affaires at Darmstadt; Mr. Bergne, of the Foreign Office, London; Mr. Sheriff McKellar, of Hamilton.

THE EXHIBITION.

The Exhibition yesterday gave gratifying evidences of ultimate success. In most departments there was a reasonably full show, while some presented an unusually large representation. The details will be set out fully in our report in another column. It is stated on good authority that very considerable quantities of machinery and other articles intended for the Fair are delayed on the road by the fault of the Grand Trunk. We do not know how nearly accurate this report may be, and we shall be glad to learn that it is unfounded. So far it does not appear that there is any scarcity of lodging accommodation. To-day and to-night, however, will test that matter. The weather yesterday inclined to be showery and in the latter hours of the afternoon it became unpleasantly cold. But, for a Provincial Fair it was very good weather. The cold of last evening affords reasonable ground of hope that the remaining days of the exhibition will be dry at any rate. To-morrow evening at seven, the President, Mr. McNab, M.P., for Glengarry, will deliver the annual address. Mr. McNab will discharge this duty ably and with credit to himself in every respect.

THE SANITARY CONDITION OF THE CITY.

The September number of the Sanitary Journal, published in Toronto, under the able editorship of Dr. Edward Playter, contains a very flattering notice of the letter written to THE TIMES, during the month of August, by Dr. Lynn, our energetic Medical Health Officer, regarding the sanitary condition of the city. The Editor of the Journal regards Dr. Lynn's suggestions on the best mode of disinfecting back premises as valuable, and quotes with endorsation that portion of the communication which refers to the subject. Ottawa must be congratulated upon the professional standing and acknowledged ability of her Medical Health Officer, and he in turn must be pleased to notice that he has not been passed over without recognition in his meritorious attempts to awaken the Corporation to a sense of their duty in regard to sanitary science, even if that body have profited less by his counsels than is to be desired. Let it be here added that the Sanitary Journal ought to be a monthly visitor to every household in the city. The cost is trifling, and the information, given as it is in terms so plain and simple that "he who runs may read," is perfectly invaluable. The September number contains an exceedingly well written paper on the ventilation of sewers and drains, by Dr. Oldwright, Toronto, and another on the disposal and utilization of excreta, both of which might be studied with advantage by those who have charge of the system of drainage and sewerage now being inaugurated here, and might open their eyes in regard to two or three dangers into which they are now running head foremost. We have already pointed out to our City Fathers in the columns of THE TIMES that to drain the excreta into the river is itself a grand offence against the laws of sanitary science which will some day have to be repented of and expiated at great expense. If we are late in having a good system of sewerage in this city—if, indeed, it is a disgrace that the capital of Canada should have approached the close of the nineteenth century before the first attempt at such a thing has been made—we at least have had the benefit of the experience of, it may be said, the whole world to assist us in deciding what plan is the best to adopt. Curiously enough, all this appears to have been lost upon us, and we are asked to believe that in instituting a system which has been discarded in most great European cities, and actually prohibited in Great Britain under the "Pollution of Rivers Act," is a prospective boon for which we and the coming generations ought to be profoundly thankful. It must be admitted that almost anything would be an improvement on the existing state of things, but why we should insist upon polluting the waters of our beautiful Ottawa with the most deadly and destructive of poisons, in defiance of the laws of nature and sanitary science, when scientific research has proved that there are so many ways in which excreta, drawn into a deodorising reservoir may be positively made useful and profitable, it is very hard to conceive. We venture to predict, should Ottawa continue to increase in commercial importance and population in the future as she has done in the past, or even if she maintains an approximate ratio, that before thirty years are past, the whole work now being undertaken at such great cost will have to be undone. It is to be hoped, however, that an agency other than sheer necessity, and one not less potent, will ere then interfere to stop the pollution of rivers generally, the Ottawa amongst the rest. We refer to the strong arm of the law. Something has already been done in that way by preventing the throwing of mill refuse into what are called navigable streams. When the country gets more thickly populated, sanitary considerations will certainly demand a similar policy in regard to the drainage of excrement and sewage into all running streams, especially such as form the source from which any proportion of the people draw water for domestic and general purposes. We commend the present number of the Sanitary Journal to such of our city aldermen and others charged with the administration of our municipal affairs as have an interest in the future good health not only of this city, but the whole country. The questions discussed in it are of graver importance than the majority of those about which the specimen representative at the Council Board gets excited, and fancies his constituents are excited over also. The number is otherwise excellent, containing in particular a set of most excellent rules for the prevention of the spread of typhoid fever and other infectious diseases which from time to time find their way with such fatal effects into even the cleanest houses and most orderly families. These will be found at this particular season of the year almost invaluable.

OR

This is he, who, after having successfully governed Jamaica, to the government of which he was appointed thirteen months after his arrival in England, came to Canada suffering from ill health, not so much from his own free will as at the request of Lord Stanley; and who hurried off (as Sir Charles Bagot was dying) to take charge of his appointment, travelling chiefly by sleigh over the snow to Kingston—who, to use words attributed to him, was much surprised to find that he was going to Canada This is he who never undertook anything with so much reluctance or so little hope of doing good; but who yet could not bring himself to say "no" when the proposal was made.

It was not until the 28th of September that Sir Charles Metcalfe met the Legislature and made a speech from the throne in every respect in keeping with his character. He was happy to meet the House. Various considerations of importance had prevented him convening the Legislature at an earlier period. The The birth of a Princess had diffused joy throughout the British Empire. An afflicting event had occurred in Canada in the demise of the late Governor General, whose heart had been devoted to the public welfare; universal regret had done honor to his memory throughout the Province; and he could not abstain from noticing that his desolate widow and family, and his mortal remains, in passing through the neighboring territories of the United States to the place of embarkation at New York were received with marked and friendly tokens of respect which indicated both the esteem in which he was held in a country in which he had been personally well known, and also a generous sympathy worthy of the great nation by which it was evinced. The act of the Imperial Parliament which facilitated the introduction of Canadian wheat and of flour prepared in Canada into the ports of the United Kingdom would, he trusted, prove to be a valuable boon to the Province, and it was a further proof of Her Majesty's unremitting care for the prosperity of Canada. Measures would be submitted for the improvement of the system of Judicature in Lower Canada; of the municipal institutions, the laws relating to education and the jury system of both divisions of the Province, and of the assessment laws of Upper Canada. In making a tour of the Province he had great satisfaction in seeing a fine country, evidently advancing in improvement. It had been highly satisfactory to him to witness the great works in progress, which owing to the loan raised in England, under the guarantee of the Imperial Government, the Province had been enabled to undertake or prosecute. They were calculated to extend the commerce, and develop the resources of a vast country, and increase the public revenue and general and individual wealth. In those parts where works of this description were in progress, he found contentment prevailing at the prospect they presented. In other parts there was a cry for improved roads for the conveyance of produce to appropriate markets, a claim which was worthy of consideration: "for on such communications the prosperity of the country must in a great measure depend." Nowhere was this anxiety more strongly expressed than in the Eastern Townships of Lower Canada, where the community, almost entirely agricultural, in consequence of the heavy duties imposed on their produce in the United States, had lost the market to which they had formerly had recourse, while the exemption from duty in Canada of the similar produce of the Americans enabled them by greater facilities of conveyance to undersell the producers of the Eastern townships in our own markets. Whatever improvement could be afforded to internal communications was so obviously desirable for the advantage of the community, that any outlay devoted to that object, and consistent with the means at command, must be highly beneficial. It was therefore much to be regretted that the state of the finances did not afford any immediate prospect of the legislature being able to meet the wishes of many districts, deeply interested in this respect. He could not refrain from bringing to their notice, the state of the prisons in some parts of the Province. Justice due even to criminals required that they should not be subjected to greater punishment than was designed by their sentence, and that disease or death from foul air or want of exercise should not be superadded to imprisonment; nor was it right that untried prisoners, who might be innocent, should be confined in the same cell with convicted criminals; and decency and morality required the separation of debtors from criminals, and of sexes. A lunatic asylum was much required in Lower Canada for such as being afflicted with mental aberration, were confined in prisons, or in religious or charitable institutions.

He was concerned to announce a considerable decrease in the revenue, but expected a change for the better, and wound up by an appeal to Almighty God, who grows his own and the Parliament's efforts for the material prosperity of the Province with success.

In this speech the striking feature in the character of the Governor General is brought prominently out in speaking of what is due even to criminals. Justice was to Metcalfe what duty was to Wellington, and glory to Napoleon. It was his guiding principle. The speech was liberal in the extreme, evincing anything but a desire to rule with a rod of iron, and it was well received. The address in reply made allusion to His Excellency's previous political career, and both Houses promised to meet the wishes of His Excellency in every possible way.

One of the first subjects of general importance which engaged the attention of the House of Assembly was the seat of Government. Kingston, the place selected by Lord Sydenham as being the most central, was considered unhealthy and even out of the way. Neither Upper Canadians nor Lower Canadians were satisfied with it, and the expediency of making some other town the seat of Government had already engaged the attention of the Imperial authorities. On the suggestion of Mr. Attorney General Baldwin the House addressed Sir Charles Metcalfe for copies of all communications between the Colonial Executive and the Imperial Government on the subject; and proceeded to other business.

The ministry were of the ultra liberal stamp, Mr. Hincks being Inspector General, Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Lafontaine, Attorneys General, Mr. Daly, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Dunn, Mr. Hanson, Mr. Killaly, and Mr. Morin, Executive Councillors, and Mr. Aylwin, Solicitor General. It is true the Honorable Dominick Daly was not a liberal in any sense, but his influence in a cabinet of which Mr. Baldwin was the Premier, could only be very inconsiderable, as he had no legislative capacity, was incapable of readily expressing his ideas, if he had any, and as his out-of-door influence was considerable only in the County of Megantic, the inhabitants of which have not yet been remarkable for the strength, warmth, or consistency of their political views. With the single exception of Mr. Daly, the Government then was a party government and carried with it the best wishes of the Reformers of Upper Canada, and of the French Canadian party in Lower Canada, while it was execrated by the old Family Compact clique of the west and by the mercantile bodies and British people generally of Montreal and Quebec.

It was said that the Governor-General was not by any means partial to his advisers, for the very reason it may have been that while his act of government was founded upon justice, there was based upon expediency. Very early a motion was made for a humble address to His Excellency praying for from the period of the Union, distinguishing those made before from those made after the 16th Sept., '42. Ministers were already jealous of the new Governor and his sense of justice. With a large majority at their back in the lower House, and throughout the country they believed that they could use the Governor as they pleased—use his name and authority for their own purpose without his acquiescence, or in spite of it—and resolved upon doing so. His Excellency was however firm as he was just, nor could he have been just without being also firm. It would not have been justice to his successor to have surrendered his personal opinions to the opinions of his adviser, nor even to the country, a minority as well as a majority having rights, although thereby he might have saved himself annoyance and misrepresentation. He did not surrender his opinions. He who had refused to restrain the liberty of the press in India, would not in Canada be the instrument of depriving Conservatism of a voice. For a while the antagonism between Sir Charles Metcalfe and his advisers was a secret to the public. Appointments to offices, of emolument in the departments were made by the Governor without the concurrence of the Executive advisers, and there was no open grumbling.

In the beginning of October, the matter of the seat of Government was again brought under consideration by a message from His Excellency in reply to the address of the Assembly. Sir Charles refused to lay before the House copies of the communication which had passed between Her Majesty's Government and the Governor of the Colony relative to the seat of Government in Canada, but intimated that the Queen's Government declined coming to a determination in favour of any place as the future seat of Government without that advice of the Provincial Legislature, and that Her Majesty's Ministers would be prepared to submit favourably to Her Majesty such addresses on the subject as would be presented by either or both of the Legislative Houses, in recommendation of either Kingston or Montreal, the selection being necessarily limited to one of these places, the former capitals, Quebec and Toronto being alike too remote from the centre of the Provinces, and the plan of alternate session, at one or the other of these last mentioned, or any other places being deemed objectionable and impracticable, on account of its manifest and extreme inconvenience. A report of the Committee of the Executive Council, of which the Hon Mr. Sullivan was Chairman, accompanied this message. The report is written with extraordinary ability, and framed to suit the wishes of the Lower Canadians, and to flatter the prejudices of such Upper Canadians as dwelt to the westward of Kingston, and by imperial dictation were excluded from any chance of having the seat of government permanently fixed in their localities. Whatever advantages Toronto, Kingston, Bytown or Quebec might possess in military or other points of view, Montreal was beyond all comparison the centre of the wealth of Canada. It had been wisely chosen as the site of a great city by the French Government in the early times of the Colony. No discoveries of localities claiming to be equal, no development of the vast resources of later times, no improvement in canal navigation and not even the discovery and use of steam had made any change in the prospects of importance of Montreal. Ships from the ocean and vessels from the interior lay together in the port, and men from all quarters met there in the ordinary course of business. Montreal had no concern in the sectional jealousies of the different portions in the western country. Montreal, indeed, had been claimed by the inhabitants of Upper Canada as a place built up with the result of their industry and sustained by their commerce, but of the resources arising from the wealth of which they were deprived in consequence of that city forming part of a different Province; and it was the place of all others at which Lower Canadians and Upper Canadians might meet upon a footing of equality.

Provincial Exhibition.

SECOND DAY.

The second day of the great Exhibition opened yesterday at the outset with every indication of good weather, but people were too sanguine, and as too often happens under such circumstances, rain again fell to the dismay of those whose hopes had been buoyant from early morn. It did not last long, however, but a cold northerly blast succeeded it, which blew the greater part of the day rendering the day exceedingly unpleasant and disagreeable. The Exhibitors heeded not the weather, being anxious that the live stock, implements, machinery, Agricultural and horticultural products should be duly arranged for the judges, who were expected to go to work in the afternoon. It would seem as if there was no end to work, for much remained to be done yesterday from the previous day, and there is even yet a considerable amount of stuff to be put in position in the Crystal Palace. There were no new features worthy of note yesterday, with the exception of perhaps the fact of there being a great increase in the number who attended. There could not have been less than 5,000 people on the grounds in the course of the day. Bank street road from 9 o'clock in the morning till nightfall was lined with every conceivable form of vehicle, and in addition to this, a great stream of people lined both Bank and Elgin streets. The steamers too on the canal did a rushing business. The Elgin street road, on a near approach to the Exhibition Grounds, was very beautiful, passing as it do a through natural shrubbery, and presenting occasional glimpses of the river-like canal. Near the Bank street road bridge there was music, bears climbing poles, fat women, Punch and Judy shows, marionettes, swinging cariocles, roundabouts, and every conceivable adjunct of a fair. Inside the gates policemen proper, Dominion officers of the peace, P. Cs. pro tempore watchmen, guardians, and other officials were on duty. Even Mr. Langrell, the Chief of the Force, on horseback, was present, as was also Government Police, Superintendent O'Neil. The booths and stalls, too, are now completely fitted up. Among those many present yesterday were many of the leading public men of the Dominion. Lieut. Gov. Macdonald, of Ontario; Capt. Grant, A.D.C; Hon. Oliver Mowat, Premier of Ontario; Sheriff McKellar, Hon. Mr. Letellier, Dr. Ryerson, Chief Superintendent of Education; Judge Wilmot, of New Brunswick; Mr. Ford, Her Mrjesty's Commissioner for the settlement of the Fisheries Dispute; Mr. Bergue, his private Secretary; James Young, M.P., Alonzo Wright, M. P., Hon. Malcolm Cameron, Judge Lyon, McKay Wright, M.P., and other important personages who evinced considerable interest in the exhibition. A number of squaws with a large quantity of bead work were upon the ground yesterday and did a good business in vending their Indian wares. A post office for the convenience of members of council, judges, exhibitors and others, was inaugurated in the Palace yesterday. It will no doubt prove equally as successful as the Express office which has been since the commencement a source of comfort to exhibitors. A meeting of the Board of Arts was called for 11 o'clock to nominate the judges, and detail them for work in the afternoon; it was thought advisable, however, to adjourn the meeting till 1 o'clock, as some who had been solicited to act had not yet arrived on the ground. Pursuant to adjournment the Board met at 1 o'clock, Mr. McNab, President, in the chair, when the judges were formally called and assigned their respective duties. There must have been at least 200 judges in attendance to undertake the task of deciding as to the respective merits of the live stock and other products on exhibition. They are allowed only $5 for the work and pay their own expenses, a sum which most of them deem entirely inadequate. The only thing ready to be judged was live stock, which was gone on with very successfully during the afternoon, but not completed. The cattle and horse rings were alive with bustle and excitement, while the judges were on duty. The implements, arts and manufactures, machinery, horticultural and agricultural products, the dairy and poultry will be gone on with to-day. Just as the meeting for the appointment of judges closed at 1.30 p.m., His Honour Lieutenant Governor Macdonald, with Captain Grant, A.D.C., and the Hon. O. Mowat, Premier of Ontario, drove upon the grounds, and were received by the members of the Board of Arts and Agriculture at the residence of Mr. Ira Morgan, Vice-President of the Association. The Guards band, under the direction of bandmaster Carter, was also in attendance, and played several appropriate airs in honour of the arrival of the distinguished visitors.

THE LUNCHEON.

In accordance with intended arrangements, His Honour the Lieut.-Governor was entertained to luncheon previous to his officially opening the great Exposition.

The affair was got up at short notice by Mr G. Bartlett, and given in Mr. Morgan's commodious dining hall, and was a decided success.

The chair was taken precisely at two o'clock by Mr. A. McNab, President of the Association, and with him sat down a party of about fifty ladies and gentlemen. To the right of the chair were his Honour the Lieutenant Governor, Judge Wilmot, Hon. Speaker Christie and Hon. Malcolm Cameron. To the left, Hon. Mr. Mowat, Dr. Ryerson, Sheriff McKellar, and James Young, M. P.—Mr. Ira Morgan, Vice President, occupied the vice chair, and was supported on the right and left by the Hon. James Skead, Captain Grant, A. D. C., Alonzo Wright, M. P., J. M. Currier, M. P., J. C. Rykert, ex-M. P. P., Mr. Ford, Fishery Commissioner, and Mr. Bergue, his private secretary. In other parts of the room were Messrs. S. White, Sheriff Gibbons, T. B. Aylsworth, A. Wilson, S Wilmot, Thos. Stock, L. E. Shipley, Geo. Graham, and other well known members of the Council of Agriculture. Mrs. Christie, Mrs. Morgan, Miss Cameron and a number of other ladies whose names we did not learn, also took part in the déjeuner.

A very hearty meal was partaken of, the appetite of all present being doubtless whetted by the bracing atmosphere that prevailed the greater part of the day outside and by the invigorating drive out Bank street, which has become for this purpose one of the finest thoroughfares of the city. During the lunch the band played a beautiful selection of airs. The cloth was then removed, when wines of the choicest brands, including the indispensable champagne, was brought upon the table.

The CHAIRMAN in a very few remarks proposed the health of Lieutenant Governor Macdonald of Ontario. The toast was duly honoured.

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR briefly responded thanking those present for the cordial manner in which they had drank his health. He felt exceedingly grateful for the handsome reception that had been accorded him by the members of the Board of Arts and Agriculture and the citizens of Ottawa generally. He had frequently during his long residence in the capital had an opportunity of judging of the hospitality of its citizens, and he could safely say that in no city in the Dominion was there such a degree of hospitality as that manifested by the citizens of Ottawa. The genial manner and winning ways of the leading men of the city, did much to allay the jealousies and prejudices that existed against it. When a person gets into the hands of the citizens of Ottawa it was with great difficulty that he got extricated. He was glad to be able to be with them on the occasion of the holding of the Provincial Exhibition for the first time in their city. He was glad, on this the first opportunity since he had assumed his present office, to congratulate them on having so important an honor awarded their city. He again thanked them for the honor done him and concluded by proposing the health of the members of the "Board of Arts and Agriculture." (Cheers).

The PRESIDENT responded in a very appropriate speech, thanking those present, on behalf of the Board of Arts, for the handsome manner in which they had honoured the toast. (Applause).

MR. ALONZO WRIGHT thought he would be pardoned for interrupting the meeting, but he could not allow the opportunity to pass without the Lieutenant Governor for his kind allusions to the citizens of Ottawa. He paid a high compliment to the character and integrity of the new Governor, and thanked him and his friend, the Hon. Mr. Mowat, for their courtesy in honouring them with their presence on such an important occasion. They, as citizens of Ottawa, extended a hearty and cordial welcome to them, and trusted they would often renew their visit. (Loud applause.

MR. WRIGHT then proposed the health of the Hon. D. Christie and Judge Wilmot, of New Brunswick.

The toast was drank with great enthusiasm.

HON. MR. CHRISTIE, in response, thanked them for the kind manner in which they had honoured his name. He had always advocated with pleasure the claims of Ottawa to get the Provincial Exhibition, as he felt satisfied the people of the Ottawa Valley would do their duty in such an important matter. He had the proud satisfaction to day of witnessing a realization of his expectations in this regard, and he felt that the citizens of Ottawa had rather surprised the Western people of Ontario. Their public spirit and generosity if it has done nothing else, it has at least guaranteed that the capital shall have the Exhibition once in every four years. (Loud cheers.)

JUDGE WILMOT thought the time very limited, and would only join in returning thanks for the honour done him. He expressed great pleasure at being present at the Exhibition, and trusted when the Intercolonial Railway would be finished, they would get up a grand Dominion Exhibition, at which all the industrial interests of Canada could be collected together. (Cheers.)

MR. J. M. CURRIER joined with Mr. Wright in an expression of gratitude for the honour done the occasion by the presence of so many distinguished gentlemen. He extended a cordial welcome to His Honour the Lieut.-Governor. He concluded by proposing the health of the Hon. Mr. Mowat, Premier of Ontario.

This toast was honoured with three times three and "For he's a jolly good fellow."

HON. MR. MOWAT expressed concurrence in all that had been said regarding the Lieut. Governor, who, he thought, would fill his new position with honour to himself and credit to the country. He was pleased to find the great progress being made by the city of Ottawa. He had come to inaugurate a new educational institution in their midst, which he trusted would mark another era in their march of improvement. He thanked them for the honour done himself, and he hoped he would become more familiar for the future with the city (cheers.)

MR. IRA MORGAN next proposed the health of Dr. Ryerson.

The toast was also drank with the usual enthusiasm.

DR. RYERSON, in responding, thanked them for the kind expressions towards himself. He paid a fitting tribute to the Lieutenant Governor, whom he found always to be the true friend of education. He was glad that a native Canadian occupied a position in which he could advance the educational interests of the people, for they were the only sure foundation for the institutions of any country. (Applause.)

The company then broke up, when the party, headed by the Guard's Band, proceeded to the Crystal Palace, to attend the formal opening.

THE INAUGURAL.

On arriving at the Palace the procession wended its way to a temporary dias erected for the occasion from which the Lieutenant Governor was to declare the Exhibition opened to the public. At this stage the numbers had been augmented by His Worship the Mayor and some of the City Aldermen. Hon. Mr. Letellier, Judge Lyons and other prominent citizens also assisted in the ceremony.

The proceedings were commenced by an overture entitled Nabucho from the Guards' band.

The PRESIDENT then said as the hour of 3 o'clock had arrived, he had much pleasure in calling upon Lieutenant Governor Macdonald to open the Thirtieth Annual Exhibition of the Province of Ontario.

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, in coming forward, said he was pleased to find such a large gathering on such an important occasion as the opening of the Provincial Exhibition. As an Eastern man he was pleased to find it to be held in the city of Ottawa. It was a source of pleasure to him, as a native Canadian, to have the honour of inaugurating this great industrial Fair. He was glad to find that the project was likely to prove a success, as it would have a tendency to dissipate some disparaging ideas that have too long prevailed in the West regarding Ottawa. He would, therefore, not detain them longer, and concluded by declaring the Exhibition now open to the public. (Applause.)

Three cheers were then given for the Governor and three more for the Queen.

Congratulatory speeches were then delivered by Mr. Alonzo Wright, Hon. O. Mowat, Hon. James Skead and J. M. Currier and Ira Morgan.

His Worship the MAYOR having been called upon made an excellent speech. He on behalf of the citizens extended a cordial welcome to all those who had visited the exhibition from a distance. The city had succeeded at last in attaining the object of her ambition, and the citizens had spared no exertions or expense to make the Fair a success. He hoped strangers would find the hospitality of the citizens of such a nature as that they might go away favourably impressed with the city and its people. He looked upon the exhibition as a great education al institution, and that being its object, it should always move from one section of the country to the other.

After three cheers for the President were given, the meeting adjourned and the 30th Annual Fair was declared duly open.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTIONS AND HORTICULTURE.

There is, probably, no department in which display has been entered into with such zest as that devoted to the growing interest. To such an extent has the competition been carried by exhibitors from East and West, and notably from the Ottawa district, that the Committee have been completely baffled in their efforts to provide space. Up to yesterday no great rush was anticipated in these departments, and there was a very general impression that ample room would be found for all the specimens within the building. But yesterday morning the agriculturists, both amateur and professional, began to pour in with their produce, and it was found quite impossible to accommodate them within the building in order to meet the exigencies of the case, fences had to be erected around the building, within which large quantities of vegetables were laid along the ground. There was some confusion in the arrangements settled upon previously, but matters were subsequently given shape by removing large quantities of roots and vegetables to the outside, and thereby allotting increased space for the display fruits and flowers. As the day was far advanced before the Judges were able to enter on their duties, very little has been done in the way of awarding prises; and indeed the building was closed to visitors during the entire day.

The samples of fruit, more especially apples, are far above the average of other years, both in the professional and amateur sections. The following have some very fine and even specimens in varieties of thirty, twenty and six:—G. Leslie & Sons, Toronto; John McCatheran, Brockville; D. Nicoli, Cataraqui; A. M. Smith, R. H. Ramsay, Cobourg; Gage J. Miller, Virgil; H. J. Brown, Niagara; John D. Service.

Some of these have, moreover, some very fine specimens in varieties of ten, and in four cooking and four dessert. There is a large number of entries for pears; and the following show very fine specimens:—Rev. Dr. Burnett, Hamilton; G. T. Miller, Virgil; H. J. Brown, Niagara; J. Walker, Virgil; R. H. Ramsay, Cobourg.

There is a magnificent display of grapes of a very choice kind. Mr. J. A. Allen of Kingston, shows here a lot of hot house growth, both black and white, which are well worth seeing. One cluster alone weighing several pounds is said to be the finest ever exhibited in Canada. The following are the principle exhibitors:—J. A. Allen, Kingston; W. Graham, New Edinburgh; J. Taylor, St. Catharines; H. Parker, Aylmer; J. Mulligan, Aylmer; T. McKay, Ottawa.

Peaches, so plentifully this year in the garden, are but scantily exhibited; but plums are displayed to advantage both as regards numbers and variety. Mr W. Saunders of London, has some choice specimens.

The melons are worthy especial notice, being of the very finest quality. The following have specimens:—

Green Flesh Melons.—T. De Rinzy, Ottawa; A. French, New Edinburgh; R. Currie, New Edinburgh; John Mathier, Chelsea; J. Grieves, Ottawa.

Water Melons.—D.H. Williams, Billings Bridge; J. L. Nicoll, Kingston; W. B. Davidson, Montreal; J. Hickey, Nepean.

Citrons.—R. Currie, New Edinburgh; J. Hickey, Nepean; J. McNabb, T. McKay, T. DeRinzy, Ottawa; J. Sarley, New Edinburgh.

So very fine is the show of potatoes, that the most experienced judges say they have never seen so large or so good a display at any Canadian exhibition. There was present yesterday a gentleman who for many years had acted as judge in the State Exhibitions of Minnesota, which, rightly or wrongly, is generally reputed the best crop growing State in the Union, and he declared he had never seen during all his experience such a large, varied, and magnificent display as was made yesterday in this class. The following are the principal exhibitors:—Hon. J. Skead, Ottawa; W. Graham, Nepean; G. Starman, Gloucester; C. Foster, East Flamboro; L. Brown, Easton's Corners; W. Rodden, Montreal; C. Westington, Cold Springs; R. Hanes, Matilda; J. Baskerville, Gloucester; J. J. Smyth, do.

Parsnips are well and extensively shown, especially by the following:—J. Clard, March; A. Hickey, Nepean; C. Foster, East Flamboro.

Hon. James Skead displays some very fine specimens amongst the carrots; and Hon. R. Currie, of New Edinburgh, amongst the cabages. The dairy produce does not make such an extensive show as has been witnessed in former years. There are nevertheless many entries and very fine samples. The prizes will be keenly competed for by the following:—W. Graham, Walford; R. Hutton, Kitley; J. K. Affleck, Middlesville.

The show in grain is fully up to the average, and in this section, Mr. T. Manderson, of Reach, seems determined to retain the laurels he invariably wins at each successive exhibition. Wheat and oats are twice as extensively exhibited as at Toronto last year. Mr. Manderson has been awarded the Canada Company's prize for the best twenty five bushels of Fall Wheat, and shews some superfine quality of Diehl, Fife and Club Wheats, and of Surprise (white) and Sparable (black) Oats, in some of which he will doubtless be awarded prizes. J. Carruthers, of Grafton, has also some very fine specimens.

Flowers will generally be admitted to be in quality, variety and numbers, a decided improvement on any exhibition of previous years. More particularly in cut flowers is there a magnificent collection, the dahlias being uncommonly fine. The most prominent exhibitors in this branch are Messrs. Davidson of Montreal, Leslie of Toronto and Flanagan of Kingston. Pansies are very fine, and in larger numbers than usual, and there is as fine a collection of astors as the most fastidious could desire. Phlax-drumandi, a very well known garden favourite is altogether beyond the usual; and verbenas, roses and zinnias are all good. Gladioli are extra, as are also the caxcombs and petunias. Davidson of Montreal, also shows a very fine collection of annuals. In the splendid collection of phlax-drumandi just mentioned, Messrs R Surtees, of New Edingburgh, T. McKay, of Ottawa, R. Currie and I. Sorel, of New Edingburg, and T. De Rinzy, of Ottawa, are the most prominent exhibitors. Table and fan boquets are very fine and pretty extensively, exhibited; but hand boquets are not up to the average. Green house plants are alloted a very prominent and ornamental space in the middle of the hall. There are some immense Gladiolas shown there. Although the show taken collectively is very nice there is little deserving of special mention. There is, however, a splendid specimen of the orange tree exhibited by Mr. J Sorley of New Edinburgh. Altogether garden roots and vegetables are pronounced to be shown in greater variety and finer quality, than at London two years ago, or at Toronto last year. Our reporter has to express his acknowledgements to the Rev. Dr. Burnet for much valuable information very courteously afforded.

BRICKS WITHOUT STRAW.

Two gentlemen of Montreal, Messrs. Bulmer & Sheppard, of No. 244 Parthanias street, Montreal, the Patentees, are now exhibiting one of the most extraordinary brick making machines that it has been our lot to witness. They call it an "Automatic, or Canada Self acting Brick Machine." Originally patented in 1868, the patent was extended to the Dominion in 1871, to Great Britain in 1872, and to the United States in the same year. It is an exceedingly handy affair, moved by either one or two horses, and attended by two or more boys, some of whom sand the brick sites and brick moulds. Into what is called the mill-tub the stiff blue clay is placed, and then each mould containing six, five, or four bricks, may be thus attended to. There is one man to attend in putting in the clay, a small boy to attend to the mould, three strong boys to wheel off the bricks and back them up, and a small boy to sand the pallet. By this simple proces 13,000 bricks a day can be produced. But the clay can be moulded stiffer than by other machines, and the great pressure applied gives more solidity and strength to the bricks, which also retains their shape and dry much quicker. The machine is either for steam or horse power. There is a self-regulator at the top of the machine, which effectually guards against obstructions by stones accidentally falling into the mill tub, or any other obstruction; and there is also a pressure regulator, which ranges from one-eighth to six inches, manageable by the boy or man who slips the clay mould boxes out and in. To say nothing of the clay in the box or the sanding operation on the rotatory brick platform, it may be stated that the machinery can be stopped at pleasure, and the work of grinding be still carried on. One thing may be added; 26,000 bricks a day may be dried in the open air, and it may be added the ease, simplicity and economy of labour with which this great result is attained is marvellous.

PATENT BREAD AND VEGETABLE SLICER.

This is decidedly a curiosity, and may be seen at the exhibition main building. Indeed some gentlemen, not unknown to fame in this city and neighbourhood, have already possessed themselves of several from Mr. Walsh, Bridgewater Mills, Quebec, or his agent here. The patentees are Mr. M. Abearn, Duke street, Ottawa, and Mr. M. Walsh, Bridgewater Mills, Quebec. It is an elegant and compact little machine, which slices bread or vegetables, not like a tobacco-cutter, but with a forward sliding motion, not unlike that of a stationers paper-cutter. It slices bread, dried beef or vegetables easily and regularly in respect of size and with despatch, and is readily adjustable to any ordinary table by means of a very simple contrivance, it will cut slices of any degree of thickness required—a patent sandwich maker. For hotels, restaurants, convents, lunatic asylums, boarding houses or large and genteel families what a desideratum this "Patent Bread Slicer" must be! The saving in bread alone will be a consideration.

THE MAIN BUILDING.

Affairs yesterday morning certainly did present a more business-like and regular appearance than it did on Monday, but still there were several articles which had been entered and not laid out. This gave the interior of the building a somewhat bare appearance, and the bustle of arranging the goods of exhibition interfered considerably with the comfort of visitors. The latter were extremely scant during the early part of the day, but toward noon the number increased considerably, until the landing became thronged with people, both from the city and a distance, who appeared to manifest a deep interest in the proceedings of the day. Notwithstanding the extreme chilly weather, and the building is as full of drafts as a druggist's store, the wind came whistling through the various isles in such a style that overcoats and mufflers were in general acquisition, and were sources of great comfort to their bearers. The looks of the stoves inspired each cold mortal with an earnest desire to see a fire built in a few of them. The wish was a vain one for the stern hearts of the Committee and the representatives of the insurance companies were not to be thawed, notwithstanding the preponderance of blue noses, observations of "Oh! isn't it cold!" and the frigid digests of the reporters, who found it pretty hard work to write up their notes. However, the best had to be made of the occasion, and the first place visited was the gallery, which appeared to have more attractions for the visitors than the lower portion of the building, probably because there were more members of the fair sex to be found there, arranging the delicate products of their handiwork—of which more anon. To commence with an article which is most essential to all business men, the account books, our reporter noticed those manufactured and exhibited by Messrs. James Hope and Company of Sparks street. These comprised books adapted both for banking and ordinary mercantile purposes, were substantially bound and finished in calf, with Russian leather bands. The firm exhibited three different qualities, all of which were of the most creditable character.

Next to the table on which the books were exhibited were some fine specimens of ornamental and useful penmanship, executed in the various Commercial Colleges throughout the Dominion, some of them from Hamilton, Belleville and Toronto especially, were wonders of the penman's art, and attracted a large share of attention.

Near this table was placed a bust of the late Mr. D'Arcy McGee which was pronounced by those who knew the lamented gentleman in his lifetime to be a most correct likeness. Our reporter was unable to ascertain the name of the artist who modelled it.

A clay model of the Royal Coat of Arms, exhibited by Mr. John W. Webster, the contractor for the new post office and probably intended for the decoration of that structure, is a most artistic piece of work, and was so pronounced by several persons competent to pronounce upon its merits.

Mr. E. Simay, of Hull, has added several specimens of his skill in the art of enamelling glass, and his stand was really a pretty sight. Some Western visitors signified their intention of patronising him rather extensively.

Then comes the customary array of sewing machines of all sorts, sizes and makes. The Singer is exhibited by Mr. Monroe. The Wheeler & Wilson is also represented, and a new make of the Gardner, which claims to have less mechanical complications in its construction than any other in use. The Reece machine manufactured and exhibited by Messrs. O. Movrill & Co., of Rock Island, P. Q., is a neatly got up affair, nickel-plated by Clarke's patent process, and is quite a bijou in appearance.

On the same floor is, as has been already remarked, the ladies' department, in which some most beautiful specimens of needlework, both plain and fancy, but as it was not all brought in before the doors closed, a more extended notice is deferred.

In the fine arts department, also on the gallery, considerable delay took place in hanging the pictures, but by the afternoon the tasteful arrangement of them was the theme of universal admiration. Mr. J. C. Forbes exhibits some very skilfully executed and faithful portraits of many well known residents of the city. Among the most prominent is a picture of His Excellency the Governor General, which it is the intention of the artist to send to the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia. Then there is one of the Hon. David Christie which is to be placed in the Senate Chamber. There are also portraits of the Hon. Jas. Skead, Mr J. M Currier, M. P., Mr Alonzo Wright, M. P., Mr Ira Morgan, Mr Jas. D. Slater and others, but the gem of the whole of Mr. Forbes' pictures is a portrait of Miss Slater, which is not only a handsome picture, which it could not help being, as it is so perfect a portrait. The features are lifelike, and the position in which the artist has placed the young lady, adds greatly to the effect of the pictures. It is certainly the best executed portrait in the whole collection.

Mr. Cresswell, a rising young artist, both in water colors and oil, has some finely executed landscapes, the choicest of them in the former class are some exquisite pieces of lake scenery, and in oil a cleverly executed painting of some sheep, and in the drawing of those animals Mr. Creswell appears to excel.

A couple of capital oil paintings by Miss McLaren, who, by the way, is a perfectly self taught artist, never having had a lesson in painting in her life, are exceedingly well done. Her forte appears to be in the style of Landseer, Ansdell or Herring, and a stag which forms the subject of one of her pictures, is astonishingly well done, as are also three horses' heads, which, if we mistake not, is a copy of one of Herrings'.

Mr. Fowler, of Amherst Island, exhibits a well executed painting of a group of gladiolas, and some dead game is also very truthfully pourtrayed.

Mr. Griffiths, of London, Ont., also has a very pretty group of flowers, the painting of which evinces much talent.

Miss Margaret Bate shows two vigorously executed landscapes in oil, which show a very large amount of skill in the limner's art.

Mrs. Col. Chamberlin exhibits a very well finished painting in oil of a cluster of Canadian aquatic flowers, and also a group in water colours; both are extremely well executed, and are something the lady may justly be proud of.

Mr. Verner, of Toronto, has also a very fine collection of specimens of his skill.

Down stairs there were articles of a more ponderous nature, and combining the more useful advantages and purposes with ornament. Specimens of household furniture from all parts of the Dominion, and the most prominent manufactories, here being placed in position, and to-day will see that department complete.

In some of the sections set apart for the exhibition of the heavier articles in iron work, was noticed a most ingenious railroad car coupling, the invention of Col. Chatterton, of Cobourg, which, while being of the most massive and strong character, is expeditious in action, and has been in use on the Cobourg and Peterborough Railroad for years. The same gentleman had also on exhibition what he terms a "Collision draw bar," which acting as a buffer, most ingeniously so constructed as to lessen the shock which would necessarily be sustained in case of two trains coming into contact. The invention is well worthy of the attention of all who are interested in railroad matters.

Again noticeable among the heavy articles of iron ware, are the handsome stoves shown by Mr. H. Meadows, of Sussex street. He has one which is intended for the heating of churches, public halls and other large buildings. He terms it the Diamond Hot-air Furnace, and its construction is found on philosophical principles, and it appears to be admirably adapted for the purpose for which it has been invented. Mr. Meadows has also some handsome stoves for the uses of private domiciles, and so fashioned as to be adapted for the consumption of either wood or coal. A bedstead finished with burnished brass mountings is one of the handsomest articles of its class within the building.

While on the subject of metal work, to which we shall take occasion to refer, it is as well to mention that the Dominion of Canada Plumbago Co. made a very fine display of undressed ore from their mines in Buckingham, and of crucibles and pencils manufactured therefrom. They also exhibited electrotyping, pencil, lubricating and crucible stock prepared, the whole deservedly attracting attention, not only on account of its rarity but also on account of its acknowledged superiority in every department. The pencils of the Company are remarkably good, and although those shown were only mechanics pencils, they equal any imported, whilst the Company's crucibles are pronounced unequalled. The Assayer to Her Majesty's mint and the Bank of England, pronounces the ore from the veins 97 per cent. pure carbon, and the disseminated 25 20 pure carbon. From certificates and reports which we have seen, it appears conclusively that the quantity of ore is almost inexhaustible, and the quality unequalled; and it is with pleasure we note the great success the Company has, in so short a time, attained.

The frigid state of the atmosphere naturally called the attention of the visitors to the handsome display of furs made First came that of Mr. R. J. Devlin, the well known vendor, the "hats that R hats," both here and in Montreal. Without in the slightest degree exaggerating, his show is really one that takes the premier place in that department. One set of furs, a jacket, muff, cap, &c. trimmed with silver fox skin is one of the most recherche articles of its class ever exhibited. He has also some beautiful South Sea seal coats, jackets and caps, bear and buffalo carriage robes, and other winter comforts in the shape of furs. Messrs. C. W. Bangs & Co. have also a fine display, and among other handsome articles is a piano cover, the work of a Squaw. The ornamentation is formed of porcupine quills and moose hair, and it is one of the most interesting in that department. Mr. James Peacock has also a splendidly arranged stall, and the furs he exhibits are most suberb. They have been prepared especially for the Exhibition by Mr. George Peacock, who is entitled to the highest credit for his workmanship.

A NEW WASHER.

Among the comparatively few articles used in the laundry was the Walker Washer and Wringer, which is manufactured in Hamilton. It is certainly one of the most ingeniously constructed affairs of the kind ever yet invented. Morrison Brothers were the inventors of the machine and from the style in which it washed, it seemed to fully to deserve the title which is claimed for it the "Laundry Friend." It seems likely to become a favourite in every household, where the washing "is not put out." It is worthy of the closest inspection.

Mr. Clark of Montreal, exhibits a most tasteful case of nickel plated goods, which have been prepared under a process patened by himself as it is his own invention. The goods consist of surgical instruments, ornaments, lock plates, watch chains, lockets, &c., and they are bright as silver, from which metal they can scarcely be distinguished.

Near the last named article is a handsomely arranged assortment of wire work, including bird cages, flower stands, trainers, &c., the work of Mr. T. G. Rice, of Montreal, one of the most ingenious articles he exhibits is an invalid chair, which appears to be a most comfortable contrivance. The tasteful manner in which the wares are arranged is quite artistic.

Mr. Godefroi Chapleau of Montreal, shows a fine specimen of a safe, which is one of the best finished pieces of work of the kind in the building. The lock is on a new principle, and seems as if it would defy the efforts of the most skillful burglar. It formed quite an object of attraction during the day.

SOME HANDSOME BASKETS

Are exhibited by Mr. Samuel Rogers, of Nicholas street, and they are really most elaborately finished—gorgeously got up in fact. There is a curiosity connected with these articles, i. e., that two of them were constructed by Master Maynard Rogers, who has not yet attained his thirteenth year. The youth has displayed an amount of skill and good taste which would do credit to a workman of more mature years. There are also some very fine metallic caskets, and robes for both Protestants and Roman Catholics, all finished in a style which goes far to rob to a certain extent death of its ghastliness. Mr. Rogers shows also his two hearses, one for adults and the other for children. The vehicles were built by Messrs. J. B. Armstrong & Co., of Guelph, and they are acknowledged to be the handsomest articles of the kind in the city. They were universally admired.

In the Surgical department, Mr. James Authors, of Toronto, exhibits several ingeniously constructed artificial limbs and apparatus for the cure of lateral curvature of the spine. The instruments are well finished, and were spoken of most highly by many medical men. It was Mr. Authors who constructed the feet for Frank Albert last winter, but one, lost his natural pedal members by frost bite.

W. Bell & Co., of Guelph, show some of their celebrated organs, and Hallitt and plano fortes.

Hearn & Harrison, of Montreal, have a very interesting case of philosophical, optical and mathematical instruments, all of which show superior style of workmanship.

Mr. W. M. Somerville, of Rideau street, who has lately been appointed agent for Colin H. Dunlap & Co., of Glasgow, exhibits some of that firm's manufactures, in the shape of cotton yarns and silks, and their superior finish was the theme of much admiration from the fair sex.

The building closed at six p.m., and up to that time articles were still arriving.

corporation were prepared to give ample guarantee in this direction.

Mr. GEORGE MERTON, of Guelph, seconded the proposition.

MAYOR SULLIVAN, of Kingston, rose to move that the City of Kingston be the next place for holding the Exhibition. He thought as the city was deprived of her turn last year by Ottawa, she should at least get it this year. He was prepared, on behalf of the Corporation, to guarantee necessary accommodation.

SHERIFF FERGUSON of Kingston, seconded the proposition. They had erected permanent buildings in Kingston, and he trusted the delegates would do justice to the City of Kingston

The written guarantee was then handed in by the Mayor.

His WORSHIP the Mayor of Guelph, also handed in the necessary guarantee on behalf of the town of Guelph. He thought the town was the largest contributor to the Exhibitions, and that on this account it had strong claims to the Exhibition. He was of opinion that it would benefit all those interested in the welfare of the Association. It was said Guelph could not accommodate the people who would visit the Exhibition, but 17,000 had attended the Central Fair, and no inconvenience arose from this great number being in that town. He expressed much satisfaction at the grounds and accommodation in Ottawa, but thought the grounds in Guelph would even excel those of Ottawa. He would not advocate the claims of Guelph in opposition to that of any other place, but leave it on its own merits.

The vote was taken on the three places, with the following result: Hamilton 61, Guelph 33, and Kingston 25.

Kingston being the lowest, dropped out, and the vote was next taken between Hamilton and Guelph.

The second vote resulted in Hamilton 64, and Guelph 31.

The President then declared that Hamilton was the next place at which the Provincial Exhibition would be held.

THE CENTENNIAL.

MR. IRA MORGAN moved that this meeting fully endorses the action taken by the Dominion Government in having the products of the field represented at the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia, and recommend to the Ontario Government the favorable consideration of the desirability of making a liberal appropriation for such purposes, and we hereby individually and collectively pledge ourselves to further to the best of our ability the carrying out of the objects contemplated by the commission.

Mr McDOUGALL, the commissioner of Ontario explained that the Province should be represented by counties in the matter of grain, at Philadelphia. No definite action was taken in regard to live stock; but they would depend on the advice of the Agricultural and Arts Association The same might be said of roots and vegetables. He regretted that a great apathy existed in regard to the exhibition of manufactures. He trusted that all true lovers of their country would make an endeavour to have the Exhibition a success.

Mr FRASER, Secretary of the Advisory Board, said it afforded him a great deal of pleasure in addressing such an important meeting on the subject of the World's Fair at Philadelphia next year. He explained that a good exhibition there would develop commerce. The United States sold their produce to the West Indies and other countries, why should we subject ourselves to this system. He thought a good show at Philadelphia would result in opening up a direct trade with foreign markets. He hoped a more vigorous action would be taken by the people in regard to this matter, and that every effort would be put forth to have a successful exhibition on the part of the Dominion of Canada.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

VOTE OF THANKS.

On motion of SPEAKER CHRISTIE, seconded by Mr. J. C. RYKERT, a vote of thanks was accorded the Corporation and citizens of Ottawa for the handsome manner in which they had furnished accommodation for the Provincial Exhibition.

HIS WORSHIP THE MAYOR, on behalf of the Corporation of Ottawa, returned thanks for the cordial vote of the Association.

HON. JAMES SKEAD returned thanks on behalf of the local committee.

A vote of thanks was also passed to the different railway and steamboat companies for the liberal reduction of rates.

The meeting then adjourned.

New Normal School.

OFFICIAL OPENING.

Speeches by Eminent Statesmen, &c.

The official opening of the New Normal School took place yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. The use of Gowan's Grand Opera House was obtained for the occasion, which was attended by considerable eclat. There was, however, a much smaller attendance of the citizens than was expected and desired; but the counter attraction of the Exhibition, and the fact that the place and time of the ceremony were not very well understood, more than accounted for the occurrence. The body of the Opera House was well filled with ladies and gentlemen, most of whom are well known for the interest they take in educational affairs. Prominent amongst them were the several clergymen of the Anglican, the Presbyterian, the Roman Catholic, the Baptist, and Methodist Churches; and Messrs. Buell and Brouse, members of the House of Commons for Brockville and Grenville respectively. On the platform were His Honour the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, the Premier of the Dominion, the Premier of Ontario, the Chief Superintendent of Education, the Hon Adam Crooks, the Principal of the Normal School, the Rev. D. M. Gordon, the Rev. Father Dawson, the Rev. Father O'Connor, Mayor Featherston, Mr. D. J. O'Donoghue, M. P. P., &c., &c.

Rev. Dr. RYERSON moved that the Lieut. Governor take the chair, and in doing so said His Honour's kind consent to act had been obtained. This he was sure would be gratifying to the citizens and the various gentlemen present, especially when it was remembered that he had been second to none in his commercial and manufacturing connections in promoting the interests of education and progress. (Cheers.) Now he stood at the head of the Government of the great Province of Ontario, a position he occupied worthily. (Cheers.)

Mayor FEATHERSTON, in seconding the resolution, apologized for the smallness of the audience, remarking that the time and place of opening were not sufficiently known, and pointing also to the fact that the citizens were nearly all at the Exhibition grounds. He re reited that the formal opening should have taken place during this week at all, and assured the gentlemen on the platform that the sparse attendance was in no way the result of a lack of interest in educational matters on the part of the people. He reviewed briefly the history of the movement in favour of the institution of a Normal School at this point, so far as the citizens were concerned, and he congratulated the city and the Provincial Government that now they had approached this important stage in the matter and were about to witness the formal opening of the Normal School. He welcomed the Lieut. Governor to the city, who during his stay amongst us had endeared himself to all by his princely generosity and kindness of heart, and had best les taken a deep interest in Ottawa and the surrounding district as a public man. (Cheers.) He also welcomed the Premier of the Provincial Government (cheers) and the other gentlemen who did them the honour of being present upon the occasion.

His Honour the LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, on taking the chair, expressed the pleasure he had in being present to witness such an auspicious event. Both as the head of the Executive of Ontario, and as a native Canadian hailing from the eastern portion of the Province, he was much pleased at having the opportunity of being present at the opening of a Normal School located in the east. The population of the peninsula the educational interests of which would be served by this institution numbered, if he recollected roughly, from 160,000 to 175,000, and from its central position, and the facilities of communication by rail and water from every side, he really thought that no better location could have been selected for it. There was a very large population in this very vicinity to reap the benefits. There were Ottawa with its 25,000 or over, the flourishing villages of Rochesterville and New Edinburgh on each side of and almost forming part of it, and the City of Hull adjoining, with its 8,000 or 10,000; indeed, there was, according to his calculation, a population of some 40,000 within a radius of three miles, having the Normal School as a centre. These things formed a very strong inducement to the government to locate the School at this point, enhanced as its position was by two railway lines giving it communication with the interior, and the great river Ottawa connecting it with the east and west. He remarked that in addition to what he had already said as to the sources from which the Normal School might expect students, there were the counties of Ottawa and Pontiac lying immediately in front and to the west, each with a population of 30,000; and although they lay within the Province of Quebec, he felt assured the people of Ontario and of this vicinity would willingly extend to them the advantages offered by the Ottawa Normal School. (Cheers.) He was pleased with the location of the school for another reason. He was aware, from a knowledge gained by a residence of two years in their midst that the people of Ottawa were remarkable for their intelligence, their industry, their frugality, their sobriety and general uprightness of conduct and propriety of behaviour, and he knew of no place in this country or elsewhere that was more noticeable for its maintenance of public order and its respect for the authority of the law. (Loud cheers). His Honour, who begged to be excused from making further remarks on account of the gentlemen who were to follow him, all of whom were well fitted to speak on anything pertaining to education, took his seat amid hearty and renewed applause. He then introduced

Hon Mr MACKENZIE, who was received with cheers. He prefaced his remarks by a facetious assurance that he was always willing to submit to authority, and of course would obey the Lieut-Governor when called upon. He was happy to respond to the invitation accorded him by the Chief Superintendent to be present and witness the opening of the Normal School. Dr Ryerson had recently recited the fact, in a letter to the public press, that he had been somewhat unwillingly induced by him (Mr Mackenzie) to commit his ideas regarding the establishment of additional Normal Schools to paper. This was at the time he (Mr. Mackenzie) was acting as Premier of Ontario. The necessity of having at least three additional Normal Schools had frequently pressed itself upon his attention, and he thought then as he was strongly of opinion yet that they should be located at Ottawa, Kingston and London respectively. He found himself in accord with the views of the Chief Superintendent of Education upon this subject, and although he left the Government of Ontario a few days after the occurrence referred to by Dr. Ryerson, he had the pleasure, as one of his last executive acts, of drafting an order in Council embodying his opinions. He did not then expect to become a citizen of Ottawa, but in that capicity he now took the opportunity of congratulating the people, the Government, and the Chief Superintendent upon the fulfilment of at least one part of the programme, and to express the ernest desire that the Premier of Ontario would soon be able to carry out the remaining. An examination in Chown him, while interesting himself in this matter as a member of the Ontario Government, that the Normal School at Toronto, while very efficiently conducted, perhaps, indeed, all that could be desired in a Normal School—was limited in its operations to a somewhat small portion of the country, and if memory served him right, the record showed that the county of York furnished as many of its students as the whole of the rest of the Province combined; thus making it very much more of a local institution than seemed to him desirable in the interests of education. Our Normal School accommodation, he also remarked, was small as compared to the States of the American Republic which lay close to us, and there was too little desire among teachers to make their calling a profession. It was too frequently a makeshift with both ladies and gentlemen, who merely used it as a means of obtaining other situations, and it was not regarded in the light of an employment which was to be permanent, and which in itself offered all the opportunity for promotion which was to be desired The remuneration for teaching was not yet generally what it ought to be, but if the profession itself were elevated more in the persons of those who followed it, better salaries would follow, and could be insisted upon. He recited some very interesting experiences of Mr. Horace Mann, in regard to the schools of Massachusetts, which went to show that the greater the ignorance of the people and the school trustees, the less respect was paid and the less encouragement offered to a really competent teacher. It was the interest of parents and instructors alike to elevate the standing of the teaching profession, and to make it an occupation that would be at once honourable and remunerative, and the best way to forward this object was to increase as far as practicable the means of imparting a higher education. He felt grateful as a citizen of Ottawa that such means had been afforded to the people of this section of Ontario, and he trusted the same privilege would soon be extended to the other portions to which references had been made. He believed that on the education of the people depended in a large measure the greatness of a country in a mercantile and commercial respect. In proportion as our educational institutions are sustained so, he contended, will our political institutions be perfected, and good and equitable Government assured. He had taken great pride and pains to point out to the people of Great Britain, during his recent visit, what he regarded as the superiority of our system of education, and how peculiarly gratified he was that the system was harmoniously carried out as between all classes and creeds of our population. (Loud and prolonged cheering.)

Hon. Mr. MOWAT said he had attended the meeting more with the intention of being a listener and a witness of the proceedings than of making a speech. His desire was more especially that his friend and colleague, Mr. Crooks, should say whatever it was fitting should be said on the part of the Government, inasmuch as it was extremely likely he would be our first Minister of Education for the Province of Ontario. (Loud cheers.) It was probably well known that the propriety of having a member of the Administration at the head of the Education Department instead of a Chief Superintendent outside of the Government, was a subject which had occupied public attention occasionally for some time, and the Chief Superintendent, under whose fostering care our educational institutions and system had been for the last thirty or forty years, had expressed himself very strongly in its favour. The opportunity would soon be offered him of having it tried and tested. (Cheers.) As there were in other countries Ministers of Education, it was probably but right that we should have one in Ontario. (Hear, hear.) He (Mr Mowat) rejoiced to find himself in accord with his predecessors in the Government of Ontario in regard to this matter of the Ottawa Normal School. He entirely agreed with the opinion expressed by Mr. Mackenzie that additional Normal Schools were necessary, and that Ottawa was the place where it was appropriate the first movement in that direction should be inaugurated. He (Mr. Mowat) did not agree with him in everything he said, however, and differed from him, as an example, when he stated that he was no longer connected with the Government of Ontario, thereby creating the impression that Ontario was nothing to the Dominion. He (Mr. Mowat), conceived that Ontario was a great part of the Dominion; she was the largest, richest, and most influential Province in the confederation, and indeed he did not know what Canada would be without her. (Loud cheers.) But as Ontario was the leading Province in the Dominion, it was only fitting that she should take a leading stand in regard to education. Than the subject of education there was none to which our public men could with better advantage give their attention, and none in which he personally felt a greater interest. The time was fortunately long past when it was necessary to press the advantages of education upon the people of Upper Canada, nor was it necessary to tell them that the perfection of our system was an object to which all their energies should be bent. He dwelt with great emphasis upon the happiness and concord, and all the other blessings which flow from the existence amongst the people of sound information and broad views, which could only be imparted by a system of public instruction which includes all, and he also pointed out how close the connection between a sufficient supply of institutions for the training of teachers and the success of education. A considerable number of Normal Schools were in operation in several countries of Europe, and in the United States they were very plentiful. In the latter, indeed, the number of them was very much greater in proportion to the population than in Ontario, and the schools themselves were generally, in all essential elements, found to be most flourishing and progressive. He happened to be present at the opening of the Normal School at Toronto in 1847, and he remembered the Chief Superintendent upon that occasion pointed out that we were ahead of the State of New York in that respect. Now he (Mr. Mowat) was sorry to say, we were very much behind that State, and it was because he did not intend this state of things should continue, that he had determined this Normal School should be proceeded with. He had experienced considerable difficulty, he said, in getting the Legislature to agree to the appropriation, and he recounted the already well known steps which were taken by the opponents of the government to defeat the scheme. The fact that Ottawa was the Capital of the Dominion made it of the utmost importance that the people should be well forward in the matter of education, but he would also be frank enough to state, while aware of the good school accommodation afforded in the city, and the high standing of the city schools and teachers, that the most pressing reason was the too wide existence of an opposite state of things in some of the country districts. He had been informed only this morning that in one of these eastern district had sent but twenty successful students to the Toronto Normal School. He was afraid that in many cases the schools, school houses and teachers were not exactly what they ought to be, but he hoped this fault would soon be remedied. He remarked that in outward appearance and internal arrangement the Ottawa building was far superior to that of Toronto, and he was glad to know that as many as 38 matriculated had already passed the entrance examination—a number which would very probably be added to in the near future. He would look to the success of the institution with considerable interest, and he hoped every effort would be made to second the efforts of the Government in that direction. He was glad to know there was such an literest felt in our schools in this Province, and he regarded it as the most hopeful proof of the depth and sincerity of that interest that the ratepayers were willing to submit to such heavy taxation on its account. He remarked upon the vastly greater amount of money contributed towards educational purposes from local taxation than was spent by the Government in that way, and he asserted it was positively the best investment which it was possible for them to make, not only as to its direct returns, but in its prospective advantages. After a few other remarks in a similar spirit, the hon. gentlemen retired amid loud applause.

Hon. Mr. CROOKS said he scarcely expected to receive upon this occasion the announcement that upon his shoulders would be placed the responsibility of a department which had been for so many years presided over by the respected Chief Superintendent. He had attended chiefly for the purpose of expressing in his own person how much the progress of the people of Ottawa was watched and made a matter of regard by the Government of Ontario. It was the fact that this city had looked more to the Federal than the Provincial Government as the source of its advancement and prosperity, but he desired to remind them that there were interests affecting them very closely which were within the jurisdiction of the Local Administration and Legislature. Of these interests education was one, and the lumber trade another, both of them of very great importance to the city of Ottawa. He reminded them of the impetus which had been afforded to the latter by the policy instituted by the present Government, the effects of which had been felt from the Ottawa to the Detroit River. He spoke in enthusiastic terms of the prominent position our system of education had attained, and eulogized Dr. Ryerson in that connection. Only recently, he remarked, the United States were looked to for an educational model, but latterly the Canadian system was more highly regarded, and we had placed ourselves in a position to show an example of a character even better adapted to the necessities of a country than the States. Ours had many features borrowed from the American system; indeed, it seemed to be a combination of the experience of all other countries We had at last found a system national in its characteristics, and yet depending upon the voluntary action of the taxpayers. We had also been able to overcome those difficulties as between denominations, which had caused so many heart burnings in other places. To show how popular our system of education is, he stated that the rate payers tax themselves at the rate of $3,000,000 per annum, while the Government contributed only about one tithe of that amount, or some $300,000. He insisted upon the necessity which existed for raising the standard of the profession, and the increase of salaries of teachers; as well as the establishment of other than the existing schools for their training. He remarked upon the effects of public school education on the people, and gave the success of Scotchmen in business and other circles, arising from their parochial schools, and the triumph of the Germans in their war with France, as very striking evidence of the fact. Education was one of those things in which there was no resting point, but progress must be continually going on. Teaching was like anything else, it required an apprenticeship on the part of him who would make it his profession. The Normal School was the place where that apprenticeship must be served, and it had been clearly shown that the establishment at Toronto was insufficient for the requirements of the country. There could not be a higher duty than that of the teacher, upon whose exertions and capacity the future of the youth of the country depended, and in whose hands to all intents and purposes the fate of the nation was thrown. (Cheers).

The Rev. D. M. GORDON said he willingly acceded to the request of the Rev. Dr. Ryerson, to take part in this meeting, not because he had anything of interest or importance to say, but because, in common with his fellow-citizens, he rejoiced at the opening of a Normal School in Ottawa. There were many proofs of the prosperity and progress of our city; but perhaps in no respect had that progress been more marked during the past eight years than in the matter of education. If cities were like individuals, in that "some achieve greatness, and others have greatness thrust upon them;" and if, as the residents of older cities often reminded us, Ottawa has had greatness thrust upon it by its having been made the capital of the Dominion, it had made a vigorous and successful effort to be worthy of that distinction; and it was one of the most hopeful signs of prosperity when our educational institutions flourish and multiply. The demand for trained and capable teachers for this part of the Province had been so steadily increasing, that it called for the establishment of a training school in this city. A manufacturing centre like Ottawa required not only a great deal of machinery, but establishments also for the special purpose of manufacturing machinery. So, too, having come to require a good deal of educational machinery, the time had arrived for us to have an establishment for producing that machinery; and now that we had the Normal School erected and equipped, he was sure we united in the hope that it might take as high rank and do as valuable service as any of the Normal Schools of the country. But while the erection of the Normal School marked one stage of our progress in educational work, it might not be out of place, he thought, to express the hope that before many years another state of that progress would be marked by the equipment of a college at which a thorough literary and scientific education could be had. A university might embrace and control a number of colleges; these colleges might be situated in different parts of the country, but so connected, and so governed by the central power of the university as that the examinations for degrees might be the same for all, and a man graduating at any one of these colleges would carry with him the stamp and recognition of the university. By such a system many young men living in the neighborhood of any such college might avail themselves of the advantages it afforded them, though they might not be able to go away from home to pursue their studies; and so the benefits of higher education would be placed within the reach of a greater number. There were some who desired to see some such university system in Ontario, not confining to Toronto the expenditure of public money for higher education, but having several colleges throughout the Province, that would both rank beside University College, Toronto, doing similar work, and connected with it as integral parts of what might be the University of Ontario. If such a system were ever carried out, perhaps we might hope to have one of the colleges established in Ottawa. While we were extending our Normal School system, it would surely be wise, if not absolutely necessary, to extend also our University system. It might, he thought, be fairly questioned whether the mere training of a Normal School was sufficient to produce a first-rate teacher without any University education. The art of teaching must of course be acquired, and for imparting that our Normal Schools were indispensable, but those teachers who had themselves enjoyed a university training would probably be the first to admit that, while they are chiefly indebted to the Normal School for their proficiency in the art of teaching, they are indebted to the university for the scholarship, the breadth of view, the balance of judgment, and the habit of clear thinking which were among the chief requisites of the successful educator. For the sake, therefore, of perfecting our teachers, as well as for the sake of placing within the reach of a larger number the facilities for obtaining a higher education, he hoped that we might at some future date rejoice at the opening in Ottawa of a college where a thorough literary and scientific training could be had, as we this day rejoiced at the opening of our Normal School. (Loud cheers.)

Rev. Mr. DAWSON expressed his delight at being present on this occasion, and remarked upon the illustrious company in which he found himself, the gentlemen upon the platform being among the most distinguished in the Dominion of Canada He spoke of his own interest in the cause, and the joy he felt at the expressions of deep and heartfelt solicitation on its behalf expressed by the gentlemen who had spoken, all of whom had it in their power to do so much for its advancement. We were advancing in material prosperity—and there was no man of observation who did not see that we were going forward in mighty strides, and while we were almost surpassing the older nations of the world, there were some of these unfortunately some of the greatest of them—engaged in the most miserable political quarrels, and in their damnable persecutions which ought to have passed away in this age. It was therefore a cause of true joy to find in addition that our public men were so thoroughly in earnest about the moral and intellectual improvement of the people. In many respects we were greater even than the ancient nations of illustrious history, and only a few years would elapse ere we should eclipse them in every way: this noble zeal in the cause of education would lift us beyond them all. So far as teachers were concerned, he deprecated the custom so prevalent of regarding them as mere servants—on a par with the man who dug your potatoes or held your plough—and he advocated the payment of such reasonable salaries to highly qualified teachers as would enable them to make and maintain their proper rank in society. Let Canada be the first to award to the teacher and his profession, that high and honourable place which rightfully belongs to them. (Loud cheers.) So long as people were ignorant themselves, so long would they continue to treat with indignity persons who are more enlightened than themselves—those who have to instruct and enlighten their children. (Hear, hear.) Let the people be educated, however, and this would be no longer possible. The coming generation was that to which we might reasonably look with hope, but even in the present day salaries might and ought to be increased, and much would thus be done to elevate the status of the teacher. (Cheers.)

Rev Dr. RYERSON complimented the city of Ottawa upon the establishment and completion of the Normal School, which he had regarded as of the greatest importance to this part of the country, which was in may respects isolated, and connected with eastern Canada more intimately commercially and otherwise than with the west. When called upon by Mr. Mackenzie to express an opinion upon the subject, although unwilling to add to the responsibility he was bearing, he was in favour of Ottawa as the first place where a school should be established. The prospects of success were much greater than he had anticipated, and he pointed out that while there were only 31 students entered the Toronto Normal School the first session, representing though it did, the whole Province, there were already two-thirds of that number for this district alone. He dwelt with emphasis upon the necessity for having well trained teachers, who were cheap at any price as compared to a poorly informed and untrained class. He touched upon the efforts he had made in establishing the existing system of education, asserting that he had learned some most useful lessons from the people and educational system of Holland. He remarked that New York State, which had three millions and over of a population, had now nine Normal Schools, although it was behind Ontario in establishing the first one and Pennsylvania had twelve. We ought to have six in Ontario if we maintained the proportion. He also recounted the number in several other States of the Union. He advocated the addition of a Model School to the Normal School here at the expense of the city of Ottawa, at whose door he contended that duty properly lay. The Normal School accommodation of the Province was only for 300, which he held to be altogether too little for the population, and felt sure the Government must be impelled to build more schools in view of these facts. He advocated the erection by local authorities generally of Model Schools, and expressed himself gratified by the offer made by the Collegiate Institute Trustees and the Central School East, of their willingness to give facilities for having a model class in connection with their operations for the benefit of Normal School students. He complimented Ottawa upon the high standing of all the teachers engaged in its schools of every grade, and he was especially glad that in the matter of salaries we were ahead of Toronto, for good salaries would always bring the best of men. (Loud cheers.) He remarked that he was now in the seventy-third year of his age, and had been for nearly thirty-seven of these at the head of the educational affairs of the Province. Most ken he no doubt had made, as who that was human did not, but this he was able to assert without fear of successful contradiction that he had a ought the good of his country with all his heart, and had endeavored to do his duty honestly and fairly, without respect to denomination. The time had arrived that some other arrangement should be made, and Parliamentary responsibility established in connection with the administration of the Department. He could scarcely be expected to speak on the subject without emotion, but the course was one he had long favoured. He had made the proposal in 1868 to the late Sandfield Macdonald, who did not favour it, and again to the new government in 1872. Since then he had never ceased to urge it. Speaking as he did entirely free from party predilection, he was able to say that he was heartily glad that Mr. Crooks had been selected for the position. A scholar, a Canadian, and a philanthropist, there was no one in Upper Canada better adapted to the position than was he. All the influence of which he (Dr. Ryerson) was possessed would be exercised on his behalf. He wished him God speed in the mission confided to him, and whatever time might be allotted him (Dr. Ryerson) here below would be devoted to the gentleman's service. (Cheers.) He had the most perfect faith in our educational future, and believed we should soon stand in the front rank of the civilised countries of North America. (Loud cheers)

His Honour the LIEUT.-GOVERNOR then said:—I now declare that the Normal School of Ottawa is open, from this time forth, and from my heart I wish it all success and prosperity. (Loud cheers.)

Mayor FEATHERSTON proposed a vote of thanks to the Lieut.-Governor, the Hon. Messrs. Mowat, Mackenzie and Crooks, the Rev. Dr. Ryerson and the other gentlemen who had taken part in the proceedings, and he took the opportunity to say that Ottawa had done more in the erection and improvement of its public schools in recent years than any city in the Dominion.

Rev. Dr. O'CONNOR seconded the motion, which was agreed to by acclamation.

The proceedings, which had been of the most harmonious and happy order, were then brought to a close, and the company separated.

Local Intelligence.

THE CLARENDON HOUSE.—There were over 60 arrivals registered at the Clarendon House again yesterday.

POSTPONED.—The concert announced to take place to-night in aid of the Library of St. Andrews Church Sabbath School, has been postponed until further notice.

COOL. BURGESS.—The attendance at Gowan's Hall, last night to hear Cool Burgess and his interesting variety entertainment was large The performances each evening prove highly interesting. Want of space forbids our commenting at any length upon the play.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.—The Normal School was visited yesterday afternoon by the Lieut Governor, the Chief Superintendent of Education, Hon Mr. Mowat, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie, Hon. Mr. Crooks, They were received by the Principal, Mr. MacCabe, who showed them over the buildings, with which they expressed themselves very much pleased.

SURGICAL OPERATION.—A very successful operation was performed on Tuesday by Dr Hill, assisted by Drs. Lynn, St Jean, and Robillard, in the Protestant Hospital. The patient was a man named Timmins from Gloucester and his ailment was a large tumour on the left shoulder. The operation is said to have been skilfully performed by Dr. Hill, and it is thought it will be the means of saving the man's life.

FIRE IN UPPER TOWN.—An alarm of fire was rung last night from box 7, at the corner Wellington and Kent streets. It turned out that the window of Mr. J. W. Ryan's dry goods store on Wellington street was on fire, through some of the drapery in it catching from gas. It was, however, quickly extinguished by the firemen, who were early upon the scene. The loss will probably amount to $500 or $600.

GUARDS' BAND.—The band of the Governor General's Foot Guards played a very fine programme last night on Parliament Square. The crowds of people who congregated to hear its melodious strains was immense, the square and promenade being literally jammed with people. The last Open-air Concert was a decide success, and it is to be hoped the citizens, for the favours rendered, will heartily respond by attending en masse the Concert on Wednesday evening next, the 29th inst., in the Rink Music Hall.

DANGEROUS.—A man while in a fit of intoxication last night, in a Lower Town hotel, struck a man, and afterwards drew a revolver. The operation being witnessed by a clever Toronto detective, the officer promptly did his duty, and after clapping the "nippers" on him frightened him so much that he immediately surrendered his shooting iron, caved in, and went his way. His latter proceeding conduced much to the comfort and personal safety of those members of the genus homo in the immediate vicinity. The most of them concluded that plumbo was most indigestible, so meanders.

ILLUMINATION OF PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.—The dark and gloomy appearance of the Parliament Houses, the last two nights has suggested the idea that they should be lit up as in Session in order that the many strangers might see them. A number of prominent citizens waited on the Premier, and he readily coincided with the idea, and promised His Worship the Mayor that they would be lit up this evening. They would have been lit up last night but the notice given was too short. It would be a good idea, and it would add to the eclat of this week's festivities, if a general illumination of the city would take place and the three bands would play to night in Parliament Square.

GOWAN'S OPERA HOUSE.

Pygwallon and Galatea.

W. S. Gilbert's beautiful fairy comedy Pygwallon and Galatea was produced here last evening before a house crowded in every part. To such an extent, indeed, did the crush for seats prevail, that for some time after the commencement of the performance no little noise and confusion were caused in endeavours to provide extra seats for the constantly increasing crowd. Although many of the elite, including some of the Ministry, and a goodly number of our general public were present, the audience seemed to be principally recruited from the visitors now staying here. The piece, if at all decently produced, is one that is always sure to meet with a favourable reception. Like all of Mr Gilbert's productions it is remarkable for its exquisitely brilliant dialogue, as well as plot sufficiently clear to be understood without effort by minds little cultivated. It had a long and exceptionally successful run at the Haymarket Theatre in London, where it was first produced in 1871; and was subsequently played with much success in the Provinces. Miss Madge Robertson was the original Galatea, and although she had for some time held a foremost place in the ranks of her profession, the part created for her a reputation which has been to her a source of much gain. Mr. Kendall was the first Pygmalion; and so well did they play the parts together, and so successfully from a financial point of view, that before long they were enabled to enter into that kind of contract to which even actors and actresses are prone. The piece was brought forward last evening in a manner to re ect much credit on the management, the scenery, dresses and appurtenances being complete in every detail. Whether the parts were better suited to the actors, or that the former were more carefully studied, certain it is that the company collectively appeared to much greater advantage than in any piece previously performed here. Mr. McDowell was most effective in the role of Pygmalion; and of Miss Kellogg's assumption of the leading role Galatea, it would be impossible to speak in terms of too high praise. Her conception of the character was throughout most truthful, and her naive and graceful acting well deserved the loud applause with which it was so frequently greeted. Mrs. Fanny Stoddard as Cynisca, and Mr. Morris as Chryses, both sustained their parts admirably. The laughable farce of Turn Him Out concluded the evening's performance, and afforded a genuine half hour's laugh. Mr. F. O. Smith shewed a decide improvement on his performance of the previous evenings, his utterances being in a higher and more reassured, and consequently more distinct tone. The orchestra is, however, rather thin, and might be added to with much advantage. The piece will be repeated this evening.

Rehearsing Orders Issued—Natives Insane in Dismay—Burglars Active—Personals—Chief Justice Draper to Retire—Chancellor Sprague—Mr. Blake.

TORONTO, Sep. 22—A number of prominent amateurs of this city are rehearsing the opera of "Martha," which they intend shortly to perform at one of the opera houses.

Orders have been issued that in consequence of the recent accidents the Grand Trunk trains approaching the city must reduce their speed.

A man named Patrick O'Connell, belonging to Strathroy, had a narrow escape for his life yesterday afternoon, as a Grand Trunk train was coming into the city. He was noticed trying to cross the track. The driver whistled but could not make him hear, and the engine knocked him down and passed completely over him fracturing a few ribs.

McKindly L. O. L. No 275 gave a dinner to night to Mayor Medcalfe.

Mr. Tinning this afternoon succeeded in grappling and bringing to the surface one of the bodies of the four young men drowned on Sunday last. It has been identified as that of Otto Marx, a German. The body was found about twenty feet from where the boat went down.

The following judicial charges are given on reliable authority:—Chief Justice Richards and Mr. Justice Strong go to the Supreme Court; Chief Justice Hagarty takes the former's place and Mr. Thos. Moss, M.P., the latter's, and Mr. R. A. Harrison takes the Chief Justiceship of the Common Pleas. It is also said that Chief Justice Draper is to retire, and that Chancellor Spragge is to have his place; that Mr. Samuel Blake is to be made Chancellor and Mr. MacLennan Vice Chancellor of the Court of Chancery. Mr. Christopher Robinson's name is also mentioned in connection with the new appointments.

Three burglaries have been reported as occurring last night. One was on W. Clark & Sons' boot store on King Street, where there was stolen over $200 worth of the best description of boots; second, in Bronsdon & Eaton's paint, glass, and oil store, where only two glass-cutting diamonds were taken; and, third, in Bremner's Yonge Street clothing store, where an extensive haul of ready-made clothing and some cloth was made.

An Election Case—A Judge Refuses to sit—Hon. Mr. Cartwright—Money Market.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—This morning, when the Chambly election case came up for review, Judge Mondelet, who was on the bench, and who had all along held the election court to be unconstitutional, refused to sit, whereupon Justice Johnson also refused, giving as his reason that no Judge had the right to flinch from duty, and he would not perform the duty of another Judge under the circumstances until the Government was communicated with.

In the Montreal West case Judge Mondelet of course made some objection, adding, he hoped gentlemen

OTTAWA, THURSDAY, SEPT. 23, 1875.

Galveston, which has just been overtaken by such a terrible visitation of wind and storm, involving the destruction of such an immense amount of property, and terrible loss of life, is a port of entry, and the chief city of Texas, in point of population and commerce, situated on Galveston Island, 290 miles west by south of New Orleans, with which city it has been carrying on a more than successful commercial rivalry since the war, since which time its material prosperity has been quite remarkable. From a ton n of about 7,000 souls in 1860, it had become a city of 33,000 in 1874. In point of manufactures it is a place of consider able note, and is the chief point of departure for Texan beeves, intended for the Northern and Western markets.

A MINISTER OF EDUCATION.

The Premier of Ontario, in his address yesterday, at the opening ceremonial of the Normal School, took his audience very fully into his confidence. What, therefore, had been a Cabinet secret, or possibly confined to his own mind, was given to the public with the utmost candour. He announced, substantially, that the policy for some time advocated by not a few, of having a responsible Minister at the head of the Education Department, had been adopted by his Government, and that Mr. Crooks, the present Treasurer, would be Minister of Education. This announcement, while it was a surprise, was doubtless a gratification to many of those who were listening to the honourable gentleman.

AN AUGUST VISITOR.

Dom Pedro II., Emperor of Brasil, is about to pay a visit to Europe and the United States. His Majesty made a visit to Europe a few years ago; and while in Italy he endeavoured to effect a reconciliation between Pius IX and Victor Emanuel, but so extreme was the aversion entertained by the "successor of St. Peter" for the Italian Monarch that the attempt proved futile. Dom Pedro is a humane and enlightened ruler, a liberal patron of arts and letters, and a man of high scientific and literary attainments. In 1865 he issued a decree declaring that all children born of slave parents should be free after the year 1880. Under his wise and liberal reign Brasil has made rapid advances in power and prosperity.

A SICK MAN—THE REMEDY.

Late advices from Madrid state that no definite time has been fixed for the election of members of the constituent Cortes; and that is right, too. What the Spaniards ought to do is to make fewer laws and become more law-abiding; they have been playing political nine-pins quite long enough—setting up and tearing down systems of Government, not knowing what they do want—in short, the "sickest man" in Europe, Turkey not excepted. But what Spain really stands in need of is a thorough castigation from some foreign power, by way of distracting the attention of her people from their own numerous, but at the same time really unimportant internal differences. A little Sedan or Sadowa "discipline" would undoubtedly do more towards "pacifying"—as CaiusJuliusCæsar once expressed himself about the successful consummation of one of his Gallic campaigns—the very numerous and hostile factions—Dicis, Rey y Patridos, Republicanos, Moderados, Conservados, Liberados, Intransigentes, Cantonidos, &c., &c.—in the Peninsula, than all the pronunciamientos that have been fulminated in that distracted and country for the past two centuries.

BEWARE OF PICKPOCKETS.

We would draw the particular attention of the police authorities to the necessity of providing increased protection from the thieving hordes by which the city is at present infested. The numbe of cases of robbery from the person reported to have taken place at various points within and near the city is positively alarming, and the question naturally presents itself, how it is that with a police force comparatively so large, and a special staff of detectives not one of these depredators, who have been so openly and so extensively engaged in their operations, has yet been arrested. It is a notorious fact that the police have not yet devoted to this class of criminals half the amount of attention which the exigency of the case demands. While the policey are busily engaged watching petty squabbles and cases of intoxication, the light fingered gentry ply their avocation without let or hindrance, and hardly an hour passes without bringing intelligence of fresh robberies of money, watches, or other valuables. Such a state of things conveys anything but a favourable impression of the efficiency of our force. In fact, so obviously has its inefficiency been proven within the past few days, that it is desirable no time should be lost in effecting a complete reorganization. In the meantime we cannot too strongly urge on our visitors and citizens the necessity of leaving all valuables in safe custody at home during the Exhibition.

RUSSIA IN CENTRAL ASIA.

The progress of the Russians in Central Asia, seems to be steadily and, it may be added, rapidly onward. By our latest foreign despatches, it will be seen that the Russian General Kauffman, the uniformity of the success of whose operations against the rulers of Independent Tartary, for the past seven years, has been hardly second to the career of Lord Clive, the founder of the British Indian Empire, in his operations against Tippoo Sahib, Hyder Ali, and Surraja Dowola, has taken possession of Khokand, the largest and most important city in all Turkestan; which occupation means nothing short of the complete subversion of a State comprising an area of 36,000 square miles of territory, and a warlike population of 3,000,000 souls in close proximity to the confines of India. Had not the British foreign office been oblivious to approaching danger—or, to say the least, future vexatious complications—they never would have allowed that wily and unscrupulous German, Gortschakoff, who, like his royal master, has not a drop of Muscovite blood in his veins, to force upon the Khan of Khokan the "commercial treaty" of 1866, which virtually made the latter a vassal of the Czar—permitting him to rule, on the condition that he should not rule. No one better appreciates than the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs does, that one day in Calcutta or Bombay would be worth a whole year in Irotousk or Tiflis, and that he will turn every possible point to the advantage of "Holy Orthodox Russia."

THE EXHIBITION.

By noon yesterday the attendance at the Exhibition was so great as to relieve all concerned of any fears they might previously have entertained of its success. The money taken at the gates represented the entrance for the forenoon of sixteen thousand persons, and this number was of course independent of the several thousan ls who entered by members' tickets, and under the head of heralds, men, care-takers and in one capacity or another. There were estimated to be not less than thirty thousand persons on the ground yesterday The arrivals by all trains were simply immense. The St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway on their six trains averaged 600 passengers to the train, and there are said to be 400 who laid over at Prescott last night under the mistaken impression that they could not get lodging room here. The Canada Central brought in also a great number of visitors. The weather yesterday although slightly cold was very favourable, and the indications while we write at an early hour this morning are that to-day will be delightfully seasonable. Notwithstanding the very large attendance we have not yet heard any complaint of want of lodging room. The city seems to have prepared and made itself equal to any emergency. To-day the crowd will be at its maximum, and fine weather of which there is every assurance, will greatly promote the successful issue of the occasion. The universal remark is that the arrangements at the grounds are admirable, and visitors are quite profuse of their praises of the situation and the surroundings.

THE FINANCE MINISTER ON TH BRITISH COLUMBIA BUSINESS.

The Montreal Evening Star comments, rather unfairly we think, upon the position taken by Mr. Cartwright in his recent speech at Napanee with respect to the duty of fulfilling obligations undertaken by the predecessors of the present administration. Our contemporary usually shows a disposition to deal fairly by, and without prejudice for or against, the present Government. It confesses Mr. Cartwright's reasons for an increase of the tariff to be good. It is satisfied that the loan obtained in England was secured upon the best possible terms and that the negotiation was conducted creditably to the Finance Minister, whose defence of the general policy of the Government, it admits, has the appearance of an honest, manly defence far from lacking in ability. After this we should be prepared to hear some criticism of the weak points—of course we use the the term weak in its relative sense—the weaker points of the address that called forth this gratifying measure of praise. But the position taken by Mr. Cartwright relative to the duty of fulfilling, what may be called national obligations, is not that which we would expect to be first assailed. The Star asks: "have the Ministry ever calmly reflected upon the dishonesty and impolicy of permitting any ruinous interprovincial agreement to prejudice the position of the public creditor?" Surely our contemporary has skipped, in the reading of the Finance Minister's speech, perhaps the most important part of it; the part, at any rate, that to our mind furnishes in advance the answer to the question above quoted. Mr. Cartwright is reported to have spoken on this very point as follows:—

"Now when we were called upon to grapple with this enterprise, (the agreement to build the Pacific Railway within ten years), these two considerations became very apparent—we might, on the one hand, have repudiated the matter altogether, and on the other hand, attempted to perform it in its entirety, in accordance with our legal obligations. The Government, after mature consideration, came to the decision that it was morally and physically impossible for the people of Canada to construct this railway in the terms of the contract by which they were legally bound; but that, on the other hand, it was their duty to consider the whole situation; and propose to you a plan by which, although at considerable inconvenience, and not without a certain amount of risk, it might be possible, on certain conditions, to construct the major part of the work, if a large extension of time were accorded to us."

Mr. Cartwright spoke as a member of the Government, and every word is entitled to its full weight. He speaks of legal obligations, and unquestionably the obligations he speaks of are legal. They have the force of law as fully as our promissory notes and the other legal obligations of private life. Between the Finance Minister's determination to be bound by his legal obligations, and the policy of repudiation advised for his acceptance and relief, the public mind will not hesitate one moment. The people will stand by the Government in its policy of keeping faith to the best of the country's ability. In the Government, because it cannot discharge its obligations to British Columbia in full upon maturity, justifiable in repudiating those obligations altogether? That might do amongst people whose pretensions to a fine sense of honor are not so great as our own. If might were right the policy of repudiation wit hregard to the British Columbia affair, would be the correct thing. But as a people we have a high sense of hon. our, and in matters of contract the question of right is not one to be determined by the issue of the week against the strong. Mr. Cartwright discusses the alternative presented to the Government thus:—

"With respect to the first question, whether the Government were well advised in deciding not to repudiate this undertaking altogether, I think I am justified in stating that there has been a good deal of unwise criticism in certain quarters, where better things might have been expected, as to whether the Government ought not to have utterly repudiated an engagement entered into under such terms or conditions. In any attempt on the part of a Government or country to repudiate an engagement they have once entered into, it is needless to say that very considerable danger to their credit must ensue; and in this particular instance I am perfectly certain that although some present ease and comfort might have been felt, in a few years the unanimous voice of the people of Canada would have condemned us as cowards and traitors for allowing, without absolute paramount necessity, the whole project of Confederation to be broken up and rendered useless, as it would have been if our action had led to the secession of British Columbia, or, what might possibly have followed, to the annexation of that Province to the United States. We were responsible not only to you, but to those who come after you, to preserve intact the whole Dominion of Canada as it came into our hands. In our case there was no alternative. We must have repudiated the whole or endeavoured to the best of our power to redeem and fulfil these obligations."

What patriotic and honest-minded man will not agree with every word of this utterance of the financial mouthpiece of the Government? Mr. Mackenzie's Administration is charged by the Star with the "dishonesty and impolicy" of "permitting a ruinous inter-provincial agreement to prejudice the position of the public creditor." And singularly enough this very strong chargeis made in the courseof a criticism, which in its greater part is far from unfriendly, of the pubic utterances of the Minister of Finance in which he most distinctly places the interest of the public creditor in view and shapes his course so as most effectually to protect that interest. To carry out the original agreement was an admitted impossibility. To attempt to carry it out would, because of its impossibility, impair the public credit and thus "prejudice the position of the public creditor." To refuse to carry it out. in other words to repudiate it, would equally destroy good faith and "prejudice the position of the public "creditor." The only possible course by which the doing of that wrong could be avoided was that which the Government have adopted, and the same which the Star condemns as likely to be productive of the worst effect. When private individuals contract to do that which subsequently they find themselves unable to do it is useless for them to spend time and fritter away means in attempting what is beyond their power; but there is no law that will sustain them in entirely repudiating pledges that they cannot fully redeem. It is precisely so with the Government. Like private persons the Government must discharge its obligations as fully in respect of time and amount as it possibly can. This principle Mr. Mackenzie has recognized in dealing with British Columbia. It is the only principle by which in such matters honourable men can be guided. The policy of repudiation is not indebted to the Star for its origin We have had it broached before; but it must be the last resort of the men, no matter to what party they belong, who are or may be responsible for the preservation of the integrity and the autonomy of the Dominion.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL.

The Rev. Dr. Davies, Principal of the Toronto Normal School, on his return from an extended vacation tour through the Lower Provinces, and a visit to this city, addressed a letter to the Chief Superintendent of Education. This letter, a copy of which we are permitted to give below, is interesting in the light of recent events, in connexion with the appointment to the Normal School here:—

NORMAL SCHOOL,
TORONTO, Sept. 11, 1876.

REV. AND DEAR SIR,—I am sure that it will afford you as much pleasure to hear, as it affords me to tell you, how highly I heard Mr. MacCabe, of the Ottawa Normal School, spoken of not only in Truro, Nova Scotia, where he was connected with the Normal School for nearly seven years, but also in Fredericton, by the Principal of the Normal School, and by Dr. Rand, Chief Superintendent of Education.

The testimony of Mr. Calkin, Principal of the Truro school, and Mr. Mulholland, Mathematical Master, was all that could be desired by one holding so important a position as that occupied by Mr. MacCabe; for Mr. Calkin, his associate for several years, is very sanguine as to his success in management of the school.

From the little that I have seen of Mr. MacCabe I am inclined to think that his management of the institution will prove that the Council has made an appointment that will reflect credit upon the members thereof, and upon the profession.

With great respect, I remain, Rev. Sir,
Yours very faithfully,
H. W. DAVIES.

DR. PIERCE'S Pleasant Purgative Pellets are so compounded from concentrated principles, extracted from roots and herbs, as to combine in each small granule, scarcely larger than a mustard seed, as much cathartic power as is contained in any larger pills for sale in drug stores. They are not only pleasant to take, but their operation is easy—unattended with any griping pain. They operate without producing any constitutional distur bance. Unlike other cathartics, they do not render the bowels costive after operation, but, on the contrary, they establish a permanently healthy action. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. $500 Reward is offered by the proprietor to any one who will detect in these Pellets any calomel or other form of mercury, mineral poison, or injurious drug. They are sold by druggists.

The Government Buildings, the Library, locations of the several Departments and principal public offices.

TO ADVERTISERS,

As twenty thousand copies of the "Exhibition Annual" will be in circulation before the end of Exhibition week, it will furnish an unrivalled medium for advertising. Its pages (the size of this prospectus) will be a large pamphlet form with coloured paper cover, thus rendering it convenient for preservation and future reference.

The vast amount of information it will contain, and the fact, that it is in contemplation to publish it as an annual publication in connection with the Ontario Exhibitions—adapting it to each locality wherein they are held—gives its advertising patrons virtually the benefit of a standing advertisement for a whole year.

The superiority of these Extracts consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and acids which enter into the composition of many of the factitious fruit flavors now in the market. They are not only true to their names, but are prepared from fruits of the best quality, and are so highly concentrated that a comparatively small quantity only need be used.

I applied to your agent, Mr. Peal, Berkeley, for the above Pills, for which the disease, from which I suffered for a long period of time, having tried nearly every remedy prescribed, but without any benefit at all. Notices of the Press.
The ever-increasing circulation of this excellent monthly proves its continued adaptation to popular desires and needs. Indeed, when we think into how many homes it penetrates, and how welcome it is, we must consider it as one of the educators as well as entertainers of the public mind, for its vast popularity has been won by no appeal to sickly prejudices or depraved tastes.—Boston Post.

CHOICE AND BEAUTIFUL
WALL PAPER.
TO
Their Excellencies the Earl and Countess of Dufferin.

These Paperhangings are imported direct from the best Manufacturing Establishments in England, France and United States. Great care has been taken in their selection with regard to colour. The ground tones are soft and pleasing to the eye, especially those toned with silver mica; but above all, they are free from the mineral poisons that many of the tawdry-coloured Paperhangings of the day are surcharged with. The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. The Public are respectfully invited to examine his STOCK of WALL PAPER before purchasing elsewhere.
As the undersigned is going out of the Room Paper Business as soon as his present Stock is disposed of, the Goods will be Sold at the Lowest Remunerating Prices.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL FAIR.

THE THIRD DAY.

The third day of the great Fair opened under very auspicious circumstances yesterday. The city from early dawn was thronged, and the successive trains and steamers brought in crowds of visitors. It is estimated that upwards of 35,000 strangers were in the city yesterday, and it at fully that number visited the Exhibition grounds. The weather, although disagreeable, was not of such a nature as to detract from the success of the Exhibition. The various avenues leading to the fair grounds were thronged with masses of people and hundreds of vehicles, that were used in conveying them to and from the grounds. All stages, omnibuses and carriages in the city were called into requisition, and some from Hull and other suburban villages, to do duty, and in addition to this, thirteen steamers had all they could do on the canal. The judges were engaged the greater part of the day in discharging their somewhat onerous duties, but did not succeed in finishing their work. The prize list is so extensive, and space so limited, that it is utterly impossible to give it in full. The live stock, with the exception of four classes of horses that were unfinished last night, is given in full, and our readers will be pleased to find that Ottawa exhibitors have done nobly in their competition with the great men of the West. The winners of prizes for agricultural implements have been obtained by our reporter and will be published to-morrow. The implements, without exception, were excellent both as regards manufacture and contrivance. Indeed the whole show yesterday was a grand success—one exhibitor from Montreal declaring it to be the largest he had ever seen, and he had himself been an exhibitor at Toronto, Hamilton, London, Montreal and elsewhere.

THE CANADIAN RUBBER COMPANY OF MONTREAL.

have some beautiful samples of their manufactures on exhibition in one of the wings of the Crystal Palace, such as machine belting, engine, hydrant and conducting hose, tank and suction hose, pure rubber tubing, rubber tubing with cloth insertion, vulcanized rubber steam packing—an article considered by engineers and machinists as indispensable where steam joints are to be made, as no substance has so much elasticity which stands so high a degree of heat. This packing, it may be mentioned, is warranted to stand at least 300 degrees Farenheit. They manufacture also rubber car springs, rubber hair clothes wringers, rubber soling, hospital sheeting, wagon aprons, wagon covers, springs, shaft rubbers, horse covers, hoods, ankle rolls, interfering bands, and many other highly useful and desirable articles. The "Imperial Carbolized Fire Hose" are made of the finest quality of rubber and cotton duck of the greatest possible tensile strength woven expressly for the company, and is preserved from rot and decay by being charged with carbolic acid, while all air and moisture from the cotton duck is exhausted by the ends being hermetically capped. Among their specialties are rubber rolls of all kinds and sizes, used by bleacheries and dye works, for squeezing acids and dyes from yarn, wool, or cloth; tackle straps for the use of the paper maker, India rubber stopples an improvement upon cork, and now largely used by chemists and apothecaries; cement and soling for boots and shoes, as already mentioned. Indeed, the company's exhibition of their manufactures in one of the highest of the useful arts is not only a credit themselves but to the Dominion.

SLEIGH AND WHEEL CARRIAGE COMBINED

At the Crystal Palace grounds there is now on exhibition one of the most extraordinary vehicles imaginable. The inventor and exhibitor is Mr. H. A. Manderson, Maria Post Office, County of Bonaventure, Province of Quebec, and Mr. Manderson and his invention are highly spoken of by the Bontillers and Meaghers, and by cures, mayors, magistrates, advocates, registrars, judges, sheriffs, prothonotaries, and merchants, resident in the County of Bonaventure. It is a wonderfully ingenious contrivance, and in many parts of the country will be useful in a more than ordinary degree. To use the words of the Miramichi Advocate, "It is a vehicle so constructed that in less than a minute, and without taking the horse out of the shafts, it can be changed from a sleigh to a carriage, or vice versa. The arrangement, though showing great ingenuity in contrivance, is exceedingly simple, and promises to be of much practical value, more especially in the southern parts of the Province, and in Ontario, and Nova Scotia. The invention can be applied to any ordinary sleigh, or even a "Bob-Sled;" and farmers can use any wheels they may have belonging to a waggon or other vehicle." Enough almost is here said to give an idea not only of the merits of Mr. Manderson's invention, but of its usefulness and ease of adaptation. But to enable any one to form a full idea of it, the combined sleigh and wheeled vehicle must be seen. It is not only a cheap, substantial, and comfortable vehicle, but it is a perfectly practical success in overcoming all difficulties in travelling arising out of alternate snow and bare ground. The wheels are made to slide up, so that the sleigh runners touch the snow; and where bare ground is met with, the wheels are dropped by simply taking out a couple of pins, and the sleigh runners are off the ground more than a foot. In substance what we hear state concerning the modus operandi is correct, but it may not be quite accurate nevertheless. However, Mr. Manderson, a highly intelligent man, will give every information to those requiring. And this we can truthfully say, the contrivance will be invaluable to the residents of the north shore of Lake Ontario and the country immediately behind the Lake shore; and in spring especially would be of service here; the more particularly noticeable from the fact that at that period of the year when the ordinary street cars cannot run on their iron rails, cars with ordinary wheels are used. Mr. Manderson's invention is a most useful curiosity.

Dr. Wm. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1859:—"But the disease above all in which the action of the water is most decided is Rheumatism. * * * I have known a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the Waters.

ACCOMMODATION.
A magnificent new hotel, capable of accommodating 300 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accommodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for entertainment and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa River is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until this railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the conveyance of visitors to the Springs. The distance of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 60 and 90 miles.
Mr. W. CHAMPNESS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horses, saddles, &c. There is good race-course on the property of the Company.
The CALEDONIAN WATERS of these Springs will yet take Caledonia the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seekers. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the Springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

Association of Mechanics' Institutes of Ontario.

THE SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The Seventh Annual Meeting of the delegates from the various Mechanics' Institutes was held last night in the Court House, Mr. J. Young, M.P., in the chair. There were present also the following: From Toronto, Thomas Davison; Elora, Peter Mennil; Mitchell, W. McCallum; Richmond Hill, Robert Marsh, Isaac Crossby; Galt, James Young M.P.; Sarnia, T. W. Nisbett, Joseph Nisbett; Ayer, H. McLean, D. Watson; Preston, Otto Klotz; Guelph, D. McCrae; Brighton, Peter Begg, John Bowles; Paris, John Allan; New Market, E. Jackson.
The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.
The Executive Committee presented their report, the substance of which was as follows:
They congratulated the public upon the fact of the Mechanics' Institutes of the Province were making sure and rapid progress, and were doing useful work. During the past year 47 Institutes had affiliated with the Association, 46 by the payment of the 5 per cent. statutory fee, on their respective Legislative grants. This is stated to be an increase of 7 over last year. The appended is a statement of the figures of the affiliated institutes. During the past year forty-seven Institutes affiliated with this Association; forty-six by the payment of the 5 per cent. statutory fee on their respective legislative grants, and one by subscription. This is an increase of seven over the previous year. As the legislative grants for the current year have not all been paid, and the time for receiving applications does not expire till the first of December next, they cannot be given in this report. Total grants to Institutes in 1872, $11,405 96; 1873, $11,134 96; 1874, $15,143 00.
The highest average attendance of pupils at any one Institute, was 173; the lowest 12; the average attendance for the whole of the fifteen Institutes, was 523, or nearly 35 pupils for each Institute. The largest number of teaching meetings held by any one Institute, was 246; the smallest, 25; the total number for all, 772, or an average of nearly 52 for each Institute.
The largest number of members reported by any one Institute, is 1,121; the smallest number 26; and the average of thirty-two Institutes is nearly 193. The whole number of volumes of books in thirty three Institutes, is 56,218; the largest number in any one Institute, 8,182; the smallest number 163; the average of the whole a little over 1,703; the total issue of volumes of books for the year, by twenty-six Institutes, was 100,-884; the largest number by one Institute, 33,987; the smallest number, 9?; the average, a little over 3,880. The proportion of volumes of fiction issued by 15 Institutes, to the whole issue of all kinds of books, was nearly 37 per cent.
The net income for the year for thirty-three Institutes was, $33 393.59; the largest net income for any one Institute, was $6,149.70; the lowest was +76.64; the average of the whole, a little over a $1,008 89. The total expenditure for books, for the year by thirty three Institutes, was $10,417 94; the largest expenditure by any one, $736; the lowest $20; and the average of the whole thirty-three Institutes, was about $316. The expenditure for evening class instruction, by eighteen Institutes, was $3,585.09; the largest by any one Institute, $908.60; the smallest, $22.37; and the average for the whole 18 Institutes, was a little over $199. The whole expenditure for twenty three reading rooms, was $3,086; the largest by any one Institute, $403.03; and the average for the whole twenty-three, was a little over $134. The total assets over liabilities, for twenty-nine Institutes, are given at, $78,283.78; the largest for any one Institute, $24,036.45; the lowest $111.45; and the average for the whole twenty nine Institutes, was nearly 2,700 dollars.
The Treasurer's detailed statement shows total receipts for the past year, including the the balance in hand from the previous year, to be 1,559.90 dollars; total expenditure, 461.10 dollars; invested at interest in the Bank of Toronto, 900 dollars; balance in hand, 198.80 dollars.
The remainder of the report was merely that of detail and scarcely of interest to the general public.
The following clause was added to the report:—
"It is expected that the Agriculture and Arts Act will be amended during the next Session of the Ontario Legislature. There are several improvements which might be made in regard to the Mechanics Institutes. The Executive Committee, in accordance with the action taken at the annual meeting last year, petitioned the Government to have the grants extended to incorporated villages, which are excluded from obtaining grants at the present time, and it would be well that this point should be pressed on the Government. In view of the increasing importance of the Arts and Mechanical Department of the Provincial Exhibition—one of the chief if not the principal attraction of the present show in Ottawa—it has been urged that this Association should have a larger representation in the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association, in which it is only represented by one member, our President. We consider this a proper subject to come before the annual meeting for consideration, and discussion is freely invited upon this and all other subjects which it is thought may render this Association more useful and prove beneficial to the affiliated Institutes."
The Chairman then spoke in reference to a letter he had received from Mr. Sweetman in relation to some allegations made by Mr Davison, the President of the Mechanic's Institute in Toronto. Without further comment, he proceeded to read the letters—first he perused the one from Mr. Sweetman, also of Toronto disapproving of the tenor of Mr. Davidson's epistle.

TORONTO, 18th Sept., 1875.

MY DEAR SIR.—I regret very much that my Post Office duties will prevent me from visiting Ottawa during the Exhibition week. When I had the pleasure of seeing you last I hoped to have been able to have spent a couple of days in Ottawa, and if you needed my services to give them to you for a day at least in such a way as might be most useful to you

I am credibly informed that Mr Thos. Davison, the President of the Toronto Mechanics' Institute for the current year, has addressed to you a letter in which he finds much fault with the management of the Mechanics' Institutes Association. In this connexion I may say to you that the letter, which I presume Mr. Davison has sent to you, is one that he presented to the Board at its last meeting, but which the Directors very properly declined to father or have anything to do with. It was suggested that the letter was not a respectful one, and that its contents did not meet the views of the members of our Board. It was pointed out to Mr. Davison that the proper and respectful way of dealing with the case, if he held such views as his letter intimated, was to state to the members of the Mechanics' Institute Association his regret that so little had been done tending to the real advantages of the various Institutes throughout the Province, and to suggest the advisability of appointing an efficient committee to consider the whole matter, and to recommend such a course of action, through the agency of the Association, as might be of real profit and advantage. It is only fair to our institute that I should say to you that Mr. Davison's communication should be received as coming from Davison himself, not as President of our Institute, but in his individual and private capacity, for I am quite sure that there is scarcely a member of the Board here who would consent to such a letter being sent to you. In fairness to ourselves, if Mr. Davison's letter should be read at the annual meeting, I shall be obliged if you would make the announcement herein contained either verbally or by reading this letter.

Faithfully yours,
M. SWEETMAN.

James Young, Esq., M.P., President Mechanics' Institute Association, Province of Ontario, Toronto.

SIR,—As President of the Toronto Mechanics' Institute, the pioneer Association of the Dominion, and having the largest membership by some hundreds, I take the liberty of making a few suggestions that may not be thought unworthy of consideration by your Executive Committee at the meeting to be held to-morrow.
In my official capacity it has been my duty to attend meetings of your Association once in Toronto and once each in Hamilton and London. At those four meetings, after carefully reading the Reports and listening to the debates, I have failed to discover that the Association is a bond of Union between the various Mechanics' Institutes of this Province, to use the words of the prospectus, I have failed to see in it anything more than a formal meeting of the Executive. In its expenditure I see nothing but the purchase of copies of the London Book Seller and American Literary Gazette which are sold at cost to the few Institutes that order them, and which nets a loss to your Association, as I shall hereafter show; a certain expenditure for printing, &c., and the Secretary's salary. Now, Mr. President, I humbly submit that this tax on the Institutes of the Province is quite unnecessary, that they receive no benefit from it, and that it is full time the Association was discontinued. The Government could and would easily distribute its annual grants without the intervention of your Association. I write this quite disinterestedly, as our Institutes pay the tax and receive the same back in full, but I do submit that it is a great hardship to such County Associations as are unable to form the classes necessary to entitle them to the prize grant from your association, but are at the same time obliged to pay the 5 per cent.
I would further state that in my opinion it would be well that the grant from the Government should not be confined to Mechanic's Institutes, so called or so incorporated, but should embrace one Library Association from each town or village, leaving it to the originators to name it Mercantile, Professional Mechanical Library or Library Association. So long as its object was to to educate the public irrespective of creed, nationality or occupation, I think it should be entitled to the grant. I am informed, that by the Act incorporating our institutions, it is imperative that one-half of the direction should be mechanics. All such class distinction should I think be abolished, if the fact is as I have been informed. In this association numbering 1,200 members and subscribers, (763 members proper) after a careful analysis of the roll only 42 bona fide mechanics are found to be members. The privilege of voting is one half of the management, it must therefore be apparent to every one as most unjust to the rest of the members.
I find that 46 institutes have paid the 5 per cent. to your association and only 11 have been able to claim the money for class prizes.
I find from examination of five reports the sum of $130.58 has been paid for the catalogue publications already alluded to and only $22.50 received from sales, showing a loss to you of $108.38.
I find that in five years, 1870 to 1874 inclusive, $1,979.31 has been received from institutes and $220 only refunded to them showing that the working expenses of your association are 38 per cent. on its receipts.
There appears to be no provision for auditing the accounts of your association, you will therefore permit me to humbly submit it would be well to have auditors appointed, that the large balances of your association might be placed in a separate bank account, some interest derived therefrom.
Apologising for this hurried and imperfect letter and assuring you that my sole aim is to benefit the Mechanic's Institutes of the Province.

I remain, yours sincerely,
THOMAS DAVISON.

Mr. Young said that the matter was one for the members present to consider, but he could not allow it to be said that the Association had not been useful. They had got the Government grant increased from $200 to $400. They had got the Government to allow the money to be used for the support of reading rooms, and for the purchase of all books but novels, and never had so many evening classes for instruction been in existence. They had got the Board to erect buildings and provide power for machinery in motion, and although this meeting had been expected to be small, as there were few Institutes about Ottawa, most successful and influential meetings had been held at Hamilton, London and Toronto, where the interests of the Institutes were fully discussed. If enough had not been done the remedy was not to destroy the Association, but turn out the present officers and put in more efficient men. But he contended the allegations were incorrect, and that the Association had been of much service to the Institutes affiliated with it. (Applause.)
Mr. Davison said he was sorry he could not remain to discuss the matters alluded to in his letter, as he had to leave by the 9.30 train, but he would address a formal letter to the Institute upon the matters to which he alluded, at some further time.
After some discussion Mr. Davison in the course of his remarks defensive of the ground he had assumed in the letter read, proposed the following resolution, which, however, did not find a seconder, and of course fell through.
That, inasmuch as it appears to some delegates, that this Association has failed to fulfil the purpose for which it was organised, this respectfully suggests to incoming Executive Committee, that a meeting of that body be called at an early date, not later than the 1st December next, to consider—
1st. If the Association is fulfilling its objects.
2nd. Whether the expenses are in keeping with the results attained by its expenditure.
3rd. Whether any new views or objects can be initiated to further the welfare of the different Mechanics' Institutes throughout the Provinces.
4th. Whether it is desirable that the Association should be continued, if its usefulness cannot be enlarged.
And that the various Affiliated Institutes be notified by circular, together with the Act relating to formation of the Association, that they are at liberty through their chief executive officers, to make suggestions to the proposed meeting, either favourable or adverse, to any change, and that the President of this Association be empowered to invite the attendance at said meeting, of any person or persons, whose experience may be thought of service, and that, where necessary, he be empowered to pay expenses of said persons out of the funds of the Association.
Mr. Allen, of Paris, made some remarks condemnatory of the opinions of Mr. Davison, and after a forcible speech he proposed the following resolution, which was carried nem. con.
Moved by Mr. John Allan, of Paris, seconded by Mr. Nesbit, Sarnia:—
"That as Mr. Davison's letter is not signed by him as President of the Toronto Mechanics' Institute, and as Mr. Sweetman has written declaring that the letter was presented to the Board of the Toronto Mechanics' Institute at its last meeting, but which the Directors very properly declined to father, or have anything to do with; and Mr. Fenson, one of the Toronto Delegates, has authorized the President to disavow sympathy with Mr. Davison's letter, this meeting does not feel called upon to take the slightest notice of it, further than to assert their belief that in securing the doubling of the Legislative grant, in getting the same extended to reading rooms and all classes of books, except works of fiction, in encouraging evening classes, and in various other ways, the Associated Mechanics' Institutes of Ontario has fulfilled its objects in as great a degree as other similar Associations; and that the annual meeting is the proper time and place to discuss all schemes for either the improvement of the Provincial Association or the advantages of the various Institutes affiliated with it."—Carried
The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: Messrs. Fenson (Toronto), Begg (Brighton), Klotz (Preston), Jackson (Newmarket), Mr. Young, M.P., being re-elected President.
The meeting, after some desultory conversation, re the prize lists at the various exhibitions and the date of meeting, adjourned.

Local Intelligence.

CLARENDON HOUSE.—There were over fifty arrivals registered at the Clarendon House again yesterday.

STOVEL.—Mr. Shaw, representative of Mr. Joseph Stovel, Tailor, of Toronto, is staying at the Russell House for a few days with samples for Fall and Winter clothing. 3952f2

PICKPOCKETS.—Mr. H. J. Slack, Inspector of Schools, had his pocket picked of $20 yesterday on the exhibition grounds. Mr. Lavalee, hotel keeper, of Carlton Place, was relieved of a watch

ERRATA.—In our account of the fire in Mr. J. W. Ryan's window the other night, it would seem that the loss is greatly undervalued. Instead of it being placed at $500, it should have been $3,500, the most costly silks in the store being in the window on that night.

ENGLISH MAIL.—An English mail will close to-day at the city post office at 12 o'clock p.m., destined for the steamer Polynesian, which sails from Quebec for Liverpool to-morrow. A supplementary bag will close at 1.25 p.m. for the same destination, but will contain only unregistered matter.

FALL RACES.—The fall races commence to-day in Mutchmor Driving Park and will be continued to-morrow. The prospect is that the meeting will be largely attended, and by looking at the advertisement in another column, it will be seen that a good day's sport is in store for those who visit the park.

THE MOOSE TROT.—The novel sight of a moose trotting in harness, which was announced to have taken place on the Fair Grounds, on yesterday afternoon, was postponed, owing to the indisposition of that animal. But as soon as the health of the beast will permit, it is the intention of his owner to give the public an exhibition of the prowess of this swift-fleeting roadster, in "annihilating time and space."

OWAN'S OPERA HOUSE.—A very large audience witnessed last evening the second performance of Pygmalion and Galetea. The piece was brought forward with the same cast as on the previous evening, and was warmly applauded throughout. To night, the Shaughraun will be produced with complete scenery and effects, and we would advise all who desire good seats to be early in attendance.

CITY COUNCIL.—A special meeting of the City Council was called for last evening, for the purpose of considering the sewer question; but yesterday being, by common consent, the field day of the Provincial Exhibition, and the time and attention of the gentlemen composing our City Government being so much taken up with its details during the day, and making arrangements for the successful carrying out of its close on to-morrow during the evening, there was no meeting of that body last evening.

ANOTHER FIRE.—Shortly after noon yesterday a fire broke out in a blacksmith shop kept by Mr. George Low, near the corner of George and Dalhousie streets. The alarm was given from Box 41, George street station, and the fire appliances were quickly on hand. The reels soon got to work, and although the fire got a fair start, the flames were speedily subdued. Mr. Lowe lived in the rear part of the building, and a Mr. Graham, wheelwright, lived up stairs. The occupants succeeded in saving nearly all their household effects. The origin of the fire is unknown, it having started during dinner in the blacksmith shop. The loss will not exceed $250.

The Times.

OTTAWA, FRIDAY, SEPT. 24, 1875.

The number of persons who have attended the Dominion Exhibition of agriculture and horticultural produce, of agricultural implements and machinery, of everything useful and fine in arts, and of cattle, fully equal to any to be seen almost anywhere, may gather some idea of the numbers, who have visited the Exhibition at the Show Grounds on the Bank Street road when we officially state that since the opening 89,000 have been taken at the entrance doors.

THE CIVIL WAR IN TURKEY.

In Bosnia, which has of late been brought so prominently before the public as the principle theatre of the contest now going on between a part of the Christian population of Eastern Europe and their Moslem oppressors, is the extreme north-western Province of the Sultan's European dominions, comprising an area of from 20,000 to 25,000 square miles, consisting of Bosnia proper, Herzegovina, and Turkish Croatia, and contains a population of about 1,500,000 souls, of the Slavic race, the majority of whom are nominal Christians, professing the Greek faith; but the principal land owners are Moslems, who embraced Islamism at the time of the Mohammedan conquest of the country, in 1521, and are of the same blood as their Christian brethren; the civilization of the inhabitants is of the most primitive character; the avenues of outside communication are few; which added to the mountainous character of the country, render the carrying on of an interminable guerilla warfare on the part of its fierce and warlike people comparatively easy. Sera-Bosnia, Mostar and Trabyne are the principal towns—the latter a fortified place, which the insurgents are again reported to have surrounded; but as they are supposed to be destitute of artillery it is not likely that they will be able to take the town, as the Turks are famous at close quarters and street-fighting as the First Bonaparte experienced, to his sorrow, at the siege of Acre, and the Russian General Muravieff at the siege of Kars, in 1856, defended by Moslems, under Gen. Williams, the hero of Kars. At any rate, as the Emperor of Austria, in a speech to the Reichsrath, on the 20th inst., expressed himself strongly in favor of peace, and the observance of the strictest neutrality, which policy will undoubtedly have a tendency to check-mate any designs which Russia may entertain, as the Cabinets of Vienna and Berlin are believed to be in accord in regard to Eastern affairs, and as Servia, a minor State, will not be likely, out of deference to the wishes of the Great Powers to permit any act of hostility on the part of her subjects, it may be safely inferred that there is no immediate danger of grave complications arising, which might lead to the breaking out of a general European war, although the "sick man" is having a decidedly "bad turn" just now, there being rumours from Vienna of fresh and serious defeats of the Turkish troops.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL.

The proceedings at the opening of the Normal School yesterday were of a character that augur well for the future of the Institution, which is destined at a very early day to establish for itself a reputation not second to that of Toronto, and has already belied the adverse predictions of envious and disappointed croakers. The first pre-requisite to success—a good attendance—has already been fulfilled, and has been fulfilled in a degree, too, which the Chief Superintendent had not, hopeful although he was regarding it, even anticipated as probable. One gentleman who made himself unnecessarily busy in prejudicing the minds of intending candidates for admission against the institution, based his defense of himself upon the justice of his argument; and the only argument, just or unjust, which he had to offer in support of his assumption that failure was probable, was that there was no model school in connection with the normal; therefore the training it afforded must of necessity be much inferior to that obtainable at Toronto. It never occurred to him that there was any way out of the difficulty. Presumably his genius is not of that order which is at all fertile in expedients; if so, the aspirations he admits having harboured in respect of the Head Mastership were evidently snubbed with much propriety, for an immobile intellect such as his would scarcely have been of the kind to impart much vigour into the routine of study, or much information into the minds of his students. There is another impossibility, although it may not be very charitable to state it, which is that he was unwilling to see any way out of the difficulty he was the first publicly to suggest. Although this last would not be the most creditable inference, it is yet the second of either horns of the dilemma upon which he may impale himself if he chooses. The Principal of the Normal School has already had two offers which obviates the drawback in question, one from the Central School East and the other from the Collegiate Institute, namely, that the whole School may be used as a "model" by students in one, and the preparatory class in the other case. With which of these propositions the Chief Superintendent will finally close we are unable in the meantime to say. His experience and judgment will doubtless lead him to a correct conclusion in the premises, and it is matter for congratulation that the choice is so varied, and necessarily so excellent, to whichever side it may incline in the end. It is to be hoped the knowledge that this very desirable appendage is to be added to the institution may be the means of inducing a still greater number of applications for admission from those in this district who propose devoting themselves to the profession of teaching, and that there will be no waiting "for six months at any rate" lest the School will not be a success.

The proposition of Dr. Ryerson that the Corporation of Ottawa should undertake the construction of a Model School in connection with the Normal School buildings, and that such burdens should generally fall upon municipalities within which Normal Schools are located, is too novel and important to be fully discussed without more time and attention than we have yet been able to bestow upon it; but it really seems a little unfair that the Government should have erected, at such enormous expense—at a time, too, when the country was far less able to meet it than now—so many and such complete Model Schools, Universities, and other educational appliances and in the rich and old city of Toronto, without costing the city one farthing; and that comparatively young and struggling municipalities like Ottawa, with a heavy drain upon their local income on account of public works which absolutely cannot be dispensed with, should be called upon to put their hands in their pockets in this fashion. It is quite true, as Mayor Featherston said, that Ottawa is prepared to do its full share in the work of public education as in the past, and indeed maintain that foremost position which she now holds; but whether she or any other municipality which may be favoured with the location of a Normal School within its bounds, is prepared to go this length, and add seeming extravagance to generosity, may very well be doubted in the meantime. It would be unfair to the venerable gentleman who offered the suggestion, to say that its bearings are too one-sided to be worthy of much consideration, for he saw and stated reasons and instances why and when such a course might be adopted with advantage; but our public schools are already so thickly strewn in Ottawa, and there is so little probability of our requiring another soon, except it were for a special purpose, that we are afraid the Normal School would have lost caste ere the want could be supplied in the way he thinks it right to advocate. He may, however, depend upon it that the subject will not be dismissed summarily, or without the most profound consideration on the part of those whom it most nearly affects.

FALSE MODESTY.—For people to allow disease to become seated upon them rather than consult a physician, or to suffer as many do for years with the different kinds of piles, without going at once to the drug-gist for Fowle's Pile and Humor Cure, which is an infallible cure. 3729

DR. PIERCE'S Pleasant Purgative Pellets are so compounded from concentrated principles, extracted from roots and herbs, as to combine in each small granule, scarcely larger than a mustard seed, as much cathartic power as is contained in any larger pills for sale in drug stores. They are not only pleasant to take, but their operation is easy—unattended with any griping pain. They operate without producing any constitutional disturbance. Unlike other cathartics, they do not render the bowels costive after operation, but, on the contrary, they establish a permanently healthy action. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. $500 Reward is offered by the proprietor to any one who will detect in these Pellets any calomel or other form of mercury, mineral poison, or injurious drug. They are sold by druggists.

Burnett's Extracts

The superiority of these Extracts consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and acids which enter into the composition of many of the factitious fruit flavors now in the market. They are not only true to their names, but are prepared from fruits of the best quality, and are so highly concentrated that a comparatively small quantity only need be used.

These Paperhangings are imported direct from the best Manufacturing Establishments in England, France and United States. Great care has been taken in their selection with regard to colour. The ground tones are soft and pleasing to the eye, especially those toned with silver mica; but above all, they are free from the mineral poisons that many of the tawdry-coloured Paperhangings of the day are surcharged with. The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. The Public are respectfully invited to examine his STOCK of WALL PAPER before purchasing elsewhere.

As the undersigned is going out of the Room Paper Business as soon as his present Stock is disposed of, the Goods will be Sold at the Lowest Remunerating Prices.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL FAIR.

FOURTH DAY.

Yesterday was the most agreeable day as yet for the holding of the Fair, and the unusually fine weather had the effect of bringing out a much larger number of the fair sex than on the previous days. The number in attendance yesterday could not have been less than that of the previous day. The prize animals were exhibited in the ring with their newly won honours adorning them. The display in horses, especially carriage horses, was grand, and their fine appearance was the subject of much admiration. Three bands of music were on the ground, and alternately delighted the spectators with some excellent music. The result of the competition of the previous day was also announced. The Guards band stood first, the Chasseurs Band of Hull, second, and the independent Cornet band third. Being desirous that as much of the prize list as possible shall be published in this issue, further comment on the products becomes impossible. In a future issue, the successful results may be reviewed at greater length. The day was observed with every decorum, notwithstanding the vast crowd in attendance, and scarcely anything occurred to mar the pleasure of the day.

The REJUVENATING WATERS so much sought for in years long past.
Invalids! Attention!
Dyspepsia, Derangement of the Digestive Organs, Dropsy, Diseases of the Skin, Affections of the Liver and Urinary Organs are positively cured by using the water for a few weeks.
Rheumatics! Read!
Hundreds of Rheumatics have been cured by the Sulphur Baths. Suffering is alleviated by the first, and cripples throw away their crutches after about half-a-dozen baths.
TESTIMONIALS.
"Montreal, 28th July, 1875.
"I hereby certify that I entertain a very favorable opinion of the Baths and Waters of the Caledonia Springs in many forms of disease, among which I would especially mention chronic Rheumatism, the Sciatica of Gout, Neuralgia, some of the varieties of Cutaneous disease, Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, and in carefully selected cases, some of the diseases of the Kidney and Bladder.
(Signed) GEO. W. CAMPBELL, A.M., M.D.
Dean of the Medical Faculty, McGill College.
Dr. Wm. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1859:—But the disease above all in which the action of the water is most decided is Rheumatism. * * * I have known a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the waters.
ACCOMMODATIONS.
A magnificent new hotel, capable of accommodating 300 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accommodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa River is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until the railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the conveyance of visitors to the Springs. The distance of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 60 and 50 miles.
Mr. W. CHAMPNESS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horses, saddles, &c. There is a good race-course on the property of the Company.
The PAN-OCEAN WATERS of these Springs will yet make Caledonia the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seekers. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the Springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

AUTUMN TURF MEETING.

First Day's Races.

The autumn meeting of the Turf Club was inaugurated yesterday under the most favourable auspices. The weather was delightful, and the attendance was large, which, after all, is the chief mainstay on such occasions. Adams' Independent Cornet Band played some fine selections from the grand stand throughout the afternoon. A large number of ladies were present, which added to the gaiety of the meeting. The management yesterday was excellent, and there was an absence of the usual delay between the races. Messrs. Barber, Sherwood and McNaughton were alive to the importance of making the day a success, both as to the races and pleasing the vast gathering of people who had assembled to witness them. All who were present were highly pleased with what they had seen. There was but one thing that marred somewhat the day's sport, that is the number of serious accidents that befel two or three jockeys.

FIRST RACE.

The first race was for the Foster Plate of $200. Presented by Hon. A. B. Foster. Open to all horses owned and bred in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec. T.C.W. Mile heats. Maidens allowed 7 lbs. $175 to 1st; $25 to 2d.

1. Mr. J. Scott's ch. g. Jim Christie, 5 years, by Harper, dam by Lapidist. Green and Red.
2. Mr. A. Fisher's b. m. Cecilia, aged, by Conwell out of Lucy Wade. Red and Black Stripe.
3. Mr. A. Fisher's ch. g. Pilot, 4 years, by Jack the Barber, out of Hippias. Red and Black Stripe.
4. Mr. J. P. Dawes', Jr., b. m. Minnie, 6 years, by Donnybrook, out of Fisken. Scarlet and Black.
5. Mr. J. Fitzsimmons' b. m. Bella, 5 years, by Sunshine, dam by The Chief. Cherry and Black.
6. Mr. C. Boyle's b. m. Mignonette, 5 years, by Kennett, out of Lily.
7. Mr. C. Boyle's b. m. Emily, 6 years, by Terror, out of Augusta.
8. Mr. H. Stanley's br. m. Blue Bonnet, 5 years, by Harper, dam by Lapidist. Yellow, Crimson Sash.

Two of the horses, Cecilia and Emily failed to come to the scratch when the race was called. The other six however came up to the mark for the first trial heat, and at the first effort got away beautifully together. Minnie took the lead, but on nearing the half-mile post Jim Christie took her in, and taking it kept the lead throughout the race. The home stretch was very exciting, as a neck and neck race was being run between Pilot, who was running a steady race, and Jim Christie. The latter, however, held the prestige gained and came in winner by half a length. Mignonette was a good third, but the remaining horses were distanced. Blue Bonnet threw young Lascelle her jockey and he was carried off the course insensible. Three horses only started for the second heat. Mignonette immediately shot ahead, but ere she reached the first quarter was overtaken by Jim Christie, who again took the lead. Ere the half-mile was reached Pilot was again up and for a time got the better of Jim Christie, running neck and neck until the cut was reached, where he again fell behind. This he regained on the home stretch, and one of the most exciting races ever witnessed took place. Jim Christie, however, held his own, and won by a neck amid loud cheering. The result of the race was as follows:

Jim Christie	1	1
Pilot	2	2
Mignonette	3	3

Time—1 minute 48 seconds in the first heat, and 1 minute 48½ seconds for the second.

SECOND RACE.

The following horses entered for the second race:—

City Plate of $250. Open to all horses. One mile and a half. T.C.W. $200 to 1st; $50 to 2nd.

1. Mr. John Forbes' ch. h. Vicksburg, 3 years, by Vandal, out of Blondin, by Commodore.
2. Mr. Paul Wood's ch. h. Prince Edward, 5 years, by Jack Lane, out of Mountain Hare. Green and Black.
3. Mr. A. Fisher's b. m. Cecilia, aged, by Conwell, out of Lucy Wade. Red and Black Stripe.
4. Mr. Fisher's ch. g. Pilot, 4 years, by Jack the Barber, out of Hippias. Red and Black Stripe.
5. Mr. A. O. F. Coleman's ch. c.——, 3 years, by Enquirer, out of Leisure, by Red Eye. Cherry and Black Cap.
6. Mr. A. Smith's br. m. Inspiration, 4 years, by Warminster, out of Sophia. Black and Blue.
7. Gen. Blanchard's b. h. Washington, 3 years, by Asteroid, out of Sue Washington. Red and White.
8. Mr. C. Boyle's b. m. Emily, 6 years, by Terror out of Augusta.

Pilot, Enquirer, Washington and Emily scratched leaving only four horses to come to time when the race was called. The contest was a very exciting one. Inspiration took the lead closely followed by Vicksburg. A close race was run all the way around. At the end of the mile Vicksburg passed and took the lead, but lost it again at the next quarter. Inspiration won by half a length.

THIRD RACE.

The following entries were made for this race:

Hurdle race, $250. Open to all horses. Two miles over 8 hurdles, 3 ft. 6 in., stiff timber. Welter weights. Province bred horses allowed 10 lbs. Horses that have been starters in and not winners of an open hurdle race, value $200, this year, allowed 5 lbs. $200 to 1st, $50 to 2nd.

1. Dr. Smith's b. h. Judge Pryor, by Lightning out of
2. Dr. H. Hingston's ch. g. Bibakiba, — yrs., by Colossus, out of Velma. Green and White.
3. Mr. John Forbes' ch. g. Frank Ross, aged, by Daniel Boone, out of Sirma.
4. Mr. A. Fisher's ch. m. Katie P., 5 yrs., by Vandal, dam by Colossus. Red and Black Stripe.
5. Mr. James Connolly's ch. h. King Tom, 4 yrs., by Sunshine, out of ——. All Blue.
6. Mr. S. Jackson's ch. m. Clip, aged, by Bay Boston. Black Jacket, rose color sash and cap.
7. Mr. A. H. Heney's b. h. Jack in the Green, aged, by Jack the Barber. Scarlet and Lavender.
8. Gen. Blanchard's gr. m. Lily, 5 yrs., by Jack the Barber. White and Red.

Clip and Judge Pryor were drawn, leaving the race to the remaining five horses. The horses got all off in a bunch, with Bibakiba slightly ahead. On nearing the first hurdle the leading horse touched the hurdle and stumbled, throwing Jim Lee, the Jockey, very heavily to the ground, breaking his arm in three places, and causing other internal injuries of a serious character. Dr. Bentley, who happened to be present, took the injured lad in charge, and had him removed to the city. It was rumoured at a late hour last night that he had died, but this seems to be incorrect as there are hopes of his recovery. King Tom, at the next hurdle, threw his Jockey, and he, too, became an invalid. Katie P. took the lead, and was pressed very closely by Frank Ross, running a splendid race and Lily third. On the home stretch Lily fell on the last hurdle, throwing her rider badly, thus giving Jack on the Green third place. The race resulted in the following order:—

Jack on the Green	3

LAST RACE.

The fourth race was a flat one of a mile and as a few noted horses were entered, a good deal of interest was manifested. The following were entered:—

Flash stakes, $150. Open to all horses, to carry 100 lb each. Three year old (bar Vicksburgh) and Dominion bred 90 lbs. One mile.

1. Mr. J. R. Esmonde's ch. m. Sarah G., 5 years, by War Dance, out of Wild Duck.
2. Mr. W. Salmon's ch. h. Rejoinder, aged, by Kettledrum out of Repartee. Claret and Gold.
3. Mr. E. Well's ch. h. Vespucius, aged, by Planet, out of Columbia. Green and Red.
4. Mr. John Forbe's br. h. Mohawk, aged, by Norton, out of Rebecca, T. Price.
5. Mr. A. O. F. Coleman's ch. c.——3 years by Enquirer out of Leisure, by Red Eye. Cherry, black cap.
6. General Blanchard's b. c. Washington, 3 years, by Asteroid, out of Sue Washington. Red and White.
7. Mr. A. H. Snd [illegible] b. h. Judge Pryor 3 years, by Lightning, dam by imp. Australian. Crimson and Pine.

Mr. Salmon's chestnut horse Rejoinder was the only one that failed to come to the scratch. Vespucius took a good start, and was closely followed by Sarah G. and Mohawk. To the astonishment of all present, Mr. Coleman's colt Enquirer took one horse after another in, finally winning the race in the best time yet recorded on the Ottawa turf. He was so closely followed by Mohawk, that it was difficult to say which was first, in fact, the whole came in almost in a bunch. The following was the result at the close:—

Enquirer	1
Mohawk	2
Vespucius	3

CHICAGO, September 24.—In the Insurance Convention yesterday a report on public opinion was read by Mr. C. C. Clark, of Chicago. No man must be allowed to defraud the holders of policies. Contracts must be made intelligible, and then every line must be observed. The report of the committee on the causes of great conflagrations suggested, as prevention against great fires, the erection of thick brick walls, practically fire proof.

MONTREAL.

Mechanics' Bank—First Issue—Judge Mondelet—In Town—Election Cases—The Financial Situation—Stocks.

MONTREAL, Sept. 24.—The depositors and shareholders in the Mechanics' Bank are becoming more and more dissatisfied at the state of matters, and with good reason. Several are taking steps to call a meeting next week, and appoint a committee to look into the affairs. The bank is stated never to have had a working capital of over $200,000, and this rapidly went in the enormous discounting business which sprang up bills being shaved every day in the week. Bonds and cheques were cashed sometimes without even being endorsed. These were not entered and stood as cash. Thus making in time, very serious discrepancy in actual cash balances and amounts entered in the books. In discounting from half a million to three-fourths at various times for large houses, Molson always charged the stamps in the pass book with interest, while he never put them up in the bank, and destroyed them after maturity. The gentleman wanted to discount a bill for $3,000, and he took it to Molson, who accommodated him, charging sixteen per cent per annum, besides a shave for his trouble. This Bill was immediately transferred to the Molson's bank at the ruling rate of interest. When this bill became due the party was hopelessly involved and unable to meet it, so Molson accommodated him again on similar terms, not forgetting to shave of course at an increased ratio, and this bill was discounted at the Mechanics Bank. There it lies to this day the drawer having become bankrupt before the bill matured. Molson induced people of small means to buy stock in the bank. One man was on the point of drawing out his deposit, but was eventually induced to invest them in the shares, which are not sharp paid up. The feeling among many of the people interested is intense, and it would take but slight provocation if they were gathered together for them to mob the place. They ask how it is that the bank building, the best asset the bank has, was disposed of before the failure, and why the directors did not apprise them of the irretrievable state of affairs before. The President for the last five years has been away most of his time and paid very little attention to the bank. A complete lack of proper management has been revealed, and nearly a year ago the bank was tottering on the verge of ruin. The stockholders will probably be called upon to pay up their shares in full in order to meet the claims of billholders and depositors, while all other liabilities will be satisfied under the Bankruptcy Act with a few cents on the dollar. A banking institution never made a more complete smash than has the Merchants' Bank.

The directors of St. Jean Baptiste Bank met yesterday and decided to issue a first call on stock immediately and commence operations next November.

When the Court of Review opened this morning Judge Mondelet made some pointed remarks in reference to the report in the Gazette in which it was stated that a brother Judge had said he was shirkey duty. He had enquired of his confrere if this were true and was answered in the negative and he was bound to believe him. He regarded his reputation as his life and must warn reporters to be careful of statements in the future.

The argument in the Montreal Centre case was concluded this morning before Justices Johnson, Beaudry and Torrance. Judge Johnson then left the bench, and his place being taken by Judge McKay, they began the hearing of the Argenteuil election case.

There is little change to note in the financial situation. All classes of traders still require a great deal of accommodation from the banks, as money as coming in slowly from the country. Payments due in Great Britain must be met by whole-sale dealers. Call terms are quoted at 7 per cent., and rates of discount for good commercial paper at from 8 to 9 per cent. Sterling exchange 108⅞ to 108¾, with sales of round lots at 108. Gold drafts ½c to 1 per cent.

Stocks which during the week showed a considerable tendency to decline, manifested a reaction, and during yesterday p. m. and this a. m. market was quoted firm, but there were no active sales. 25 Montreal, preferred stock, 119; 155 Merchants, 95; 21 Merchants, 94; preferred, 87 to 94½, closing with a sale of 32 at 94½; 100 Montreal Telegraph, 144, and 51 at 143; 25 Commerce sold at 122½. Sales at p. m. Board: Montreal, 10 shares, 186; preferred Merchants, 121 at 95; preferred Toronto, 65 at 185½, Montreal Telegraph, 25 at 144½, 75 at 144, 53 at 144⅞; Dominion Telegraph, 58 at 97.

OTTAWA, SATURDAY, SEPT. 25, 1875.

His Worship the Mayor, Hon. James Skead, Alonzo Wright, M.P., and J. M. Currier, M.P., entertained the members of the Board of Arts and Agriculture of Ontario to dinner last night in the Rideau Club. The Hon. Mr. Smith, Minister of Marine and Fisheries; Hon. Mr. Burpee, Minister of Customs; Hon. Mr. Laird, Minister of the Interior; Mr. Ford, Fishery Commissioner; Mr. Rathbun, of Cuba; Mr. Fraser, of the Advisory Board; Wm. McKay Wright, M.P.; Sheriff McKellar, Rev. Father Dawson, Rev. John May, Mr. McNab, M.P., President and members of the Board of Arts, several of the city aldermen and about fifty other guests sat down to a sumptuous spread. After dinner the usual toasts and speeches were made. The affair was very agreeable, and was a fitting close to the late successful Exhibition.

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION—GOLD MEDALS.

The Council of the Agricultural Association yesterday by an unanimous vote, awarded gold medals to "the Buckingham Plumbago Company, (limited)" and to "the Ottawa Iron and Steel Company" for the magnificent display made by them of their respective minerals and the manufactured product thereof at the Exhibition.

The trio company mentioned richly deserve the honour conferred, which honour is all the greater from the fact that these are the first medals ever awarded by the Association. We most cordially congratulate both companies on the success achieved.

The award was a special one, the interests involved in the development of our vast mineral resources, in the opinion of the Council, warranting that body in suspending its ordinary rules.

ASSOCIATED MECHANICS' INSTITUTES.

The disposition to find fault is one of the weaknesses of humanity. Nobody is entirely free from it, perhaps, but there are others whose life is one continued round of fault-finding. Mr. Davison, President of the Toronto Mechanics' Institute, has been finding fault with the general Association, declaring it useless and expensive, and proposing to abolish it. Most grumblers have some companionship in their dumps, but Mr. Davison appears to stand alone. He presented his complaint lately in the form of a letter to the institute, of which he is the chief executive officer, but so little did they sympathise with him that they refused a place on their records, declared its terms disrespectful, and distinctly denied its allegations. The Central Association at its annual meeting on Monday night was equally explicit in its condemnation of the tone and tendency of his statements. They were justly indignant at the style of insendo which pervaded the letter from beginning to end, and took care to say so. But Mr. Davison, if he is a specimen of the class to which he belongs—and he evidently is—will not be content to stop at this point. The snubs and rebuffs which have met him on every hand will but add a burning desire for revenge to the other motives which have impelled him to action in the matter. It may therefore be safely presumed that his attention will now be turned to individual members of Mechanics Institutes, to see whether they cannot be prevailed upon to assist him in his war against the Association. To be forewarned is to be forearmed, and the notice which the Association has had of this aggressive movement will certainly make them more careful and watchful in the future than they have been in the past. It is a misfortune that no combination of more men can so discharge their duties that objection could not occasionally be taken with perfect conscientiousness by even friends and well wishers of the cause for the advancement of which they were combined, and it is not improbable that the chief executive body of the Mechanics Institutes might with propriety have left some things undone which they have done, and done some things which they have left undone. For example, they might, for the satisfaction of men like Mr. Davison, have two auditors appointed to examine and attest the correctness of their accounts, although it would add a little to those very moderate expenses which are a source of such solicitude to that gentleman. But to the general conduct of the business of the Association, no man but a grumbler could be found to take exception. The very statement of his grievances, which was contained in the letter submitted to the meeting, was enough to falsify his insinuations of mismanagement and uselessness. What is still more remarkable is that while Mr. Davison is attempting to pull the mote out of other people's eyes, he leaves the beam in his own without even excusing its presence. The Toronto Mechanics Institute has not always been a model of good management and usefulness. On the contrary, so gross have been the blunders by which its career has been marked that the press of that city has spoken out against them in tones which could not be and were not misunderstood. There has been less complaint of late than there was some years ago, although it can hardly be said that even yet things are altogether satisfactory. The gentleman ought therefore to give some of his time and valuable talent to the rectification of the abuses which exist at home, before going abroad as a reformer.

It is greatly to be regretted that Mechanics Institutes are so few and have so little life in these parts. It certainly is not because there is no room for them. Some effort, combined and strong, should be made to establish these useful institutions where they do not already exist, and put renewed life and vigour into those which are already constituted but languishing. The fact that they have received so much assistance and attention from the Local Government and Legislature, and that they are thought of sufficient importance to entitle them to a representative on the Provincial Board of Arts and Agriculture, is the best positive proof of the excellence of their results wherever they have been properly and vigorously conducted. The movement to get them an additional representative on the Board may have good reason in it, if the comparative value of Mechanics Institutes is the ground upon which the change is asked for, but it is not easy to see what great good is to be gained by it. Already they are as well represented, and as influentially, in the person of Mr. Young, the able and popular member for South Waterloo, as any other branch of art or industry in the Province, and no reasonable privilege or assistance that the friends of the cause have demanded has ever been refused, or is likely to be. Of course, if additional representation can be secured by all means let the Institutes have it. Those whom they are likely to send to the Board are certain to be useful and creditable members, and to none of the constituent bodies could the extension of the franchise be granted with greater, or an assurance of better, results. We repeat, however, that there does not appear to us to be any crying necessity for the change no peculiar advantage to be derived from it by the Institutes, and no harm can result if it fails to be brought about.

NOVEL DOOR LOCKS.—The Provincial Exhibition could scarcely be said to be opened for the inspection of visitors yesterday. The disagreeable state of the weather had a discouraging effect; but the different buildings were being rapidly occupied, and there was, indeed, very much worth seeing in many of the departments. In the main octagonal building there is a stall occupied by "Griffith's Patent Lever Mortise Locks." They are entirely without springs, quite new in design, of excellent workmanship, and do not and cannot go out of order. Highly approved of, recommended and used by architects, contractors, builders, land surveyors, editors, hotel proprietors, bank managers, civil engineers and wholesale merchants, they are indisputably the best and cheapest lock ever invented for banks, public buildings, offices, warehouses, hotels, hall doors, and private dwellings. We repeat, a patent lever movement has been instituted for the old spring action in locks, and the new lock is protected by patents in England, the United States of America, and the Dominion of Canada. One great recommendation is that these locks will wear for years without any attention, and the knobs being secured to and finishing part of the lever, can neither drop off nor become loose. Messrs. Langley, Langley & Burke, architects in Toronto, say that they "are admirable in construction, calculated to bear almost any amount of wear, and especially adapted to public buildings, being also handsome in appearance, and very suitable to private buildings." Mr. Fisher, Manager of the Ontario Bank, Toronto, says: "Your lock works with great ease, and is at the same time perfectly secure." It is almost unnecessary to add that these locks received an extra prize at the Provincial Exhibition in 1874.

LUKE TRAVERS,

OR

A Tale of the Dominion, Commencing 30 Years Back.

From this conclusion of the Honourable Mr. Harrison, Secretary West dissented and resigned his membership in the Executive Council and his office of Secretary.

In Parliament and out of it the establishment of a permanent seat of Government now absorbed attention. Quebec had its zealous advocates in the press, but the people of the Western Province, the residents of Kingston excepted, were not unwilling that Parliament should be annually convened in Montreal. Some writers for the press in Canada West had the honesty to remark that a sufficient consideration had been given to Upper Canada for the loss of the seat of Government in the union of the Provinces, by which the Lower Canada exchequer was robbed to pay Upper Canada debts, and in an equality of representation with Lower Canada, while the latter had a population larger by one-third than that of Upper Canada.

When everything was proceeding smoothly towards the end desired by the Cabinet in the House of Assembly, the Legislative Council were furiously opposed to any change being made in the seat of Government. The Upper House showed on this occasion unwonted spirit, and that too as if conscious that the new Councillors, the Honourables W. W. Baldwin, Christopher, Widmer, Rene, Joseph Kimbler, Amilius Irving, Louis Massue, and Pierre Boucher de Boucherville had only received their appointments to seats in that House to carry out the wishes of the Executive. The Speaker, Mr. Vice Chancellor Jamieson, could scarcely maintain order in a House noted for the dignity with which its proceedings were conducted. The chairman of the Executive Council Committee who had a seat in the Legislative Council could hardly obtain a hearing as he attempted to point out the superiority of Montreal over any other town in the Province in many points of view, and recommended its selection as the future Provincial capital. Dr. Blagmere, a gentleman of good attainments, of excellent private character, and blameless as a politician, protested vehemently against the threatened change. He even read an extract from a letter written by Lord Sydenham to his brother in England, Mr. Scrope, M.P., in which his lordship said :—"The climate—the soil—and people of Lower Canada are below par," placing great emphasis upon the word people. It was in vain that Messrs. Dion and Tache endeavoured to obtain a hearing; Upper Canada in the Legislative Council would listen to nothing. Mr. Wm. Morris denounced the Government purpose of swamping the Council and would never consent to a call of the House to consider the Message. Mr. Draper employed all his learning and eloquence to show that the contemplated change would be fatal to the union, to the peace and prosperity of the whole country, and to the very existence of the Province as an appendage of the British Crown. He charged the Ministry with the folly of having thrown among a people rapidly recovering from the effects of an unfortunate period, a hatchet of discord, a malignant, blighting firebrand.

By a vote of 9 to 7 the Council passed a series of resolutions to the effect that no valid objection had been urged to Kingston, there being none, and that the matter of a permanent seat of Government should be referred back to the Crown. Curiously enough it happened that this report of the Executive Council in favor of removing the seat of Government to Montreal was laid before the Legislative Council for approval when there was only four members present from the eastern section of the Province.

Leaving Parliamentary matters for a while it may not be amiss to look at the state of society. Secret societies had increased very considerably, so much so indeed that a check upon them was intended by an Act of Parliament, and an Act was passed, but set aside by the Governor to suppress party processions and secret societies, and to regulate public meetings. The canals, not yet finished, afforded employment to both skilled and unskilled labour, and especially at Beauharnois there were repeated strikes and riotings until it was deemed necessary to call in the aid of the military to preserve order. Money letters were embezzled in their passage through the post office, murder and robbery had become painfully frequent, election contests frequently ended in bloodshed, and considerable fires were neither few nor far between. In Quebec, early in October, a fire had occurred at the Palais which destroyed 36 houses and swept over the Government fuel yard, consuming 500 cords of firewood and about 700 chaldrons of coal. But the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland was, in a social point of view, even in a worse condition than Canada. While the Queen visited Louis Philippe at Ems, Rebeccaism was rampant in South Wales, and the "Big Beggarman" bellowed for repeal in Ireland. Even Scotland had her troubles in connection with church patronage, so that everywhere the times seemed out of joint.

The strength of the garrison in Canada was being rapidly reduced. The 23rd Fusileers had sailed on the 29th September, in the Resistance for Barbadoes; the Royals had embarked on board of the transport Pestonjee Bomanjee, and the 71st and 85th regiments were about to embark for the West Indies, and only the 81st regiment, commanded by Sir Charles Chichester, had arrived to supply their places.

The press was perhaps more than ordinarily virulent as party spirit ran high. In Quebec a newspaper (the Herald) of which Mr. Charles Secretan, was the editor and proprietor, had come into existence in the Irish interest and a duel had occurred between Mr. Stewart Derbishire and Major Richardson in connection with some attack upon the liberty of the press. In Canada, as it had been in France under the First Bonaparte, the Government denied to see the press so flood the land with misrepresentations, false maxims and doctrines favourable to the despotism of party, and, like Louis XVIII., the Governor General only desired to "govern legally." It had not yet come to that crisis with the press that it should be altogether crushed, because the fear existed that any attempt to crush the expression of public opinion in the press would be sure to result in its retaliating and crushing its destroyers. People in power contented themselves with speaking contemptuously of it, and by comparing its character with that of the leading and long-established journals of European capitals, and still it had not yet exhibited that vigour of denunciation which it has done in later times, and did almost immediately after the occurrence of an event of which we shall, by-and-bye, speak. Lord Metcalfe had taken a stand which made corruption almost impossible. The Ministry could not obtain their own way in everything, as the Governor would be consulted and would know everything that was going on. Business was not flourishing and the mercantile and trading communities were dissatisfied, attributing much to the Government which was probably attributable to themselves while the Franco-Canadian was all actively. The Anglo Canadian in Lower Canada had become so torpid and apathetic that he could do little else but grumble. In Quebec it seemed to run in the blood and air to care for no public interest. Indeed the English speaking portion of the community could not yet rid themselves of an idea that the Imperial Government both directly and indirectly governed the country. Responsible government was held in detestation, and it seemed as if the mercantile classes would really have preferred, as they said they would, a Governor and Council in preference to a system of government which had permitted such a man as Louis Hypolite Lafontaine to be at the head of affairs, and a mere adventurer, as Mr. Hincks was then only considered to be, in the position of Inspector General. It was well, perhaps, for the Governor General that this feeling was so prevalent, not that he was tyrannical, or inclined to be so, but because he might otherwise have been the victim of the grossest misrepresentation. As far as the Government could by indirect persuasion influence the members of the Assembly in their favour, they did so. No less than forty-six offices had been distributed among as many members of the Assembly out of a House of eighty four. By donations to the Seminary of Quebec to form an additional income of £1,000 a year for that institution, and similar donations to other educational institutions, they hoped to gain over the good will of the ecclesiastical authorities of Lower Canada, and by the combined action of Parliamentary and Roman Catholic ecclesiastical influence, to reduce the Governor General's personal influence in political affairs.

But the Governor General was not to be outdone in generosity. Possessed of an ample private fortune, he gave with a lavish hand to whomsoever needed.

The Rev. Mr. O'Grady, of Drummondville, was indebted to His Excellency for £10 in aid of the funds of the Roman Catholic Church at Drummondville, and Bishop's College, Lennoxville, obtained a share of his liberality. Already he had expended from his privy purse between £2,000 and £3,000 in donations to charities, churches, or individuals.

It has been said that men's actions are affected in some degree by the weather, and certainly the weather had been and was no better than it should be. It was prematurely cold and blusterous. In the middle of October there had been thunder, lightning and snow. Snow had fallen in Kingston on the 27th of October to the depth of two or three inches, and sleighs were in use. Storms were frequent on the lakes and the St. Lawrence, not unattended with disaster. The transport Premier, which, on the 31st of October, had sailed for the West Indies with the right wing of the Royals on board, was, on the 2d of November, driven ashore during a snow storm a little below Cape Chat river, the troops being with difficulty landed on an inhospitable shore, and the steamship Unicorn had been sent to their assistance. The barque Java, which had sailed three days before the Premier, was ashore at the same place.

The general aspect of affairs was such that even Mr. Neilson, the far-seeing, shrewd and experienced editor of the Quebec Gazette, perceived nothing certain for the future but "debt, taxation and discord." There was no money in the public chest, and the maintenance of public educational and charitable establishments was dependent upon the produce of new taxes, or an improbable increase in the then existing revenue.

The House of Assembly squabbled about a sum of £40,000 for the payment of losses sustained by Loyalists during the rebellion and irruptions of sympathisers in 1838 and 1839, in allowing General Baldwin, declaring that the Government was not prepared with any measure on the subject; Mr. Solicitor-General Aylwin was busied about his bill for the independence of the judges; Mr. Hincks was actively engaged in urging upon the legislature the expediency of heavily taxing for the benefit of the Canadian producer American agricultural produce, American cattle, &c., permitting American flour, however, to be admitted into Gaspe duty free, excepting the Commissariat contractors from the operation of the act, and providing for the export from Canada of slaughtered or salted American meats free of duty, which subsequently became law; the double security clause in bank charters was to be repealed; an Act of incorporation to the College of the Church of England in the townships had been granted; resolutions had been passed in favour of an asylum for juvenile offenders; Bills against the renewal of Commissions and dissolution of Parliament on the demise of the Crown, as well as the independence of the Judges Bill had passed both Council and Assembly; a Militia Bill, making, with particular exceptions, the entire male population from 18 to 60 years of age militiamen and providing for one Adjutant General, two Deputy Adjutant Generals, and one Quartermaster General, was about to become law, a bill for regulating steamboats, as regarded inspecting hull and machinery, sufficient of boats, anchors, cables and lights, had been introduced; Mr. Henry Sherwood had moved, without effect, for a committee to enquire into the expediency of procuring a correct publication of the debates; Mr Christie had moved to impeach such Executive Councillors as without authority of Parliament had applied to their own use part of the marriage license funds; Lord Stanley had refused to constitute Montreal a free port; the Hon. Henry Black had moved for and had succeeded in obtaining a diminution of duty in foreign books imported into the Province; and Mr. Murray, who had been elected representative in the Assembly for Hastings in the Assembly, in opposition to the Government or Baldwin candidate Caniff, had arrived before the Parliament House at Kingston in triumphal procession in a carriage and six horses, with lights, flags, and music, accompanied by a crowd of supporters, when the seat of Government question was again before the Parliament.

On the 14th of October, Mr. Vice-Chancellor Jameson had resigned the Speakership of the Legislative Council because he was not in favour of the intended removal and could scarcely maintain order in the House, and the Speakership was offered to Mr. Draper, a man of great capacity and learning, who refused it; but few days afterwards Mr. Jameson resumed the chair, and, for a time matters went on smoothly. The Government had announced that the seat of Government question was not to be a Cabinet measure and Mr. Jameson resumed the Speakership with the understanding that he would be free to vote on that question as he thought fit. But on the 2nd of November the matter having been again brought before the Houses, and the Legislative Council arranged to suit Ministerial views, Mr. Speaker Jameson a third time vacated the chair, and Messrs. McGill, Caron, and Viger were spoken of as his successors. The Governor General, however, refused to accept the resignation. On the 11th of November a message was received by the Assembly from the Legislative Council, intimating the concurrence of the Upper House in the report of the Committee of the Executive Council recommending Montreal to be the future seat of Government; addresses to that effect were presented by the two Houses to the Governor-General, to be by him transmitted to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies, for the purpose of being laid at the foot of the Throne, and the Hon. Reni Edward Caron was elevated to the position of Speaker of the Legislative Council of the Province of Canada.

SURGICAL OPERATION.—In our report of the surgical operation performed by Dr. Hill, assisted by Drs. Lynn, St. Jean and Robilliard, on Tuesday last we committed the error of saying that it was performed in the Protestant Hospital, while we should have said the Roman Catholic.

BASKERVILLE & BROTHERS are exhibiting and disposing of the choicest teas, coffees, wines, liquors and a general assortment of groceries and refreshments suitable for those attending the Exhibition. Those desiring to take home supplies with them will do well to purchase from them. Also fish, salt, bacon, cheese and hams sold low or cash. 3950t2

A TELLING RESULT.—Mr. Fleming, of Toronto, who acted as Superintendent of the Horticultural Hall during the Exhibition, found no less than 19 empty pocket-books in old boxes and barrels, on removing the stuff yesterday evening. This tells a telling tale of the activity with which thieving and pocket-picking was carried on during the fair. Citizens would do well to keep a sharp look out yet for a few days for these sharpers as the probability is they may remain amongst us for a few days longer.

The George Washington Restaurant, York street is now open for guests and meals can be had at all hours. 3915 6w.

GATE RECEIPTS.—The Treasurer of the Provincial Exhibition announced the receipts at the gate, up to last night, to be nearly $12,000. This is a very gratifying result, and renders the exhibition financial success. True, it is not so large as the receipts at Toronto last year, but this was not looked for by even the most sanguine friends of the Exhibition. A Dominion Exhibition is now mooted to be held at the Capital, a couple of years hence, at which the Agricultural and Industrial products of the whole of Canada may be exhibited.

AMUSEMENTS

COOL BURGESS last night entertained a good audience at Gowan's Hall, Sparks street. The treat was well appreciated.

THE SHAUGHRAUN.—Mr. McDowell last night again placed upon the stage Boucicault's play of the "Shaughraun," and it is needless to say that the piece was placed upon the stage in a most inimitable style.

LITTLE GIANT TURBINE WATER WHEEL.

Among the many excellent inventions at the Exhibition, none seemed to attract the multitude of visitors so effectually and so deservedly as George H. Jones' Little Giant Turbine Water Wheel. There were three of these on exhibition, one sixteen inches, and two, each two inches in diameter. They manifestly combine many improvements, amongst which are a great economy in the use of water, simplicity of construction, and unequalled strength and durability, and the superiour workmanship which they display reflect much credit upon the manufacturer. The exhibitor, Mr. J. C. Wilson, of Picton, Ont., has three of these wheels now in use at the Mountain Mills—175 feet head. One of these, 7¾ inches in diameter and 2¼ inches in depth, is driving a flouring mill, with three runs of 4ft. 4in. Burr stones, and using only three fourths of the power of the wheel. The manner in which this wheel performed its work led Mr. Wilson to purchase the patent for the Dominion of Canada. He is now engaged in fitting up extensive works for its manufacture at Picton, Ont., which works will be driven by one of the Little Giant Turbine Water Wheels, only six inches in diameter, although this wheel was invented on the ground too late for competition for the prize, the Committee having made their report. They however, highly recommended the wheel to the public. It is the most extraordinary application of water power we have seen, and if it prove a success, it must have the effect of revolutionizing the present water power system.

Provincial Exhibition.

THE FIFTH DAY.

Yesterday saw the close of one of the most important and also successful Exhibitions the Province of Ontario ever saw. The weather was most propitious; a genial sun and gentle wind taking the place of the cloudy skies and chilly blasts of the preceding days, much to the more active comfort of those who were present. There was, as might be expected, a material falling off in the attendance, but those who were present had a far better opportunity of having the more searching and critical inspection of the animals, implements, and articles set forth by the various exhibitors. The crush and crowding of those who came from a distance, urged by their curiosity to see the objects of ingenuity, of produce, farming and otherwise, was avoided. Those who loved the fine arts, resulting from the skill and industry of Canadians found ample opportunity of gratifying their artistic tastes by making a critical examination of the paintings in oil and water colours, sepia, crayon and pencil—a luxury which they were denied at the commencement of the exhibition, by reason of the dense crowds present. There was no doubt expressed by the connoisseurs in such matters that Messrs. J. C. Forbes, Cresswell and Verner fully deserved the prizes bestowed upon them by the Judges. As has already been said, the light in which the pictures were hung was a most unfavourable one, and calculated to materially interfere with the decision of the Judges in an artistic point of view. However, they did the best they could, under the circumstances, and their decisions were, as a rule, accepted with every satisfaction by the exhibitors. Without expressing an opinion, it might be as well to mention that Messrs. Laird and Jackman, both of Toronto, expressed their opinions that in order to display the pictures of good artists to advantage, a very different arrangement as to the light should be adopted, in order that each artist should have an equal chance of displaying his handiwork to the best advantage. The ladies visiting the Exhibition yesterday afternoon seemed to manifest a lively interest in all things appertaining to needle work and the appurtenances thereto.

The Wheeler and Wilson Manufacturing Company, under the management in Canada of Mr. G. A. Walton, of Toronto, showed ten sewing machines, including several of the "New No. 6," and "New No. 7" machines, which have within a remarkably short space of time achieved a reputation not second to their justly celebrated family machine, and are as superior for manufacturing purposes as the family machine is for the household. The Company have expended the enormous sum of $200,000 in experimenting and bringing out this machine during the past six years, and now offer the public the benefit of the results. The points of superiority claimed are a greater degree of perfection and pearl like stitch, a very much higher rate of speed, lighter running and greater durability than any machine of its class ever made, and manufacturers everywhere who have tested them pronounced them to be the best adapted to their purposes. There are many special improvements entirely original and novel, and only a close examination can demonstrate their utility. The "New No. 6" and "New No. 7" are furnished with all necessary appliances for either leather, tailoring, or family work, as may be desired. The beautiful show case specimens of the work done is worthy of the highest commendation as giving proof positive of the capabilities of the machines, and forms a most attractive feature in the gallery of the main building, &c.

The samples of leather stitching are without doubt the finest ever exhibited in the city, one of them representing in pearly stitches a lady operating on one of these machines. The other is a thoroughly artistic and elegant specimen of lettering in white silk on a black kid leather ground. The new silent tucker, made of polished steel, is the most thorough attachment for creasing and stitching tucks that could be desired. In fact the machine in all its details is complete and cannot fail to become an universal favourite among, not only the fair sex, but those whose business requires their use. The Wheeler & Wilson Company are deserving of the highest credit for their enterprise, and the skill displayed in producing so perfect a machine. Other sewing machines appear to attract much of the attention of the fair sex, who evidently evinced a great interest in all appliances calculated to save the labour of their nimble fingers

(When they the busy needle ply.)

By half past 2 o'clock there was but little left of the numerous articles that had been placed on exhibition. A general exodus was made. Leaving the gallery, the TIMES reporter paid a visit to the "regions below"—i. e., the ground floor, and there he saw some wonderful specimens of work executed in cement from the beds of Mr. Chas. Wright in the Hull District, which, as Mr. Wright informed our reporter, is nearly inexhaustable. The specimens alluded to had been worked into patterns of ornamental style of mouldings and external decorations for buildings. The cement appears to be rapidly increasing in the favour of the building public.

In the afternoon, Mr. Joseph Grand, of Toronto, disposed of several fine horses at public auction, and some good prices were realised. One handsome stallion was knocked down at a price of $275 to a newspaper man of this city, who did not appear to know what to do with the bargain when he had obtained it. The prices obtained were, as a rule, good, and the auctioneer appeared to be perfectly satisfied.

The various stands and tables were, by the time the gates had closed, denuded of the articles displayed upon them during the exhibition; and today the buildings will present the naked appearance they did before the Fair commenced. It is gratifying to know that the whole proceedings passed off throughout the week without any serious mishap; and this is due to Inspector McVety, who had under his command twenty special constables, that no serious breach of the peace occurred, order being maintained throughout. Superintendent O'Neil rendering most efficient service, also, in warning some of the light fingered gentry to make themselves scarce, which the most prudent of them did. There were ninety-two cases of robbery, known to have taken place on the Grounds and in the vicinity of the railroad stations; but so cleverly were the larcenies committed that the perpetrators could not be traced, and got off scott free. One accident occurred yesterday afternoon. A boy, whose name the TIMES reporter could not ascertain, fell from the box of an express waggon, but sustained no serious injuries, being only temporarily stunned.

The total receipts taken at the gate for admission were $9,193.19; which, added to over $1,600, received for the rent of booths, will make the advent of the Provincial Exhibition in Ottawa, as should be, a financial success.

THE COMPLETE WASHER.

This is the only Canadian Washer which received a prize at the Dominion Exhibition this year. It was patented in January, 1873, and is manufactured by Mr. S. B. Hall, Montmorency Mills, Quebec, the agent for the washer in Montreal being Mr. P. Hinchey, the exhibitor at the Exhibition. It is very simple or in construction, warranted for five years, and so easy of operation that after a very short period of instruction, a child can use it effectually. Compact and portable, it never gets out of order, and it washes clean the finest fabrics and the heaviest blanket—all the cost is $6. The proprietors for the Dominion of Canada are Messrs. Dillingham & Berge of the City of Quebec. When we mention that 100,000 of this labour saving gem have been manufactured and sold in the United States, during the past two years, some idea may be formed of the estimate in which it is generally held. It is, in sober truth, one of these contrivances that really takes away the drudgery of a washing day.

THE ALMONTE FURNITURE CO.

have had on exhibition in the Crystal Palace suites of bedroom furniture and sideboards much superior to anything we have met with in the old world or the new. The bedstead on exhibition in one of the wings of the Palace is of a high order of artistic design and workmanship. Corresponding with a bedroom suite in black walnut, nicely polished, and inlaid as it were with Italian walnut, carved, polished, and in part unpolished, the head-board very high, with the adjuncts of moveable seats by the bedside, and an adjustable reading table, the Almonte Manufacturing Company's bedstead, the whole is a chef d'œuvre in cabinet work. The washstands have marble tops; and there is a large mirror encased in walnut, to match the other furniture, to add to the beauty of all the rest of the set. As for the sideboard, it is quite unique in its way, and deservedly obtained a first prize. The manager of the company, Mr. John Maguire, is entitled to credit for the manner in which he set forth the artistic merits of the company which he represents.

The REJUVENATING WATERS so much sought for in years long past.

Invalids! Attention!
Dyspepsia, Derangement of the Digestive Organs, Debility, Diseases of the Skin, Affections of the Liver and Urinary Organs are positively cured by using the water for a few weeks.

Rheumatics! Read!
Hundreds of Rheumatics have been cured by the Sulphur Baths. Suffering is alleviated by the first, and cripples throw away their crutches after about half-a-dozen baths.

TESTIMONIALS.
"Montreal, 28th July, 1876.
"I hereby certify that I entertain a very favorable opinion of the Baths and Waters of the Caledonia Springs in many forms of disease, among which I would especially mention Chronic Rheumatism, the Sequelæ of Gout, Neuralgia, some of the varieties of Cutaneous disease, Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, and in carefully selected cases, some of the diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder.
(Signed) GEO. W. CAMPBELL, A.M., M.D.
Dean of the Medical Faculty, McGill College.
Dr. Wm. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1839:—"But the disease above all in which the action of the water is most decided is Rheumatism. . . . I have known a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the waters.

ACCOMMODATIONS.
A magnificent new hotel, capable of accommodating 300 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accommodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa River is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until the railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the conveyance of visitors to the Springs. The distance of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 68 and 50 miles.
Mr. W. CHAMPNESS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horse s, saddles, &c. There is a good race-course on the property of the Company.
The PANOPEAN WATERS of these Springs will yet make Caledonia the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seekers. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the Springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

The National Assembly.
PARIS, September 25.—The Deputies of the Left have resolved to return to Paris at the beginning of October to prepare for the work of the coming session of the Assembly, and particularly for the debate on the Electoral Law, which measure will be first discussed. The Opinion Nationale, the organ of the several Republican Deputies, says:—"The decision of the Cabinet, to advocate voting by Arrondissements, has produced a strong sensation among the Deputies of the Left Centre. A rupture between M. Dufaure and the Left Centre is now certain. No effort will break the union of the factions of the Left, and the regulation of the public debt
The Bonapartists in Council—Important Measures Laid Down.
The Bonapartists Council which met in secret session at the Chateau of the ex Empress Eugene at Areneburg, Switzerland, for the purpose of determining the future policy of the party in the view of present aspect of affairs in France and the growing strength of the Republic has resulted in the following party programme:—The 1st, point decided is that Prince Imperial shall undertake in person the exclusive direction of Imperialists' policy; the Empress who is unpopular with a large section of the party on account of her pronounced ultramontanism has abdicated the regency conferred upon her by the late Emperor, and leaves the young Prince to be guided by his counsels more in accord with the prevailing sentiment of the party. It is settled that the Prince Imperial will be guided wholly by M. Rouher, thus restoring to prominence a party sections which steadfastly opposed all concessions to the Constitutional party, and disapproved of the liberalized policy of M. Emile Ollivier previous to the war of 1870. Should the party succeed in restoring the Empire, this choice of a leader leaves no doubt as to its character. It will be despotic in the full sense of the term, and the constitution of 1852 in all its vigor as the one of their choice. The policy agreed upon as best calculated to advance the interests of the party, in the present Assembly, is a continuous demand for a plebescite, which will, they think, flatter the masses by appearing to leave final decision as to the form of Government in the peoples hands. They will also demand a revision of the Constitution in accordance with article 8 of the Constitution of February 28th.

MONTREAL, Sept. 25. This afternoon Detective Lafor arrested Abbe Joseph Chabert, a prominent Roman Catholic Ecclesiastical Principal of the Government School of Art and Design, on a charge of rape. The prisoner trembled and wept; and he was completely unmanned. The deposition of Wilhelmina Josephine Beauchamp, aged 15 years, taken before L. G. Hetie, J. P., charges that Joseph Chabert, on the 10th day of June last, committed a rape upon her, at her rooms No 75 St. James street. Chabert was brought before Mr. Brehant, who committed for further investigation. Chabert is an ecclesiastic, who, it is said, took preliminary orders of the Priesthood, but was refused full orders. It is a little singular that the girl's parents knew nothing of the matter, or pretended to know nothing of it till today. The girl first went to Chabert's rooms, several months ago, to practice telegraphy; he subsequently engaged her to do sewing for him, and he visited her home, and engaged the mother of the girl to clean up his rooms. L'Abbe Chabert is a Frenchman, and came to this country about four years ago. He has all along been considered an eccentric character, but kindly and honorably disposed. As an artist he was superbeial, but enthusiastically devoted to his profession, and his actions and manners have been that of a man with Art upon the brain.

The Times.

OTTAWA, MONDAY, SEPT. 27, 1875.

Mr. J. W. King, ex Penitentiary Director, has arrived in town from Nova Scotia.

Mr. Brodie, Conservative, is supposed to be elected for Dundas. Winchester is the only township to hear from, and in that division he is likely to be sustained.

Mr. J. M. Courtenay, Secretary to the Treasury Board, has returned from Prince Edward Island, whither he has been for the past two months on Departmental business.

Mr. R. J. Hallburton has consented to lecture at Charlottetown on "Glimpses into the Nooks and Corners of the Dominion," and it isnot improbable that he may repeat the lecture in Ottawa on the occasion of his approaching visit to this city.

The appeal against the decision unseating and disqualifying Stock, of North Wentworth, was dismissed by the Court of Error and Appeal on Saturday. In the North Grey case, also on appeal, the decision of the Judge unseating and disqualifying Mr. Scott was sustained, and the appeal dismissed. In the North Grey case, Mr. Justice Wilson's judgment was reversed in so far as the disqualification of Mr. Paxton was concerned, but in regard to the viodence of the election, his judgment was sustained.

CANADA AT THE PHILADELPHIA CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

The Advisory Board appointed to promote the representation of the Dominion at the Philadelphia Centennial Exhibition are making exertions which as they go along ought to receive approbation, which is a not indelicate means of encouragement. In a circular issued by Mr. McDougall of Berlin, one of the members of the Board, that gentleman asks in effect "What are we doing to secure the country a creditable representation?" This question is one which every public man, every man who is in a position to exercise any influence, should in good earnest put to himself, and then set himself to assist the Advisory Board so that an answer could be given that would do us credit. We should remember that it is not now a question whether we shall be represented at all, but, having determined that point in the affirmative, and having committed ourselves so that we cannot look back, shall we so give our hearts and energies to the work that we shall be fairly represented?

At the outset we should remember that we have entered for competition with the world. The less widely we or our productions are known the greater the necessity that rests upon us to make the most of the occasion. Every industrial department should be represented in the Canadian quarter at Philadelphia. Exhibitors will have the opportunity of showing their goods, not only to those who may be there from Canada, but to the representatives of all the civilized nations, who will be keen to take note of what we have to sell, and who will assuredly become our customers if we can make it appear to them that it will be to their advantage to do so.

In order to facilitate competition by Canadians, the Government have assumed the payment of all charges for transportation. Everything,—live stock, produce, manufactures, &c., &c., will be carried, taken care of, and insured, without any charge to the exhibitor, whose sole duty and responsibility will be that of preparation or production. In making this most liberal provision the Government have shown a due appreciation of the importance of having Canada well represented; and it now remains only for the people to avail themselves of the opportunity which the Government have presented to them. It is folly to complain of the uselessness of offering our wares for the American market. We do not admit that access to the market afforded by the forty millions to the south of us is a hopeless prospect; we believe it will come about in time when wiser counsels will have prevailed. But the United States market is not the only one to which at the Centennial Exhibition we shall have the chance of introducing our productions. We shall there meet on common ground with representatives of India, China, Japan, the South American States, in fact every country on the globe with which profitable trade relations might be established. No argument can be required to persuade our own people of the policy and the duty of making a representation that will be worthy of the country. The possible benefits may be incalculable. The Advisory Board, whose Secretary is Mr. W. H. Fraser of Toronto, will readily give all required information.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

Congratulations have been offered from all hands on the success which has attended this year's Provincial Exhibition. It is the fact that they are well deserved. The Province has been justly congratulated on the excellence of the specimens of agricultural stock and produce, arts, and manufactures, which were entered for competition, as well as for the large number of the varities in each class. It is remarkable that all the newspapers which have spoken on the subject have expressed themselves more than satisfied, and in this respect they have been but reiterating the opinions already enunciated by all who can claim the slightest authority, either on account of interest or experience, in regard to such matters. It is equally remarkable that they all confess to having anticipated partial, if not entire failure. Why such anticipations should have been entertained it is somewhat difficult to divine. Perhaps they thought, like Mr. Charles Rykert, that there was nothing in or around Ottawa but saw logs. Happily they and he have lived to see how thoroughly mistaken they were, and how undeserved were their disparagements. The Exhibition has had the effect of dissolving, too, a goodly number of the false impressions which the people of the West have hitherto entertained regarding the Ottawa Valley as an agricultural district. The proportion of prizes which remained in this vicinity convinced them of their mistaken assumptions in a very practical way. Not that they will have anything but pleasure and satisfaction from the knowledge gained, although it has been at the expense of some pet prejudices, and a prominence in the honour roll which former success had in some measure entitled them to expect. There are those who for political purposes have encouraged a spirit of jealousy on the part of the Eastern counties of Ontario towards the West, and they have been partially successful. The rivalry which will be the result of Eastern as opposed to Western success at the Exhibition will be of a very different character — will, indeed, be nothing more nor less than a laudable ambition on the part of the one to maintain a pre-eminence which has been justly but rather unexpectedly won, and on the part of the other to regain lost laurels. To this friendly emulation we may well look with satisfaction as the means by which sectional feelings shall be eradicated, and the people of all portions of the Province taught to judge their public men by one standard alone, and not by the favours they are supposed to confer upon one district at the expense of the whole in consideration of political support. But if the Exhibition has removed from the minds of our western friends every vestige of prejudice against the Ottawa country which they had so far retained, it has also had the no less desirable result of assuring the people of this section that the distrust and jealousy with which they had been taught to regard the West were altogether undeserved. The success of the Show depended entirely upon how well or otherwise visitors and exhibitors from the West patronised it. In this respect even our most hopeful expectations were more than realised. The utmost corners of the Province sent liberal contributions of everything that was necessary to a favourable issue, and the list of entries as well as the award of prizes proves that distance and expense of conveyance formed little if any drawback, and had but small effect upon the display other than to make it more meritorious, and weed out from it such specimens as were accustomed to be exhibited merely because the Show was in the locality and the attendant expenses small. And, lastly, it has been frankly admitted that so far as it was possible for the people of this section, and especially the citizens of Ottawa, to contribute towards the satisfactory result attained, nothing that was within their power was left undone. Ottawa was in all respects equal to the occasion. The accommodation for such a large influx of visitors was found to be all that was necessary; prices were perhaps somewhat stiff, but there was not that general inclination to pilfer which has been characteristic of Exhibition week in the Western cities in almost every instance; and no effort was spared to make visitors comfortable and contented. It is only due to the the latter in their turn to say that they conducted themselves with almost unexampled propriety. It was wonderful to note how sober and peaceable everybody was, and the record of crime during the week, although there was what appeared to be a concerted attempt to make it appear formidable, was truly of small dimensions. It is unfortunately the fact, however, that even the little crime which was committed escaped detection and punishment. The police may have been very well prepared for the emergency, but they gave no proof of that condition. If a man became so drunk that he could not stand, they showed themselves capable of carrying him to the police station, but for as many pockets as were picked, and as many watches as were stolen, not a single one of the miscreants was caught. It may well be asked, what would have been the consequence had a more dangerous and a more desperate class of depredators made their appearance in our midst? We have no desire to be censorious in dealing with "the preservers of the peace," and we would fain give them the credit of having been such a terror to evil-doers that evil was not done; but it would be more than could be conscientiously conceded, especially in view of the fact that they gave no evidence of their power to prevent by their ability to detect and punish.

The Exhibition has been a success financially as well as in other respects, and the Globe agrees with the opinion expressed in these columns a few days ago that Ottawa ought to and very likely will come in for her turn in the regular rotation which it is hoped and expected will take the place of the system of selection which has so far obtained in the location of the Show. It will thus be seen that we have not been put to expense needlessly, and that the money spent in roads, buildings, &c., will in the future prove one of the most profitable investments. We repeat, that the city of Ottawa, the Ottawa Valley, and the whole Province have reason to congratulate themselves upon the success of the Fair of 1875.

THE SUPREME COURT.

The question of the appointments to the Supreme Court, and such other changes in the justiciary of Canada as may thereby be necessitated, has not yet been settled, but rumour has been busy with the names of several more prominent lawyes and judges in that connection. So varied have been the speculations, and so numerous the rumours, that the right ones must have been guessed once at least, and there will be a general chorus of "I told you so" among the knowing ones the very minute there is an authoritative announcement made. The Globe, which speaks with more or less knowledge of the facts, and would be very unlikely to commit itself to any statement which was not likely to be verified by the actual result, says editorially in its issue of Friday:—

Speculation has been rife for some time past with regard to the judicial appointments and re-arrangements rendered necessary by the constitution of the new Supreme Court for the Dominion of Canada. None have yet been officially announced, but we believe current rumour will be found to be pretty nearly correct with regard to the following names:—From Ontario: Chief Justice Richards, Mr. Justice Strong. From Quebec: Hon. T. Fournier, Q. C., Mr. Justice Taschereau. From New Brunswick: Chief Justice Ritchie. From Nova Scotia: Hon. Wm. Henry, Q.C. The first named learned judge will take the position of Chief Justice of the new Court.

It was essential that the Supreme Court should, from the very outset, command by the intellect and judicial standing of its members the most implicit confidence of the country. At the same time it was absolutely necessary that Provincial distinction and to legal procedure should be kept in view. It may safely be affirmed that public opinion will go heartily with the appointments, should those above suggested be ultimately approved by His Excellency. No judge has ever more thoroughly commanded the respect of the community than Chief Justice Richards His legal acumen, shrewd common sense, and liberal turn of mind have marked him out as eminently worthy of the high honour to which by report he is designated.

The satisfaction generally expressed at the appointment of Mr Justice Strong to the position of Senior Judge of the Ontario Court of Error and Appeal foreshadowed the sentiments with which his further promotion will be regarded.

Mr. Fournier, the late Minister of Justice, is a man of sterling ability, and entitled to a seat on the Supreme Bench by his position at the Quebec Bar.

Mr. Justice Taschereau is a judge of experience and eminent ability, and, conjointly with Mr. Fournier, will give the Lower Province a most efficient representation in the new Court.

Chief Justice Ritchie's claims, established by his ripe experience on the Bench of the Province of New Brunswisk, will not be disputed.

Mr. Henry stands at the head of his profession in Nova Scotia, of which Province he has twice been Attorney General. He was formerly actively engaged in public life, but being defeated as a Union candidate in 1876, has not since appeared in the political arena.

The appointments, if they are carried out, will create vacancies in the Court of Error and Appeal for Ontario and in the Ontario Court of Queen's Bench. Whilst the two systems of Common Law and Equity are being gradually brought more and more into harmony with each other, and appeals lie from both to the Appel late Court, the Equity branch has, so far, had only one representative in that Court. This fact will, no doubt, affect the selection of Mr. Justice Strong's successor. It is understood that Mr. Thomas Moss, who, in the absence of Mr. Blake, stands at the head of the Equity Bar, has been strongly pressed, as a matter of public duty, to accept the vacant judgeship, and that it is more than probable he will return an affirmative answer.

The amount of business which has, for various reasons, accumulated in the Court of Queen's Bench, as well as other considerations, made it necessary that its Chief should be a man of eminence in his profession, and in the full vigour of life. The Government, it is said, have sought to meet these requirements by the appointment of Mr. R. A. Harrison, Q. C., who, although not a political supporter of the present Administration, has the higher qualification of being unquestionably the leading barrister in active practice at the Ontario Common Law Bar.

In New Brunswick it is not, we think, improbable that Chief Justice Ritchie will be succeeded by Judge Allan in the Chief Justiceship, and that Mr. Duff, Q.C., will take the Puisne Judgeship. The only political vacancies created by these arrangements, if carried out, will be the Postmaster-Generalship in the Cabinet, and the seats in the House of Commons, held respectively by Mr. Moss, for West Toronto, and Mr. Fournier, for Bellechase

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION—GOLD MEDALS.

The Council of the Agricultural Association yesterday by an unanimous vote awarded gold medals to "the Dominion of Canada Plumbago Company, (limited)" and to "the Ottawa Iron and Steel Company" for the magnificent display made by them of their respective minerals and the manufactured product thereof at the Exhibition.

The two companies mentioned richly deserve the honour conferred, which honour is all the greater from the fact that these are the first medals ever awarded by the Association. We most cordially congratulate both companies on the success achieved.

The award was a special one, the interests involved in the development of our vast mineral resources, in the opinion of the Council, warranting that body in suspending its ordinary rules.

or

The Tale of the Dominion, Commencing 70 Years Back.

Immediately previous to the vote being taken in the Assembly, on this question, the Honorable George Moffatt, one of the representatives in the Assembly for Montreal, rose and in an able manner he believed that the removal of the seat of government from Kingston to Montreal would operate against the well working of the Act of Union an opinion which he fancied was different from that entertained by the majority of those whose opinions he was supposed to represent and whose interests it was in Parliament his business to advocate; and on the occasion of the Governor's message being a second time during the same session brought up for discussion in the Council a very animated debate ensued regarding the propriety of the House, after having decided in a particular way early in the session, being compelled to decide otherwise before the session was brought to a close. The Hon. Wm. Morris considered it insulting to the dignity of the Council to be forced to contradict itself; but the government was utterly without shame. Rebels had been appointed to office; wanton attempts had been made to break down all the institutions of the country; Ministers were running riot in useless extravagance, and confusing the country with experimental legislation; the assessment laws were all to be changed, and the taxes increased, while the people of Upper Canada were severely taxed, Lower Canadians were not taxed to the extent of one farthing. No honest man could lend his aid to such a government and none but such a government could have proposed a violation of the rules of the Legislative Council. Mr. Caron was in favor of the address being a second time entertained, and was followed in the same strain by one or two other gentlemen of French Canadian origin; when Mr DeBlaquiere rose and begged in allusion to the mace that that bauble might be taken away, as the House had no longer a character to sustain. Mr Marsue contended that the former proceedings of the House were partisan, irregular and discourteous, and several other gentlemen had followed each other to the like affect, when Mr. Draper in an able speech recommended that the message should not be again considered and a new address adopted, but that the seat of government question should be left for the decision of the Queen. The House having divided on the amendment there were 13 yeas and 18 nays, and the Speaker was about to put the original motion, "Shall the address be read?" when Mr. Morris begged to be informed if Mr. Speaker had decided that a matter once decided by the Legislative Council could be brought up again during the same session for discussion, and being answered in the affirmative, "then sir," said he, "I retire," and taking up his hat bowed to the chair and withdrew, followed by the twelve other dissentients. This unexpected and ridiculous movement created a momentary sensation and nothing more

The new Speaker of the Legislative Council of Canada was by birth a French Canadian and an advocate by profession. On one score or on the other he had not much to boast of. The serious practice of his profession he had early abandoned for a political career, differing very materially from that of Louis Joseph Papineau.

Whatever else Mr. Caron may have been, he was not and never had been a patriot, and had not the most remote idea of ever being a martyr to politics or anything else. He would have been, if possible, a Lord Chesterfield; he could not have been a Lord Brougham. Not in the purest acceptation of the term a Tory, he was certainly not in any sense a Democrat. Politics were to be and ever had been with him a source of profit and amusement. Not an Englishman by birth, he was no Englishman in feeling, but nevertheless he courted the society of Englishmen of good standing in Canada and was proud to accept an invitation to dine at a regimental mess room. If the bluff manners of even well educated Englishmen did not exactly harmonize with the bland and winsome nature of the new Speaker, the sack, and port, and roast beef of an Englishman's dinner table were not disrelished by him. He did not therefore stand ill with the new English party in the Province, and he would not have been an unacceptable guest at the dinner tables of the Old Compact in Upper Canada. Besides, he was rather admired by the more respectable gentlemen, lay or clerical his own origin than honored or respected. If his countrymen did not respect him for his learning or for his politics, or even for himself, they were rather proud of the position which he held, of his carriage and pair, and of the style in which he lived. His elevation to the Speakership was meant to be and was a compliment to them. Personally Mr. Caron presented a rather respectable appearance. Polite, though neither learned nor eloquent, he resembled little any of the great orators, statesmen, or philosophers of a past or present age. He was less like Demosthenes, Cicero, Socrates, Burke, Pitt, Peel, Derby, or Disraeli, than he resembled Paganini. Possibly he could not have obtained the sweetest sounds and have produced the liviest sensation from a single string of cat-gut, but his gesticulations in the Senate Chamber and his salutations in the street would have done no discredit to the master of a band or leader of an orchestra. Nevertheless it is but justice to say that he played his part well, and has since attained a rather distinguished position. At the time, remarkable as he was for pliability the right man undoubtedly slipped into the right place.

For sometime afterwards the Ministry managed to conduct the business of the country apparently with satisfaction to themselves. The Inspector General, Mr. Hincks, succeeded in doing away with the double responsibility of holders of Bank stock; but although he had a majority of nine, the original bill was afterwards withdrawn. Messrs. Daly and Harrison were acquitted of blame in having accepted part of the marriage license money in the shape of fees, but the Governor General ordered the practice complained of to be discontinued. Robert F. Gourlay, the author of a history of Upper Canada, who during Sir Peregrine Maitland's administration of affairs in Upper Canada had been unjustly imprisoned for alleged treasonable practices, and now at Kingston anxious to relate his wrongs at the bar of the House of Assembly, was awarded a pension of £50 a year, which he indignantly refused. The Quebec Culler's Act was passed, and a compulsory assessment was contemplated and talked of by Mr. Mason as part of a Lower Canada School Bill.

A petition from the Bishop of Toronto against a proposed act to provide for the separate existence of the collegiate and university functions of King's College attracted much attention. A document of a more extraordinary character, more intolerant in sentiment, or couched in a worse style or temper, never before emanated from a bishop of the Church of England; a Church which may well be proud of the stand which her bishops have in all ages taken in regard to freedom of conscience and liberty of speech. The Bishop of Toronto had good reason for opposing the destruction of what he believed to have been a Church of England institution; but he had no reason for his declaration that the leading object of the Bill then before Parliament was to place all forms of error upon an equality with truth, by patronizing equally within the same institution, an unlimited number of sects, whose doctrines are absolutely irreconcilable—a principle in its nature atheistical, and so monstrous in its consequences, that if successfully carried out it would utterly destroy all that is pure and holy in morals and religion, and would lead to greater corruption than anything adopted during the madness of the French Revolution, when that unhappy country abjured the Christian faith and set up in its stead the worship of the Goddess of Reason; that the incorporation of certain other colleges and collegiate institutions of Upper Canada with King's College, Toronto, endowed and chartered by His Majesty King George the Fourth, as a university of the Church of England in Canada only, was such a departure from all that was good as to be without a parallel in the history of the world, unless indeed some resemblance to it could be found in Pagan Rome, which to please the nations she had conquered, condescended to associate their impure idolatries with her own. If the King, George the Fourth, had not himself the power of chartering or patronizing, by virtue of his coronation oath, which is certainly doubtful any other form of worship with in the University of Kings' College than that of the National Faith, the attempt of the Parliament of Canada to do so need not have been stigmatized by the Bishop of Toronto as an attempt insidiously and indirectly, but virtually and effectually to proscribe in a British Colony the Church of England and to degrade her ministers; nor was it necessary for him to say that the secularization of the University was an opening of the door to every species of error, the more especially as it had been rather late in life before he himself had seen the error of his ways. It was certainly not in the very best taste for the reverend prelate who had been a Presbyterian Minister, to assert that the education of Conformists and Nonconformists together in one institution, was decidedly irreligious and revolutionary since it not only attempted to hold up the Christian religion to the contempt of wicked men, although he might reasonably enough have said that the intended spoliation of the English Church established by royal charter might disturb social order by unsettling the property of the whole Province. There cannot be a doubt that the Parliamentary majority of that day aimed a deadly blow at the Bishop and at the church over which he so zealously and ably presided; but he needed not on that account have attacked sectarian error. He had a right to remind the Legislature of Canada that it was about to act with less regard to vested rights than did the State of New York towards the King's College of New York city, which after the revolution of 1783 remained possessed of its original endowment and only had its name changed from "Kings" to Columbia College. Nay he might reasonably have appealed to the fears and prejudices of the Lower Canada section of the House of Assembly by asserting that should so wicked a thing be consummated as the spoliation of an English Church University in Upper Canada, the Seminaries, Convents, and hospitals, of Lower Canada holding upwards of 2,125,179 acres of ground might afterwards on some pretence or other be deprived of their revenues and endowments; but he ought not to have accompanied even this reasoning with the threat of an appeal to his imperial Parliament should he not succeed with the Colonial authorities in arresting the progress of the fatal Bill.

The Bishop had penned the petition under some degree of excitement, and unfortunately for himself and King's College aroused the further enmity of the Clear Grit politicians. A simple appeal to their honour might have been more successful than attacks upon their errors. Yet His Lordship is not much to blame in placing little reliance upon honour where interest is concerned, seeing that it had been the practice in former ages for sects to rise upon the ruins of churches and that as there is "nothing new under the sun" the same thing might be again repeated. Fortunately although the Bishop of Toronto did not succeed in his wishes, with regard to King's College, the Church of England has not been destroyed in Canada but has, on the contrary, yearly gained strength. New dioceses have risen up, new churches built, and the Trinity College of Toronto and Bishop's College, Lennoxville, have been founded in opposition to the "Godless" principle by which King's College was made an open collegiate institution. Men zealous for religion have done for the Church of England what men zealous only for education or perhaps only for a general levelling of Protestant and even Catholic denominations, could neither have expected nor desired. The destruction of one University as regards the Church of England has been the creation of two Church of England Universities, while Presbyterians, Roman Catholics and Methodists having their own separate collegiate establishments, King's College is patronized only by the Parliament, Mr. George Brown, or Cleero Rose.

The superiority of these Extracts consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and acids which enter into the composition of many of the factitious fruit flavors now in the market. They are not only true to their names, but are prepared from fruits of the best quality, and are so highly concentrated that a comparatively small quantity only need be used.

BERKELEY, Sept., 1869.—Gentlemen, I feel it a duty I owe to you to express my gratitude for the great benefit I have derived by taking "Norton's Camomile Pills." I applied to your agent, Mr. Peal, Berkeley, for the above Pills, for which he kindly recommended, from which I suffered excruciating pain for a length of time, having tried nearly every remedy prescribed, but without any benefit at all. After taking two bottles of your valuable pills I was quite restored to my usual state of health. Please give this publicity—for the benefit of those who may be afflicted.—I am, Sir, your truly, HENRY ALLBAR. To the proprietors of "Norton's Camomile Pills."

PAIN KILLER.

After thirty-five years trial, it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Families of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual preparation for the extinction of pain. It is not only the best remedy ever known for Bruises, Burns and Scalds, but for Dysentery or Cholera, or any sort of Bowel complaint it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficiency, and rapidity of action. In the generality of cases of sore throat relief is almost instantaneous. It has become the standard medicine for all such complaints, as well as for Diarrhœa. Travellers should never be without it, as change of water frequently produces an attack of cholera. For Coughs and Colds, Croup, Asthma, and Rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be an inevitable medicine.

It is sold Universally and Extensively.

Local Intelligence.

CITY COUNCIL.—A special meeting of the City Council will be held to-night for the transaction of general business.

WELLINGTON WARD MARKET.—The new market building in Upper Town is being roofed, a work which will doubtless be accomplished ere winter sets in.

RUNNING OF TRAINS.—The trains on the two lines of railway leading to the city will resume their regular hours of running to-day, so that passengers had better consult the old time table.

KING STREET SEWER.—The contract for the proposed branch sewer on King street, between the main sewer and Rideau street, will be let this evening at the meeting of the City Council.

READ Mr. Bermingham's advertisement sale of household furniture, shop fixtures, drugs, &c., &c., to be sold by auction at Mr. Bishoprick's residence, Maria street, on Thursday next, at eleven o'clock.

CHIMNEY ON FIRE.—Last night about half past eight o'clock the fire alarm was sounded and the brigade turned out with their usual promptitude—and all for nothing! A chimney on fire in Letter O was the cause of the alarm.

LOOK OUT FOR Bermingham's great auction sale of 7½ octave New York pianos, black walnut and marble top, bedroom suites, parlour and drawing room suites, secretary book cases, cylinder desks and other furniture to be advertised in a day or two.

PROTESTANT HOSPITAL.—The visitors this week are—Directors: Messrs George Mortimer and Robert Cummings. Clergy—Revds. F. W. Farries and Collison. Ladies Committee: Miss Pollard and Miss Thorburn. Physician: Dr. P. A. McDougal.

LIBERAL GRANT.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Agricultural and Arts Association held on Saturday morning a resolution was adopted granting $3,500 towards the expenses incurred by Ottawa in fitting up the buildings and grounds for the Exhibition.

DOMINION METHODIST CHURCH.—It is stated that this Church realized about seven hundred dollars from the booth for supplying refreshments at the Exhibition, just closed. The amount is a handsome one, and adds materially to the building fund of the new church.

MORE POCKETBOOKS.—Three or four empty pocketbooks were found on Friday last at the west side of the By Ward Market square, doubtless the work of the sharpers that have infested the city during the Fair. This account too for the number of ladies who were during last week deprived of money on the market.

A CLAIMANT.—Mr. Edward Armstrong, Sheriff of Manitoba, and late Deputy Sheriff of the County of Carleton, an old resident of this city, is one of the claimants for a portion of the $5,000 reward offered by the Ontario Government for the apprehension of Louis Riel, the murderer of the late Thomas Scott at Fort Garry.

A PROFITABLE ENTERPRISE.—The ladies of the Ottawa West Wesleyan Church have realized two hundred dollars out of their late enterprise in Titus' block, of offering board and lodging to visitors to the recent Provincial Exhibition. The amount, although not large, will do something towards the completion of their new church edifice on Victoria Terrace.

ENTERED FOR THE CENTENNIAL.—The elegant set of harness which took the first prize the other day at the Exhibition have been entered for the Centennial next year at Philadelphia. They were manufactured in this city, and it is doubtful if their equal, both as regards workmanship and richness in mounting, can be found at the World's Exposition next summer.

ROBBERY.—A man named Archeault from North Gower, engaged a carter named Labelle, on Friday night last to drive him to a certain place, but the Jehu find ing his passenger the worse of liquor drove him out into the country to a quiet spot and rifled his pockets of some $25. Labelle was accompanied by a friend at the time who assisted in the dastardly act. The unfortunate man who endeavoured to resist the assault made upon him was severely beaten. Labelle has since been arrested.

A WAIF.—The young waif discovered by a policeman the other day on the steps of Mr. Brannigan, in Lower Town, was on Saturday claimed by its mother. She says it was left there with the hope that its father would look after it, but finding that the child fell into the hands of the police, she was again desirous of obtaining it. She was arraigned before the Police Magistrate on Saturday morning for child desertion, but evinced a desire to look after the infant, the Magistrate allowed her to go with the usual caution.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES.—An action for damages for the sum of $10,000 is being brought by the Hon. John O'Connor, Q C., on behalf of the widow and heirs of the late Joseph H. Cairns, of the Civil Service, against the Water Commissioners of this city. The charge is to the effect that the deceased lost his life through injuries sustained by falling into an unprotected water trench. It will be remembered that the widow, last year, sought redress from the Corporation, but she subsequently learned that the Water Commissioners alone were responsible in the matter; hence the action.

A VALUABLE HORSE KILLED.—A very fine horse, and one that has taken part in the present Autumn races, met with an accident on Saturday last in the Grand Steeple Chase that resulted in his having to be shot. The horse was named Frank Ross, and belonged to Mr. A. McNab, Police Magistrate, of Toronto. It would seem that the race, which was somewhat larger than usual, was a trying one, and the tremendous excitement that prevailed urged the jockeys to spur their horses beyond their powers of endurance, and as a consequence Frank Ross succumbed on one of the hurdles, breaking his right fore leg in such a frightful manner that Dr. Smith, V. S., of Toronto, recommended his being shot to end his agonies. The jockey, too, was severely injured. The horse won in some of the previous races, and his sudden death cast a gloom over the rest of the day's sport. At the time he fell he stood a fair chance of winning, being running a neck and neck race with Jack on the Green on the last round.

MILITARY FUNERAL.—Mr. Josiah Hinds, for several years a member of No. 4 Company of the Governor General's Foot Guards, died on Friday last in the Protestant Hospital, and was yesterday interred by his late comrades in arms with military honours in Beechwood Cemetery. The deceased was stricken down a few weeks ago with sun stroke, after which he was removed to the hospital. Since then a general breaking up of the constitution set in, brought on through intemperate habits, which culminated on Friday in the rupture of a blood vessel, from the effects of which he died in a few hours. Major White, Captain Weatherley, and the members of No. 4 Company, headed by the band of the regiment, were in attendance to pay the last tribute of respect to a deceased volunteer. The deceased was engaged in the manufacture of ginger ale with Mr. F. R. Davidson, druggist, of Sparks street, but perhaps will be better remembered from having taken a prominent part in the military amateur theatricals that prove so entertaining during the past two years. He leaves a widow and a young family to mourn his decease at the comparatively early age of 39 years.

Provincial Exhibition.

SATURDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The Exhibition Grounds on Saturday presented rather a different aspect to what they did on the previous days. Instead of the throngs of people busily engaged in inspecting the various articles shown, there was nought to be seen save work-men removing the same to the various railroad stations and other means of transmission from the city. The tearing down of the booths which had been erected by the persons who had purchased the privilege of selling refreshments was in active progress, and by the evening they were nearly dismantled. The Treasurer, Mr. Graham, was kept most busily employed in paying the premiums, and his was no sinecure, for on all sides he was pestered with all sorts of complaints from people who thought they ought to have received first prizes, instead of second or third. This appeared to be a pretty general opinion among exhibitors, but no attention could be paid to it, as "the decision of the judges could not be reversed," that axiom being impressed upon all grumblers, although there was literally nothing to see, there were several visitors to the grounds who seemed to take an interest in the operation of removal, more especially in the machinery department, the taking to pieces of the various apparatus seemed to attract considerable attention. By four o'clock there were but a few articles remaining, and the Thirtieth Provincial Exhibition was a thing of the past. The railway stations and wharves in the afternoon wore a very busy appearance; passengers and articles were being despatched East and West, and it would be almost impossible to calculate the numbers of the persons on the St. Lawrence and Ottawa depot platform at the time of the departure of the various trains, but they were of such magnitude as to warrant the belief that the coffers of the Company must have been very considerably benefitted by the holding of the Exhibition in Ottawa. The following is the prize list in the Horticultural department, which was one of the most interesting features of the whole affair. Ottawa was capitally represented, and the exhibitors from this District did well. The subjoined classes makes the list of premiums complete:—

Rheumatics! Read!
Hundreds of Rheumatics have been cured by the Sulphur Baths. Suffering is alleviated by the first, and cripples throw away their crutches after about half a dozen baths.

TESTIMONIALS.
Montreal, 25th July, 1876.
"I hereby certify that I entertain a very favorable opinion of the baths and Waters of the Caledonia Springs in many forms of disease, among which I would especially mention Rheumatism, the stomach of Gout, Neuralgia, some of the varieties of Cutaneous disease, Dyspepsia, Chronic Rash, and in general secondary cases, some of the diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder."
(Signed) GEO. W. CAMPBELL, A.M., M.D.
"Dean of the Medical Faculty, McGill College.
"Dr. Wm. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1859:—"But the disease above all in which the action of the water is most decided is Rheumatism. * * I have known a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the waters.

ACCOMMODATION.
A magnificent new hotel, capable to accommodating 400 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accommodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa river is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until the railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the conveyance of visitors to the Springs. The distances of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 60 and 50 miles.
Mr. W. CHAMPENEYS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horses, saddles, &c. There is a good race-course on the property of the Company.
The PARISIAN WATERS of these Springs will yet make Caledonia the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seek. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

A shocking tragedy, consisting of the triple crime of murder, suicide and arson, occurred at New Albany, Ind., on Saturday last—a man named Reuter having murdered his wife, cut his own throat, and then set fire to the building.

Railroad Anniversary.
LONDON, Sept. 27.—The 50th anniversary of the establishment of railroads began yesterday at Darlington, England; there were many thousand people in attendance, among them the Lord Mayor of London and the Lord Provosts of Edinburgh and Glasgow. The railroad companies subscribed £20,000 towards the expenses of the celebration.

Statue Unveiled.
At noon there was a grand procession, winding up by the inauguration of a bronze statue to Joseph Pease, by the sculptor Lawson, the casting weighing 3,000 pounds. The ceremony of the unveiling was performed by the Duke of Cleveland. In the afternoon there was a grand banquet, at which 700 guests participated. At the banquet a fine portrait of Joseph Pease, by the artist Macbeth, was unveiled. Congratulatory telegrams were sent during the progress of the banquet to all Railroad Kings on the European continent and in America, Egypt and India.

The Servian Army.
The Standard's special from Vienna says Belgrade papers report that a bureau has been established here, for forwarding false and warlike news. Only 6,000 men are under arms, and the militia assembles only once a week. The Skuptchina will soon adjourn.

The Consular Commissioners.
The Times of to-day has a despatch from Vienna, in which it is stated that those of the Consular Commissioners who returned to Mostar, say that they are convinced that, with few exceptions, the Insurgents are ready to lay their grievances before the Turkish Commissioners and negotiate, but they desire the suspension of hostilities, meanwhile, and consider it indispensable that Great Powers guarantee certain reforms, without which any pacification will be illusory. The consuls say that the districts which they traversed have been frightfully devastated; the population has been decimated by disease and suffering. Unless speedily helped, the country will be ruined for many years to come.

Destructive Storms.
Later advices announce that nine of the crew of the Allen Southard were drowned. The gale last night was very damaging, both at sea and on land. At this hour (3 p.m.) the weather continues boisterous, and telegraphic communication northward is still interrupted.

Bullion.
The amount of bullion withdrawn from the Bank of England on balance to-day was $69,000.

The Old Catholics.
LONDON, September 27.—The Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon has following:—Dean Susceinsky has joined the Old Catholics and married. The Old Catholics were thus obliged to decide the question in regard to priests marrying and decided it affirmatively. The Government has resolved to protect Dean Susceinsky in the possession of his temporalities.

The Eastern Insurrection.
The Turkish Government has sent a note to the Great Powers, disavowing any intention of attacking her Vassal States. The Northern Ambassadors have recommended the Porte not to pursue the Insurgents into Servia and Montenegro.

Corn Crop Report.
The Mark Lane Express of this evening has the following review of the corn market for the week ending September 11—"With abundant importations prompted by the unfavourable aspect in July, and generally successful gatherings, the course of prices have been further downward, say from one shilling to two shillings, and though we see no cause for immediate reaction, we think the reluctance of the farmers to sell, about with the firmness of foreign holders may check any further downward movement, so that, as winter approaches, prices may mend. France is following our doctrine. Paris has slowly conceded one franc on flour, with a slight decline in wheat, but the Provinces show little change, notwithstanding the present arrivals at Marseilles. The present depression is to be attributed to the immense foreign arrivals more than anything else; but we may expect a speedy falling off in the supplies, and some reaction in prices, because none of the export markets have been reduced in like proportion to England. In Belgium the decline has stopped. It is much the same in Holland, while some German market rates are higher, though St. Petersburg has shown some reaction, and as every quarter which has recently been placed in Germany will be needed, it is but reasonable to expect better prices will be paid as the season advances.
The general averages which represent business of a fortnight back are higher than last year by 1s 11d, but transactions at the present time will bring about rates to a level.

Marriage of Miss Helen Hamilton.
The Dublin Freeman's Journal, of the 6th inst., contained the following interesting marriage notice of the marriage of the Countess of Dufferin's sister, Miss Helen Hamilton:—
Killyleagh, (Co. Down), Saturday.—To-day this town was the scene of great festivity, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Helen Gwendolin Hamilton, second daughter of Mrs. Hamilton, Killyleagh Castle, and sister to the Countess of Dufferin, to Russell Maule Stevenson, Esq., son of the late H. Stevenson, Esq., formerly Ranger of Hyde Park, and Lady Mary Wilmot Horton. He is also nephew to the Earl of Albermarle. The marriage was solemnised in the Killyleagh Parish church by Rev. E. Moran, D.D., rector, assisted by Rev. Richard Ray, curate. Noon was the hour appointed for the ceremony, but long before that hour the edifice was crowded to excess by the leading inhabitants of the town and neighbourhood, and by members of some of the chief families of the country. As the carriages containing the bridal party drove from the Castle they were greeted with loud cheers by the enthusiastic crowds who lined the gaily decked streets. Prominent amongst the array of equipages was the splendid turn out of Major Hamilton, D. L., High Sheriff of the county. The corps of halberdiers, armed with their javelins, were stationed at the entrance to the church, enhancing greatly the appearance of the scene. An immense number of those in the church wore bridal favours. At twelve o'clock Major Hamilton entered, having on his arm the bride, whom he gave away. The bridesmaids were as follows:—Miss K. Hamilton, Miss Stevenson, Miss Sankey, Miss Crommelin, Miss K. Boyd, Miss F. Mulholland, Miss Baillie, and Miss Gordon. Immediately after the marriage ceremony a distinguished company met at breakfast in the Castle. The party, which numbered about sixty, embraced the following:—His Excellency the Earl of Dufferin, Governor General of Canada, and the Countess of Dufferin; Lord and Lady de Ros and the Hon. Miss de Ros, Viscount and Viscountess Bangor; John Mulholland, Esq., M.P.; Andrew Mulholland, Esq.; the Earl of Roden, Viscount Newry, the Hon. Mrs. Hamilton Ward, Captain Rowan Hamilton, Captain George Rowan Hamilton, J.P., Royal North Down Rifles, and Mrs. Hamilton; Captain Frederick Hamilton, A.D.C.; Major Baillie, D.L.; J. B. Houston, Esq., D.L., and Mrs. Houston; R.F. Gordon, Esq., D.L., Royal North Down Rifles; Captain H. P. Gordon, the Misses Gordon (3), Dawson Rowan Hamilton, Esq., John Martin, Esq., J.P.; James Alexander, Esq., J.P.; and Mrs. Alexander; Acheson Henderson, Esq., Q.C.; James Murland, Esq., J.P., and Mrs. Murland; Wm. Keown Boyd, Esq., D.L., and Mrs. Boyd, and the Misses Boyd; Lady Bangor, Major Nugent, Miss Nugent, Rev. Dr. Moeran, Rev. R. Roy and Mrs. Roy, Lieutenant E. Stevenson, Royal Artillery; the Misses Stevenson (2); Mrs. Sankey, Miss Sankey, Lt. Sankey, Mrs. Crommelin, the Misses Crommelin (3), A. Corry, Esq.; Mrs. Corry and Mrs. Gregg, Ardgiass Castle; R. Ancketell, Esq., J.P.; Miss Patterson; R. Dale, Esq., and Mrs. Dale, &c. The happy pair left at four o'clock for Clandeboye, the seat of his Excellency Earl of Dufferin, after which they go on a visit to Lady Mary Whitbread, at her residence in Bedfordshire. They afterwards leave for Canada, where they will be received at the capital by his Excellency the Governor-General and the Countess of Dufferin, who, it may be stated, take their departure from Ireland in the first week of October. A garden party, which was largely and fashionably attended, was afterward held at Killyleagh Castle. The band of the Royal North Down Rifles was in attendance during the day.

The George Washington Restaurant, York street is now open for guests and meals can be had at all hours. 3915 6w.

The Times.

OTTAWA, TUESDAY, SEPT. 28, 1875.

His Worship Mayor Kennedy, of Winnipeg, arrived in the city last night, and is staying at the Russell House. Mr. Kennedy has been delegated by the people of Winnipeg to press upon the Minister of Public Works the views of the people of that District on the subject of the Pembina branch of the Canada Pacific Railroad, and the much mooted question of crossing the river at Winnipeg.

RAILWAY NEGOTIATIONS.

The Quebec Government having entered into arrangements for the completion of the unfinished North Shore Railway from Quebec to Montreal within two years, negotiations are now, it is understood, going on between the Provincial Government and the Northern Colonization Railway Company in Montreal, having in view the completion of this latter line from Montreal to this city. A prominent idea in the negotiations is that of effecting, by crossing the Ottawa River above the Chaudiere Falls, a junction with the Canada Central Railway. This will be giving the Pacific and the Canada Central an outlet eastward by way of Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec. There had been some hopes of arrangements being made with the Ottawa and Coteau Landing Railway by which the completion of that line, and thereby a connection with the Grand Trunk, would be effected. But rumour now has it that the Grand Trunk cannot be approached with any hope of making their connexion available. We are greatly surprised, taking it for granted that rumour in this matter is correct, that the Grand Trunk should commit itself to such a short sighted policy. The natural course of traffic from this city eastward is by the route which the Coteau Landing road points out. While we should be very glad to have direct communication with Montreal, by either or all of the projected lines, that by Coteau must remain the favourite. It will be folly for the Grand Trunk to let a traffic pass to the North by another and a rival line that, by a very easy effort, could be made its own. In the meantime, we shall wish the best of fortune to the Railway Company that gives us first direct communication with Montreal and the Eastern system of railroads.

THE TORONTO OUTRAGE.

It must have been with a painful sensation that our readers perused the despatch from our Toronto correspondent which appeared in yesterday morning's issue, detailing a most cowardly and disgraceful attack by a band of rowdies upon a religious procession on Sunday afternoon. As is quite natural, the writer was evidently affected by the exciting nature of the incidents, and his report was exaggerated accordingly. But the simple facts, which are plain after every allowance has been made, are a disgrace to the country. There is no evidence that the processionists, who were pursuing what they believed to be a religious duty, offered any provocation, or that the attack upon them was other than wanton and malicious in the highest degree—a gross violation of law, and an infringement upon liberty of conscience and the freedom of the subject for which there is not the shadow of palliation. Processions of this nature may be, indeed they are, a somewhat novel sight on the streets of Toronto, but those whose fears of "the aggressions of Popery" are thereby aroused to unusual acuteness, and whose abhorrence of all that relates thereto is greatly intensified, ought to remember that they are not legally permitted to do other than to express their dissent. We will do all the respectable people the credit of excluding them from that company of roughs and desperadoes, who constitute themselves the defenders of religion, in order to indulge their brutish propensities, and insult the laws of God by defying the laws of the country. It makes no difference whether we refer to the attack upon the Guibord funeral procession—the work of fanatical roughs, inspired to their unlawful course by intoxicating drink—or the attack on the pilgrimage to the Roman Catholic Churches of Toronto. It is sincerely to be hoped that no Protestant clergyman will claim for the disturbers of the peace in Toronto what the Bishop of Montreal claimed for those who mobbed and prevented Guibord's funeral, —that is, that they were actuated by religious motives; and that those who attacked the Roman Catholic procession in the capital of Ontario will be punished with a promptitude and severity which have been conspicuous by their entire absence in the case of the rioters at the capital of Quebec. Circumstances of recent occurrence point to a necessity for stronger measures of repression in respect of breaches of the peace, and more commensurate punishment in cases where assaults upon the person are made, for the frequency with which these forms of crime are occurring, and the aggravating nature of the circumstances with which they are accompanied, may well be matter for serious public concern.

THE CARLIST INSURRECTION.

The accounts of the doings of Don Carlos in Spain, for upwards of two years, have occupied so much space at the hands of European correspondents, and monopolized such a large share of cable telegrams to the press of this country, that a word or two to his origin and history may not be out of place. This aggressive and somewhat enterprising pretender, the success of whose military operations seemed at one time to justify the assumption that he would at no distant day ascend the Spanish Throne, but whose star is now so completely on the wane, is the third of the same name who, within the last forty years, have set up similar pretensions, and have asserted their claims vi et armis. The first of these aspiring gentlemen was the second son of the imbecile and worthless Charles IV., under whose sovereignty flourished the notorious "Prince of Peace," whom the favour and licentiousness of the Queen had raised from a private in the Royal Guards to the first place of honour and trust in the State. The first attempt of Don Carlos to regain the Throne of his ancestors was in 1833, immediately after the revolution of 1831-3, which resulted in the expulsion of Queen Christina, and just at the time her infant daughter, Dona Isabella, a child only three years old, afterwards the infamous Isebella Secunda, who, in turn, was also expelled from the Throne, by the revolution of 1868, after a reign of thirty-five years, had been proclaimed Queen, under the regency of the late Marshall O'Donnell. The army of the Pretender took the field under the command of the renowned Zumalacarregui, whom the Duke of Wellington pronounced to be "one of the most surprising captains of any ages." For a time he astonished the world by the brilliancy of his success; but the claims of the Carlists being regarded with disfavour by the Great Powers, the Governments of England, Austria and Prussia connived at the enlistment of men in their dominions for the purpose of assisting the regency. As a consequence, a body of men, ten thousand strong, recruited principally in the British Isles, and designated the "Foreign Legion," proceeded to Spain. About this time the death of Zumalacarregui occurred. Wounded at the siege of Bilbao, in June, 1835, he died on the 23rd of that month, and, with the assistance of the foreigners, the Government troops, under Espartero, gained several important advantages over their enemies. From that time onward the course of the first Don Carlos rapidly declined till the close of the contest.

The second aspirant to the throne of Phillip II was the son of the preceding. He made several attempts to establish himself upon the throne; but not being well received by the people over whom he sought to place himself in authority, he renounced his right of succession in favour of his eldest son, Don Carlos, Duke of Madrid, the present Pretender, who was born in 1848, and is consequently now only in his 28th year. He was educated at the Military Academy of Vienna, and is said to possess a talent of no mean order in the exercise of his chosen profession. In 1870, he entered Spain, and attempted to gain the Throne, but was defeated by Marshal Serrano, and compelled to flee the country. Returning again, in 1872, he has succeeded up to the present time in maintaining himself in a more or less commanding situation, notwithstanding all the efforts of the Central Government to expel him. Upon his first advent twenty of the forty-nine Provinces of Spain revolted, for the purpose of favouring his pretensions; but, for the past year or so, his operations have been confined principally to the Provinces of the North. Since the inception of the insurrectionary movement, of which he is the leader and commander; he has achieved several important successes—at Lun, Orduna, Hendaye, Hernani, Huesca, Seo d'Urgel and Pampaluna—and had he possessed a sufficient degree of penetration after the great battle fought near the latter town, a few months ago, in which the veteran Concha, upwards of 70 years of age, Commander-in-Chief of the Spanish Army of the North, was killed, and his army completely routed and demoralised, he might have marched directly upon Madrid, and established himself in that position which he has coveted so much and shed so much human blood to attain. But with him as with many others, procrastination proved the thief of time, for he hesitated, and the grand opportunity was lost—lost, very probably, without hope of recurrence. His chief adherents are the people inhabiting the Basque Provinces—that tract of Northern Spain lying in the Pyrenees. They are a peculiar people in many respects. As soldiers they are brave even to recklessness; indeed it is related of them, at the time of the Roman invasion under Consul Metellus, conqueror of Syracuse and Carthage, in one town they killed and salted down their wives and children and ate them for food rather than submit to the hated invaders; and the army of Charlemagne, Emperor of the West, in the ninth century, was most signally defeated by these fierce warriors while endeavouring to force a passage through their country. As artizans they are honest, frugal, and industrious, although the standard of education among them is low. They are of an intensely religious turn of mind, and are devotedly attached to the Roman Catholic Church and its tenets, as well as to their country and its ancient institutions.

Don Carlos, though he said to have taken a course in languages, mathematics, and philosophy at the University of Munich, in Bavaria, is by no means a philosopher, but is, on the contrary, narrow and conservative in all his views, political, religious, and otherwise. Not unprone to superstitution, he is completely under the control of the Ultramontane party, and had he succeeded in establishing himself upon the Spanish Throne, his policy would undoubtedly have been of a reactionary character, for he has and professed to have no sympathy whatever with the spirit of the age. He believes, as the Stuarts did in their time; as do the Bourbons of the present (he is himself a member of that prolific and despotic family); and as that egotistical old tyrant who rules in Germany, and his arrogant Minister Bismarck, that rulers —be they emperors, kings, or princes—govern by divine right, and that the most unquestioning obedience to the Sovereign is the highest duty of the citizen. And Don Carlos inherits in a remarkable degree that failing of the Bourbons, so well described by one who knew them well, that they are incapable of learning or forgetting anything. He bases his claims to the Spanish Throne upon the ancient Salic Law, which excludes women from the succession. He holds, therefore, that the reign of Queen Christina and her daughter Isabella were usurpations; that his father and grandfather were wrongly excluded, and that now he has a right to rule to the exclusion of all others. It is almost surprising that Spain, amongst the many rulers and forms of government of which she has made a trial within the past few years, has not given Don Carlos an opportunity, among the rest, to try the effect his hand might have at the helm of the sorely tossed Ship of State. It is doubtful whether there was much to choose between him and Don Alphonse, but it may be well not to judge the latter rashly.

THE GUIBORD CASE.

To the Editor of the TIMES:

SIR,—I see, by the decision of the Bishop of Montreal, that the place where Guibord's remains are ordered by the judgment of the Privy Council to be buried, is to be unconsecrated and set off as a separate and accursed piece of ground. Now, Sir, if this burial-plot is to be unconsecrated the Queen's writ will not be carried out, because, as I understand it, it is specified substantially that Guibord's remains must be placed in consecrated ground. If I understand this matter aright, the remains of this deceased person are to be buried in the same lot in which lie those of his wife—buried, in fact, in the same grave. That being the case, it would not be doing justice to the remains of one who died in good standing in the Church that, because of another who died an odious death, being buried together with it, it should have its surroundings accursed. It cannot be understood, although M. Guibord's remains are in occupation of desecrated ground, that those of M. Guibord's wife and their surroundings will be in any way at all affected. In order that the good and the bad may thus lie together and yet not together, it is evident that an exceeding fineness of distinction must be made. The question at once suggests itself to what limits can the consecrating or the unconsecrating process be confined? Is it entirely operative and effective regardless of natural laws? The friends of M. Guibord, and of his wife, will be interested to know, whether their respective rights can be maintained under the circumstances. It may, too, be interesting, to the public, to know how after the law of the State has been carried out the law of the Church can also be satisfied. If the thing is possible, and the doing of it is a breach of no law, then why all this difficulty about the burial of Guibord? We live in an age of progress—an age distinguished by the propagation of knowledge; and since the organs of the church will keep pace with the age, no doubt, we shall yet be afforded some information upon the points raised in the above queries.

Yours, &c.,
CHAUDIERE.

LUKE TRAVERS.

OR

A Tale of the Dominion, Commencing 30 Years Back.

The compromising financial condition of the country at this period may be gathered from the facts that while the exports by the United States to the British North American colonies amounted to $4,045,644, the imports were only $18,480,234; and the diminution of the general revenue in one year was £90,000.

Public works were nevertheless prosecuted with vigor. £500,000 were appropriated towards the completion of the Welland Canal, the estimates amounting to £190,366 and the gross expenditure up to September, 1843, having been £129,562 12. Towards the construction of the St. Lawrence Canal £768,335. 11s. 2d more were appropriated. The estimates for work to be done between Prescott and Dickenson's Landing amounted to £168 124. 8s. 11d, of which £243, had been expended. On the Cornwall Canal, to the time of its being opened in 1843, £57,110 4s. 2d. had been expended, and the subsequent repairs had cost £510 13s. 9d. and a sum voted amounting to £3,000 to complete them. On the Beauharnois Canal, estimated to cost £247,527 18s. 4d, £68,856 13s. had been expended up to September, 1843. £65,000 were appropriated towards the deepening of Lake St. Peter, the estimated expense being £64,444 8s. 11d., and the expenditure having already been £18,503 14s. 2d. For the Burlington Bay Canal £50,000 were appropriated, the estimates being £38,510, and the expenditure already £4,124 8s 10d. The appropriations for the improvement of the Ottawa navigation amounted to £31,111 2s. 3d., and £24,244 1s. 4d. had been paid on contracts. For the Bay of Chaleurs road a sum of £16,666 13s.4d. was appropriated; £9,889.4s. having been expended on it; £11,111 2s 3d. was appropriated for the Gosford road, and £9,811.11s.1d. already expended; £37,777.15s.6d. was appropriated for the construction of bridges over the rivers on the north shore of the St. Lawrence between Quebec and Montreal, and £13,900 had been expended. The estimated cost of the Cascade's Road being £14,463, and the expenditure £6,056, a sum of £16,666.13s.4d. was appropriated; and for the improvement of the river Richelieu £23,333.6s.8d. was appropriated, while an expenditure had been made of £9,—.

The total amount appropriated by the 4th and 5th Victoria Act of the Parliament of Canada was $1,848,091 2s.2d.; the estimates for constructing works contemplated or in progress in Canada West and Canada East amounted to £1,761,720.1s.3d.; and the gross expenditure to the first September of the present year upon these works had been £455,684 14s. 6d, at a further cost for superintendence of 2½ per cent.

The Government began to perceive the necessity of looking sharply after the collectors of the revenue, and not without reason. At a salary of £600 a year and 20s. a day for travelling expenses, Mr. Malcolm Cameron was appointed a Commissioner to examine the books of every custom house in Western Ontario. In February, 1842, he first received his commission, and he most zealously set to work to ascertain the truth of certain allegations then made. He visited every port of entry, examined carefully at each port into the manner of keeping accounts, the mode in which business was transacted with individuals, ascertained the means adopted for the prevention of smuggling, and satisfied himself concerning balances of moneys in the hands of the collectors. The negligence, frauds and peculations astonished the Commissioner. Expecting to find "a good deal of that sort of thing," as he himself expressed it, he was quite unprepared to find the actual extent of rascality that had, unchecked, been practised.

Collectors paid by per centage had done their utmost illegally to increase that per centage; they increased or reduced duties at will; they received duties and granted permits, without causing any entry to be made in the public books; they inadvertently added the amount of such duties to the amount of their own salaries; while 50,000 chests of tea were consumed in the Province, only 18,000 had paid duty; and from the Cotean du Lac to Kingston, on the river Niagara from Niagara to Fort Erie and on the Detroit and St. Clair, from Amherstburg to Port Sarnia, nearly the whole quantity of tea, tobacco, leather, boots, shoes and whiskey required by the people of Western Canada had been smuggled into the Province, the collectors of customs being aiders and abettors. Only works in theology and law paid duty. A remedy for this state of affairs was necessary, and that proposed was a reduction in the scale of duties, so that neither collectors of customs nor the farming population of Upper Canada might have any great individual interest in cheating, the great cause of which was the many facilities for it and the pecuniary benefit which accrued from success. Another one was the dismissal from office of one or two of the collectors.

It was during this session of Parliament that a despatch was received from Lord Stanley, Secretary of State for the Colonies intimating that the letter postage between Canada and England had been reduced to 1 currency and that letters were to be charged postage by weight instead of as previously by the number of sheets of paper, a boon most gratefully received.

On the 16th of November the Royal sanction was given by Sir Charles Metcalfe to an Act for continuing the Provincial Parliament in case of demise of the Crown; to an Act to render the Judges of the Court of King's Bench in Lower Canada, independent of the Crown; to an Act for securing the Province against any unnecessary loss on the judicial sale of certain parts of the vacant estate of the late Hon. John Caldwell; to an Act to amend the Act incorporating the bank of Montreal by providing for the extension of the time limited for the paying up of the new stock of the said bank; to an Act to incorporate the ladies of the Protestant Orphan Asylum in Montreal; to an Act to incorporate the ladies of the Committee of Management of the Montreal Lying-in-Hospital; to an Act to impose certain duties on agricultural produce and live stock imported into this Province; and to an Act to authorise the Superior and Directors of the Seminary of Quebec, to acquire and hold a certain amount of property, in addition to that now held by them.

About this time no considerable stir had been made in Parliament, the result of a complaint to Lord Stanley, by Lord Sandon and Sir Howard Douglass, that the collectors of Montreal and Quebec had begun to charge the same duty upon bastard as upon refined sugar. The difference between loaf and lump and bastard, clayed and Muscovado sugars was largely entered into, the result being that a select committee of the House reported in favor of the extra penny that had been charged on bastard sugars being refunded to the importers, Messrs. Hincks and Harrison dissenting. The duty upon loaf and lump sugars was then one penny 2½ the pound weight, and on clay and Muscovado a half penny.

A new member, in the person of Dr. Pierre Beaubien, now sat in Parliament as one of the representatives for Montreal in the place of Mr. Moffatt, who had for reasons, already stated, relinquished that honour. He had scarcely, however, been comfortably seated when Parliament and the country were staggered with the information that an "antagonism" existed between His Excellency the Governor General and his advisors on the subject of appointments to Crown offices. Sir Charles Metcalfe entertained the opinion that as the representative of the Crown he had the right to name the servants of the Crown, to continue in office such as already held it, and did their duty honestly and faithfully, and to dismiss the worthless and incompetent, without any reference whatever to the wishes of those who were responsible to the Crown for his State policy. From this doctrine the Ministry dissented. They insisted upon the right of nomination. In their opinion the conduct of public affairs for which they were responsible was more or less influenced by the political character of those who occupied public situations. Government was for a party, by a party, and through a party a system of alternate majorities. The Governor had or ought to have no real power, but might indirectly influence his dictators, who held office during the pleasure of Parliament, by communicating to them the wishes of the Imperial Government.

For some time, indeed, Messrs. Baldwin and Lafontaine endeavored to convince the Governor General that he did not so fully comprehend the meaning of responsible government as they did,—which His Excellency very frankly, if not ironically, admitted. But Sir Charles could have no desire to quarrel with men, who had a large parliamentary, and therefore working majority at their back, although he resolved to exercise some shadow of independence and to make appointments to non political situations. If it was not allowed to him to name a clerk for the Inspector General, he fancied that the power of appointing a tide waiter might be exercised without the consent or knowledge of Mr. Hincks, and he did as he believed he might do, by appointing to his personal staff a French Canadian officer, and one, too, who who was personally distasteful to one of the sternest of his advisers, Mr. Lafontaine. And he had done enough to ruffle the temper and weaken the judgment of men who under a previous Governor had been suffered to have their own way. With the exception of Mr. Daly all the Ministers resigned; a result that might possibly not have happened had these gentlemen entertained the slightest idea that their resignations would have been accepted. They had suffered themselves to be deluded by an idea that the Governor was too simple to be wise, too gentle to be resolute, and that the obnoxious appointment would be cancelled and themselves recalled. The Governor, however, accepted their resignations with great courtesy, inviting his antagonists to dinner in the evening, an invitation duly honoured. On the evening of the 25th of November Mr. Hincks, who on the morning of that day, being Inspector General, had ordered a service of plate, was unable to eat. A thought flashed across his acute mind that the step taken had been ill-advised, and he would have given worlds that it had not happened. How to pay for the plate became a question, and he could not refrain from telling some of his late colleagues with less ability and more cash the nature and cause of his trouble. Indeed this Reform Administration which had lasted fourteen months and ten days, taken as a whole, drank wine that evening without experiencing much of its ordinary enlivening effects. It was not until two days afterwards that Mr. Lafontaine, in terms altogether unexceptionable, announced in the House the fact of the resignation, and promised an explanation at as early a day as he and his colleagues could render it; and it was two days later when Mr. Baldwin proceeded to give it in a speech of considerable length and ability, but without stating any special fact out of which the resignation had arisen. He sought to to prove a general difference of views as to responsible government between the Governor General and himself and colleagues, a difference of views which had for some time led to certain practical embarrassments in the conduct of the Government, but of the existence of which they, the ex Ministers, had but lately become quite aware. Mr. Daly then rose to his feet and, on the part of the Governor General, read two documents, the one a note from Mr. Lafontaine to the Governor General, identical, in substance, with Mr. Baldwin's speech, and the other the Governor General's reply to Mr. Lafontaine, detailing the facts of the resignation and protesting in strong terms against the explanations which the Governor General understood the ex Councillors were about to give, as misstating the whole affair, and especially misrepresenting His Excellency's views.

HORSES SAVED.—The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half as successful, or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horse's life. WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have with stood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P.Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and since then had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. R. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throat, &c., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Ruzan, Township Percy, writes: "I was persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit." A. Mr. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes: "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr. Maybee, of this place, induced me to try Electric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine."

Sold by all medicine dealers, price 25 cents.

The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. DIVISION COURT.—The regular monthly meeting of this Court began yesterday at noon, before His Honour Judge Lyon. A large amount of business has to be transacted, it having accumulated during the recent vacation.

THE MARKET.—There was but a poor market yesterday, the dull, chilly weather, with the threatening of rain, having a depressing effect upon the state of affairs. Prices for what few articles of garden produce made their appearance were unaltered.

THE NEW POST OFFICE.—The tower on the new Post Office and Custom House has been decorated with a lofty flagstaff, which has given the edifice a somewhat more ornamental appearance than it before presented. Matters round the building portend an early completion of the work.

"JOHN BULLFROG" has been secured by the Chaudiere Division of T. to lecture in Gowan's Hall on the evening of 11th October. Tickets may be obtained from Smith & Stewart, Sparks street; J. H. Langford, Wellington street; J. G. Howe, Richmond Road, and from members of the Division. J. K. STEWART, Sec. Com. 3955d3

Now is the time for parties desiring Fruit, Ornamental Shrubs and Trees from the celebrated Cold Climate Nurseries of Auguste Dupuis, P. Village des Aulnaies, P.Q., should at once leave their orders with the undersigned, from whom catalogues can be obtained. Jos. E. Lemieux, No. 4 Ottawa street, Lower Town.

AN EXODUS.—Yesterday saw the departure of several sporting men for the Ogdensburgh Races, which commence to-day, and some of the betting fraternity went away with pretty well lined pockets, much to the sorrow of those who remained behind. The sport is expected to be good, as several first-class horses have been entered for the event.

SELBY LEE will not, nor cannot, sell boots and shoes at cost, but will sell ten per cent. cheaper than any other shop in the city. 3940e8

A RELIC OF THE FAIR.—The last city remnant of the late Exhibition, visible this morning, was a sort of "merry go round," near the Major's Hill. The rain coming on did not tend to increase the funds in its proprietor's pockets, and he wandered round with a "sad, sad eye," but no person noticing him, he shut up his shop for the day, about one o'clock.

THE STREET CAR ACCIDENT.—Yesterday, about noon, one of the street cars ran off the track, on Sparks street, and, in the effort made to get it back to its proper position, one of the wheels became disconnected from the axle, and let the machine down on to the road in no gentle manner. There being no possibility of immediately putting it in running order, it remained as an obstruction there throughout the whole afternoon.

GENDREAU'S shaving and haircutting saloon, No 3 Rajotte's Block, Wellington street. Adele M. Gendreau, proprietor. 3925 tf

MORE LIGHT WANTED.—The great traffic over the Rideau Bridge, at the East End of the city, has rendered the putting of a light in that locality absolutely necessary. Of late, a number of serious collisions have taken place, and nearly occasioned fatal accidents. The gas does not extend that distance, but a good coal oil light would be better than none at all. This should receive the immediate attention of the Board of Works.

BASKERVILLE & BROTHERS are exhibiting and disposing of the choicest teas, coffees, wines, liquors and a general assortment of groceries and refreshments suitable for those attending the Exhibition. Those desiring to take home supplies with them will do well to purchase from them. Also fish, salt, bacon, cheese and hams sold low or cash. 3950t2

THE FIRE EXTINGUISHER mentioned in the prize list, published in Saturday's paper, exhibited by Messrs. Murphy and Hearle, and which took the 1st prize, is not a Chemical Fire Extinguisher, but a Pnumatic Fire Extinguisher, its motive power being compressed air only. This machine is as effective as the chemical machine, is exceedingly simple in construction, and is sold at one half the price. It is a Canadian invention. Mr. J. Duncan, at W. W. Somerville's, Rideau street, is the Agent at Ottawa.

Now is the time for parties desiring Fruit, Ornamental Shrubs and Trees from the celebrated Cold Climate Nurseries of Auguste Dupuis, E. Village des Aulnaies, P.Q., should at once leave their orders with the undersigned, from whom catalogues can be obtained. Jos. E. Lemieux, No. 4, Ottawa street, Lower Town.

THE GUARDS' BAND.—The members of the Guards' Band will give a grand concert and social in the Rink, Music Hall, to-morrow evening. The entertainment will consist of selections from Irish and Scotch melodies, and it is to be hoped that the Rink will be well patronised on this occasion. The concert will commence at 7:30 and dancing at 8:30 p.m. Marrier's splendid Quadrille Band will be in attendance. Tickets may be obtained at the door on Wednesday.

THE PROTESTANT HOSPITAL.—The Protestant Hospital is at present more than usually free from cases of a contagious nature, there being but one person suffering from typhoid fever in the institution. The patient who has been so wonderously abstaining from food for some months past, has commenced to partake of nourishment, and yesterday told those who visited her that she felt much better. There are hopes now of her ultimate recovery to her former state of strength. Small-pox has entirely disappeared, and the residents of Sandy Hill are correspondingly jubilant thereat.

CITY COUNCIL.

Important Meeting — City Hall Contract—The Chaudiere Bridges—Street Improvements—Main Sewer.

A special meeting of the City Council was held last night for general business; His Worship the Mayor in the chair. Present, Alds. Bangs, Pratt, Heney, Robertson, Waller, McDougal, O'Connor, Rocque, Bronson, Chabot, Birkett, David, Christie, and Rowe.

PETITIONS, &c.

A petition from H. Merrill and others for a drain at the Chaudiere. Referred to the Board of Works.

A petition from John Brown and others for a connection with main sewer on Cumberland street. Referred to the City Engineer and Board of Works.

THE CITY HALL CONTRACT.

A petition was read from P. Cassidy, contractor for the new City Hall, praying for remuneration for extra masonry done by him in the foundation in excess of depth shown on section plans. He also asked for remuneration for a stone procured on the order of the architects and His Worship the Mayor, for the corner-stone, it having been brought from a great distance, owing to a suitable stone not being available around the city. Referred to the Architect and Board of Works.

THE CHAUDIERE BRIDGES.

A letter was read from the Public Works Department relative to the plans of the new bridges at the Chaudiere. It stated that the Government would not interfere in the matter beyond paying two-thirds of the cost of a structure, not to exceed $30,000.

Ald. BRONSON desired to know if the Board of Works were ready to prosecute this work.

Ald. HENEY said the delay was occasioned by awaiting the reply of the Government. They would a report at the next meeting of the Council.

Ald. ROCQUE said the Board of Works were desirous of doing their best in the matter. A plan should be decided upon and the Government solicited to pay the two thirds of the cost.

After some further discussion the matter was referred to the Board of Works.

Ald. WALLER moved and that the report be received and printed in the minutes.

Ald. BRONSON moved in amendment that the City Engineer be instructed to undertake no further new works, in any Ward, until some further appropriation is made, as the recent grant has been exhausted.

Ald. ROCQUE moved an amendment to the amendment, that as there are some works in an unfinished state, that an additional appropriation of $3,000 for Wellington Ward, and $2,000 for each of the other Wards be granted.

The last amendment was ruled out of order.

Ald. ROCQUE then amended his resolution by suspending Rule 41.

Ald. WALLER contended that it was impossible to impose this amount without increasing the local rate. When the Debentures were being drawn up he desired $60,000 for Ward improvements, to extend it over a period of twenty years, but in this he was overruled, the sum of $45,000 being considered sufficient.

Ald. HENRY contended that the expenditure in these hard times would benefit the poor people. He thought it was our duty even if the rate was increased to keep some public works in progress.

Ald. MCDOUGAL thought it would be inadvisable to stop the works under present circumstances.

Ald. PRATT could not endorse any further appropriation, as the financial condition of the city was such that no further levy could be made for improvements this year.

Ald. WALLER said it would be unnecessary to discharge men, as work would be continued on the Major's Field and in other places for which sums of money were voted.

Ald. ROCQUE resented the insinuation of Ald. Waller that he was endeavouring to catch the Wellington Ward vote by giving them an extra sum of $1000.

Ald. CHRISTIE though the motion of Ald. Rocque feasible, and if the sum was taken from the surplus of $12,000 to the credit of Civic Debentures the work could be done.

Ald. BRONSON said the money raised for this purpose could be devoted to no other purpose.

The amendment to the amendment was defeated on a vote of 8 to 7.

The amendment was lost on division.

Ald. BANGS moved an amendment to expend $1,500 for unfinished work in Wellington Ward. Lost on division.

The original resolution was then carried on division by a vote of 7 to 6.

A NEW STREET LIGHT.

A letter was read from Mr. John D. Gould, of Boston, offering to light the streets of the city under the patent of Canada granted to Joseph Benson for a "Vapour Burner." The light is generated from Naptha. He offers to supply the burner and feed the same (exclusive of the posts) for one month to the extent of 50 or 1000 lights, and should the trial prove satisfactory, he will furnish the burner and fixtures without lantern for $6 each, or he will contract to erect the burner, supply naptha, lamp and everything complete for $20 per annum for each light, providing there are at least two lights. Referred to the Fire and Light Committee.

BOARD OF WORKS REPORT.

The Board of Works presented their Eighth Report. It submitted that due consideration was given to the petition of Thomas Holbrook and others, for the enlargement of the Main Sewer on Slater Street, and in connection therewith they submitted a report from the City Engineer, and recommend the following changes:—That the Main drain be enlarged to an area of about 11 feet from Station 78 in Mosgrove Street, across the canal to the West side of Elgin Street on Slater, a distance of 467 lineal yards, at an extra cost of $1,255 96-100; and that the City Engineer be authorized to have the proposed enlargement of the Main Sewer proceeded with, provided the extra cost will not exceed the sum of $4,275.96, as specified.

Ald. HENEY moved the adoption of the report of the Board of Works.

Ald. MCDOUGAL contended that the report was out of order, as it was not signed the two days necessary.

The report of the Engineer was next read relative to the proposed alterations in the size of the sewer.

Ald. WALLER took the ground that it was illegal for the Board of Works to allow the contractors to alter the sewer without the consent of the Council.

Ald. HENRY said he knew of no instructions having been given to the contractors to change the size of the sewer.

Ald. BANGS thought there were no positive instructions as to making the change, but thought the Board of Works approved of the change.

On motion of Ald. MCDOUGAL, the City Engineer was heard at the Council bar.

The CITY ENGINEER gave it as his opinion that the original size of the sewer was sufficient, but if the Council thought it necessary to authorize the change he would offer no objections. Mr. Booth, one of the contractors, entered shortly after the meeting of the Board of Works, and finding that they were of opinion that the enlargement should be made, proceeded with the work.

Ald. WALLER moved in amendment that the report of the City Engineer, recommending an enlargement of the main sewer from its mouth, on the west side of the Canal Basin to Station 83 on Slater street, be accepted, and that the contractors be informed of this action under the instructions of the City Solicitor.

After a lengthy and warm discussion the amendment was carried.

ENGINEER'S REPORT ON MAIN SEWER.

A report was read from the City Engineer, in connection with the report of the Board of Works, relative to the main sewer on Slater street. It showed that the contractors had commenced work on this section of the sewer a short time ago, and had built 300 lineal feet of the medium sized sewer, the excavation being five feet below the level of canal water. At the time the work seemed likely to progress favourably, a series of mishaps occured to hinder the work. A water main burst, the water from the Canal and various street drains ran into the sewer, and the steam pump was disabled, so that the completed portion of the drain was undermined and will have to be rebuilt. The contractors desire to throw the responsibility of these accidents upon the city, if a larger sized sewer were not adapted. The Engineer considers an 8 inch wall sufficient to withstand any pressure brought against it, provided time is allowed for it to harden, and access were given to carry off the water by connecting with the Lower Town sewer. The work was undertaken by the contractors at their own risk, his consent never being asked, so that he though any damages should be charged to themselves. No sewer newly built with cement would stand a pressure under similar circumstances, for one week should at least be allowed for it to harden, before subjecting it to any great rush of water. He suggested the following means of redress:—

1st. To refrain from building any of the sewer on the west side of the Canal until the main sewer was extended to this point from the east side.

2nd. If the size were increased 12 inches, he should have power to insist upon time for the sewer to harden, otherwise the contractors to be responsible for the risk which they run in building the sewer on the west side of the canal.

3rd. In regard to the suggestion that the route be changed to Maria street, he saw no great obstacle only the trouble in getting right of way across several private lots, he, however, was not prepared to give a definite opinion without making comparison profiles to compare the cost and depth of cuttings, &c.

The contractors contemplate abandoning the piece on the east side of Elgin street until the water is out of the Canal, and go on the west with the intention of building a twelve inch instead of an eight inch wall at the following extra cost:

466 lineal yards from station 78 to 92 of medium size drain at $8.05	$3,755 96
Extra sheeting under canal say	500 00
1000 lineal yards run from Elgin ty sally street at $8.00	8,000 00
	$12,255 96

This estimate does not presume rock to exist, but in the event of it commencing on Bank street the above would be reduced by $3,500

The Engineer concluded by offering the contractors prices less than those asked, and hoped the Corporation would take immediate steps to remove the present unsatisfactory condition of affairs.

ANOTHER BOARD OF WORKS REPORT.

The Board of Works submitted a 9th report. It submitted a report from the City Engineer relative to the work commenced by the contractors for the Main Sewer on Slater street, west of the Canal, and the damage done to the same, from which it would appear that the contractors are of opinion that the thickness of the run of the sewer west of the canal being but eight inches is not sufficient, and they recommend that the run be changed to 12 inches thick.

The City Engineer suggests with a view of prosecuting the works vigorously during the coming fall, and under the peculiar nature of the situation to change the run to 12 inches from the west of the Canal to Elgin street, provided they will do so at the extra rate of $3 60 per lineal yard for medium sewer 4 ft. 3 in. x 3ft. 4 in. or 300 lineal yards at $3 per yard for small sewer, 3 ft. 9 in. x 3 ft. to be built only in earth cutting exceeding 18 feet in depth, the quantity cannot be correctly determined, but estimate it not to exceed 300 yards at $900.

Your Board having carefully examined the situation of affairs beg to recommend the proposed change of run from 8 to 12 inches as suggested by the City Engineer, the cost not to exceed the sum of $1,780.

Ald. ROCQUE moved the adoption of the report and recommend the City Engineer to instruct the contractors to give effect to the improvements therein contained.

Ald. ROBERTSON took exception to the report as it did not lie on the table the necessary length of time.

Ald. WALLER moved an amendment to the effect that if the contractors proceed with the construction of the sewer on the west side of the canal they do so at their own risk and the reports as amended do pass.

The amendment was carried on division.

PAYMENT OF CHEQUES.

On motion of Ald. WALLER, the City Chamberlain was instructed to pay cheques of laborers, officials and firemen out of $22,000 placed to the credit of the city in the Quebec Bank, on account of $300,000 in debentures.

BY WARD MARKET.

Ald. BANGS moved a reconsideration of a resolution awarding the contract for the construction of a new building on the By Ward Market Square.

Ald. ROBERTSON contended that the notice for reconsideration should have been in writing.

The MAYOR held, according to the rule, that it was unnecessary.

Ald. BANGS then addressed the Council at some length, reiterating subjects that have been repeatedly referred to in previous debates.

Ald. PRATT followed in a similar strain, and talked against time.

Ald. BRONSON took up the refrain, but most of the Council becoming disgusted with this threadbare question, put on their hats and left the Chamber.

There being no quorum, His Worship the Mayor declared the Council adjourned.

A DIABOLICAL OUTRAGE.

An Attempt to Capsize a Train—$200 Reward Offered for the Apprehension of the Perpetrator.

On Monday, the 20th inst., some miscreants placed a quantity of old ties upon the track of the St. L. & O. R. R., near the crossing at Billings' Bridge. Fortunately, ere the approach of a train, the obstructions were discovered, and so an accident was averted. A short distance further on, a similar obstacle was discovered, but again a calamity was fortunately avoided. Mr. Thos. Reynolds, the Managing Director of the Road has offered a reward of $200 for the detection of the villain or villains, and it is to be hoped that the authorities will not spare a single effort to bring them to justice.

GOWAN'S OPERA HOUSE.

Mr. McDowell's Company at "Home."

Last night Mr. E. A. McDowell, to whose enterprise the public of Ottawa is indebted for the provision of late, of many elegant dramatic treats, by the aid of his company again produced one of T. W. Robertson's elegant comedies—that of "Home." Albeit, we do not look upon the work as one of the dramatist's best, still there is an amount of quietness and drollery, which cannot fail to enlist the sympathies and interest of all those who admire what is termed the "society" class of plays, where modern life and manners are portrayed as they at present exist, and men and women are expected to "hold the mirror up to nature," at once pointing out their foibles, showing up weaknesses, follies, and nonsensical notions in which those who look upon the stage as a school may learn many useful lessons. Dramatic authors such as the late Mr. Robertson, were indeed of a class who used their art, not simply as a means of earning their livelihood as playwrights, but having a nobler object in view, i.e., that of educating those who are strictly belonging to what is to the theatrical profession an almost outer world. Such we take Robertson to have been in his lifetime; and in his elegant comedy of "Home," presented at the Opera House last night he has conveyed his ideas in this respect, and no one could fail to admit that Mr. McDowell spared no pains to carry out the thoughts of the author of the play in every minute detail, both by the members of his Company and the stage appointments. Before saying more, it is not possible to refrain from mentioning the elegance of the latter, which were in the most perfect good taste. As to the acting, there is much to be said—pro et con. The leading roles were, of course, sustained by Miss Gertrude Kellogg, Mr. E. A. McDowell, Mr. Charles, Loveday, Mr. Felix Morris and other members of the Company. Mrs. Pinchback (Miss Gertrude Kellogg) was a really artistic representation of the wily, scheming woman of the world of the Becky Sharp genus, but withal there appeared to be, on the part of the lady, a tactile too much dependence upon the wonderful command she possesses over her facial muscles. Nevertheless her skill in that particular stood her in good stead. In her last scene with Alfred Davison (Mr. McDowell) that faculty combined with her splendidly modulated voice, made a most marked and favourable impression upon her audience. Mr. McDowell as Alfred Davison was good on the whole, but we have seen him to much better advantage. The scene with Dora, which was well played by Mrs. Fanny Stoddard, appeared to be somewhat laboured, and lacking his usual ease and finish. The coat he wore was of a most wonderful hue, and would look somewhat better were the material of a more sombre colour. The rest of his costume was in good taste at the commencement. Lucy Dorrison (Miss Fanny Reeves) was very prettily played, and Bertie Thompson, by Mr. J. A. Smith, was a tolerably good piece of acting. Mr. Dorrison (Mr. Charles Loveday) was excellently represented. This gentleman is a painstaking action, having a good appearance and an evident knowledge of his profession in all its details, he is a great acquisition to Mr. McDowell's company. Mr. Felix J. Morris sustained the character of Capt. Montraffe, and what there was to do in the somewhat unthankful part, he did well, but we neither liked the idea of the author or the rendering of it to the audience, inasmuch as it appears to be created for the purpose of obtaining a laugh from the audience, which it did not, last night—that is, to any extent. The same piece will be presented to-night, with the addition of the farce of "Jenny Lind," with songs, by Mrs. Stoddard, and the latter fact in itself ought to be sufficient to draw a large house.

One of the most pleasing features of last evening's entertainment was the performance of two concertina solos by Mr. Alfred Sedgwick, a celebrated English composer, and one who some few years ago visited the city with Madame Anna Bishop. The playing of Mr. Sedgwick was exquisite, and as he repeats it to-night, it will doubtless prove a great attraction.

Is again open
SULPHUR, SALINE and GAS.
The REJUVENATING WATERS so much sought for in years long past

Invalids! Attention!
Dyspepsia, Derangement of the Digestive Organs, Kidney Diseases of the Skin, Affections of the Liver and Urinary Organs are positively cured by using the water for a few weeks.

Rheumatics! Read!
Hundreds of Rheumatics have been cured by the Sulphur Baths. Suffering is alleviated by the first, and cripples throw away their crutches after about half-a-dozen baths.

TESTIMONIALS.
"Montreal, 30th July, 1876.
"I hereby certify that I entertain a very favorable opinion of the Baths and Waters of the Caledonia Springs in many forms of disease, among which I would especially mention chronic Rheumatism, the stigmina of Gout, the neuralgia, some of the varieties of Cutaneous disease, Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, and in carefully selected cases, some of the diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder.
(Signed) GEO. W. CAMPBELL, A. M., M.D.,
"Dean of the Medical Faculty, McGill College.
"The Hon. Robertson, of Montreal, wrote as follows, in 1859:—But the disease above all in which the action of the water is most perfect is Rheumatism. . . . I have seen a few individuals who suffered much from improper use of mercury who were restored to health by the use of the waters.

ACCOMMODATIONS.
A magnificent new hotel, capable to accommodating 300 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accomodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa River is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until the railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the conveyance of visitors to the Springs. The distance of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 68 and 50 miles.
Mr. W. CHAMPNESS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horses & saddles, &c. There is a good race-course on the property of the Company.
The PANOPEAN WATERS of these Springs will yet make Caledonia the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seekers. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the Springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

TELEGRAPHIC SUMMARY.

The Grand Jury, at Montreal, have failed to find true bills against those who took part in the disturbances at the Cote de Neiges Cemetery, on September 2.

The Carlists have been meeting with fresh and serious reverses in Catalonia, Spain.

The minority report of the address to Prince Milan, of Servia, demands the immediate declaration of war against Turkey.

Advices from Madrid report that serious dissensions have arisen among the Carlist chieftains, Dorregary, Mendiri and Costello, which Don Carlos has been unable to control.

Foreign advices represent Servia in a most pitiable condition, in consequence of oppression and taxation.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Money Market.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The Daily News to-day, in its financial article, has the following:—"The condition of the German Money Market has become most peculiar. Accounts from Berlin speak of the extraordinary lightness of the money there. The minimum in discount of the market has advanced to 5 per cent, or quite up to the bank rate of discount, and the withdrawal of the bullion from the Bank of Prussia has been on such a scale as to raise the expectation that the bank rate of discount is to be advanced. Germany is carrying through a great transformation in her money system, and this tightness is the price paid. In addition to substituting a uniform gold standard for varying silver standards which formerly existed, an alteration, which comes into operation on New Years Day next, and a uniform system of token money, the Government has simultaneously altered the whole of the currency, and the banking legislation is the foregoing changes, the pinch of which is now felt."

The Morning Standard to-day has a special telegram from Vienna containing the following:—Servia is in a pitiable condition; the next semi-annual taxes are to be collected a month earlier than usual, because the state coffers are empty. Great uneasiness prevails among the militia, because they are prevented two days weekly from tilling the fields. In some districts there have been tumults and rebellions. The demand of the Servian merchants for a respite for their bills causes bitterness here, the creditors being principally Austrians. Some papers demand the intervention of the Government. Servia replying to Turkey's complaint about Servia's invading Bosnia declares her inability to restrain her people any more than Austria, which has not prevented, at least, a thousand Croats from joining the Hersegovinians.

The Newmarket Races.

The race for the Great Eastern Railway Handicap at Newmarket to-day was won by Cornelius, and Slumber second. The betting before the race was 10 to 1 against the winner.

Dedication.

The Rev. Newman Hall, in the presence of a select company to-day, laid the crowning stone of the Lincoln Memorial Tower, adjoining the new Surrey Chapel. The tower is designated as a memorial for the abolition of slavery and bond of brotherhood between England and America.

FRANCE.

International Association.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—An association has been formed, in this city, entitled the "Franco-American Union," with Hon. E. B. Washburn, United States Minister; the Marquis de Noailles and M. Berthoide, as Honorary Presidents, the object of which is to build, during the Centennial, a monument on Long Island, to commemorate the 100th anniversary of American independence. Steps have already been taken to secure funds for its construction.

Forest Fires.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Advices received here announce that extensive fires were prevailing in the regency of Tunis, bordering on the Province of Lavalle. The flames had spread across the frontier of French territory; the latests accounts says that the fire was devastating the forests of Bemisalah, and that the village of Duvivier was threatened.

SERVIA.

Reply to Prince Milan's Speech.

BELGRADE, Sept. 28.—The address in answer to Prince Milan's speech, proposed by the minority of the Skuptschina, has not been published. It has been ascertained that it demanded the immediate declaration of war against Turkey; the reform of the bureaucratic abuses, and a wholesale dismissal of the officials, and absolute liberty of the press.

SPAIN.

Dissensions Among Carlists.

MADRID, Sept. 28.—There is a report that dissensions have occurred among the Carlist leaders, Dorregaray, Mendiri and Perula, which Don Carlos himself is unable to reconcile. The Carlist leader Gamendi has been defeated at Costello, in Catalonia.

ST. PAUL.

Extensive Failure.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 28.—The large lumbering firm of J. & G. Robson, of Winona, made an assignment to-day. Their liabilities amount to $135,000; assets, $330,000. The universal depression in the lumber trade is assigned as the cause of the failure.

FALL RIVER.

Operatives Returning to Work.

FALL RIVER, MASS., Sept. 28.—All remains quiet to-night, nearly all the mills running have increased the number of their operatives. It is understood that the Chase mills, having had numbers signifying their willingness to go to work to-morrow, they will open the doors, in the morning. Others will do the same if the operatives who have signed the contract go in. The spinners have sent delegates abroad, soliciting funds. The manufacturers declare that they are indifferent as to whether they start up or not, but will keep the mills open a few days, to give the operatives a chance to see whether they desire to resume work, but if they will not, they will continue to run with one-third force, which must entail much loss.

GALVESTON.

Details of the Recent Gale.

GALVESTON, TEXAS, Sept. 28.—The following additional particulars have been received from the mouth of the Brazos River: A number of persons are known to have lost their lives between the Peninsula and Bernardino. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Sergent, all of the Forester family, all of the Mitchells, Wm. McNeil's wife and three children, Mrs. Egart and two children, and seven of Stephen Winstead's family were lost. Samuel Useless' wife and two children, all of Davis' family, and one of the children of Wm. Austin were also lost. Judge Cox and his family spent the night of Thursday in the trees; old Mrs. Davis and one of the Winstead children were lost; one-half to two-thirds of the cattle and horses are drowned. Later information from Trinity River state that three schooners are high and dry in the fields, near the fork of Doubb and White's Bayous. In Trinity water has swept over a cave twelve feet above the bank of the river from the mouth to the Wallis'. The Isle House, containing nine negroes, was swept away, eight of whom were drowned. At Wallesville the following losses are reported:—Joseph Herring loses his dwelling, Mr. Van Protelles his store, wharf, &c., and a new stock of groceries, the post office was in his store, and all the mail matter went with the store; Mr. Woolen's dwelling, store and groceries are a total loss, also the residence of Frank Wallis. Jacob Sherman loses his dwelling, furniture and outhouses and wharf. Captain Orin loses everything. Every house in the town is more or less damaged. It will take years to rebuild the town. From the present feeling of the people, it is doubtful if many of them will rebuild. Mr. May, near Wallesville, lost 1,500 head of cattle and 150 horses; Mr Lawrence, who lives two miles above Wallesville, lost from 1,000 to 1,500 stock, among them forty horses. The repairs on the bridge at Richmond are completed, and trains run over. The Galveston, Harrisburg, and San Antonio road is now running.

TORONTO

Arrived—Conservative Candidates—The Severe Judgments in Election Cases—Fraudulent Bankrupts—Recovered—North Middlesex Election Case.

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—Thomas Kerr and David Wilson charged with fraudulent bankruptcy, were this morning committed for trial.

Most of the jewellery stolen from Wharin's store on King street west, on Saturday evening, has been recovered, and a man named Wm. H. Williams has been arrested as being the thief.

Chancellor Spragge gave judgment in the North Middlesex case this morning, dismissing the petition and ordering the petitioner to pay costs.

Colonel and Mrs. Gzowski arrived home from England to day.

The choice of the Conservative party for candidate to fill the expected vacancy in the Dominion House for West Toronto is said to lay between Messrs. M. Crombie and John B. Canavan.

It is reported that the leading representatives of both political parties have come to the conclusion that the recent terribly severe judgments delivered in the election cases, disqualifying candidates for acts which they did not at the time think to be a breach of the law, call for a special act pronouncing restoration to political rights, and it is understood that Mr. Mowat will introduce a bill with that object.

MONTREAL

Abbe Chabert—The Guibord Rioters—The Grand Jury find "No Bill"—True Bill against Warner—Insolvency Case—The Nichols Defalcation—Canadian Express Company Robbed of $1,000 Package—The Money and Stock Markets.

MONTREAL, Sept. 28.—Abbe Chabert was brought before the Police Magistrate this evening. The girl Beauchamp was examined as closely as the rules of evidence would allow, and from her testimony it would appear that the offence had been repeated on four different occasions since June last. She did not tell her parents until last week, because she was ashamed to.

In the Guibord case to-day, Mr. Doutre laid before the Grand Jury information against a number of individuals concerned in the Cemetery riot. The Grand Jury were occupied all this morning and part of the afternoon in deliberating upon what should be done in the matter. However, they finally decided to hear witnesses, and these were examined after three o'clock. Though it was understood the evidence was strong against certain cemetery employees, the jury, at 5 p.m., brought in a "no bill" for the fifteen of the persons accused. This action of the jurors excites comment. During their deliberations the jurors came into the court and asked for instructions as to certain depositions laid before them in reference to the riotous proceedings, and whether it was their duty to return a Bill upon these depositions. The Court informed the jury that if private persons had put depositions before them and they heard this testimony they must make a special presentment. It was their duty to watch that no guilty person was allowed to escape the laws, for this reason the Court had drawn the jury's attention to this matter in the charge in order that information might be obtained. No one doubts but that the jury acted conscientiously, but people think it erred in judgment. The criminal proceedings against the rioters are now of course ended.

The jury found a "true bill" against Warner, a well known broker, who moved in a high circle. The facts are that after the suspension of the Jacques Cartier Bank, Molleur, the President of the St. Jean Bank, brought in about $4,000 worth of Jacques Cartier Bank bills to Warner to sell for him at nothing less than 95 cents on the dollar. He, it appears, got a partial return, and was promised the balance next day. He alleges that this was never sent to him, and that a few days after Warner failed, and he could not get any satisfaction, consequently he took proceedings against Warner for unlawfully appropriating money.

John Berk's creditors have retained the services of eminent counsel, and intend, it is said, to institute proceedings against the estate of Blackwood and Berks. A professional man, whose name had been forged to a note, is taking criminal proceedings against Berks, so that if warrants sworn to by Fenwick, of St. Paul street, does not accomplish it, subsequent action may.

Mr. Simpson, cashier of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, went to New York to-day in connection with the Nichols defalcation, and may go South if required.

The Canadian Express Company has been robbed of a four or five thousand dollar package of money at St. Johns.

Even more stringency in the money matters to-day than usual. Banks holding on to every available means at their disposal. A further decline in Exchange on account of the near approach of the end of the month. Gold drafts are quoted easier from ¼ to half. Sterling exchange declined to $4.80.

Stocks at this morning's board were heavy, with more disposition to press sales. Quotations lower in nearly all lines, due to the stringency of the money markets. Merchant's quoted yesterday evening at 96, sold at 95 and 94½ for transfer in cash at 1st October, while further stock was offered at 94 cash. Commerce and Montreal also showed a decline.

Where Does it All Come From?

Pints and quarts of filthy catarrhal discharges! Where does it all come from? The mucous membrane which lines the chambers of the nose, and its little glands are diseased, so that they draw from the blood its liquid, and exposure to the air changes it into corruption. This lifeliquid is needed to build up the system, but it is extracted, and the system is weakened by the loss. To cure, gain flesh and strength, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which also acts directly upon these glands, correcting them, and apply Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, the only methods of reaching the upper cavities, where the discharge accumulates and comes from. The instrument and both medicines sold by druggists and dealers in medicines.

The George Washington Restaurant, York street is now open for guests and meals can be had at all hours. 3915 6w.

DR. PIERCE'S Pleasant Purgative Pellets are so compounded from concentrated principles, extracted from roots and herbs, as to combine in each small granule, scarcely larger than a mustard seed, as much cathartic power as is contained in any larger pills for sale in drug stores. They are not only pleasant to take, but their operation is easy—unattended with any griping pain. They operate without producing any constitutional disturbance. Unlike other cathartics, they do not render the bowels costive after operation, but, on the contrary, they establish a permanently healthy action. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. $500 Reward is offered by the proprietor to any one who will detect in these Pellets any calomel or other form of mercury, mineral poison, or injurious drug. They are sold by druggists.

The Times.

OTTAWA, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 29, 1875.

Sir A. T. Galt has arrived in the city, and is staying at the Russell House.

Mr C. J. Brydges, late manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, has arrived in the city.

The Hon. John Hillyard Cameron, and Mr. Parkin, of Quebec, are at present in the city and stopping at the Russell House.

The Hon. Messrs. Blake and Hunting ton returned to the city yesterday. Nearly all the Cabinet Ministers are now in town and busily engaged in their several Departments.

Mr. Duplessis, of the Intercolonial Railway Department, is now engaged at Rimouski in paying claims for compensation arising out of the construction of the railway at and near that place.

We understand that the Government have it in contemplation to abandon their works on the Ottawa River, known as the Des Chenes Slides. This action arises from the fact of the works in question being of private rather than public utility.

The contract for the building of the Commandant's House at Kingston has been awarded to Mr. John Cunningham. The contract for the construction of Lock gates for the Culbute Canal, has been awarded to Mr. John Stewart of this city.

We understand that the Government have at length came to a decision in the matter of the tender of Messrs. Denison, Belden & Co., for Section No. 1 of the Welland Canal. An order in Council has issued authorizing that their tender be passed over, and the work awarded to the next lowest, provided it be accepted at the figures of Denison, Belden & Co. The decision is a very just one, and one that, we have no doubt, will meet with general approbation.

MANITOBA MATTERS.

Mr. Kennedy, the Mayor of Winnipeg, had an interview with the Premier yesterday morning, with reference to the running of the Pembina branch of the Canada Pacific Railroad across the Red River at Winnipeg. The Hon. Mr. Mackenzie, after listening to the statements of Mr. Kennedy, replied in effect that he had examined the reports of the various engineers on the matter. It seemed by those that the line of the road would be lengthened about two miles by taking the west side of the river from Winnipeg north, and would entail an extra outlay of $30,000. He did not consider this a very serious objection, but he was of a different opinion regarding the construction of a bridge at a point near the city, which would be necessary, as the cost would be at least $250,000 In answer to the remarks of the Premier, Mr. Kennedy said the people of Winnipeg were willing to do their part in defraying the cost of the bridge, and if a sum were named by the Government as being likely to be required, no effort would be spared to raise it. The Premier said he would discuss the matter with his colleagues and communicate the result of their deliberations to Mr. Kennedy in the course of a day or two.

THE HERZEGOVINIAN INSURRECTION.

Upwards of twenty years have elapsed since the late Emperor Nicholas of Russia dubbed his Turkish neighbour the "sick man," suggesting at the same time, with a good deal of humane propriety, that the most sensible thing the physicians who attended him could do was to put an end to his miserable existence. The sickness with which the patient was then afflicted, as subsequent events have proved, although nigh unto death, was not fatal. A constitution as tough as a tinker's, with the skilful dosing and leechcraft of Doctors Britain, France and Sardinia, had a most wonderfully restorative effect, and it was generally believed that he had gotten a new lease of life. The cure cost his physicians a heavy price—millions of money, hundreds of thousands of precious human lives, populations draped in mourning, blasted households, lonely widows, fatherless children, childless parents. It was a terrible ransom for such a poor return. But the effects of the improvement in the condition of his Turkish Majesty were expected to be excellent in so far as the future peace of Europe was concerned, and the Allies were not without hope that he condition of his subjects would also be very materially altered for the better. He was like almost every unwashed sinner in the immediate and awful presence of dissolution, profuse of promises that his ways would be mended if only life were spared him; and, the request having been granted, he has carried the similitude out to the end—he has returned to his vomit like the dog, and to his wallowing in the mire like the sow that is washed. Indeed, the condition of Turkey is worse to-day than when the Russian Emperor proposed the coup de grace. The Allies destroyed Sebastopol and repressed Muscovite insolence in the Euxine, but they did not and could not put life and health into Turkey. The Crimean war may therefore be said, with all its waste of money and blood, to have been worse than useless, and at the present day every one of the objects for which it was undertaken and carried to a conclusion are non est. The Baltic restored to Russia, the Indian possessions of Great Britain menaced by the aggressive policy of the Czar in such a way as to daily threaten the peace of Europe, and Turkey weaker and more unworthy of sympathy than ever, it would really seem as if there was nothing upon which the Powers could be congratulated, and everything with which they might reproach themselves, in connection with the Crimean war. No race or creed within the bounds of Turkey is satisfied, and it has been a feature of her policy more marked than creditable that Christians, who shed their blood so freely on her behalf in 1854 and the two succeeding years, have not had the shadow of liberty accorded them, either of conscience or of person. She rules her people with the most galling oppression, suffers them to die of starvation without even an attempt to relieve their distress, and lets a little coterie of foreign speculators located in London regulate her finances for the overpowering reason that her own so-called statesmen have proved themselves perfectly incapable of the task. There has never been perfect peace within her borders, and never any attempt to institute such an order of things as would make the people either tranquil or moderately happy, were they ever so well disposed. Rebellion is chronic, the latest instance of revolt against authority being the Herzegovinian insurrection, the details of which from day to day occupy such a large proportion of the space allotted to Foreign despatches. Herzegovina is one of the European Provinces of Turkey, where the Christian element preponderates very greatly over the Mohammedan. It occupies geographically the country east of the Adriatic, is bounded on the north by Bosnia, on the east by Servia, on the south by Albania and Montenegro, and on the west by Dalmatia. Servia and Montenegro, like Roumania, possess a sort of semi-independence, having Sovereign Princes of their own, and Governments formed under the European model. The people of Herzegovina, like those of Servia and several adjoining Provinces, belong to the Sclavonic race. They are remarkable for their intense nationality, but in regard to religion they are much divided, and being grossly ignorant they are of course wildly fanatical. The entire population of the Province numbers about 290,000, of whom 180,000 belong to the Greek Church, 48,000 are Roman Catholics, and the remaining 62,000 Mohammedans. It will be seen that the Christians stand in the proportion of about four to one. Christians and Turks of course hate each other cordially, and even between the Greek and Roman Catholich Churches there is considerable animosity. It would be a credit to any ruler or system of government to be able to maintain concord and good will among elements so essentially antagonistic in their constitution; but with the Sultan it is a huge impossibility. There is no country which cannot bear witness by dear experience to the mischief which is wrought by religious differences and the jealousies of race, but when oppression by an incompetent government is added to the other causes of discontent, it is not surprising that civil war is the result. The accounts of the cause of the recent outbreak are varied, and not much to be depended upon. It would appear, however, that hostilities occurred in the first place over the pillage of a caravan which was conveying merchandize into the district of Nevesinje. The pillagers took refuge in Montenegro, the Prince of which procured them a pardon from Constantinople. They returned to their own country, and, viewing the clemency of the Sultan as an act of weakness, they refused to pay taxes, flew to arms, and soon had many followers. What progress has since been made it is somewhat difficult from the telegraphic accounts to say, but the impression is growing that the insurgents have a fair chance of success. An act of highway robbery originated the outbreak, but the rebels have aspirations beyond the pillaging of caravans. They seek the establishment of a Sclavonic empire, with Servia as the central state, and Belgrade as the capital. Prince Milan, of Servia has promised to observe a strict neutrality in the struggle, but he will find it easier to promise than to perform. A short run of Herzegovinian successes over the Moslem troops, and all European Turkey will be up in arms. Already Bosnia has joined the fray in earnest, and the contagion is beginning to spread to Servia. Let the Servian blood get fairly heated, and we shall see what will become of Prince Milan's neutrality.

THE FRENCH PRESS ON THE PREMIER OF CANADA.

The visit of Mr. Mackenzie to Great Britain has had some effect, which every true Canadian must regard with pride and satisfaction. Canada, at well as the personal history of the gentleman who in the meantime holds the leading position in her Government, has been brought before the public of the mother country with a prominence which has already been productive of much good. To Mr. Mackenzie himself the attention which he received at the hands of the public and the press at home must not have been a little flattering. But his remarkable career and wonderful talents have attracted notice in other quarters than his native country. So far as the honours which were paid to him, during his short visit are concerned, he was the first Canadian statesman who had been similarly honoured, which was a peculiar compliment to himself, and the inauguration of a new era in the history of his adopted country. From Great Britain this was but the beginning of a course which was a very necessity, although it had been tardily adopted, of treating colonists and colonial matters with that respect and deference which is their due—that is to say, if their continued good will and friendship were at all desirable. But Mr. Mackenzie has been the subject of attention in other countries, and by men on whose part there was nothing except the inherent worth of the person under notice to demand it. For example, this is what M. Paul de Cares, of the Paris Monde, says of him:—

"Of Scotch extraction, the Prime Minister of Canada, who left his native land a simple stone mason, scarcely thirty years ago, has raised himself gradually and noiselessly, by the sheer force of talent, to the distinguished political position he now fills. To-day the poor mechanic of the past is welcomed and feasted at the most aristocratic Court in Europe, while, for the proud nobles who surround him is the gilded saloons of St. James, the plebian taint of Mr. Mackenzie is disguised under the imprint of ability upon that Canadian statesman. Dry, nervous, of a stature very little over the average, modest in his manners and simple in his attire, without carelessness, the Prime Minister of the Dominion has nothing about him that smacks of parvenu. Notwithstanding his deep blue eye, well developed brow, and energetic mouth, the ensemble of his physiognomy lacks perhaps somewhat of that undefinable air of distinction commonly attributed to high birth, but on the other hand it bears the more to be appreciated stamp which talent and intelligent and sustained labour occasionally place upon the countenances of men of the most vulgar origin. Cool, methodical, correct, the speeches of the leader of the Canadian Cabinet, free from all attempt at literary effect, nevertheless habitually impress the hearer by the power of their reasoning. Better informed, possibly, than any of his contemporaries, upon the political past of Canada, a close and able logician, Mr. Mackenzie never advances anything that he does not consider himself fully in a position to prove. He was born in 1822 at Dunkeld, Scotland. Too poor to give him a classical education, his father had him apprenticed to a stone-cutting business. He was scarcely twenty years old, when he joined a small party of his fellow countrymen who had made up their minds to tempt fortune in America, and embarked in their company for Canada. His new surrounding were not slow in finding out and appreciating the worth of the future Minister, who each evening laid down his heavy mason's hammer to plunge into studies which the straightened circumstances of his youth had prevented him from even approaching. This perseverance, supplemented by a correct and solid judgment, soon earned for him a notoriety which augmented daily, and, in 1861, the electors of an Upper Canadian county honored him with the trust of representing their interests in the Parliament of Canada. The new member soon made his mark and was acknowledged to be one of the best debaters in the Legislative Assembly; so that in four years after entering the House, when a coalition ministry, including several of his political colleagues, was about to be formed, he was requested to accept a portfolio. He formally refused the offer, which he regarded as a covert attempt upon the independence of his views. This proof of disinterestedness contributed not a little subsequently to the political success of the Prime Minister, who is regarded by his friends as incorruptible. In the autumn of 1873, when the administration of Sir John A. Macdonald, another Scotchman of extraordinary talent, at the head of the political affairs of the country for the previous twenty years, had to retire in the face of a hostile Parliamentary majority, Mr. Mackenzie was called upon by the Governor General of Canada to form a new Cabinet. As it is not our intention to play the part of an officious panegyrist of the policy of the Canadian Premier, we must here conclude our review of his life and character. We think, however, that if thrown amid the political details of Colonial Constitutional Government in which personalities sometimes perform a most important role, Mr. Mackenzie has rebuffed certain parties, whose value we shall not attempt to discuss, there has been nothing in his past which should give room or colouring to certain attacks of which he has been made the object, and against which public men cannot always protect themselves. In a word, it is not to the Hon. Prime Minister of Canada that we desire to pay homage, but to Mr. Alexander Mackenzie, the stone mason of twenty years ago, who, by perseverance and hard study, has raised himself to the highest rung of the social ladder of his adopted country."

The new German greenbacks are called Reisenkaisenscheine. They are pronounced good.

LUKE TRAVERS.

OR

A Tale of the Dominion. Commencing 30 Years Back.

Mr. Lafontaine urged that he and his colleagues had taken office avowedly upon the principle of responsibility to the representatives of the people in Parliament, and with a full recognition on their parts of the resolutions, which had received the sanction of her Majesty's representative in the Province on the 3d of September, 1841. That the head of the Executive Government of the Province, being within the limits of his Government the representative of the Sovereign, is responsible to the Imperial authority alone, but that, nevertheless, the management of our local affairs can only be conducted by him, by and with the assistance, counsel and information of subordinate officers in the Province, and that in order to preserve between the different branches of the Provincial Parliament that harmony which is essential to the peace, welfare, and good government of the Province, the chief advisers of the representative of the Sovereign, constituting a Provincial Administration under him ought to be men possessed of the confidence of the representatives of the people, thus affording a guarantee that the well understood wishes and interests of the people, which our gracious Sovereign has declared shall be the rule of the Provincial Government, will on all occasions be faithfully represented and advocated; and he contended that the Governor-General had not and did not so interpret those resolutions. The difference of opinion between the Governor-General and the ex-Councillors, Mr. Lafontaine contended, was not simply theoretical, but practical, inasmuch as that difference of opinion had led not merely to appointments to office against their advice, but to appointments, and proposals to make appointments of which they were not, in any manner, informed, until all opportunity of offering advice respecting them had passed by, and it had further led to a determination on the part of His Excellency to reserve, for the expression of Her Majesty's pleasure thereon, a Bill, introduced into Parliament with His Excellency's consent, and without an opportunity having been afforded to the ex-Councillors to state the probability of such a reservation. Still worse, when the ex-Councillors humbly remonstrated with His Excellency, Sir Charles Metcalfe not only frankly explained the difference of opinion existing between him and them, but stated that from the time of his arrival in the Province he had observed an antagonism between him and them on the subject of responsible government. Nothing could be more unendurable than this. Besides, the want of cordiality and confidence had become a matter of public rumour; and public opinion not only extended it to acts, upon which there were apparent grounds for difference of opinion, but to measures involving political principles. Still more; His Excellency did not disguise his opinion that the affairs of the country would have been more satisfactorily managed by and through the Governor-General himself, without any necessity of concord amongst the members of the Executive Council, or obligation on their part to defend, or support in Parliament the acts of the Governor. They had no alternative but resignation.

Sir Charles Metcalfe in his note told a somewhat different story. He observed with regret in Mr. Lafontaine's explanation the omission of the circumstances which he regarded as the real grounds of the resignation. Mr. Lafontaine and Mr. Baldwin had acted upon the Governor at Government House, and, after some preliminary remarks, demanded that he should agree to make no appointment, and no offer of an appointment without previously taking the advice of the Council; that the lists of candidates should, in every instance, be laid before the Council; that they should recommend any others at discretion, and that the Governor General, in deciding after taking their advice should not make any appointment prejudicial to their influence, or, in other words, that the patronage of the Crown should be surrendered into their hands. The Governor General replied that he neither could nor would make any such stipulations; it would degrade the character of his office and be a violation of his duty so to surrender the prerogative of the Crown. He appealed to the number of appointments made by him on the recommendation of the Council, and to instances in which he had abstained from conferring appointments on their opponents, as furnishing proofs of the great consideration, which he had evinced towards the Council in the distribution of the patronage of the Crown; but he always had objected and still did object to the exclusive distribution of patronage with party views, and maintained the principle that in every instance, office ought to be given to the man best qualified to render efficient service to the State. He understood from Messrs Lafontaine and Baldwin that their continuance in office depended upon his compliance with their demands, and on the day following this interview, when the Council met he expected their resignation, as he could not recede from the resolution he had formed. Then, they made three or four distinct propositions to him not exactly in the same terms, but to the same effect, and on his uniformly replying to those propositions in the negative, his refusal was each time followed by "then we must resign," or words to that purport from one or more of the Council. The Governor General was quite astonished to find the resignations of the Council ascribed to an alleged difference of opinion on the theory of responsible government. The Governor General had his own opinion about the practicability of that form of government as applied to a colony, but protested against its being supposed that he was practically adverse to the working of a system, which had been established, which he had promised without devidition and to which it was fully his intention to adhere. He subscribed entirely to the resolution of 1841. No man was more satisfied that all Government exists solely for the benefit of the people; but he would not have it understood that the Council was to be supreme and the Governor a nullity. Respecting the reservation of Bills a Governor was bound to exercise an independent judgment. He had special instructions to reserve every Act of an unusual extraordinary character, such as that for the suppression of secret societies—an arbitrary and unwise measure and not calculated to effect the object it had in view. He had given his assent to the Bill being introduced into Parliament, because he had promised soon after his assumption of the Government, that he would sanction legislation on the subject as a substitute for executive measures, which he refused to adopt on account of their proscriptive character; although he deprecated the existence of societies which tended to foment religious and civil discord. The Bill had met with considerable opposition in its passage through both Houses, and he therefore felt justified in not suffering it to go into operation until Her Majesty's pleasure had been ascertained. He protested against being injured in the opinion of Parliament and people without just cause.

The reading of this protest naturally created considerable sensation in the House. Mr. Hincks rose to his feet and having stated that he laboured under no ordinary degree of embarrassment in consequence of Mr. Daly's statements, was about to comment upon them and the protest, when he was called to order and sat down.

The House, with a very proper sense of a parliamentary explanation, would not suffer further rejoinder.

Mr. Sullivan brought the matter on in the Upper House on the following day, and made many other assertions as to matters of fact than had been made by Messrs. Baldwin and Lafontaine.

Now all sorts of stories were in circulation; the Governor had his partizans, and the retired Ministers theirs. In parliament, in the tavern, in the streets, and in the newspapers, the merits of the antagonism, and the alleged facts in connection therewith were warmly discussed. It was asserted that the Governor General had no right to send a message to Parliament protesting against anything that had been or might be said there. Some seemed to thing it a breach of the privileges of Parliament; but there were others who took a more correct and more patriotic view of the matter, remembering that the Queen had acted similarly in 1839, when, on the Peel Ministry being formed, she appealed to Parliament against Sir Robert, the new Premier, who had advised Her Majesty to dismiss certain of the ladies of her household, and that too successfully. The ex-Ministers had committed a decided mistake in imputing to the Governor General motives for the course which he had pursued in disregarding their advice in the matter of appointments to place. Had they contented themselves with simply asserting the right of being consulted it is not impossible that they would have succeeded in maintaining their places; their misrepresentation of the Governor General enabled him to give his own version of the difficulty, to be heard, and to be sympathized with. The attempted to prove the doctrines of the Sovereign authority to be unconstitutional, and that therefore there should be none; and their latest grievance was that by appeal to the Parliament and people of the country Sir Charles Metcalfe had violated the Constitution. They were to accuse, and the accused was not be heard. The act of resignation was itself a mistake. A difference upon an abstract principle regarding the position, duties, and responsibilities was no reason for it. If public rumour intimated that Ministers were under the thumb of the Governor, and were compelled against their wills to do his bidding, and against the wishes of the people, Ministers should have waited for a vote of want of confidence in themselves on that account, armed with which they might successfully have appealed to the Governor General for redress, and that not being afforded, have resigned. They made the difficulty arising out of an abstract principle, a personal matter and suffered in consequence in public estimation, nothing, so much as their selfishness was admired, in all that they had done. They seemed to have desired power—only for themselves and their party—and not for the general benefit, while the Governor General battled for the latter. They wanted to extort a "pledge" from a constitutional ruler when in point of fact, a constitutional ruler is not accountable, according to the law of England, to any one. It is a fiction in constitutional law, that the Queen can do no wrong, and if the ex-Councillors aimed at making the representative of the Queen in this country equal within the bounds of his sovereignty to the Queen in respect of the Empire, they ought not to have attempted to asked to agree to do or not to do either this or that. It has been well remarked that the only sort of pledge a Queen can give is one made through her Ministers, and on their responsibility; not a pledge to them or any anyone else upon her own.

Some have flattered themselves that the sovereign authority as been relinquished in Canada since this occurrence, and that Governors General are scarcely fettered by instructions. There can be no greater mistake, for the more nearly a constitutional system is approached the more real, sub rosa power a ruler possesses; and it should be so. Were a Governor absolutely the tool of a Ministry there would be no such thing as justice. Minorities would ever be sufferers. Even were the Governor elected, it would be necessary that he should be above the control of those whom he might call to his counsels. When a Parliament finds fault with a Ministry it is virtually a censure upon the Governor, and that functionary must either modify his views, or the business of the country be suspended, which no constitutional ruler possessed of a spark of wisdom, could either desire or permit.

The Baldwin-Lafontaine Ministry seemed anxious duly to shirk responsibility; by being allowed to give advice, which could not be followed. "The Council," said Mr. Lafontaine, "were made liable to the accusation of assuming the tone and position of responsible advisers of the Government without, in fact, asserting the right of being consulted thereupon, ignorant as they were, of the fact that in any case Ministers are as responsible to Parliament for the acts of the Crown as for their own. In some editorial remarks on "The Origin, Composition, and Futarity of Political Parties in Canada," which appeared in the Journal de Quebec in 1851, Mr. Cauchon says:—"Sir Charles Metcalfe, for a long time accustomed to despotic government, and submitting very distastefully to the suggestions of a responsible Ministry, whilst he moreover lent an ear to the advice of irresponsible persons and intriguing men, such as Messrs. Wakefield and Higginson, made certain important appointments without consulting his responsible advisors, who were directly answerable to the people for those appointments. The Ministers protected and retired. Their conduct was approved of by nearly three-fourths of the Elective Chamber, which declared that the right of consultation was an attribute of the Ministry in Canada, as of the Ministry in England." It is very possible that the Hon. Joseph Cauchon is now aware how far the right of consultation extends. In England even the patronage of the army rested with Lord Wellington, while Sir Robert Peel, a Whig, held the office of Prime Minister, and Parliament sustained the Queen in her intention to retain in her her household such ladies as she chose. We suspect that in Canada now, "the government" as the Councillors are vulgarly called, have very little to do with militia appointments.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have with a good the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P.Q., writes, 'I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and since then had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. R. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc, and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throat, &c., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rusan, Township Percy, writes: "I was persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit." A. Mr. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes: "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr. Maybee, of this place, induced me to try Electric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine.

Sold by all medicine dealers, price 25 cents.

Its success has been so universal that the proprietor guarantees a cure to those who use it, according to the directions, or refund the money paid. Since it was first introduced, he has received many thousands of testimonials, proving the efficacy of the remedy in the worst cases. It is recommended for the cure of the awful diseases it is recommended for. The pile and Humor cure is entirely vegetable in its composition, and can be used with perfect safety in all cases. There is no danger of it driving the humor in, as it cures on the surface, and the patient's bodily health will improve rapidly under the influence of this treatment.

CHOICE AND BEAUTIFUL
WALL PAPER.
INCLUDING THOSE DEDICATED BY THE MANUFACTURER TO
Their Excellencies the Earl and Countess of Dufferin.

These Paperhangings are imported direct from the best Manufactoring Establishments in England, France and United States. Great care has been taken in their selection with regard to colour. The ground tones are soft and pleasing to the eye, especially those toned with silver mica; but above all, they are free from the mineral poisons that many of the tawdry-coloured Paperhangings of the day are surcharged with. The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. The Public are respectfully invited to examine his STOCK of WALL PAPER before purchasing elsewhere.

As the undersigned is going out of the Room Paper Business as soon as his present Stock is disposed of, the Goods will be Sold at the Lowest Remunerating Prices.

Local Intelligence.

ANNIVERSARY.—To-day is the anniversary of Michaelmas, which, in olden times, was an honoured festival.

NEW SIDEWALK.—A new sidewalk is being laid down, on the corner of George and Sussex streets, opposite Mr. Pinard's dry goods store.

THE HUNT CLUB.—The hounds of the Ottawa Hunt Club met this afternoon afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the "Kennel," on Theodore street.

NEW CAVALRY TROOP.—It is said that Major Butterfield, of the 18th Prescott Battalion, has taken the initiatory steps towards forming a cavalry troop in L'Orignal.

LEGAL APPOINTMENT.—Mr. R. Cassels, jr., of the legal firm of Walker, Cassells & Pennock, has been appointed to the position of Registrar of the Supreme Court, at a salary of $2,600 per annum.

A FALSE RUMOUR.—Some misinformed persons set a rumour afloat that Mr. W. P. Lett, our respected City Clerk, was seriously indisposed. Such is not the case; he never was better, or more able for the fulfillment of his duties than he is at present.

GUARDS' SOCIAL.—Remember the Grand Concert and Social of the Guards' Band this evening, in the Rink Music Hall. It is deserving of a bumper house. All who can should attend, and thus manifest their appreciation of voluntary services during the summer.

William Finglane, Official Assignee for Ottawa City and County of Carleton. Office, Hay's Block, Spark St. 3933f12

ALL CLOSED DOWN.—The mills at the Chaudiere have all closed down for the season. The last two that closed were those of Messrs. Bronson & Weston and Capt. Young. The first mentioned firm closed on Saturday night, and the latter on Monday evening.

SIGNS OF AUTUMN.—The frost of the last two nights has had a marked effect upon the trees, in and around the city. Their leaves have assumed a golden tint, peculiar to Autumn, and a glance around reveals the fact of the sear and yellow leaf having made its appearance.

NEW STYLE OF PAVEMENT.—A new style of pavement is being laid down in Parliament Square, something after the Nicholson pattern, but said to be an improvement thereon. Should it prove a success, after a trial of the Winter's frost, it will be brought into general use for all the platforms required.

WESTERN METHODIST CHURCH.—The Methodist Church on the Richmond Road, is rapidly approaching completion, and before the season during which bricklayers can work closes, it is likely that the congregation may be enabled to worship in the upper portion of the edifice, instead of the basement, as at present.

PAYING CHEQUES.—The City Chamberlain was busily engaged yesterday paying the cheques of firemen, labourers and civic officials. The office was fairly besieged for a time. The holders of other cheques are anxiously awaiting news regarding the rest of the Debenture Money, and express considerable surprise that it should be forthcoming only by instalments.

Edwards has em—the peach pearer and stoner. See 'em 3940f

IMPORTS FOR OTTAWA.—The following imports for Ottawa appear in the manifest of the steamship Sarmatian, just arrived from Liverpool:—Garland, Hutchmore & Co., 1 case merchandise; Government Stationary office, 5 cases; J. Leslie, 2 packages; Russell and Watson, 1 case; Thos. Beament & Co., 1 case; Secretary of State, 1 case. Per steamship Phoenician, from Glasgow:—C. T. Bate & Co, 50 qr. casks, and 25 casks of spirits; McLachlan Bros., 5 cases; G. M. Holbrook, 1 box; Thos. Patterson, 1 box and 1 bale.

ANOTHER RIFLE MATCH.—Another test with the rifle has been arranged to take place on Saturday next, between the Eastern and Western sections of the city. The respective teams will be composed as follows:—West, Messrs. Sutherland, Gray, Clayton, Symes, Newby, Waldo, Todd, Desloucherville, Grant, Walters, Boswell, Booth, Goodeve, Walsh and Patrick. East—Messrs. Langton, Macpherson, C. Graburn, Harrison, R. Graburn, Harris, Johnson, Desloauriver, Thoop, Major White, Cotton, George White, Reardon, Jarvis, Yeoman and Barritt.

GRAND CONCERT AND SOCIAL.—The Band of the Governor General's Foot Guards will give their Grand Concert and Social, in the Rink Music Hall, this evening, at 7:30 p.m.; entrance on Maria street. The lights will be arranged along the street to the entrance, to enable the public to see their way to the Rink. The following is the programme:—1. The Reminiscences of England, Godfrey; 2. Quadrille(Scotch) Fair Maid of Perth, Buchanan; Reminiscences of Ireland, Basqu... Galop, The Railroad, Hartung. As soon as the train arrives at the station, Marriot's splendid Quadrille Band will be on hand, to furnish music for dancing. Tickets can be had from members of the Band, or at the door of the Rink Music Hall.

BURGLARY.—The premises of Mr. Theodore Friedrick, on Rideau street, were entered the night before last by some unknown party or parties, and a considerable amount of goods stolen, consisting for the most part, of brass locks, pocket knives, padlocks, silver bells, dog collars, and sundry other articles, which have thus far been missed, and amounting in value to about $50 or $60. An entry was effected through the back window up stairs, having been approached from St. Paul street in the rear of the premises. A ladder, that had no doubt been used in connection with the burglary, was discovered adjoining the window through which an entry was made. Suspicion rests upon some young lads, who were discharged a short time ago by Mr. Friedrick. Detective Hamilton has the matter in hand, and will, doubtless, soon obtain some clue to the robbery.

JOSH BILLINGS.—This quaint genius will lecture in Gowan's Hall on the 6th Oct. next, in aid of the funds of the Chaudiere Sons of Temperance. Leaving aside the good object for which the lecture is to be given, the eminence of the eccentric Josh ought to be certain to draw a good house.

Edwards has preserve jars cheap. 3940f

A RUNAWAY.—Mr. Baldwin's horse ran away yesterday from its owner's mills, at the Chaudiere, and created no small excitement by upsetting a cab and nearly killing a fireman who attempted to arrest its headlong career. However, the animal was captured on Wellington street, minus any damage being done either to its itself or the vehicle.

BASKERVILLE & BROTHERS are exhibiting and disposing of the choicest teas, coffees, wines, liquors and a general assortment of groceries and refreshments suitable for those attending the Exhibition. These desiring to take home supplies with them will do well to purchase from them. Also fish, salt, bacon, cheese and hams sold low or cash. 395062

THE MAIN SEWER.—The outlet of the main sewer, at the tail race of the Water Works Duct, at Pooley's Bridge, has been nearly completed. The work on the street is still in progress, and from the strong staff of men the contractors have placed on the work, it is safe to predict a speedy completion of the operation. It has been a tough job excavating thro gh the hard rock, but those who undertook it, with a good gang of "navvies," have done good work.

Now is the time for parties desiring Fruit, Ornamental Shrubs and Trees from the celebrated Cold Climate Nurseries of Auguste Dupuis, E. Village des Aulnaies, P.Q., should at once leave their orders with the undersigned, from whom catalogues can be obtained. Jos. E. Lemieux, No. 4 Ottawa street, Lower Town.

RUN OVER.—About half-past five o'clock yesterday afternoon, as Mr. Christian Madsen was driving along Wellington street, near the corner turning down to Pooley's Bridge, a boy named William James, aged about six years, attempted to cross the road ahead of Mr. Madsen's horse. The lad seeing he was in danger, got frightened, and tripped and fell. Mr. Madsen saw the plight the lad was in, and stopping his horse, went to the assistance of the young sufferer. Upon examination by a medical man who happened to be passing by at the time of the accident, it was found that beyond an abrasion of the skin on the right side of the face, no injuries were the result of the accident. Mr. Madsen was not to blame for the mishap, and evinced the greatest concern when it occurred. He conveyed the little sufferer to his abode, where his slight hurts were attended to.

GENDREAU'S shaving and haircutting saloon, No 3 Rajotte's Block, Wellington street. Adele M. Gendreau, proprietor. 3923 f

GOWAN'S OPERA HOUSE.—T. W. Robertson's comedy "Home" was repeated here last evening before a very select though not very large audience. It was brought forward with the same cast as on the previous evening, and met with much applause throughout. The stage appointments and scenery, too, were of that usual excellence which has been apparent since Mr. McDowell's first appearance. In fact so thorough appears to be his knowledge of the mise en scene, and so careful his thoughtfulness even of the smallest details, that it is very much to be doubted whether even in London or New York pieces are produced with such elaborate and correct stage furnishings. The musical burletta, Jenny Lind, concluded the evening's performance. Jenny Leatherlugs is a character which affords ample scope for the display of ability in vocalization; and it is very rarely that the part falls to the lot of an artiste more competent to do it justice than Mrs. Fanny Stoddart, nearly all of whose songs, which were usually brilliant, had to be repeated. Pocahontas, with original scenery and elaborate toilets, will be repeated by special request to night.

"JOSH BILLINGS" has been secured by the Chaudiere Division S. of T. to lecture in Gowan's Hall on the evening of 11th October. Tickets may be obtained from Smith & Stewart, Sparks street; J. H. Langford, Wellington street; J. G. Howe, Richmond Road, and from members of the Division. J. K STEWART, Sec. Com. 395513

"HOW HAPPY COULD I BE WITH EITHER."—Last night a gay and festive typo took it into his head to change his abode and pay a pilgrimage East, so he turned his steps Orientally, so to speak. Joseph, for that was his Christian name, unlike his Jewish namesake, had not led a very virtuous life while resident in Ottawa, and did not bear in mind the old proverb, "Be sure you're off with the old love before you are on with the new," so he chose as the partner of his journey a comely damsel of somewhat more tender years than the one with whom he had been living. The latter got wind of the flight of Joseph, and accordingly went to the St. L. & O. R. R. with the double purpose of seeing him off, and obtaining the sum of $2, which he was indebted to her. Joseph repudiated the liability, and refused to discharge it. The female showed fight, the bystanders enjoyed the fun, damsel No. 2 (who, Joseph said, was his sister) screamed and for a time everything about the station wore a lively aspect. Finally, the two dollars were produced and Joseph was released from the thraldom of his old love and proceeded Montreal wards with his new one.

If you want a good shave, or your hair cut stylish, go to Gendreau's, No. 3 Rajotte's Block, Wellington street.

No. 1 FIRE STATION.—The quarters of No. 1 Company of the Fire Brigade have been shifted to a most impracticable spot in the vicinity of the tail race of the water works at Pooley's Bridge. A TIMES reporter paid a visit to the place yesterday and after going like "Agag of old," &c., delicately he succeeded in reaching the station. There he found "a great gulf fixed between the door of the structure and the place where the horse and reel are kept. Apropos of the former it may be as well to state that a valuable equine piece of Corporation property is kept night and day in a miserable shanty, minus a door, standing or lying, as the case may be, exposed to all the winds of heaven, and the rains which have not been infrequent of late. Before the door of the station is a capital field for geologists—lots of stone of the limestone formation, jumbled up in a chaotic mass, the latter being varied, not agreeably by a gaping trench which has been dug for the double purpose of laying in the water pipes, and breaking the firemen's necks, in case they are turned out on a dark night. The stable is about 30 yards from the station, and to reach it, a most difficult line of country has to be traversed, including a risk of either falling into the aforesaid trench, breaking their shins, or coming to grief over the remaining debris in the neighbourhood. There is no lamp to guide the men to the stable; no light to show them on their way to the bridge or to warn them of a large hole which forms the cellar of the old structure that has been used as a station until shortly. The last named is a most dangerous place, and unless it is either fenced in or a good light placed, some of these dark nights the Accidental Insurance Company will have the felicity of relieving their coffers of $1,000, if not more. The station is being fitted up comfortably. The interior is right enough, but the means of entrance and exit are abominable.

SKIN DISEASES, of whatever nature, are completely eradicated by the use of Fowle's Pile and Humour Cure; its effect is marvellous for Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, and even Leprosy; it has proved itself an almost never failing cure. (See special notice.) 3733

POLICE COURT.

Before M. O'GARA, P. M.

TUESDAY, Sept. 28.

Mary Ryan, drunk, dismissed.

Patrick Fallon, a confirmed bibulist, was fined $5 and $3.50 costs, or three weeks in gaol. He went to durance vile.

John Frances, also drunk, was fined $2 and $2 costs, or one week in gaol; he chose the latter alternative,—per force.

William Curran figured on the scroll with "D.D." opposite his name—the initials signifying drunk and disorderly. He took lodgings in the vicinity of Nicholas street for two weeks.

Paul Keenahan, an individual or party of Hibernian extraction, had also the degree of "D.D." conferred upon him, and his fees were $5 and $3.50 costs; he chose two weeks holiday, instead of paying the money, and employ his time in studying geology in the gaol yard.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

The prisoner Labelle was arraigned before the Police Magistrate this morning, charged with beating Louis Arquette, a North Gower farmer, and afterwards robbing him of $30.

Arquette testified that on Friday last he had received $20 from Ald. Heney at his office, prisoner being present at the time, and seeing the money paid. The prisoner afterwards coaxed him to take dinner at his place, to which he (the witness) consented, and whilst there they had several drinks. The prisoner took him up stairs, where witness fell asleep. He was afterwards awakened by the prisoner, who told him that the cars were about leaving. The witness then went out with the prisoner, and after they had gone a short distance, the witness missed his money, and apprized the prisoner of his loss. The prisoner replied that perhaps it was in the bed, and they returned to the house, where the prisoner's wife returned the money. Afterwards, the two again started out for the station, when the prisoner called a carter, saying they would ride to the station. Instead of being driven to the station, however, he was taken to McKay's bush, where the prisoner sent away the carter and beat him, leaving him insensible. When he recovered himself, his money was missing, and his hat was also gone. He proceeded to the prisoner's house, and there he was coolly advised to get home as quickly as possible, as the police were looking after him. Instead of doing this, however, he went to the Police Station and told his tale, the result being that Labelle was arrested. The money has not yet been found. Labelle states that he did not see Arquette after having directed him to the station. He was sent down for trial.

OTTAWA MARKETS

TUESDAY, Sept. 28.

The Market, to-day, was fairly attended, and produce of all kinds was plentiful. A few farmers yet indulged in the peddling system to avoid paying the paltry toll, but the vigilance of the police, of late, has pretty well cured the evil. The following may be said to be the quotations during the day:—

FLOUR—There was a decline of 25c a barrel in flour, yesterday. Double extra sold, in consequence, to-day at $6.75; Single extra, $6.50; No. 1, $6.00.

GRAIN—Fall Wheat sold at $1.10, and Spring Wheat at $0.95. Oats are not very plentiful, and run from 32c. to 35c. per bushel. There is very little demand for Peas, and they are quoted at 60c. Buckwheat, 55c.—being a considerable reduction on previous prices.

FRUIT—Apples are selling at from $3.00 to $3.50 per barrel. Melons vary, according to size, from 10c. to 50c. Crab Apples sold at 15c. a gallon.

VEGETABLES—Cabbage brought from 8c to 10c per head; cauliflower, 10c to 25c. Tomatoes are getting scarce, and therefore dearer than they have been. They sold as high as $1 per bushel. Onions, 3c to 5c per bunch. Carrots, do. Parsnips, 5c per bunch. Radishes, do. Potatoes sold readily at 30c per bushel—a slight advance on last week's prices.

MEAT—Beef sold from $6.50 to $7.00 per hundred. Mutton, 7c to 8c per pound. Pork is scarce, and brought from $9.00 to $9.50. There is a dullness at present in the meat market, and prices remain firm.

FISH AND POULTRY.—Fish are in good demand and command good prices. Haddock, 8c per lb; fresh cod, 9c per lb; trout, 12½c per lb; white fish, 12½c per lb; fresh herrings, 75c per dozen. Poultry scarce and prices firm. Fowls, 60c to 70c per pair; chickens, 35c to 40c per pair. There are no turkeys and geese. Partridge, 40c per pair. There are no ducks to be had.

FODDER—There is a scarcity of fodder, particularly straw. Hay sold at from $16 to $17 per ton, and straw brought $8 per ton. A little more was realised for bundled straw.

HOTEL ARRIVALS.

RUSSELL HOUSE.—H Kinlock, Toronto; G A Grier, O B Chaffee, W B Edgerton, L H Senecal, D Hurley, Joshua Callaway, Prof Campbell and wife, Louis Sutherland, Montreal; J B Strathey and daughter, London; B Rossenond, Almonte; H E Osgood, Detroit; Sir A T Galt, Sherbrooke; Mr and Mrs Edmunson, Manchester, England.

SELBY LEE will not, nor cannot, sell boots and shoes at cost, but will sell ten per cent. cheaper than any other shop in the city. 3940eS

THE WATER WORKS.—Those who have lately visited the region surrounding the pump house appertaining to the water works at Pooley's Bridge cannot fail to notice a most important improvement therein. The road down to the entrance to the pump house is being graded, the old and rickety bridge has been removed, and altogether an easy approach has been made to one of the most interesting sights, or "lions," if the term can be used, Ottawa can afford to the enquiring visitor. Yesterday a very great change from the old regime was to be observed. A railing was in course of erection around the sides of the aqueduct, neatly painted and substantially built. The road down to the main entrance of the pump house is being graded, and every effort appears being made on the part of the Commissioners to push forward the work of completion with as much expedition as possible.

HORSES SAVED.—The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half as successful, or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horse's life. Remember the name and see that the signature of Hurd & Co., is on each package. Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medical dealers. 3796

New Pamphlet by Earl Russell.

Messrs. Longmans, Green & Co., have just published a pamphlet by Earl Russell on "National Education." The noble Earl deals with—1st, the time of attendance; 2nd, the subjects to be taught; 3rd, the division of subjects into work by the hands and mental instruction; 4th, the choice of masters; 5th, the source of the income to be applied to the expense of gratuitious instruction. "The great defect of the present system," he considers, "is the want of regular attendance; and he advocates the Committee of Council on Education providing the order in which reading, writing, and arithmetic should be taught, and their prescription of lessons in history and geography. The carrying out of the third head appears to him one of the most important tasks that the Committee of Privy Council has to discharge. His Lordship proceeds:—"I come now to some general considerations upon matters which concern the future welfare of Great Britain and her colonies. The House of Commons has been lately engaged in the discussion of plans for reforming our representation; and in such plans the claims of Scotland and Ireland cannot be overlooked, when the question is not 'What was due to Scotland in 1708 or to Ireland in 1801?' but has reference to the population of Glasgow and of Dundee, of Perthshire and of Argyle, of Dublin, Belfast, Cork and Limerick, the relations and the requirements of the ports of Leith and Queenstown, the railroads by which our island is intersected, the present state of the commerce existing between the different parts of the United Kingdom, the protection due to our shipping, the fitness for military duties of young men of 18, and the progress they make when engaged in military duty between 18 and 21 years of age. The State ought to take care of every one of its children till at least 14 years of age. Till that age, in my opinion, the education of the children of the poor should be gratuitous. There ought to be such facilities for education that some shame would attach to a man of 21 who has never heard of the name of Wellington, or to a woman of 20 who cannot sew or knit, as well as read the literature of her own country. A great question remains behind. If gratuitous schools are to be established we shall require new taxes to provide for the demands which would be made upon the Treasury. In spite of the warnings which have been fired upon me, in spite of the old jokes furbished up, I will venture to say that if persons liable to property and income tax from £100 and upwards in the three kingdoms were made subject to the extent of 6d. in the pound to a tax upon their property and income, the poor widows who have to bring up their children upon 4s. allowance from the poor rate might be relieved, and men of £40,000 or £50,000 a year would not suffer any great grievance if, on the payment of this substraction from their incomes, the poor obtained the gratuitous education of their children. If to this tax on property and income were added an addition to the excise upon brandy, drunkenness might be diminished. In this manner a large sum might be added to our permanent reserve in time of peace. It is calculated that for every penny of the income and property tax an addition to the revenue of nearly one million is obtained, so that the 6d income tax nearly six millions would be added to the revenue of the State. Surely it is better to provide for public services in this manner than to levy poor widows with heavy rates, and to force Baptists and Independents to contribute to the services of a Church from which they conscientiously dissent. When men are satisfied that a tax is required for public purposes there is no opposition to the payment. Quakers, who object to war, readily pay the sums which are required for the army and navy. So also they will readily contribute to the payment of a tax which is imposed either for teaching every child to read and write, or to pay for the services of national constables, intended, as the constabulary in Ireland, for the defence of every man's home and person against assault and theft. I commend this reflection to those who assert that a public tax for education or constabulary would be as much objected to as local rates. This matter should be well considered. I renounce my opinion that an income tax should only be imposed when the nation is at war. I believe an income and property tax is the fairest, the most just, and the most productive of all taxes which the State can impose.

A Murderous Fiend Settled at Last.

Executions are not frequent in Italy, and when the sentence of death is carried out there it may be taken for granted that the culprit has committed one or more crimes of unusual atrocity. Such would appear to be the case with one Frederick Aliano, who was sentenced to death after having been found guilty upon fifty-nine counts. These fifty-nine counts comprised twelve wilful murders, seven cases of manslaughter, four attempted murders, nineteen of wounding and capturing people for the purpose of ransoming them, three of highway robbery with violence, and one of rape ten years ago. Aliano, who had had a quarrel with one his neighbors, lodged a couple of balls in his body one day in the presence of several people, and took to the mountains, where he joined a band of brigands who were driving a very prosperous trade. A peasant and his wife having refused to harbour the goods which these brigands had to dispose of, Aliano came to their cottage one night and put them both to death, being with great difficulty restrained by one of his comrades from gouging out the eyes of their children. A few years afterwards, Aliano, suspecting that one of his friends had been killed by a peasant called Di Noja, avenged himself by stabbing his wife and shooting his sister. Not content with this, he returned to Di Noja's cottage a few days later and murdered his daughter-in-law and two of his grand-children. On returning from there he met his own uncle, whom he suspected of being in communication with the police, so he took the opportunity of stabbing him, his wife, and a child who were walking with them. He then went to their cottage, murdered another of their children, and severely injured the three others by pouring boiling water over them. Thus he had murdered seven people and wounded three in one day. A month later he captured a wealthy merchant, and, not receiving the ransom demanded in due time, cut off first his ears and afterwards his head. So ferocious was he that two of his comrades remonstrated with him; but the only result was that he shot them both. It was only last autumn that Aliano was captured, and, so strong is the feeling against capital punishment in Italy, it seemed doubtful a month ago whether he would be sent to the scaffold. Fortunately, the King refused to exercise his prerogative of pardon, and Aliano was executed at Potenza a week ago. It is stated in reference to capital executions in Italy, that the mode varies very much according to the district in which they take place. In some parts of the kingdom hanging is the mode resorted to, while in others the the guillotine is used; but in both cases executions always take place in private.—From Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper.

Jason Welch, of Iowa, got mad and stopped his newspaper, and then because the withdrawal of his patronage did not kill the paper, he went and killed himself.

The new Italian Minister rejoices in the title of Count, and is to be known as Count Blanco, wherefore Miss Grundy asks us if his equipage may not with propriety be called a carte blanche.

Father Imhoff, of Richmond, Ind., has just lived out his hundredth year. It is hoped by his friends he will live to pack his carpet bag next year and say to the public, "Imhoff for the Centennial."

Nothing is so discouraging to a young lawyer just as he waxes eloquent about angels' tears, weeping willows and tombstones, as to be interrupted by the cold-blooded justice with, "You're off your nest bub; this is a case of hog stealing."

ACCOMMODATIONS.
A magnificent new hotel, capable of accommodating 500 guests, will be opened on June 1st for the accommodation of visitors. The grounds have been improved and beautified, and every means for amusement and exercise provided. The trip thither by the Ottawa River is most enjoyable, and a railroad from the river to the Springs is in course of construction. Until the railroad is built, comfortable carriages will be in waiting at the wharf for the conveyance of visitors to the Springs. The distance of the Springs from Montreal and Ottawa respectively is 69 and 56 miles.
MR. W. CHAMPNESS will open a good Livery Stable, providing good carriages, horses, saddles, &c. There is a good race-course on the property of the Company.
The PANACEAN WATERS of these Springs will yet make Canada the greatest resort in the world for health and pleasure seekers. Thousands of testimonials might be procured, but the reputation of the springs renders it unnecessary to do so.

TELEGRAPHIC SUMMARY.

The crops have been much injured in England and Ireland by the recent floods.
Alderman Wm. James R. Cotton was elected Lord Mayor of London, on yesterday.
The foot and mouth disease is still raging among the cattle in England.
Later reports from Sorel report the number in killed at eleven, and twenty-five badly injured.
The members comprising the minority in the Servian Chamber of Deputies have resigned in a body.
The Almonte Agricultural Fair closed on yesterday, and it is said to have been a grand success.
Intense excitement prevails at Montreal, owing to the railroad disaster near Sorel.
A ministerial crisis is said to be pending at Belgrade, Servia, in consequence of the irreconcilable dissensions in the Cabinet on the question of peace or war.
Exciting rumours come from Vienna, to the effect that the Porte is about to invade Servian territory.
The Servian Army of Observation, on the Turkish frontier, has been increased to 24,000 men.
The mission of the Black Hills Commission is likely to prove an entire failure —the savages trying to exact from the United States Government the most ridiculous and unreasonable concessions. There is every indication of an Indian outbreak, should the Washington authorities attempt to take forcible possession of those regions.
The Osage and other Western Indian tribes are on the "war path" in consequence, as usual, of the United States authorities not keeping faith with them in regard to furnishing supplies.
The Republicans of Massachusetts are holding their State Convention at Worcester; their platform, like that of the Democrats, recommends an immediate return to specie payment.
Peterboro passed the Railroad By-law yesterday, in aid of the Huron and Quebec Railway, granting $150,000 to that enterprise.
The troops of the Sultan have met with another serious reverse, at the hands of the insurgents, at Osvedisa, in Turkish Croatia.
The Ultramontane party in Bavaria have been successful, in the recent elections held in that country, for members of the Diet.
China has, for several months past, been making extensive preparations for war, in anticipation of a rupture with the British Government.
The crop prospects throughout the United States are, upon the whole, considered favourable.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Crops Damaged by the Recent Floods.
LONDON, Sept. 29.—The damage done to the crops by the recent floods, is reported to be enormous in Langford, Kerry and Tipperary, in Ireland. At Cork, the floods have subsided, but it is believed that several persons were drowned.

New Lord Mayor.
Alderman William James R. Cotton was to-day elected Lord Mayor of London, following the ancient custom of electing the Senior Alderman, who has not passed the chair, and has served as Sheriff.

Bullion.
The amount of bullion withdrawn from the Bank of England on balance to day was £108,000. Erie, 15 1-8.

The Foot and Mouth Disease.
The foot and mouth disease has slightly diminished in some counties and has increased in others. The latest returns show in East Sussex there are 6,295 beasts affected, in Gloucester, 12,000, in Warwickshire, 8,000, in Cumberland 5,700, and in Westmoreland, 400. Yorkshire shows a large increase.

Arrival.
The bark Lord Dalhousie arrived at Gravesend to-day. She brings the Capt. and fifteen of the crew of the American ship Uncle Joe from St. John, N.B., for Liverpool, which was abandoned in a sinking condition.

Interesting News from China.
Hong Kong advices of September 2nd state, that in a heavy typhoon at Chee-Foo, on August 21, three European and many Chinese vessels were wrecked, and thirty lives lost.

Extensive Preparations for War.
While pressing the settlement of the Margory case, the British Minister did not proceed to Pekin, as at first intended, but remained at Tien-Tsin. The final acquiesence of China in his demands was reluctantly given. All actions point to the fact, that if resistance had been determined on, the war would have been far more desperate than ever before. The hostile preparations were more comprehensive than usual, and among the measures contemplated was the burning of the open ports, and a general sacrifice of Chinese property, for the sake of injuring foreign interests. The counsels of a few high officials, strong in influence, though in the minority in numbers, averted the contest. But preparations for the conflict were still progressing, and the attitude of China was more menacing than that of any time since 1861. The terms demanded by Mr. Wade greatly increased the bill felling. The steps for the punishment of the murderers and the indemnity are recognised as not extraordinary but the introduction of commercial demands into such a question are bitterly complained of.

The Sinking of the Vanguard.
The Court martial to investigate the sinking of the steamer Vanguard concluded to-day. The Court find that the cause of the sinking of the ship was owing to the great speed maintained.

AUSTRIA.

The Porte Threatens to Invade Servia.
VIENNA, Sept. 29.—Belgrade papers are publishing alarming reports to the effect that Turks are preparing to attack the Servian frontier.
BELGRADE, Sept. 29.—It is reported that the Sublime Porte has notified the Servian Government that it is about to occupy the Island of Little Redoubt, in the River Drina, which is claimed by Servia. The Servian Government opposes the project.

Servian Army Concentrating.
It is officially announced that the Servian troops on the frontier, near Nisch, have received re-inforcements to the number of 8,000 men. They now number 24,000 in that neighbourhood.

Legislators Resign in a Body.
LONDON, Sept. 29.—A special despatch to the Morning Standard announces that twenty four members of Shutschina of Servia had resigned their seats.

GERMANY.

Emperor William.
BERLIN, Sept. 29.—Emperor William went to Baden Baden yesterday, where he will remain to witness the celebration of the birthday of the Empress Augusta. Soon after the 10th of October, he will leave there for Italy. Prince Bismarck and Count Von Moltke will accompany him.

SERVIA.

An Impending Crisis.
BELGRADE, Sept. 29.—Rumours are current of an impending Ministerial crisis because of the dissensions in the Cabinet against the question of war. The complication of matters is necessary. The decree of Prince Milan transfers the seat of the Skuptchina from Kragujevats to Belgrade.

SPAIN.

No Concordat Promised.
MADRID, Sept. 29.—The Ministerial journals deny that Senor Canovas de Castillo ever during his Premiership promised to re-establish a Concordat between Spain and the Vatican.

BAVARIA.

Ultramontanes Elected to Diet.
MUNICH, Sept. 29.—The Ultramontane party have elected the President, Vice President and other officers of the Bavarian Diet, by a majority of two.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK.

The Black Hills Commission.
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A despatch from Red Cloud Agency of the 26th says:—"The Commission went to the Council Grounds, this morning, under a strong military escort. The Council was opened by Red Cloud, who presented Red Dog as his spokesman. Red Dog is the orator of the Agallalas. The next speaker was Little Bear; he indicated that the conclusion of the Indians was that, by the sale of the Hills they are to be cared for handsomely by all time.

"The World Moves!"—The Red Man must Settle Nebraska to Move too.
Spotted Tail then put a poser to the Commission, by asking to have Nebraska moved South. The Chief wanted an answer at once, which, of course, the Commission could not give. The Commission are unanimous not to consider the demand made, which was for the payment of $3,500,000 a year for an indefinite period. They will attend another Council to-morrow, then withdraw, and see what the Great American Father has to say.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Co.
Vice-President Scott, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, to-day submitted a statement which shows the net earnings for two months, July and August, to be $232,531, an increase of $149,299 over the corresponding months of last year. From March 1st to the present time there has been a net reduction in liabilities of $1,475,474. The present indebtedness and assets are very evenly balanced.

WASHINGTON.

Agricultural Report.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The Agricultural Report for August and September gives the condition of wheat, when harvested, for all the States as 79 per cent. The quality is poorer than for several years. The oat crop is superior in quality and quantity, and mostly secured in good condition. Barley averages for the country 85. Potatoes are ten per cent. above the average. The wool crop is full average weight, or a little above, in nearly all the States. Tobacco has fallen ten per cent below an average. Hops—New York and Wisconsin, which, together produced from three-fourths to four-fifths of the entire crop have largely increased their average.

TOPEKA.

The Wronged and Exasperated Red Men.
TOPEKA, Ks., Sept. 29.—A special from Wichata says that the Osage Indians have left their Reservation, to get food for themselves, their excuse being that the Government does not supply them with provisions, according to agreement. On July 14th there were 246,000 pounds of freight for them at Wichata, and now there are 460,000 pounds, which, through the inefficiency of the contractor, is not forwarded. The Government officials are now trying to ship this freight by others than the regular contractor.

WORCESTER.

State Ticket Nominated.
WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 29.—In the Republican Convention, Mr. Rice was nominated for Governor, and Horatio G. Knight for Lieut. Governor, by acclamation. Treasurer, Chas. Endicott; Auditor, Julius S. Clark; Attorney General, Chas. R. Train; Secretary of State, H.B. Pierce. After which the Convention adjourned at seven this evening.

Excitement over the Disaster—The Mechanics' Bank—The Absconding Teller—Struck by a Train—The Y. M. C. A. Convention—An Appeal for Help—The First Annual Session—New Young Britton Lodges—The Anticosti Co.—Money and Stocks.
MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—Considerable excitement is caused in the city by the news of the terrible disaster on the Sorel Railway, by which ten men were killed and twenty seven wounded. A special to the authorities states that the detectives are after the miscreant who put the rail across the track.
A meeting of Mechanics' Bank shareholders was held to-day, but beyond a fruitless interview with the President, nothing resulted.
Sam Paxton, the absconding Teller, is now at St. Albans, Vt. Paxton is under the impression that it is intended to make a scape goat of him. He was given a carte blanche to certify to checks and even notes past due; in other words to hold the same as so much cash. As to stock payments he alleges and says he will prove that many thousands of dollars were duly certified under oath as paid, when the same were only represented by check prolanlo.
On Monday night Adam Sauve, a grain dealer and hotel-keeper, at Coteau station, on the Grand Trunk Railway, was struck by the night express and had both legs cut off. The poor fellow after suffering horrible agony, died yesterday.
The following are the officers of the Young Men's Christian Association Convention for the ensuing year:—President, George Hague, Toronto; Vice do., T. J. Claxton H. Fry, Quebec, J. R. THE NEXT BEST THING TO DO.

"Spotted Tail," the Indian Chief, wants Nebraska moved further South—not a bad idea, perhaps, but rather a difficult one to carry out. Should Uncle Sam prove unequal to that undertaking, it is a matter of congratulation that there will be open to him, as in the case of "Mohammed and the Mountain," another way out of an unpleasant dilemma—he can just move it further North, into the Dominion—which will perhaps suit as well. At any rate, that ... as the Oregon Territory, and of which the States of Nebraska and Oregon now form a part, belongs, by good right, to us. It was delivered over to the United States in 1838 by the provisions of the famous "Webster-Ashburton Treaty," but known in Canadian history under the odious name of the "Ashburton Surrender." It by no means follows, because "His Satanic Majesty failed to claim his own in the crowning carnage at Waterloo,"—at least Lord Byron said so, upon the Duke of Wellington coming unscathed through that engagement—that the Dominion will not be in a condition at some future time to claim its own—the State of Maine, in the East, and the Oregon Territory in the West.

MESSRS. DENISON AND BELDEN.

A Syracuse correspondent of the New York World gives a rather lengthy and amusing account of four persons who have played a prominent—we might more properly say the prominent—part in the "Canal Ring" of New York State, which Governor Tilden seems to have been elected for the special purpose of breaking up. We refer to Messrs. Denison, Belden & Co., a firm composed of four members, namely—J. J. Belden, "Doc." Denison, A. C. Belden, and Thomas Gale. The history of these gentlemen will not be without its interest to the Canadian public at the present moment. It appears from the account in question that Mr. J. J. Belden is the "King" of the four, and his career has on the whole been a remarkably successful one—sufficiently successful, it might have been supposed, to prevent him from becoming a party to the shameful frauds with which he has been charged, and for which he, along with his partners, are shortly to be tried before the State Courts. When twenty years of age—and that is only thirty years since—he was keeping store in the village of Salin... a suburb and now a portion of the ... Syracuse; but, as the correspondent of the World remarks, he was "too active and eager for his humdrum vocation," and tried his fortune at the "diggins" in California. He succeeded in a short space of time in amassing some $20,000 at the latter employment, with which he returned to Syracuse and met Denison, his future partner. Mr. Denison was a native of the same county as Mr. Belden, had studied medicine in his early days, got his diploma, but abandoned his profession for contracting. He had already been fifteen years in the business when he met with Belden. Unlike too many couples in this world, Denison and Belden were really "a pair." They were evidently created to be in company, and their business success was almost without a parallel in the State. They soon had a monopoly of canal work, being able, on account of the superior appliances with which they had provided themselves to do their work at lower rates, and in shorter time than any of their competers. They were energetic and enterprising to a fault, and in addition to their canal contracts, they built several railroads. They are engaged at present in constructing a new water reservoir for the city of New York, at a cost of half a million, their last canal work, in reference to which they are now arraigned, being under the Schuyler and Utica contracts. Mr. Belden is President of the Syracuse Northern Railway, which the firm built and equipped from beginning to end.

Except in so far as business tact and the ability to make money was concerned, there was little in common between the two men whose fortunes were thus linked together. Mr. Belden married the favourite daughter of a wealthy and influential State magnate, named Gere, and as both he and his wife had a common ambition after social distinction, they erected and appropriately sustained a splendid house, entertained in a princely fashion, gave liberally for church and charitable purposes, and played a grand part in society generally. They had but one child, who died young, and Mrs. Belden had thus an opportunity of plunging into the fashionable vortex by which she was surrounded—of which, indeed, she was one of the leaders—without any of those domestic restraints which the care of a growing family usually impose; while Mr. Belden enjoyed with evident satisfaction the prominence which was thus secured him, supplementing in the most approved fashion the movements of his better-half. He was a temperance man and a Republican, a leading Good Templar, had lodges named after him, was a trustee of the Methodist University of Syracuse, and contributed in a heavy amount to the building fund of the Presbyterian church—the grandest and most expensive structure of the kind all round. His hospitality, generosity, and kind-heartedness were the talk of the country, and his contributions to the relief of the poor as frequent as they were handsome. But by some unaccountable means, he was far from being as popular as might have been expected under the circumstances. It was "loudly whispered" that his money was as ill-gotten as Tweed's, and a year before the attack on the Canal Ring was begun, he was defeated in the contest for the Mayoralty of Syracuse by a majority of over a thousand—the only unsuccessful nomination on the Republican ticket of that city. This was the first kick to Belden. The respectable portion of society had already set their mark upon him. To show how thoroughly he and his brothers-in-law were mixed up with and controlled every conceivable local enterprise, we quote the statement of the World's correspondent upon the point at full length. He says:—

"Of the Onondaga Iron Company Belden is President, and two of the Geres Vice President, and Secretary and Treasurer respectively. R. N. Gere, brother-in-law, is President of the Geddes and Syracuse Gas Light Company, of which Mead Belden is Second Vice President, and J. J. Belden and W. H. H. Gere are trustees. N. S. Gere is President of the Onondaga Pottery Company, and R. N. Gere is President of the Syracuse Iron Works. The Onondaga Coarse Salt Company includes among its members Vice President Robert Gere, J. J. Belden and W. H. H. Gere, of the executive Committee, and James M. Gere, trustee. Robert Gere is President of the Geddes Coarse Salt Company, First Vice President of the Syracuse Fine Salt Company and Second Vice President of the Syracuse Salt Company of Onondaga. J. J. Belden is the Second Vice President of the Turk's Island Coarse Salt Company (of which Robert Gere is President), and Vice President of the Citizens' Savings Bank."

Mr. Denison ... the very antithesis of his business partner in every conceivable respect—in his family relations, social aspirations, personal habits, and political leanings. He had married early—and married well, too—had a large family, and neither he nor his wife had any inclination to shine in society. But Mr. Denison, it is said was not without his expensive enjoyments—was, in truth, as dissipated as his senior partner was temperate, and as well known and welcome at the feasts of Bacchanalians as the other was in the secret conclaves of the Templars. In a commercial light, it was a convenient kind of arrangement; and although Denison had the more dangerous part to play, and the less desirable company to keep, it seemed to suit his natural tastes admirably. It is said that his teetotal senior sometimes visited the drinking saloons, and got slapped on the back by soakers and called the "best fellow in the world," after he had dismissed his 2,000 cold-water Templars for the night; but as no insinuation of offences against his temperance professions and pledges is made, it may be taken for granted that he looked in "merely with an eye to business." Mr. Denison was also a Democrat, and for years held a place on the State Committee of the party. The other week he got a little foretaste, like Mr. Belden, of the price of dishonesty, for his name was dropped out of the list. He has always confined himself to contracting, and did not, like Mr. Belden, involve himself in outside enterprises.

Of the other two members of the firm little needs to be said, except that they were "made" by their friends, who took them into a prosperous partnership, and gave them the best opportunity to make money, which they have done. The four are now awaiting trial for defrauding the State out of $417,571 in connection with their canal contracts in New York State, their bail amounting, inclusive of the double justification demanded of their securities, to $2,250,000, or over half a million each. Besides, property belonging to them to the value of $605,975 has been attached. They are sufficiently rich to be able to bear the loss of all this, for their wealth amounts to millions, but they can never recover the damage done to their reputation. It is a pity, we repeat, that men who could have been so successful by honest means should have lacked the necessary principle, and in their greed for gain done that which has blasted their social character and standing, and forfeited for all time the respect and confidence of honest men.

LONDON'S GREAT MYSTERY.

The Strong Chain of Evidence against the Prisoners.

ANTECEDENTS OF WAINWRIGHT—THE HISTORY OF HARRIET LANE—STOKES FINDS A REPORTED MISSING WOMAN AT THE INQUEST.

From the London Times, Sept. 18.

An extraordinary chain of evidence has now been completed, leaving no reasonable doubt as to the identity of the woman whose mutilated body was discovered in Southwark on Saturday.

Acting immediately upon the information of the witness Stokes, the divisional police of Southwark, with the divisional police of Whitechapel, set about investigating the private history of the prisoners, and they found that the male prisoner had relations of a most respectable character with several women. And over all, they found that he had cohabited with a woman who passed by the name of Mrs. King, and that when he visited her he was known as Mr. King. He first knew her about three and a half years ago, when she was little more than twenty-one years of age, and was assistant to a milliner at Waltham Cross, where her parents lived. It is said he met her at Broxbourne Gardens, on the banks of the river Lea, a favourite resort of Londoners, and a place of highly respectable character. Her father first knew of her intimacy with the male prisoner by discovering that she was enciente, and by her confession that Wainwright was the father of her child, for she came to London on the discovery of her condition, gave up her name as Harriet Lane—her true name—and, with the full knowledge of her family, lived as the mistress of Wainwright. She often visited her relatives, and when urged by her father to return home, her answer was, "Wainwright keeps me like a lady." Exactly twelve months ago last week her family lost all direct trace of her; and though telegrams purporting to have come from her have been received, and letters in a man's handwriting, yet nothing has been known of her, even though all possible inquiries have been made, since the early part of last September.

THE MISSING WOMAN.

Another witness now comes on the scene, and the history of Harriet Lane as Mrs. King, the wife of the prisoner Wainwright, is carried another stage. This is Mrs. Wilmore, now living at Stratford. She knew Mrs. King—knew that she lived under the protection of the prisoner Wainwright at Sidney Square, Mile End. A twelve month ago, the 11th of September—on the very anniversary of which day, it will be remarked as an extraordinary coincidence, the prisoner was apprehended with the remains—the woman, Mrs. King, by arrangement with the prisoner, engaged to remove to Stratford, to the house of Mrs. Wilmore. By this time Mrs. King had two children, of whom the prisoner was and is, for they are living still, the acknowledged father. The boxes of Mrs. King were packed up and removed to Stratford on the 11th of September last year, and the two children and the boxes were left in charge of Mrs. Wilmore. Mrs. King having arranged to be away for an hour or two, saying she had to meet Wainwright at half-past four o'clock, then left Mrs. Wilmore, and from that day, a twelvemonth ago last Saturday. Mrs. King has altogether disappeared, leaving no trace behind her. Mrs. Wilmore applied several times to the prisoner Wainwright, and his answer to her was that his late mistress had gone off with a Mr. Friske, who had gone to Brighton; so Wainwright at first said, and afterward said that she had gone to Paris. He, however, held himself responsible for the charge of the children, and paid her £5 a month from September until last July, when he stopped the payments, saying that he should make it all up in November, by which time he was in hopes, it seems, that he should have passed through the difficulties of his bankruptcy.

Photographs of Harriet Lane, after Mrs. King, show that she wore her hair in the same style—curling over the forehead—as the hair had been worn by the woman whose mutilated remains were found in the bundles conveyed by the male prisoner from his late premises in the Whitechapel road, to the premises, the key of which he held, in the Borough High street. The remains, which have been placed in a coffin fitted with a glass lid, were seen yesterday by the relatives of Harriet Lane. The body was medically examined yesterday with more care than has been possible before, and it was found that it had been externally preserved in some respects, while decomposed internally. Whoever had buried it had, from ignorance, perhaps, of the action of chloride of lime, or to cover the smell of decomposition, placed this disinfectant with the body in the secret grave, and the earth, thus largely mixed with a preservative, has kept the body from being resolved into its elements. The grave, by a mistake in the report of the police court proceedings, is stated to be five feet long by two inches. It should have been five feet by two feet, and it was a little over two feet deep. The ground was surrounded with brick work, and it is possible that whoever dug the grave, in which it is now considered the body lay for a year, found it difficult to go deeper from the obstructions.

REMOVAL OF THE BODY.

The motive for removing the body has yet to be elucidated; and it is suggested that as the property is to change hands—for it is for sale—it would most likely have been dug up for necessary changes in the sewerage, thought by the unwholesome smell of the place to be necessary. That the body was removed from this spot is unquestionable, and it seems also that it was dug up with the new spade, and mutilated a few hours before Saturday night last with the new hatchet, both of which instruments were found in the house. The other articles found in the house were a broken light-coloured silk umbrella, and, with the corpse, a velvet band for the hair. The spade and hatchet are traced to the prisoner's possession, for he told Stokes to sell them, and he would give him half of what they fetched, enjoining him at the same time to say they were his own. The prisoner was described in the police court proceedings as "manager of a school house." It should be stated that he described himself as a "manager" to Mr. Martin of New street, Whitechapel, and that he lived himself in "school house lane, Chingford." It was in this lane that his wife and children lived in furnished lodgings.

The prisoner's connection with the "Hen and Chickens" house in the Borough is explained. The house was let to his brother Thomas last January, and opened in the hardware business. The stock was sold off in July, and the brother's whereabouts is not known. The police have received many anonymous communications upon the subject, but all that is known for certainty is that the prisoner was in possession on Saturday of the key belonging to his brother's late premises.

The inquest opens this morning, when, doubtless, the result of the combined efforts of Superintendent Garforth and Inspectors Fox and McDonald will be laid before the Crown.

From the London Times Sept. 19.

Step by step the case of identity set forth in the Times of yesterday advances in completeness. The Treasury, acting on the evidence laid before the Home Department, will henceforth assume the responsibility of conducting the proceedings.

Yesterday the inquest was opened, and what at first appeared to be a strange piece of evidence, and altogether at variance with the account given in these columns regarding Harriet Lane, was set forth by the witness Stokes; but it was soon, by an occurrence that did not come under the cognisance of the court, proved to be not only in perfect harmony with the chain of evidence which the police have established regarding Harriet Lane, but to substantiate it, and, in addition, show the candor of Stokes's statements. Stokes yesterday set forth that a woman who was constantly importuning Wainwright for money, had for three weeks not been seen, and for the time, indeed, most in the court were left with the firm belief that this was the woman whose body was found. But when Stokes returned from the inquest room to where the witnesses were sitting he uttered exclamations of surprise, and, going up to a woman who was sitting there, gave her to understand that he had made up his mind that she was the victim. That this woman had of late importuned the man Wainwright for money was true, for she proves to be the Mrs Wilmore who has the charge of the two children of the prisoner by the lost Harriet Lane, alias Mrs. King. Yesterday the relatives of Harriet Lane were again in attendance, and it is not saying too much to state that they appear to regard the body as that of the missing member of their family who cohabited with Wainwright as Mrs. King.

LUKE TRAVERS,

OR

A Tale of the Dominion Commencing 40 Years Back.

The truth is Ministers were suffering from the effects of Parliamentary indiscretions and being harrassed with business which they could not manage, took an opportunity of coming to a final rupture with the Governor, and of retreating back to their party under cover of the dust they had raised on a grave political principle. They had mutilated some of their own bills such as the Upper Canada Municipal Bill, so that it might fail to become law; they had smuggled off the Customs Amendment Law; and they could not then destroy King's College, which Mr. Draper had eloquently defended at the bar of the House. They were overhead and ears in difficulties, and committed suicide.

After the talking had considerably abated in the House, Mr. Price, on the 1st December, moved a resolution to the effect that the House deeply regretted the retirement of certain members of the Provincial administration, on the question of their right to be consulted on what this House avows to be the prerogative of the Crown—appointments to office; and that the ex Ministers' advocacy of this principle entitled them to the confidence of the House. Mr. Wakefield moved three resolutions in amendment.—The first that as the principles of the British Constitution had been declared by the resolutions of 1841 to exist in this Province the members of the Executive are responsible to Parliament for the exercise of every royal prerogative within the Province; and that consequently, in as much as it would be most unjust to subject any man to responsibility for acts in which he had not participated, it was indispensable that the royal prerogative be exercised by His Excellency the Governor General, with the advice of his Executive Council: 2nd. That the Provincial representative of the Sovereign could not be responsible for or in anyway accountable for the exercise of any branch of the Royal prerogative to any Provincial authority whatever and could not therefore constitutionally enter into any pledge, engagement, or assurance with the members of the Executive Council, or with any other person, or persons in the Province, respecting the future exercise of the prerogative; and 3rdly. That the well-known practice of the British Constitution recognized only one effectual means of securing the observance of the aforesaid principle, namely, the resignation of the members of the Executive Council, whenever on an occasion of sufficient importance to warrant the application of that legitimate check upon the exercise of the prerogative, the Governor General shall have failed to ask or refused to follow their advice in some particular case; but that any general arrangement by the head of the Government even with the House of Assembly would be a degradation of the royal office and most seriously impair the Constitution, which it is the glory of the Province to possess. Mr. Viger moved a resolution to the effect that no document or question had on the present occasion, came before the House in a shape in which it could, according to Parliamentary usage or practice, serve as the basis of an address to the Governor General on the subject of responsible Government. The Honourable Henry Black moved:—That an humble address be presented to His Excellency the Governor General, humbly representing to His Excellency, that, understanding the claim of the late Executive Council to be solely that of being consulted and heard upon all questions of importance to the Province, and of being informed of His Excellency's determination upon any such question before it become public by any other channel, without any claim to control His Excellency in the exercise of the undoubted prerogative of the Crown upon any such question, or to prevent his acting in such manner as he might see best after weighing their advice and hearing their reasons, this House, without feeling itself called upon to express any opinion on the policy of the late Administration, are yet bound to declare their opinion that there is nothing in the said claim of the Executive which may not be held to be the necessary consequence of the principles of responsible Government, embodied in the resolutions of the 3rd September, 1841, to which this House firmly adheres.

Neither of these amendments, sensible and improper as they undoubtedly were, could be carried. The Franco-Canadian section of the House, evidently ignorant of Constitutional Government fell into the old error of simply opposing the Governor, forgetting that the order of things had been entirely changed by responsible Government a mode of conducting affairs, which, before stated they did not and could not comprehend, because they had, as before stated, no correct idea of what Constitutional Government was. It was very different with some of the ex-Councillors. Both Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Hincks knew what they were about, but driven to do an unconstitutional and therefore improper act, they counted upon the want of knowledge, and the anti-British prejudices of the French Canadians, with whose aid it was not difficult to carry Mr. Price's resolution when the following rider carried by a vote of 60 to 7 next day was added to it: This House, in dutiful submission to their Gracious Sovereign, and with the utmost respect for the exalted station and high character of His Excellency is most anxious to guard against any misconstruction which possibly might be placed upon the affirmative declaration of their opinion upon this delicate and most vitally important constitutional question, and therefore most humbly beg leave to disclaim, in a negative form, any desire that the head of the Government should be called upon to enter into any stipulation as to the terms upon which a Provincial Administration may deem it prudent either to accept of or continue in office; that mutual confidence, which is essential to the well being of any Government, necessarily presumes that they are understood, while a due respect for the prerogative of the Crown, and proper constitutional delicacy towards Her Majesty's representative forbid their being expressed.

Thus was the "antagonism" virtually compromised. On this patched resolution an address to the Governor-General was based, which His Excellency courteously received and then began to look about him for new but liberal-minded advisers.

Much as Sir Chas. Metcalfe disliked the impetuosity of Mr. Hincks, the domineering spirit of Mr. Lafontaine, and the unperturbable self-esteem of Mr. Baldwin, he was no Tory in any acceptation of the term, but a man in whom the the sense of justice predominated, and who was consequently as just to Tory weakness as he was to the rashness of the innovator. There was something about Sir Charles Metcalfe's determined straightforwardness and honesty that secured respect. Great as was his intellect, his heart rested on his sleeve. There was an affectionate regard for right, and a benevolence of feeling in Sir Charles which the greatest and the meanest alike perceived. It is not therefore at all wonderful that out of doors even among men of liberal ideas he found the warmest sympathy. He had sagacity enough to perceive with Solomon that he who would have friends must be friendly, and he extended his friendship, without ostentation or parade, to all who needed it.

The business of the country was now conducted without a Ministry, the supplies being moved by the Hon. John Neilson, seconded by Mr. Lafontaine. After considerable discussion as to the propriety of granting any supply under existing circumstances, it was at last determined that twenty-one thousand three hundred and sixty pounds should be granted to Her Majesty to meet the necessary and indispensable expenses of the Government of the Province, £1,407 to defray certain items of expenses of the Civil Government; and an address was adopted praying that his Excellency would be pleased to make the necessary advances, which the House would make good next session. The session now drawing rapidly to a close, a message was shortly after this voted, supply received from the Governor General, expressing his anxious desire that the important measures then before Parliament, calculated to promote the welfare of the country, should be conducted to their proper completion or termination, by the wisdom of Parliament, without interruption, in order that the just wishes and expectations of the people might not be disappointed; and the House of Assembly tacitly assented although they expressed a desire that "the message in question" might not be drawn into a precedent, as they believed that no business ought to be transacted in the absence of an administration responsible to the Assembly for the advice they might give to His Excellency. It, however, was the design of the ex Ministry, who still commanded a majority in the House, to impede, rather than advance, the public business. They were exceedingly unwilling that it should appear possible for a Governor General to conduct the business of the country without advisors responsible to Parliament. Time and again their friends reminded Sir Charles Metcalfe that he was governing without a full Ministry, and at last, the floodgates of opposition being opened, the Radical press poured out upon the head of the Governor General a perfect torrent of abuse. The Montreal Pilot opened its columns for Mr. Hincks, and with a bitterness of spirit that has never been exceeded, the ex-Minister seated himself in the editorial chair. Mr. Hincks was decidedly the most able of the ex-Ministers. He had not the brilliancy of Aylwin, nor that Billingsgate flow of words which the ex-Solicitor-General possessed; nor had he the polish, if he had even the reading, of Mr. Sullivan. He might have been less obstinate than Mr. Lafontaine, and not so honest as Mr. Baldwin; but his tongue was like a two-edged sword which nothing could resist. His very appearance was wolfish. Stooping somewhat, he seemed, as his eyes glared fiercely, to be ever ready to spring upon his prey; and bating with an intensity that gave sharpness to his onset, he leaped upon one whom he was pleased to term an Indian despot, as if he would have torn him to pieces. Griffintown, aroused, began to take an interest in the fight. Day after day party excitement became stronger. Sons of Liberty ranged themselves on one side, L. P. S. on the other. In the eyes of the Conservatives Lord Metcalfe was looked upon as a champion, not of the right, but of their rights, while the supporters of the ex-Ministry saw in him only that "Nero" who fiddled while all about him was in a blaze. It soon became necessary to bring the session of Parliament to a close, and accordingly on the 9th of December, after having given the royal assent to 55 Acts and reserved ten Bills for the signification of Her Majesty's pleasure Sir Charles Metcalfe proceeded to the Council Chamber in state and prorogued Parliament with a speech remarkable for the temperateness of its tone and for the aptness and conciseness of its wording. In consequence of the interruptions which the Parliaments and his labours had undergone, entirely against his inclination, and from causes over which he had no control, he met the gentlemen of the Legislative Council and of the Assembly to relieve them from further attendance in Parliament. He was sensible of their unremitting application to their arduous duties, during the session which had been so unexpectedly shortened, and trusted that the measures which had been passed and to which he had assented would prove beneficial to the country. He had reserved some bills for the consideration of Her Majesty's Government, either from the impracticability of their being carried into execution, owing to their depending upon other measures which have not passed into laws, or from their affecting the prerogative of the Crown, or being of a character that, under the royal instructions, rendered that proceeding imperative.

FALSE MODESTY.—For people to allow ... to become seated upon them rather ... consult a physician, or to suffer as many do for years with the different kinds of piles, without going at once to the drug ... for Fowle's Pile and Humor Cure which is an infallible cure. 3729

HUMAN HAIR.—How many persons abuse this delicate and beautiful ornament, by burning it with alcoholic washes and plastering it with grease, which has no affinity for the skin, and is not absorbed. Burnett's Cocaine, a compound of cocoanut oil, etc., is unrivalled as a dressing for the hair—is readily absorbed, and is peculiarly adapted to its various conditions, preventing its falling off and promoting its healthy growth. 3954

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P.Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and since then had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all,"—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throat, &c., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rusan, Township Percy, writes: "I was persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit." A. Mr. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes: "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr. Maybee, of this place, induced me to try Electric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine."

Sold by all medicine dealers, price 25 cents.

Extract from a Letter

Dated 15th May, 1872, from an old inhabitant of Horningsham, near Warminster, Wilts: "I must also beg to say that your Pills are an excellent medicine for me, and I certainly do enjoy good health, sound sleep and a good appetite; this is owing to taking your Pills. I am 78 years old. Remaining, gentlemen, yours very respectfully, L. S."

BERKELEY, Sept., 1869.—Gentlemen, I feel it a duty I owe to you to express my gratitude for the great benefit I have derived by taking "Norton's Camomile Pills." I applied to your agent, Mr. Peal, Berkeley, for the above Pills, for wind in the stomach, from which I suffered excruciating pain for a length of time, having tried nearly every remedy prescribed, but without any benefit at all. After taking two bottles of your valuable pills, I was quite restored to my usual state of health. Please give this publicity—for the benefit of those who may thus be afflicted. I am, Sir, yours truly, HENRY ALLPASS, To the proprietors of "Norton's Camomile Pills."

For Coughs and Colds, Canker, Asthma, and Rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be an invaluable medicine.

CHOICE AND BEAUTIFUL

WALL PAPER.

TO

Their Excellencies the Earl and Countess of Dufferin.

These Paperhangings are imported direct from the best Manufacturing Establishments in England, France and United States. Great care has been taken in their selection with regard to colour. The ground tones are soft and pleasing to the eye, especially those toned with silver mica; but above all, they are free from the mineral poisons that many of the tawdry-coloured Paperhangings of the day are surcharged with. The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. The Public are respectfully invited to examine his STOCK of WALL PAPER before purchasing elsewhere.

As the undersigned is going out of the Room Paper Business as soon as his present Stock is disposed of, the Goods will be Sold at the Lowest Remunerating Prices.

Local Intelligence.

BERMINGHAM'S great sale of Pianos and Furniture on Tuesday next will be without reserve.

THE FALL ASSIZES.—The Fall Assizes commence on Monday next. The calendar is not a heavy one, but the Cause List is long.

ODDENSBURG RACES.—Katie P. won the Hurdle Race in Ogdensburg, yesterday. Lily was a close second. The other races were postponed owing to the heavy rain.

The George Washington Restaurant, York street is now open for gues ; and meals can be had at all hours. 391 6w.

THE O'CONNELL STATUE.—Upwards of $700 have been realized by subscription towards the O'Connell Statue Fund. A meeting to promote the work will be held to-morrow night.

BY WARD MARKET. The cellar for the proposed new market building in By Ward is now nearly dug. Mr. Mason expects to be ready to the extent of allowing the masons to get to work on Monday morning.

NEW POSTAL LAW.—The new postal law of last session goes into operation to-morrow. Concurrently with the new arrangements our city letter carriers will don a uniform, by which they will be more readily distinguished by citizens.

ATTENTION is directed to Mr. Bermingham's sale of New York Pianos, and Boston Furniture, to come off at the store, Friel's Block, Sussex street on Tuesday next, the 5th of October, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p.m., for particulars see advertisement.

A ROW.—Yesterday afternoon a couple of Frenchmen made Sussex street lively by creating a disturbance in a tavern. They fought and raised such a shindy that the police had to be called in, and the combatants were marched off to the cells, but not without some difficulty.

GENDREAU'S shaving and haircutting saloon, No 3 Rajotte's Block, Wellington street. Adele M. Gendreau, proprietor. 3925 tf

BOARD OF SCHOOL TRUSTEES.—There will be no meeting of the Board of Public School Trustees this evening, as stated by an evening contemporary. The regular meeting takes place a week from to-night, the first Thursday of the month. The Free Press calendar is slightly astray.

THE NEW CITY HALL.—The work on the new City Hall progresses very slowly. It was fully expected to have been roofed in by winter, but the want of a little energy has left it in such a way that the entire work will be exposed to the frosts of a rigorous Canadian winter.

THE WEATHER.—A change has again taken place in the weather. It almost invariably happens that after two or three nights' hoar frost rain falls. Last night proved no exception to the rule, for rain began about 5 o'clock and continued all night. As a result the streets are again muddy and disagreeable.

NOW is the time for parties desiring Fruit, Ornamental Shrubs and Trees from the celebrated Cold Climate Nurseries of Auguste Dupuis, E. Village des Aulnaies, P.Q., should at once leave their orders with the undersigned, from whom catalogues can be obtained. Jos. E. Lemieux, No. 4, Ottawa street, Lower Town.

THE FOX HOUNDS.—The first meeting of the season was to have taken place at the "Kennels," Theodore street, yesterday, but the rain came down and damped the affair, which did not come off. Mr. J. Fitzsimmons, the huntsman, is away in Ogdensburgh attending the races, or else, perhaps, there might have been a good

ENGLISH MAIL.—An English mail will close at the city Post Office to-morrow, Friday, the 1st of October, at 12.05 o'clock p.m., destined for the steamship Scandinavian, which sails from Quebec for Liverpool on Saturday. A supplementary bag will close at 1.25 p.m. for the same destination, but will contain only unregistered matter.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN.—Astronomers set down yesterday morning between the hours of four and seven o'clock as the time for a partial eclipse of the sun. The hour was somewhat early for a view of this phenomenon, and if a person had been up, the morning being cloudy, it would have baffled the vision of the keenest astronomer to observe it with any degree of satisfaction.

MAJOR'S HILL.—The work on the new Park is being prosecuted vigorously under the superintendence of Mr. Dwyre. The roadways are nearly completed, and the sodding pretty well advanced. The City Engineer has just completed a beautiful design of the new fence and iron gates about to be erected on the south end of the square. The new improvements, when completed, will place at the disposal of the citizens one of the handsomest parks in the Dominion.

NIGHT SCHOOL.—The Ottawa Business College has been moved to magnificent new rooms on the corner of Wellington and Kent streets, opposite St. Andrew's Church, and the evening sessions will begin next Monday. As no young man can get along in these days of intense activity without a practical education, their classes should be crowded. They have every facility for giving a thorough drill in bookkeeping, penmanship, &c., and a gold medal will be given to the student who completes the course the most satisfactory. Don't fail to attend.

REMEMBER that Baskerville & Brothers, direct importers of general groceries, wines, liquors and provisions, cannot be competed with for low prices. Teas, coffees, sugars, wines, liquors, tobaccos and cigars, the most reliable qualities sold by them. All desiring to get the most value for their money will give them a call. Cheese, crackers, hams, pork, extra large bags salt, and Labrador herrings, sold low for cash. Remember, 36 Rideau street, Sussex street, north of Murray street, Duke street, and their wholesale, George street, second to none. 3948tf

SOLD A VALUABLE HORSE.—Mr. R. Nagle sold his black mare which took first prize at the late Provincial Exhibition for $300, to Mr. Patrick Buckley, of this city.

PATENTS OF INVENTION RAPIDLY PROCURED, and information gratuitously supplied, by Messrs. Gibbs and Coursolle, Victoria Chambers, Wellington Street, opposite the Western Block. 394916

RETURNED FROM ENGLAND.—Lieut. Col. Thomas Ross, of the G. G. F. Guards, returned home yesterday afternoon. The Colonel was received at the station by a number of friends.

FIREMAN IN TROUBLE.—The Fire and Light Committee were engaged yesterday afternoon in an investigation of an alleged case of disobedience of orders, by Guardian Welsh; of No. 4 Station, to Deputy Chief Fevereau.

MILITIA CONTRACT.—A. Mowatt & Son, of Ottawa, have been awarded the contract for the manufacture of such forage caps, jackets, trowsers, great coats, etc., as may be required for militia purposes for the year 1875-'76.

NOW is the time for parties desiring Fruit, Ornamental Shrubs and Trees from the celebrated Cold Climate Nurseries of Auguste Dupuis, E. Village des Aulnaies, P.Q., should at once leave their orders with the undersigned, from whom catalogues can be obtained. Jos. E. Lemieux, No. 4 Ottawa street, Lower Town.

THAT GAS ESCAPE.—The gas escape, on the corner of Sparks and Elgin streets has been stopped, much to the comfort of everybody. The men who filled in the excavation necessary for the operation might have done so in such a manner that the street should have been left level; as it is, on Elgin street a whale's back exists.

MR. MARLEY'S FIDDLE.—The fiddle that Mr. Marley lost in Gowan's Hall, the other night, when he made his heroic effort to put out what he thought was a serious conflagration on the stage, has been found by Detective Hamilton, in the possession of Edward Machell, of Gatineau Point, and who has been arrrested on another charge of larceny.

JOSH BILLINGS.—In the paragraph which appeared in yesterday's paper, announcing the forthcoming appearance of Josh Billings in this city, an error occurred as to the date of his lecture; it was given as the 6th October, whereas it should have been the 11th. The Chaudiere Division of the Sons of Temperance may consider themselves lucky in securing the services of so eminent and popular a man.

SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE.—County Constable Gordon has summoned the following parties for selling liquor at the Exhibition Grounds during Exhibition week:—Joseph Lavigne, E. Dorion, M. Hillyard, Neil McCaul, Reuben Daly, G. H. Taylor, Onesime Lebarge, Pierce Mansfield, W. N. Geare, Ottawa; C. Roy, J. B. Leduc, and A. Richer, Hull; James McKenna, Rochesterville. Their cases are expected to come up on Saturday.

PURE IRISH FRIEZE.—We invite visitors to the Exhibition to inspect our pure Irish Frieze, just imported. The best material manufactured for travelling coats. T. W. Keuny & Sons, Merchant Tailors and Gentlemen's Outfitters, 86 Sparks street, Ottawa. 394715

FOUND DEAD IN BED.—A young woman, employed as a servant girl by Mrs. Mitchell, Rochesterville, was found dead in her bed, yesterday morning, although she retired in apparent good health the night before. Dr. Hill was sent for, but the girl had been dead for several hours. Epilepsy is supposed to have been the cause of death. Dr. Corbett was called in, but did not think it necessary to hold an inquest.

LOOKING FOR THE LEAKAGE.—Several very serious explosions of gas took place a few months ago through some unaccountable means, in the vicinity of the Russell House corner, and ever since a very disagreeable stench of gas has infested the locality. A number of men were busy yesterday sinking pits with a view to the discovery of the whereabouts of the leakage. The constant tearing up of the streets for this purpose in leading thoroughfares renders public travel exceedingly dangerous.

"ROSEDALE."—Mr. McDowell put this beautiful drama upon the boards last night with, if anything, better effect and greater perfection than upon the former occasion. We regret exceedingly that the weather was so unpropitious and the attendance so small. Mr. McDowell and his company are artists well worthy of patronage, and it is to be hoped that this evening, when "Mary Warner" will be produced, there will be something of a house. Professor Sedgewick's performances upon that exceedingly common, but in his hands exceedingly fine instrument, the concertina, are a host in themselves, and last night were loudly applauded.

"JOSH BILLINGS" has been secured by the Chaudiere Division S. of T. to lecture in Gowan's Hall on the evening of 11th October. Tickets may be obtained from Smith & Stewart, Sparks street; J. H. Langford, Wellington street; J. G. Howe, Richmond Road, and from members of the Division. J. K. STEWART, Sec. Com. 395513

GUARDS' CONCERT AND SOCIAL.—The grand concert and social, under the auspices of the Band of the Governor General's Foot Guards, took place in the Rink Music Hall last night. The attendance was fair, considering the very wet weather, but nothing like what it should be, for so interesting an entertainment. The first part of the evening was devoted to the concert, when the band played some of its choicest selections. The first was "Reminiscences of England," by Godfrey, in which a number of popular English airs were introduced. At the conclusion of the piece, the Band was loudly applauded. The next was a Scotch quadrille, "The Fair Maid of Perth," which was well received. This was followed by "Reminiscences of Ireland," in which a number of the choicest Irish airs were played. The programme was concluded with the celebrated "Railroad Gallop" in which the imitation was truly presented. Much interest was manifested by the audience in this piece, and at the close it was rapturously applauded. At this stage of the evening, Marier's Quadrille Band filed an appearance, and took its place on the stage, preparatory to the commencement of the second part of the evening's entertainment. There must have been fully 150 couple engaged in the many dance that followed and which was kept up with spirit until some time after midnight. The proceedings were interrupted for about an hour near eleven o'clock, to enable those present to partake of the good things provided by Mr. Gibson, who catered very successfully for the occasion. Major White, Major Wicksteed, Capt. Tilton, Capt. Wheatherly and other officers were present in uniform, and did much to make the evening pass off pleasantly. On the whole, the affair may be said to have been an enjoyable one, although not very largely attended.

Written for the Times.

Frankie.

Back in the apartments I past,
To me the place is a year of joy;
It was the first, and 'tis the last,
I fondly watched my angel boy.

He may be near, and yet unseen,
For through the veil I cannot see,
But often in the sombre e'en
I feel that he is watching me.

I saw a bird fly from the ground,
With outspring wing, high in the air;
And thought it fleeting could be found,
I might behold her beauty there.

But freer yet than joyous bird,
Or bashful breeze, or wild gazelle,
Flew, at his Heavenly Father's word,
The ransomed soul of Frankie dell.

OTTAWA, Sept 29th, 1875.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE YACHT "REGENT."

Yesterday afternoon, the new steam yacht Regent, belonging to Mr. R. Coldwell, of the Mill Supply Agency, made her trial trip down the River Ottawa, as far as Gill's Wharf, having on board a large number of the friends of the owner. The party started about three o'clock, and after the tedious business of passing through the locks, the craft got fairly under weigh, and started off at a rate somewhat astonishing the people on the quays, who had assembled to see her off. Mr. N. Perkins, who built the engine, had that department in his charge, and well he managed it. The run from the foot of the locks to East Templeton was made in the space of forty-eight minutes—good work, considering that at one time the water in the boiler was foaming by reason of the grease in it, and scarcely any steam could be generated, and a stiff breeze was blowing right ahead. Gill's Wharf having been reached after a somewhat cold and damp trip, a drizzling rain having set in, Mr. Coldwell invited his friends to partake of his hospitality at the hostelrie of Mr. Thomas James, where "success to the Regent" was drunk with all due honours. The return trip from the wharf to Gatineau Point was done in 35 minutes. The way the little craft "walked the waters," rather astonished some of the larger boats she passed. As the Queen went by she was saluted in the customary manner, and the salute was returned. Passengers and crew all got to the side to watch the progress of the pretty little boat, and it was worth their while to do so, as she was then doing her best. The foot of the locks was reached after dark; and notwithstanding the cold wind and the comfortless rain, all disembarked pleased with the trip, the boat, and the hospitable treatment they had received at the hands of her owner. The Regent was built in Ottawa, and launched about a fortnight ago. Mr. S. Phillips was the shipwright, and he has turned out a very creditable craft. She is 42 feet 8 inches long, with 7 feet 10 inches beam; and the builder's measurement is 14 tons. She is 3 feet 6 inches deep, and draws about 2 feet 8 inches aft, and 10 inches forward. She is well finished and fastened; her model is good, but she would be none the worse for a little more gear. She seems a little too straight on the rail. Her engine, built by Perkins Bros., of Duke street, Chaudiere, is a most perfect and compact piece of machinery; the cylinder is six inches by six, and she can be worked up to eight horse-power, with 100 pounds of steam, and that will run her at the rate of ten miles per hour. The engine takes up but a small space, having been constructed with that particular object. When the Regent has her cabin fittings placed in her, there will not be a handier, prettier or faster craft of her tonnage on the River Ottawa.

Where Does it All Come From?

Pints and quarts of filthy catarrhal discharges! Where does it all come from? The mucous membrane which lines the chambers of the nose, and its little glands are diseased, so that they draw from the blood its liquid, and exposure to the air changes it into corruption. This liquid is needed to build up the system, but it is extracted, and the system is weakened by the loss. To cure, gain flesh and strength, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which also acts directly upon these glands, correcting them, and apply Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, the only methods of reaching the upper cavities, where the discharge accumulates and comes from. The instrument and both medicines sold by druggists and dealers in medicines.

HORSES SAVED.—The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half as successful, or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horse's life. STANLEY HEARD FROM.

News from the "Herald" and "Telegraph" Exploring Expedition in Africa.

Special Despatch to the Herald by Cable.

LONDON, Sept. 26, 1875.—I am happy to inform you that intelligence has been received at the office of the Daily Telegraph from the famous African explorer, Henry M. Stanley, at the head of the Herald and Telegraph expedition, which will relieve the minds of many anxious friends who have been solicitous for his safety, and who feared that his silence for some months past was of bad augury.

Two letters, with maps, have arrived from Mr. Stanley at the office of the Daily Telegraph.

Both letters are dated from the village of Kageiji, district of Uchambi, in the country of Usukuma, situated on the Victoria N'yanza—the first on March 1, and the other on May 15.

In the beginning of March Stanley had reached the shores of the Victoria N'yanza Lake, having accomplished the remarkable march of 720 miles in 103 days. It will be remembered that he started from Zanzibar on November 17, 1874.

During the journey he passed through a totally new country, much of it covered by primeval forest and jungle.

In this forest country he suffered greatly from hunger, and was engaged for several days in a conflict with a fierce and treacherous people called the Natura, in which he lost twenty one of his followers.

He grieves to add that Edward Pocock and Frederick Barker had succumbed to fever. Stanley speaks of them in terms of the highest praise and deep regret.

With his diminished force Stanley made a close survey of the great lake, Victoria N'yanza.

A REMINISCENCE OF EDWARD POCOCK.

The announcement of the death of the gallant young Englishman, Edward Pocock, will recall to the minds of many of our readers incidents related by him and his brother Francis at the start of the present expedition. The following letter from him, written just before the voyage to the Luiji, will be read with melancholy interest:—

ZANZIBAR, Sept. 4.

DEAR PARENTS,—I hope this will find you in good health at present. We arrived here yesterday, after a fine passage. This place is much better than Aden. It is beautiful weather, something like England in Summer, if you wasn't to see the blacks. There is plenty of oranges and all fruits. We are staying at the American Consul's. Plenty of good grub—good beef. I expect that we will stay here about a week, and then we shall start for the river and try it, and then back to Zanzibar again, so we can write again. Africa is not half so bad as people make out; it is most beautiful. You can walk about with a jacket on and don't sweat. I have just enjoyed myself with a piece of sugar cane. We have nothing to do whatever; get coolies to wait on us for everything we want. The place is swarmed with cocoanut trees. We will send our photograph next letter. All you want here is to keep steady and not drink; you can get along all right.

Your affectionate son,
EDWARD POCOCK.

How She Won an Emperor.

A correspondent thus relates the romantic way in which the Empress of Austria captured her Emperor: The Empress is the youngest daughter of Duke Maximilian Joseph, of Bavaria, and sister of ex-Queen Sophia, of Naples. Francis Joseph was to have been allianced to the Princess Sophia, to make acquaintance with whom he went to make a visit to his uncle's castle of Possenhaffen, where his four young lady cousins had been born and brought up. The Princess Elizabeth, then in her sixteenth year, and remarkably beautiful, was not to have been allowed to see the young Emperor, both because on account of her youth—she was not supposed to be "out"—and also because, being much handsomer than her sisters, the willy Duke desired to secure his imperial nephew for his eldest daughter before the former should have been allowed to catch sight of his youngest, as he felt very sure that the hand of such a beauty as she promised to be would be sought far and wide when it should be in the matrimonial market. So the young lady was told that she was to stay with her governess, and not to presume to show herself in the drawing room during the visit of the Austrian cousin. But being lively, spirited and brimful of curiosity to see the youthful Emperor, who had so suddenly succeeded to the troubled but brilliant crown of Austria, the Princess Elizabeth contrived to give her attendants the slip, and to hide herself in a corridor, along which the Imperial guest, who had arrived an hour before, and was dressing for dinner in the room set apart for his reception, would have to pass in going to the banqueting hall. As the young sovereign passed along this corridor, the Princess, who was watching for him, sprang out of her hiding place, laughing at the success of her manœuvre, and crying gayly, "Cousin Franz! Cousin Franz! I wanted to see you, and they wouldn't let me, and so I hid myself here to see you go by." It appears that Cupid's bow, so innocently shot off by the merry girl, who had no thought beyond the gratification of her curiosity to see the grand young cousin, whose quality as Emperor had excited her imagination, went straight to the mark. The young Emperor fell over head and ears in love with the gay and beautiful vision that had presented itself so unaffectedly before him. What passed between the two young people has never transpired; but a few minutes afterward the Imperial guest entered the drawing room with his young cousin on his arm, and presented her to the amazed circle of relatives and courtiers who were awaiting his appearance, as "the Empress of Austria, my engaged wife. The anger of the elder sister is said to have been quite lively, as was, perhaps, quite natural under the circumstances. The young Princess dined that day in the banqueting hall, seated beside the "Cousin Franz," so suddenly metamorphosed into her "imperial spouse," and the Duke, though vexed for the disappointment of his eldest daughter, had at least the satisfaction of having this splendid match secured for his youngest. The marriage took place when the Princess had reached the mature age of sixteen, and all her husband's subjects were enchanted with her youthful beauty and her remarkable grace and kindness.
